Alumni Clubs Are Organized In San Francisco, Los Angeles, Fresno

Pacific Alumni Clubs have been organized in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Fresno, and officers were elected at meetings held in December during the California Teachers' Institutes. Alumni of the Monterey Bay Region, where a group was organized last year, met in Santa Cruz. Meetings of these groups will be held periodically to enable alumni to renew old acquaintances, meet other former Pacific students who are residing in their communities, and encourage all alumni to support Pacific.

Paul Easterbrook '27 was re-elected president of the Monterey Bay Region group at its meeting at Palomar Hotel in Santa Cruz December 15. Gordon Knoles '29 was elected secretary. Speeches were made by the president, J. H. Kendall '89, Emma Stuart Coleman '79, and J. E. Russell '97. Pacific songs were led by Gordon Knoles. The 1931 meeting during Teachers' Institute for this group will be held at San Luis Obispo.

San Francisco

Approximately fifty alumni and guests attended the reunion dinner held on the evening of December 16 at the William Taylor Hotel in San Francisco. Everett Stark '29 was elected president of the San Francisco unit and Merlin Ware Porter '26 is the secretary.

President Tully C. Knoles told about the progress of Pacific since it located in Stockton and outlined various phases of its activity. Impromptu talks were made by Dr. John L. Burcham, Judge John E. Richards, Judge Charles Shurtleff, C. N. Kirkbride, and Mr. Porter.

A reading by Harold Androus, a junior student, and vocal solos by Flossita Badger '18, were other numbers on the program. Marshal Hale, president of the alumni association, presided.

Los Angeles

Dr. Owen Cochran Coy '07 was elected president of the Los Angeles club at a breakfast meeting on December 17. Other officers elected are: Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt '90, vice-president, and Blanche Haugner Thompson '25, secretary. Dr. Bruce R. Baxter Hon. '26 presided over the meeting.

Dr. Hunt told the group about the early history of the college and the Napa Collegiate Institute, and gave a few delightful character sketches of several of the men who founded the college. Among these he mentioned Rev. Isaac Owen, Rev. A. S. Gibbons, Rev. M. C. Briggs, and Rev. Edward Bannister. He presented the secretary with a copy of the Overland Monthly, May, 1901, which contains an article about the Golden Jubilee of the University of Pacific.

Alice McComas Gray '97 gave two excellent piano numbers, and vocal numbers were furnished by Frances Haynes '19. The meeting adjourned with the singing of Pacific Hail.

Fresno

Ovid H. Ritter, Controller of Pacific, spoke on "The Future of Pacific" at the Fresno Alumni luncheon on December 18. Herbert Ferguson '29 presided.

Officers elected for the Fresno group are: Edith Gilman '23, president; Everett Claypool '27, vice-president; and Carolyn Brothers '28, secretary.

After several informal talks, the meeting adjourned with the singing of the Pacific Hymn.

Alumni who attended these reunions were:

Santa Cruz: Ila Owen '29, Clarence Whaley '30, F. Bill Klein '29, Charles W. Easterbrook '27, Dwight W. Cur-

WHO'S NEW On the Faculty Since '24

Dr. Sibley

Dr. Gertrude Marian Sibley holds the distinction of being the only woman on the College of the Pacific faculty with a Ph. D. degree. She came to Pacific in 1928 to teach in the Department of English, and has made an enviable number of devoted friends among faculty and students.

Dr. Sibley received her A. B. degree from Mount Holyoke College, and her M. A. and Ph. D. from Cornell University. During the summer of 1928, she was a graduate student at the session for American University Women at Oxford University, England.

Important positions which she has held since 1919 include Instructor in English, Montana State College; Head of the Department of English, Sterling College, Kansas; and Assistant Dean of Women and Assistant Professor of English, Ohio Wesleyan University.

Her present rank is Associate Professor of English. She offers popular courses in Modern British Poetry, Development of the Drama, Eighteenth Century Prose, Nineteenth Century Novel, Shakespeare, and Trends and Backgrounds in English Literature.

Keenly interested in students and always approachable, Professor Sibley gives lavishly of herself. She is a sympathetic and inspiring teacher who blends the highest type of scholarship with deep human understanding. She has ably shown her interest and talent in dramatics by participation in the high type of productions of the Pacific stage.

