COLLEGE OF THE PACIFIC, STOCKTON, CALIFORNIA, APRIL, 1930

N. 4

Three Schools Are Features of Summer Session

Special Work Offered in Spanish, Social Sciences; Classes Open June 23

The fifth Pacific Summer Session on the Stockton Campus will open for a period of six weeks June 23 with thirty-seven faculty members and five special lecturers. Courses will be offered in eighteen departments.

The Modern Demonstration School and the School of Social Sciences are new features of this summer's program. The Demonstration school will offer an opportunity to observe the application of modern theory to an average school group of pupils. State texts will be used and there will be classes for each of the eight grades. The upper grades will be in charge of Mrs. Erma Reese, Principal of the Woods State Demonstration School. Mrs. Marguerite Fernando of the Stockton schools will direct the work in the lower grades. The work will be of the individual instruction type, with emphasis on methods that can be used in average California school rooms.

School of Social Sciences

The School of Social Sciences will be under the direction of Professor Paul A. Schilpp, Head of the Department of Philosophy and Chairman of the School. It includes the departments of economics and sociology, education and psychology, history and political science, and philosophy. This School was organized at the beginning of the Spring semester for the purpose of meeting the requirements of two groups of students: (1) those who will become teachers of social science in the public schools, a group which is growing larger every year because of the increasing demand for such teachers; and (2) those students who expect to go into some form of social work.

The Spanish Language School, another feature of the summer session, will be under the direction of Dr. Abel Alarcon, an experienced educator, lecturer and traveller of Hispanic America and Spain.

The Social Directora of the School will be Miss Evelyn Miller who has

Helen Trent Awarded Scholarship at Bryn Mawr

Helen Trent, a senior student and daughter of R. H. Trent of Honolulu, has been awarded the Carolo Woerischoffer scholarship in the department of social economy and social research at Bryn Mawr. For three consecutive years, this scholarship has been awarded to Pacific graduates. The other three girls who received this award were Marcella White '27, Rosalie Williams '28, and Burta Beers '29.

Miss Trent will be the first student to receive a degree in the new Social Science School which has been established at Pacific. She has been very active in many campus organizations besides attaining high scholastic records which enabled her to be eligible for the Bryn Mawr scholarship.

President Knoles Celebrates 11th Anniversary

Dr. Tully C. Knoles celebrated his eleventh anniversary as president of Pacific April 2. He is the seventeenth president of the college and has served in that capacity longer than any one of the other administrators.

Improving steadily under Dr. Knoles guidance, Pacific has become one of the leading Liberal Arts Colleges of the West. The enrollment of students has more than doubled under his administration while the number of faculty members has increased from thirty-two to seventy-seven.

While San Jose campus had sentiment, tradition, and massive trees, it lacked adequate facilities to become a greater educational institution. Dr. Knoles visualized the greater possibilities for a college located in interior California, and took the initial steps toward arrangements for relocating Pacific two years after he became its leader. His plans and hopes materialized in 1924 when in April the first brick was laid on the Stockton campus, and in September the college opened its fall semester on new ground, in new buildings, and with new equipment.

In his work to keep Pacific on the upward grade, President Knoles has emphasized particularly the matter of recognition of Pacific as a real college with high scholarship standards. His efforts in this direction have gained for Pacific a place on the accredited list of the Association of American Universities. Students whose work has been done satisfactorily at Pacific are now eligible to enter any other college or university in the United States. Last year the college was placed on

Alumni Meeting to be Held at Dinner June 7

Alumni Day this year is June 7. The annual banquet will be held at 5 p. m. that day in the College Dining Hall with Marshal Hale, president of the Alumni Association, presiding. The business meeting and program will be held during the dinner hour.

Following the alumni dinner Dr. Tully C. Knoles will welcome the students, alumni, and friends of the college at the annual president's reception.

