RAYMOND COLLEGE HIGH TABLE SPEAKERS AND SPECIAL FEATURES

(Fall and Winter Terms, 1962-63)

One evening each week throughout most of the school year, the college community assembles in Great Hall for a special lecture, concert, or a worship service. At these all-college convocations, Raymond students learn to listen, to penetrate another's thoughts, to respond with their own ideas. While the Lecture-Discussion Series is not included in the unit evaluation of the academic program, the series does contribute significantly to the total educational experience and the college puts importance on the participation of the student in these features.