Her scholarly attainments are evidenced by membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity; Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational society; and the Western Branch of the Modern Language Association. Pacific is indeed fortunate in having added to its faculty, a Doctor of Philosophy from Cornell with the experience and personal charm of Dr. Sibley.

Haydn's "Creation" will be presented by the Pacific chorus and orchestra on the afternoon of May 3 under the direction of Dean C. M. Dennis. This will be the fourth presentation of this composition at Pacific, the first having been at San Jose in 1915 under the direction of Warren Allen.

Sixth Summer Session Will Open June 22, Announces Dean Werner

Pacific's sixth annual Summer Session will begin June 22 for a period of six weeks, according to Dr. G. A. Werner, Dean of the session. Courses will be offered in the departments of art, biologic sciences, chemistry, economics, education, English, geology, history and political science, ancient and modern languages, music, religious education, speech, mathematics, engineering, law, and physical education.

The School of Education is equipped to train candidates for Junior High and General High School credentials, and gives courses in the fundamental group of educational requirements for administrator and supervisor credentials. It is also prepared to give training to those desiring special credentials to teach music, drawing and art, oral and dramatic expression, and physical education and physical activities of both the elementary and high school grade.

The Spanish School will be held for the third consecutive summer in response to requests from students and teachers who desire to study where they may become familiar with Spanish life and customs and use the language in daily life. Spanish music, magazines, and newspapers, will be provided in a house where the students will live, study, play and converse in an atmosphere that is truly characteristic of the Spanish-speaking countries.

Demonstration School

A modern Demonstration School, a new and successful feature of last summer's session, will be repeated this year. The registration for this school was so large that students had to be turned away even after the accommodations had been extended. Marion O. Pease, supervisor of elementary cadet teachers, will direct the School which enables grammar school pupils to gain as much as a whole semester's work during the session.

The dormitories and the dining hall will be open to accommodate summer session students this year. Reasonable rates for board and room are being offered.

Dr. Werner is completing arrangements to have some of the foremost educators as visiting professors on the faculty, and is engaging several outstanding speakers for a series of lectures. Pacific Little Theatre productions, luncheons, recitals, receptions, and excursions will be on the social calendar for the summer students. Tennis courts and a lake for boating and swimming offer other opportunities for recreation.

Second Fine Arts Matinee

To Be Presented February 28

The second Fine Arts Matinee, composed of creative dances, drama, and musical numbers, will be presented by Pacific students under the direction of William Hinsdale, head of the Speech Department, on the afternoon of February 28 in the College auditorium.

Two one-act plays will be presented. The first is "Devil's Game," a prize-winning drama of collegiate life by Robert Linn, an English major, and the other is "Arabella Meets Three Princesses," a charming fantasy written by Miss Martha Pierce of the English Department.

Donald Jones, tenor, will sing songs composed by Gene Bone; Madeline Moore will interpret original poetry; and Miss Mae Shaw's class will give several dance numbers.

The first alumni magazine, "The Earhamite," was published at Earham College, Richmond, Ind., in 1873.

San Joaquin Alumni Hold Institute Reunion

The first Pacific alumni reunion during a Teachers' Institute in San Joaquin County was a dinner meeting on November 25 in the College Dining hall.

James Corson '27, toastmaster, presided over the following program:

Welcome by President Tully C. Knoles.

Pacific's 1930-31 basketball season by Coach "Swede" Righter.

"An Analysis of the Forecast" by Ovid H. Ritter, Controller.

Vocal solos by Fay French, accompanied by Helen Johnson.

A reading by Evelyn Medcalf accompanied by Janis Van Theil.

Pacific Hail.