Sunday afternoon Baccalaureate services will be held in the college auditorium and Commencement exercises will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. Knoles will be the speaker Sunday afternoon, and Dr. Veirling Kersey, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the commencement speaker.

One hundred and twenty degrees, the largest number ever granted at a Pacific Commencement, will be given this June. These include A. B., M. A., B. M. and M. Mus. degrees for college and conservatory students.

It was necessary to advance this year's commencement from June 16 to June 9 because of the change in time for the California Annual Conference of Methodist Ministers which will be June 10 to 16.

VICE-PRESIDENT

Mrs. Edith M. K. Tibbetts who took the first Life Membership in the Pacific Alumni Association.

European Tour Starts from Stockton June 14

Because the date for Commencement has been advanced one week the departure date of the Pacific European Summer School Tour will be June 14 instead of the announced time June 16. The train will leave at 1:29 A. M. from the Santa Fe station at Stockton.

Several members of the party will leave Stockton June 13 in order to visit the Grand Canyon and join the remainder of the group at Williams, Arizona.

The earlier departure enables the party to stop at Niagara Falls, and to spend a day at Gananoque where the Mayor of the city will welcome the travelers and will give them "the Keys to the City" for the day. One of the special events for the Pacific people will be a motor boat ride among the Thousand Islands. From Gananoque they will go to Montreal, with a stop at Boston and then on to New York where they will embark on the Arabia.

President and Mrs. Tully C. Knoles, assisted by Miss Grace Ward of the Art Department, will direct this year's European Summer Tour. Members of the party include Ora Leak '23, Redding; Florence L. Veall '27, Winters; Ada Botts '20, Chico; Mrs. Ella M. Cox, San Jose; Dorothy S. Cooke, La Mesa; Mrs. E. Fouche, Sacramento; L. Lucille Turner, Stockton; Mrs. Georgia Huntington, Stockton; Ruth Dodge '32, Palo Alto; Edith Knoles '25, Ontario; Evelyn E. Taylor, Escalon; Fanny Archer, San Jose; Dorothy Knoles '24, Marysville; Elsie L. Schlichting, Oakdale; Helen Cottrell, Scotia; Helen Hunt, Pasadena; Mabel N. New Financing Plan Is Adopted For Association

Alumni Life Memberships Are $50; Interest to be Used For Expenses

The newest plan adopted by the Executive Committee of the Pacific Alumni Association is one whereby alumni may secure Life Memberships at $50. The officers decided that this is the best means of placing the Association on a stronger financial basis.

The money received for these memberships will be placed at interest and the returns will be used for the current expenses of the Association. A definite income will enable the officers to publish the "Review" regularly and frequently, and otherwise keep the Association functioning properly.

A Life Membership eliminates the payment of annual dues. It entitles the member to receive the Pacific Review and to keep in touch with the College by every means which a well organized Association can provide. The history of active Alumni Associations shows that Life Memberships become increasingly valuable with the coming and going of the years.

Charter List Closes June 7

The Charter List of Life Members will remain open until June 7, Alumni Day. The few alumni who have been told of the plan agree on its merits and many are planning to take memberships before the Charter List is closed. Mrs. Edith M. K. Tibbetts '05, vice-president of the Alumni Association, inaugurated the plan by taking the first Life Membership.

Other alumni who are among the first on the Charter List include: Charles Neville Kirkbride '87 of San Mateo, Charles N. Hawkins '84 of Hollister, President Marshal Hale '86 of San Francisco, Harold Jacoby '28 of Evanston, Illinois, Lloyd Truman '28 of Oakland, Margaret Anderson '27, Mrs. Malcolm Eisilen (Edna Truman) '28, Lorraine Knoles '21, Bernice Fiola '28 of Stockton and Esther Cynthia Macomber '08 of Fort Snelling, Minnesota.

"London News" of 1852 is Found by Herbalist

The two middle leaves of "The Illustrated London News" of November 20, 1852, were recently found by Dr. E. E. Stanford in a shipment of dried plants from South Wales to the herbarium department of biologic sciences at Pacific. The pages contain an account of the funeral of the Duke of Wellington.

