ASIBOMAR CONFAB PLANNED FOR CITY

With five delegates arriving this Saturday to attend a pre-Asilomar here in the Project, the Student Christian Association has planned a three-day pre-conference get-together with the visitors.

Highlighting the conference will be the Intercollegiate Rally on Saturday evening, at which time all college students in the Project will have an opportunity to meet in a city-wide rally.

The delegates from Sacramento, College of Pacific and Chico State, are attending the local conference before going to the District Conference in Santa Cruz beginning on Dec. 20.

The visitors are expected to conduct four of the tentatively planned meetings. The local SCA group is also preparing a discussion on the overpopulation problem with the delegates.

TRI-STATE HIGH CONCERT TONIGHT

Well over three-fourths of the parents of high school students cooperated in returning the "Parent Reply" to the "Mid-Quarter Progress Report" which was printed in English and Japanese.

Ninety percent of these parents responding indicated satisfaction with the program of the school.

Among the comments tabulated "Satisfaction with the school program" ranked first with the need for transportation for students living in town.

CONFIDENCE VOTE EXTENDED GOOD

Extending a vote of confidence to the Co-op in their membership drive, the City Council has voiced their approval of the work done by the Co-op at a meeting held Tuesday evening.

PROGRESS REPORT RESPOND GOOD

The club activities program will get started in a big way Thursday for Tri-State High students according to Miss Jeanette Smoyer, chairman of the Activities Committee.

Students will have an opportunity to sign up in any one of 28 clubs—including everything from folk dancing to astronomy. The suggested list of clubs is based on a recent survey of student interests; teacher sponsors have been selected according to their background.

CLUB ACTIVITIES START AT SCHOOL

WHAT ARE THEY SAYING?

BENNETT: RETAIN CULTURAL HERITAGE
WILKIE: REMOVE TRADE BARRIERS

DR. BENNETT of Pacific School of Religion:

"I think it doesn't hurt anybody anything for the American-born Japanese to retain their cultural heritage even as they become a part and parcell of the American economic, social and political life. A cultural heritage is quite a different thing from political ideology."

WILKIE: RETAIN CULTURAL HERITAGE

A distraction from the usual run of light variety shows and social dances, the Tulean music department presented one of the finest musical performances to a capacity audience Sunday afternoon. Many more were turned away at the door.

Funiko Yabe, 19-year-old soprano, thrilled the concert-goers visibly as well as audibly in her long violet gown and changing into a bright Japanese kimono for the last set of numbers. Miss Yabe was called back repeatedly and responded with four light numbers including "I Miss You Again" and "Do You Remember?". The audience was extremely reluctant to leave.

The program selected displayed a varied talent, rare among nisei singers. Her voice flexibility gives her a tremendous range of dynamic and tone quality. One of enormous criticism was that her voice needed improvement but from a layman's ears, it went unnoticed. She went through the entire program with the calmness of a professional artist.

A collection of amateurs, the Tulean string ensemble under the direction of Kumiko Nakamura put on a beautiful rendition, particularly of Mendelssohn's Fifth Symphony that would have delighted the severest of critics.

Recognizing the difficulty of integration and co-ordination, the ensemble did remarkably well. Mrs. Roy Taniyama was the chairman of the concert.

MUSIC CONCERT

"We have another economic condition about which we must be thinking, for it is the most necessary of all goals to the accomplishment of real freedom. Not only must people have access to what other peoples produce, but their own products must in turn reach men all over the world. There will be no peace, there will be no real development, there will be no economic ability unless we find the method by which the trade barriers hampering the flow of goods are removed. I know that there are many, particularly in America, who are afraid of the standard of living exceeds the standard of living in the rest of the world, who shrink at such a prospect, who believe that any such process will only lessen our own standard of living. The reverse of this is true."

NISEI AIR CORP SERGEANT VISITS HERE: "READY, WILLING, AND ABLE"

"It's great to be a part of the United States Army Air Force," said Staff Sergeant Ino Marutani, who arrived Tuesday from Hunter Field in Savannah, Georgia to visit his parents at #0010.

Staff Sergeant Marutani explained that he was a combat member of the Air Corps and had to be anything from a gunner to a pilot. "We have to know the plane from the prop to the tail," he added in a slightly southern drawl.

The fighting nisei airman revealed that he was drafted on Dec. 4, 1941, but he immediately reenlisted in the U.S. Air Corps. "I was a licensed pilot for four years and I wanted to be a part of the Army Air Arm," he disclosed.

"I have been treated wonderfully in the Army," Marutani declared. "I've trained 2,000 recruits and have had no trouble whatsoever." Marutani said he was ready for combat duty and would welcome it. "My hope is that the war ends quickly so that we may return to our normal lives hereafter."

The nisei Air Force member is from Enumclaw, Washington.

A welcome to the party will be sponsored by his friend at #7010 from 6-9 p.m. tonight, Dec. 17.

TACOMA SCAMS
Sacramento Miks didn't breathe freely until the final whistle was blown in their game with the hustling Tacomans team Monday night as they had to fight every inch of the way to win 34-26.

No one would have given the Miks a chance to win before game time, but after the first half ended with the Miks leading only 14-12, everyone saw that the Sacramentoans had their hands full in staving off the stubborn Northerners.

Forwards on both teams did the scoring in the second half and it was mainly the cool work of Miks' Tak Tetsuya and Miks' Hara which enabled them to clinch the game. Hara took scoring honors with 15 points, while Tak Tetsuya again led the Tacomans with 10.