Mrs. Emma Kerr Hurd x'71 of Lodi was present at the dinner and stated that it was the first Pacific Alumni reunion she had attended on the Stockton campus. Other alumni and guests at the dinner were: Maureen Moore '28, Caroline Leland '29, Thelma West Garben '27, Margaret Sweet '28, Jean Humphreys '27, Hazel Kelley McCuen '28, Arthur T. Smith '30, Ralph M. Brittsan '27, Hoyle Carpenter '30, Lorraine Knoles '21, George H. Knoles '28, Agnes Clark Burchfiel '26, Beryl E. Burchfiel '26, Teruji Endow '31, Edith M. Crittenden '95, Bernice Fiola '28, Margaret Willms Righter '28, Louis Kroeck '95, Dr. and Mrs. Tully C. Knoles, Dr. and Mrs. John L. Burcham, Mr. and Mrs. Ovid H. Ritter, Nella Rogers '28, Etta E. Booth '25, C. E. Righter, Charles Gagnon '29, Bernice McArdle '27, Anne Osborn '27, and Birdie Mitchell '27.

Seventeen Students Earn

A. B. Degree Since June

Seventeen students have completed their work for the Bachelor of Arts degree since June, 1930. They will receive their certificates of graduation with members of the 1931 class on Commencement Day, June 15.

The seven who completed their work at the end of the 1930 summer session include Sue Drouin, Lois Farrar, Francis McQuilkin, and Charles H. Smith who have accepted teaching positions; Stacy C. Lee Jr. and Henry A. Reynolds are doing graduate work at Pacific; and Hazel Earhart is studying at a seminary in New York.

Those who finished their work at the end of the Fall semester are: Beverly C. Barron, Mervyn C. Barron, Robert F. Curran, Janice Dixon, Reginald Gianelli, William Francis Kimes, Mary A. McConnell, George Perry Odell Jr., Margaret Rader Reimers, and Ann Turner Stark.

Henry Meade Bland, Poet, Teacher, Friend

By Alma Lowry Williams '18

I have been asked to write concerning Dr. Henry Meade Bland as poet, teacher, and friend. In these three words are included the charm and strength of his personality. I can, in fact, scarcely think of Dr. Bland in the single relationship of poet, teacher, or friend. As a teacher he is none the less the poet and the friend of his students. As a poet he becomes the friend of all and their teacher through his writings. And to those who know him best, his poetry and learning serve as the finest basis for understanding and friendship.

In his manner of teaching Henry Meade Bland expresses the philosophy of his life through his interest in finding the "other fellow's point of view." He impresses upon the student the power of great ideas and then encourages him to react through the medium of creative writing. Dr. Bland believes that the highest achievement to be gained by a student of literature is the ability to express himself with power and simplicity. In his teaching he encourages his students first to search for the beautiful and then to suggest it with human significance.

Since beauty and inspiration are the motivating factors of his educational method, he does not resort to sarcasm or ridicule in the classroom. Neither does he lavish his interest and attention upon a chosen few but gives to the faltering writer and to the erratic or iconoclastic thinker an impartial hearing and an honest criticism. The sincere student soon discovers that Dr. Bland seldom requires a specific group assignment but that he always expects a bit of individual writing worthy of the student's best powers. The result of this type of teaching over a continued term of years has been that, besides various types of prose works, hundreds of poems have been written by his students.

Poet

Dr. Bland relates with a smile that his earliest acquaintance with verse was gained through the medium of Mother Goose Melodies and that his favorite line was, "over the hills and far away." This adds significance to the fact that one of the poet's first bits of verse was written at the summit of Mount Diablo. This poem consisted of three stanzas and appeared in the Martinez Gazette in the year 1885. Since that time some three hundred of his poems have come to print. Added to these are more than two hundred published articles, most of which deal with literature. There are in all, eight books of verse and three of prose. A projected biography of Joaquin Miller is partially completed.

Dr. Bland has been Poet Laureate of California since 1928. In that capacity he has written a number of poems to memorialize events of outstanding importance in the state and nation. Among these are, Lindberg's Ride; The Wilder Beauty, a development of the motivating in the writing of poetry; and an Ode to the University of California for the inaugural of its new president.

California serves as the background of the Bland poems and gains greater honor for herself through the fame of her laureate. His name has crossed the Atlantic, for the Poetry Review of London has published his works and has acclaimed him as one of the major American poets. The present total of Dr. Bland's titles exceeds six hundred, a third of which have been added since his accession to the laureateship. Nearly three hundred sonnets have come from his pen in the last three years. Of particular interest to students of poetry are the six chants royal he has composed. One of these, The Search, is the only double chant in the English language.