An elaborate account of the funeral in phraseology suitable to the occasion, an illustration showing the funeral procession, and mention of prominent people present, vividly portrayed the event of seventy-eight years ago to the many interested Pacific readers.

Professor Stanford was about as happy over finding this old newspaper as he was over receiving the collection of specimens for the herbarium. Pin holes in the corners of the paper give evidence for his belief that for a long time someone had kept it hung up as a picture of the funeral of the great general.

Swimming vs. Sinking

The Pacific Alumni Association is not sinking. It is swimming instead. But we can now use the word sinking, for we have a Sinking Fund.

Five hundred dollars is already invested at interest. This has been accomplished since the last issue of the Pacific Review came off the press.

The Executive Committee has approved a plan for Life Memberships. The first ten life members enrolled before any public announcement was made. Others will join soon.

There is no limit to what can be accomplished by the Association, once it is soundly financed. We can take a much more prominent place in collegiate circles.

Life memberships will afford us a permanent sinking fund. We will not need life preservers; we will go ahead "swimmingly." Now's the time to "come on in."

X'18 Dr. Frederick Rand Rogers, state director of public health in New York, recently came into prominence through the Columbia University publication, which was in press at the time that the famous Carnegie report on Athletics came out. He avers the same sort of thing for high schools that Carnegie said for colleges.

His belief is that the athletics as administered in high school at the present time are pernicious, tend toward professionalism and poor sportsmanship, put undue physical strain on a limited number of men, and fail to develop the mass of high school students. He places the blame upon the chamber of commerce and athletic fans of towns instead of the high school administrations. He suggests sweeping changes in the management of athletics; he believes that this would remedy the situation in high schools and colleges.

Dr. Rogers is also a writer and lecturer on physical education. His latest book is "Educational Objectives of Physical Activity," published in 1929.

Eighty-five Italian Books Are Presented to College Library

Over eighty Italian books have recently been donated to the College of the Pacific Library by a group of members of the Italian Colony of Stockton. The volumes represent a gift of several hundred dollars, and are from the collection sent to San Francisco by the Italian government for the "Mostra Italian Del Libro" (Italian exposition of books) in the Public Library there last November.

L. J. Vannuccini, instructor in Italian at the Stockton day and evening High Schools, took the initiative in securing these books for the college. He and James Tassano collected the necessary funds to purchase the books, and personally made the selection at the Bay City exhibition. The collection constitutes a wide variety of valuable material for research on the political, social and economic situation in Italy.

First in the collection are six books dealing with the politics of Italy, written by A. Mussolini, G. Chiapparini, Emilio Bodrero, A. Viviani and Coherer. More than a dozen novels by Pirandello, one of the greatest contemporary writers, comprise a fine outlay of high quality of fiction. Twelve famous books by noted Italian writers describe important cities of the southern European country, famous buildings, both historical and monumental, and the music, art, painting and sculpture there. Some of the real classics of Italian literature are included in ten volumes by Grazioli, Mozzo, V. Pica, Luci, Victor, and Alfieri, one of the outstanding classic writers.

Several books by Mussolini, Bianchi, Martini and others describe the new form of Government in Italy, the present conditions, and how Fascism became prominent. Three separate volumes by Mussolini give a complete account of the new political Italy, and two other volumes contain all of his messages to the Chamber of Deputies. Remaining books in the collection deal with China, India, Africa and other countries; there are many high grade novels, books of poetry, and scientific researches in Italy.

Mr. Vannuccini carefully selected these books so that the students doing research, would have a well-rounded collection of material to study. He states particularly that none of these books contain Italian government propaganda, but give true accounts of the existing social, economic and political conditions of Italy and represent some of the best Italian literature.

