Robert E. Burns
President, University of the Pacific
Stockton 4, California

Dear President Burns:

I am most pleased to have this opportunity to send my greetings to all those participating in the opening ceremonies of Callison College.

The future of our world depends in large part on the sense of global responsibility of this present generation. I can think of no surer way to achieve this goal than to educate our young citizens not only about the problems facing our own country but about those facing other countries throughout the world. I welcome the important contribution Callison College will make to this effort, and I wish it every success for the future.

With best regards,

Cordially,

Arthur J. Goldberg