Alumni Afield

HENRY MEADE BLAND '87

is California's Poet Laureate and Professor of English at the San Jose State Teachers College.

Dr. Bland entered the College of the Pacific in 1882. After receiving his diploma from the Business Department, he did his first formal teaching by assisting Professor James P. Welch, now a Superior Judge of Santa Clara County, in teaching bookkeeping. While working for his Bachelor's degree, he taught algebra, arithmetic, and United States history in the Academy of the University of Pacific, and earned a diploma from the Normal Department.

He was the first principal of the Los Gatos High School which was organized in 1887 under the first general High School Law of California. While studying for his doctorate at Pacific, he was Principal of its Commercial Department. He received his Ph. D. degree in June, 1890.

During the following six years he was principal of the Grant Grammar School in San Jose, and attended Saturday seminars at Stanford University where he received the degree of Master of Arts in English Philology in 1895. He is therefore a classmate of Herbert Hoover.

His next three years as principal of the Santa Clara High School were followed by a year of post graduate study in the Department of Education at the University of California. In 1899 he began teaching at the San Jose State College.

Always a resident of California, Dr. Bland's love of nature, photo-collecting, and travel has taken him to every part of his native state. He was founder and President of the Edwin Markham Home Land-Mark Association, has been president of the Pacific Short Story Club for twenty-five years, is a member of the California Writers Club, and is president of the Edwin Markham Chapter of the Poetry Society of London.

In the conception and creation of his verse, Dr. Bland is profoundly moved by beauty. Concerning his theory of writing, he states, "We go on a search for truth and we ultimately find the beautiful. Then we know that beauty is truth." Thus through the finest expression of truth he produces beauty in his verse and in the hearts of his readers.

Friend

Not everyone has the capacity for friendship of the highest sort. The impalpable emanations of the spirit are most fully perceived by one who quests for beauty in his fellows. Because he possesses this trait, Dr. Bland seeks for truth and spiritual value rather than outward appearance. He is a quiet

Who's New

"Who's new on the Faculty?" That's the question often asked students by Pacific Alumni. Its answer is vital to more than students of today and yesterday.

This issue of the Review starts a series of sketches of Faculty members added since Stockton became the site of the College campus. These new members of our teaching staff are well known and liked in their widening circle of influence.

They are specialists in academic work, and we hope you will recommend them, their colleagues, and Pacific to the college students of tomorrow.

man and sincere. He never bustles, nor brags, nor acclaims himself with loud voice and sweeping gestures. His friends appreciate him for the sweetness of his spirit and the gentleness of his conduct.

As a friend he remains the poet and teacher. His conversation is shot through with real humor and moves with the sweep of his imagination and the scope of his interests. He is an engaging raconteur of Californian experiences and out of his contacts with such rare souls as Joaquin Miller, Edwin Markham, Ambrose Bierce, George Sterling, Jack London, and other literati whose names brighten the pages of our western literature. Not only is his value as a friend to be measured by the elements of charm he contributes but also by the strength of his faith in his friends and his encouragement in their achievements. He expects great things of you and rejoices with you in your success!

Ann Turner '31 became the bride of Everett W. Stark '29 on the afternoon of February 15. The ceremony was performed in the First Presbyterian Church of Stockton, with Rev. Mahlon B. Young '15 officiating.

The bridesmaids were Margaret Barth '30, Lillian Grey '30, Dora Mitchell '31, and Fores Hammond Crandall '30. Ray Wilson '29 and Lawrence Klein '28 were among the ushers.

ON THE CAMPUS

First Track Meet is March 4

Coach Jim Corson '27 issued the initial call for track candidates February 9. Although few veterans are on the list, there are some good prospects among the aspirants.

In the sprints Pacific is well fixed with Captain Fay Loveridge back for his fourth year on the cinder path. Loveridge ran two 9.6 second races in the hundred last year and was a double winner in the dashes at the conference meet. He should have little trouble in his races this season.

Johnny Hoobyar, a freshman from Turlock, is expected to win many races this year in the 440. Hoobyar has run the distance under fifty seconds several times in the past and is a great runner. He can also shade even time in the dashes which makes him all the more valuable. Corson has several other good quarter milers on hand with Ulmer, Wicker, and Allen all capable of running around 52 seconds.