Pacific Holds Fourth Annual Religious Emphasis Week

The fourth annual Religious Emphasis Week was held on the campus April 7-11. Five morning chapel services and daily devotional services at 5 o'clock in the afternoon constituted the week's program. President Knoles spoke at four of the chapel services and Miss Leila Anderson of Berkeley addressed the students at the Thursday gathering. James McGiffin, Epworth League secretary, was in charge of the afternoon services. Miss Frances Bowerman, Miss Nella Rogers, J. Henry Welton and Allan Bacon of the conservatory faculty furnished the music for the morning services. Professor George Colliver '15 was chairman of the week's program.

spent several years in Hispanic America and Spain. She is planning a variety of Spanish musicals, plays, sports, games and folk dances for the students. The Language School will specialize in Spanish conversation, not only in the classroom, but at meals and during the social center for the school and the dormitory for the women. A fraternity house will be used for the men's dormitory.

Summer School catalogs containing complete information about the 1930 session are now available at the Registrar's office and will be mailed upon request.

"White Wings" Will be Presented May 16

How the automobile swept out of existence ideas and ideals that ruled the 19th century and turned the whole country upside down in twenty years, is the event that forms the basis of "White Wings," the comedy by Philip Barry which will be presented by the Moroni-Olsen Players in the college auditorium May 16, under the auspices of the Pacific Little Theatre. This is the last Little Theatre production of the season.

"White Wings" is said to be one of the gayest and cleverest comedies ever written by Barry, author of "You and I," "The Youngest," "Paris Bound,"—author of a long line of unbroken dramatic hits. Its theme song is "White Wings They Never Grow Weary," the old classic of the nineties, and its hero is the scion of a long line of white wings. Its chief character is Joseph, a cab horse.

Joseph is one of the most charming and fantastic characters that has ever been written into a comedy, in spite of his baleful influence upon the love affair of Archie Inch, the young white wing and Mary Todd, daughter of the automobile inventor, Joseph is a character that audiences will love to the stage of shrieking with laughter.

Barry has gathered a handful of distinctive types of the changing civilization between 1895 and 1915, and keeping them recognizable as American types, has dealt with them in delightful absurdities.

PRESIDENT KNOLES

the accredited list of the American Association of University Women which entitles all women graduates of Pacific to active membership in the organization.

Inspection of his date book reveals his popularity as a speaker, not only in San Joaquin County, but elsewhere in California. Two or three speeches a day, each one in a different city, is not an uncommon thing for Pacific's President.

Dr. Knoles came to Pacific from the University of Southern California where he had been head of the department of history for eleven years. He holds A. B., M. A., and D. D. degrees from U. S. C. and an LL. D. from Pacific. He is a loyal and valued member of the Stockton Rotary Club, the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, and the California Conference of the Methodist Church. He is a Scottish Rite Mason and is orator of Ben Ali Temple of Shriners.

Alumni Afield

Dr. Owen C. Coy '07

Dr. Owen Cochran Coy '07 has been on the faculty of the University of Southern California since 1925. He is a Professor of History. He specializes in Western American History and California History, and is considered one of the best in that field. His classes are large and he is popular in the best sense. The demands on him for extension teaching are much greater than he is able to meet.

In addition to his teaching, Dr. Coy has accomplished some splendid historical work. He is Director of the State Historical Association and in that capacity is publishing his extended research on "The Humboldt Bay District, 1850-1875," a study in the Americanization of California. He has also recently completed two volumes in the series on California published by the Powell Publishing Company. These works are "Gold Days" and "The Great Trek."

Dr. Coy has intimate relations with the Historical Society of Southern California.

He is a prominent member and official of the University Methodist Episcopal Church, and is regarded as a leader in that relationship.

A Cappella Choir Sings at Sixteen Performances on Tour

A Cappella Choir was engaged from April 3 to 13 in the most concentrated series of concerts ever given by the organization. The first engagement was at the Adelphi Club in Alameda, and the second was a performance under the auspices of the Epworth League of Hughson.

