In a memorandum dated Sept. 24, 1942, Director Shirrell sent the following memo addressed to M. C. Cooke, chief of transportation and supply, and Ralph Peck, chief steward, on the subject of personal messes: (Editor's note: This is a retype of the original document.)

Please consult again Administrative Instruction #36, Paragraph 2, which reads as follows:

"A. Requisitions, except those for evacuee messes, shall be placed for all types of food (except perishables) 50 days in advance, based on the estimated number of administrative personnel for a period invasio-ed. Such requisitions shall be handled, however, in accordance with the procedures governing procurement of evacuee food. Perishable items, such as fresh fruits, vegetables, milk, fresh meats, etc., fresh fruits, vegetables, perishable items, such as fresh fruits, vegetables, milk, fresh meats, etc., may be procured from the nearest source of supply through the medium of local procurement authority.

B. When food is issued for an administrative personnel mess from supply sources, both administrative and evacuee personnel, no discrimination in favor of either mess shall be exercised with respect to quality of food, choice of meat cuts, or otherwise. Where special foods are procured for administrative personnel mess, all extra costs involved shall be charged to such messes."

I am reliably informed that item B is not being observed and we are requisitioning choice cuts of meat from the butcher shop, in the refrigerator wreacness unit. This practice must cease at once. We are violating the Civil Service personnel regulations and such practice also breaks all the laws of decency and fair play.

If in the future you buy meat for the personal mess from the butcher shop in the refrigerator (Pgs. 3, Col. 1, Please)...

Mental Cases Are Low Here

Considering the tense psychological condition the Japanese people were forced to suffer due to evacuation and the manner of living in a closely-confined society like in a WRA center here, the colonists are adjusting their lives to the new environment "miraculously well," according to the speakers appearing before a huge audience Friday night at the outdoor stage on the Adult Educational sponsored forum on "Mental and Sex Hygiene and Morale."

Betraying the expectations of the medical professional staff here, there has been only a few cases of mental disease so far handled by the Base Hospital, Dr. Ame Sato revealed.

However, the cases of venereal diseases reported so far are none too pleasant to reveal, Dr. Sato said. The hospital, he continued, has been handling about 70 cases of venereal diseases.

"He pooh-poohed the idea of contriving this type of sickness through indirect means, such as in the intrigues."

The Rev. Father Kitagawa, the second speaker, advised the colonists to keep their morale high in the camp by keeping themselves busy at all times and enjoying whatever little work they are doing.

"Make yourself your own boss in your assigned job," he counselled, "so that you may take personal interest in your work. Forget the past, and avail yourself of the opportunities offered so that you may be able to make better adjustment in the postwar era."

Director Shirrell expressed his gratefulness for the manner in which the colonists are taking their life here.