The 880 should be a fairly strong event with Al Richardson, L. Wright, R. Wright, and Morrill all competing. Richardson ran the event in about 2:02 while he was in high school, and although he has not run any races for the past two years, he should be able to repeat his performance when he gets into shape.

Perhaps the best balanced of the events will be the mile and two mile grinds. Hatch of Lodi and Cortes of Santa Cruz are two excellent freshmen prospects, while Parsons and Hubbard are experienced men from last season who should add greatly to Pacific's point total.

The hurdles are apparently well fixed with Rollie Richardson returning from last year's squad and Richeson and Anderson of the freshmen showing good form. Richardson won several races last year and should be good for plenty of points this season.

Six hard meets have been scheduled for the Pacific tracksters this season. The schedule is:

- March 4-6—Intra-mural at Stockton.
- March 13—Inter-Class at Stockton.
- March 21—Sacramento J. C. (tentative) at Stockton.
- March 28—Calif. Aggies and Chico at Stockton.
- April 11—San Jose at San Jose.
- April 18—Fresno at Stockton.
- April 25—Sacramento Relays at Sacramento.
- May 3—Far Western Conference at Sacramento.
- May 9—Fresno Relays at Fresno.

Lenora Coffman Edits Weekly

Miss Lenora Coffman, senior student, is the new editor of the Pacific Weekly for the spring semester. She has been active in journalism since her freshman year.

Club Will Publish Magazine

The Scroll and Stylus, literary society at Pacific, will publish the first edition of its annual magazine in April. The periodical will include short stories, drama, poetry, and essays. Robert Lynn, winner of the National Theta Alpha Phi award for the best collegiate play written during the year on the Pacific Coast, is the new editor. Katherine Kinsey, daughter of Mae Morton Kinsey '03, is president of the literary society.

Mrs. Watt Adds to Art Exhibit

A collection of Spanish, Indian, and Oriental handicraft has been given to the art department by Mrs. Rolla V. Watt, member of the college Board of Trustees. The specimens form a part of the permanent exhibits in studio room 221, Weber Hall.

Varsity Wins over Alumni Team

The Pacific Tigers have failed to show any of the form that carried them to the Far Western Basketball championship last year. The team has shown occasional flashes of good form, but on the whole this season has been a disappointment.

The first St. Mary's game, won by Pacific, marked the high point of the season. The only other games which can be chalked up in the win column were the opening game of the season with the Alumni, and the second of the Chico series.

The Bengals lost to St. Mary's, Chico, and Stanford once, and bowed down in defeat twice at the hands of the Stockton Amblers, San Jose, and California Aggies.

The Alumni brought back several former stars who scored 25 points against Pacific's 38. Alumni who were seen in action were Frank Heath '30, Kent Shuman '30, Cecil "Moose" Disbrow '30, Vernon Hurd '30, Maurice "Rube" Wood '27, Clarence "Cherub" Royse '28, and Wilfred Rankin '30.

The one redeeming feature of the present season has been the sensational playing of Glenn Odale at center. "Breeze" has been a tower of strength on the defense and his scoring ability has been a tremendous asset. Captain Paul Crandall performed in a mediocre fashion until the Stanford game, but since then he has played some excellent basketball.

Miss Bowerman Studies In N. Y.

Frances Bowerman, teacher of voice in the Conservatory, will spend the next six months in New York City under the instruction of Frank La Forge, famous vocal coach. Miss Bowerman's leave of absence extends for one semester and she will be in the Conservatory again in the fall of 1931.

Earl Rosenberg, director of the Kansas City Conservatory and former teacher of Miss Bowerman, has taken her place during her absence.

H. White Manages Book Store

Howard White is the new manager of the college book store which was purchased by the Administration from the estate of the late P. R. Wright. Mr. White, the father of Agnes '27 and Marcella '27, was with the finance department of Pacific during its last year in San Jose and the first two years in Stockton. Although Mr. White is not a graduate of Pacific, he is well known among the alumni.