On April 6 the choir started on a tour of the San Joaquin Valley which took them as far south as Taft. The schedule included a Sunday evening service at Merced, three engagements in Fresno, a short concert at the Lemoore high school, an evening concert at Hanford, three appearances at Visalia, three at Delano, and two at Taft. The final evening concert on the tour was given April 12 at Bakersfield where the choir contributed the music at the morning service of the Methodist Church. The entire trip was made by auto stage.

Dean C. M. Dennis directs the choir and Glen Halik of the conservatory faculty gave groups of violin solos at each of the evening concerts.

Air Temperatures Are Recorded by Students In Meteorology Class

The temperature one mile above Stockton was five degrees below the freezing point while it was seventy degrees above freezing on the ground one Saturday afternoon in March. This discovery was made by Harold Cunningham '25, instructor in Meteorology and Navigation at Pacific.

Cunningham made the flight alone in the college plane which was equipped with a Thermograph. At five thousand feet the temperature was at freezing point, but he continued higher until the motor of the plane refused to function normally and he could no longer endure the low temperature although very heavily clothed.

Using pilot balloons and the college transit, a surveying instrument which measures angles, the instructor and members of this class have been recording the direction and velocity of the wind at different altitudes. Heights of clouds have also been measured. In one test cirrus, or feather-like clouds, were found to be 27,000 feet from the earth. A number of similar experiments are being planned by the members of the class. They expect to record the temperature at 5,000 to 15,000 feet and higher. An interesting feature of the results of these experiments is that the Pacific recordings correlate closely with surveys made by the government.

Additional instruments and books are being acquired for this course as rapidly as possible. Among the new books on Meteorology are some by Sir Napier Shaw, one of the world's foremost meteorologists. It is the aim of the members of the Engineering Department to eventually possess the complete works of Shaw. He is said to be quoted on this subject more widely than any other person. In addition to the bound volumes, the "Monthly Weather Review," a national publication by the United States Weather Bureau, and the "Bulletin of Meteorology Society of North America" are being received regularly.

English Comedy Is Presented at Request of Dramatic Critic

"Anthony and Anna" an English comedy by St. John Ervine, presented April 3, 4, and 5 was the last student play of the season. It was produced at the request and recommendation of George C. Warren, dramatic critic of the San Francisco Chronicle.

Warren, who ranks as one of the leading critics and authorities on drama on the Pacific Coast, "discovered" the Pacific Little Theatre two seasons ago, when he was invited to attend the production of "The Bill of Divorcement." He was very much impressed at the work of the college theatre and made it a point to attend the presentation of "The Taming of the Shrew" last year. He attended the Saturday night performance of "Anthony and Anna" and was highly pleased with the presentation.

Verda Franklin, a senior student, who is well-known because of her splendid work in "The Patsy," again displayed some fine acting. She played opposite Tully Knoles, Jr., who was indeed the charming, irresistible cocksure Englishman. Richard Tate, a freshman student, gave a splendid portrayal of a successful American business man. This is Tate's first Pacific production, and he did exceptionally well. Middle-aged characters portrayed by young amateurs are usually too young, but Tate was middle-aged in make-up, mannerisms, voice and general characteristics.

Others in the cast were Ailene Charter, Tom Yancey, Cecil Disbrow, and William Morris.

Pacific Team Wins First Far Western Conference Title

The Far Western Conference basketball championship was won by the Pacific Tigers this season for the first time in the history of the College. Coach "Swede" Righter deserves much credit for this showing of his men. Pacific has been in the conference for a title, but this is the first real victory.

Pacific lost only three conference games this year. It bowed to San Jose, Chico and Fresno State, but won two games from the Aggies, two from Nevada, and one each from Chico, San Jose and Fresno. For the entire season the Tigers show a record of twelve wins and six defeats, and they scored 442 points while their opponents piled up 430 against them.