Miss Hinsdale Re-Elected Editor

William P. Hinsdale, head of the department of speech, has been re-elected editor of "The Cue," official publication of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic fraternity. She attended the national convention of the fraternity in Chicago during the Christmas vacation, and also the meeting of the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

Miss Hinsdale visited at the home of Oliver E. Norton '21 while in St. Louis. Dr. Norton is now in the Political Science Department at Washington University in St. Louis.

Exchange Student Is Honored

Richard Coke Wood, who is studying this year at the University of Hawaii as one of seven exchange students from California, has been elected to membership in the Hawaii Union, an honorary forensic society at the island university. Wood will return to Pacific for his senior year.

Night Games Increase Receipts

Receipts for the past football season reached a new high mark of $13,667, according to Robert Breeden '22, graduate manager. Breeden credits this success to night football, and states that there will be a continuance of the after dark struggles next season.

Ten games were played under the lights, including the Stockton High School contests. The total rent amounted to $1972, which will be paid on the debt incurred by the $14,600 improvement of the stadium. Breeden estimates that the expense of the installation of the lights will be cleared within the next four years.

The Pacific-Modesto night game drew the largest crowd, a 600 per cent increase over the same game in former years. It was the first night football game in Stockton, and a large crowd turned out for the dedication of the new lights.

Attendance at the freshman games showed a 250 per cent increase while the high school games had a similar increase.

Breeden states that the lighting system in Baxter Stadium is one of the best in central California, and with the addition of a public address system for next season, it will rank among the best on the Pacific Coast for football exclusively.

Biological Fraternity is Organized

Pacific Omicron Chapter of Tri Beta, international biological fraternity, was formally instituted on the Pacific campus this month. Professor Westervelt Dennis of the biology department of the University of California at Los Angeles conducted the installation and initiation ceremonies. Professor Louis Kroeck '95, Dr. Ernest Stanford, Professor A. E. Noble and nine students are charter members of the new chapter.

H. V. White Leaves Stockton

Hugh Vernon White, lecturer in the Department of Philosophy at Pacific since 1926, leaves this month to become secretary of the home department of the Congregational Foreign Mission Board with headquarters in Boston, Massachusetts. During the past seven years he has been pastor of the First Congregational Church in Stockton.

Schilpp Will Teach in Ohio

Professor Paul A. Schilpp, head of the Department of Philosophy, will act as visiting assistant professor of philosophy at the Ohio State University during the approaching summer quarter. He will give courses in Introduction to Philosophy, Logic, and Ethics.

He is one of 200 ministerial delegates to a national Methodist study conference on "The Significance of Jesus Christ for the Modern World," which meets in Delaware, Ohio, from June 24 to July 3. The short distance between Delaware and Columbus, Ohio, will enable Professor Schilpp to attend the conference while carrying on his teaching duties at the University.

Francis Wins Busher Trophy

Ralph Francis, senior student and end on the Pacific varsity, was awarded the "Red" Busher '25 trophy which goes to the outstanding Bengal lineman each year. Everett Ellis '29 and Frank Heath '30 are the other two players who have had possession of this trophy.

European Summer Tour

The itinerary of Pacific's Fifth annual European tour will include such cities as Liverpool, London, Amsterdam, Leipzig, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Salzburg, and Paris, according to announcements made by Dean C. M. Dennis and DeMarcus Brown, directors of the tour. Special care will be taken in planning the schedule so that the travellers will be able to attend outstanding musical and dramatic events.

An Italian Extension tour is offered to members of the group desiring to visit Rome, Venice, Florence, Genoa, and Monte Carlo. The Extension includes a visit to Milan, with its wonderful cathedral and Leonardo da Vinci's immortal "Last Supper," and all of the important places of historic and religious interest in Rome will be on the program of sightseeing.

The Pacific party will leave Stockton June 20 in a reserved Pullman car and will sail from New York on the S. S. Cedric June 27. They will return about August 24 on the S. S. Westerland. Dr. Arthur Bonner, head of the English Department, is Educational Counselor for the Tour.

Honor Society Elects Members

Harriet Sulser of Lindsay, Alice Langille, Helen Wilcox, and Mrs. Stella Swenson, all of Stockton, were the four undergraduate students selected for membership in the All College Honor Society during the fall term.