Righter had four first string men from last year's team. The addition of the Sophomore, Odale, to Disbrow, Hurd, Shuman and Captain Heath gave the Bengals a strong team on the floor. They deserved to win because they showed actually more basketball than any other team in the conference. They defeated Nevada twice on the Reno court, something no other team was able to do this year.

A defense which no other Conference team could equal was responsible for the Tigers' victory. Lacking dependable long shots, Coach Righter depended on a tough defense to stifle the opposition. When the game was close the team showed an ability to pull together in winning style. Two games were won by a one point margin in some of the most exciting basketball seen on the Pacific court for many a year.

"Moose" Disbrow, Frank Heath, Kent Shuman, and Vernon Hurd are seniors who will be lost to the varsity next year. Around Glen Odale, husky high scoring forward or center, and Paul Crandall, captain-elect, will be built next year's team. Odale, who is six feet three inches and weighs over 190 pounds, bids fair to outshine Disbrow as a basketball star.

Registrar's Office Reports On This Year's Attendance

According to a report issued from the registrar's office on March 20, 892 students have registered for work at Pacific this year. This number includes all regular students, auditors, specials, and persons taking applied music.

There are 154 more women attending Pacific than men. The reported totals are 523 women and 369 men. There are 223 students in the freshman class, 104 men and 119 women. The sophomores have 73 men and 88 women, totaling 161. Seventy-one men and 80 women comprise the junior class while the senior class exceeds the sophomore registration by one student. There are 60 senior men and 102 senior women. In addition to the regular students there are 39 auditors, 11 specials, 39 students studying only applied music, and 14 unclassified.

CRANDALL IS ELECTED BASKETBALL CAPTAIN

Paul Crandall of Napa has been elected captain of the 1931 Pacific basketball team. He is a junior and plays forward position.

Crandall is popularly given credit for steadying his team in the all important Nevada series. On the first night when the score was 6-5 in favor of the Tigers, he went in at forward and started his team's scoring. On the second night he again helped Pacific maintain its place, and the Bengals won both games with Nevada. Crandall has made a name for himself by his steady playing and good floor work.

Besides his good work in the court game, he has been a plucky little full-back on the football team and a member of the tennis team. He is a member of the board of athletic control and the Block "P" society.

Paul is a brother of Earl Crandall '27, who was a football player, track star, and a member of the Block "P" society. When Earl was president of the student body during Paul's freshman days, the latter was consistently asked, "Are you Earl's brother?" Now, should Earl visit the campus the question would be, "Are you Paul's brother?"

X'32 Glen Bowman is the proprietor of a radio store in Richmond, California, and it is reported that he is doing very well. Glen was a major of the engineering department, a member of the football and basketball teams, and is affiliated with Rho Lambda Phi fraternity.

Loveridge, Disbrow Decater Are Stars of Season's Track

Fay Loveridge and Johnny Decater, star runners, and Cecil Disbrow, javelin thrower, have been the outstanding men on Pacific's track team this season.

Equalling the world's record of 9.6 for the hundred yard dash, Loveridge furnished the feature of the Pacific-San Jose meet March 29. He outdistanced his rivals and came in an easy winner. Pacific won the meet with San Jose 67-64. It was close all the way with the relay deciding the issue in favor of the Tigers.

Loveridge unfortunately injured his leg in practice sprints and has been unable to enter the April meets. His injury lowered Pacific's chances to bring home trophies by at least one-half.

Only one-half point separated Pacific from first place in the meet at Davis April 12. The scores were California Aggies 70, Pacific 69½ and Chico 22½. Coach Jim Corson's Tigers snatched nine first places of the fourteen events as compared to five for the Mustangs. It was through the medium of second, third and fourth places that the Farmers collected the bulk of their tallies.

Decater, who is running in place of Loveridge, has made some fine records. He and Disbrow were responsible for the lion's share of the Tiger counters at the Davis meet. Decater won the hundred yard dash in the fast time of 9.8 seconds. Disbrow is the Bengals' big gun in the weight division.
