DISPATCH INTERVIEWS
NEW NATIONAL CHIEF

In an interview with the Tulean Dispatch, Dillon Meyer, who succeeds Milton S. Eismanhower as national director of the War Relocation Authority, declared that the change of director will not affect the organization or its policy unless such a change is considered necessary from the national standpoint.

Meyer was in Tule Lake last weekend on his tour of the west coast relocation centers.

Some of the questions asked by the Tulean Dispatch and Meyer's answers follow:

Q: Is it the policy of the W.R.A. to have the project enterprises under Japanese hand?
A: Yes, Mr. Shirrell will be able to supervise and encourage any such undertakings.

Q: How far can Japanese co-op in initiating cooperative movement? Both consumer and producer cooperatives?
A: It will depend on facilities and experience. Some restraint will be considered under governmental supervision.

Q: Has the W.R.A. considered rehabilitation of the Japanese colonists after the war?
A: It is still in formative stage. No detail has ever been planned by the W.R.A., but it will assume responsibility for such a move. If it is possible after the war, employment by the U.S. Government and some small movement for rehabilitation may be considered.

Q: Does the W.R.A. approve of the student relocation plan?
A: We wish so. A list of approved colleges may be increased to permit as many students as possible to continue their education.

NEW DIRECTOR

Elmer L. Shirrell who was acting project director, was officially appointed Director of the Tule Lake project by Dillon S. Meyer, newly-appointed national director of W.R.A., with recommendation from former director Eismanhower.

Shirrell, a native of Santa Barbara, is 52 years old, and was in the publishing business, working for Doubleday, Doran & Co. before taking over the W.R.A. job April 15. Spending a week in Parker, Ariz., the director has been in Tule Lake since April 23.

A U.C. graduate, majoring in political science, Shirrell has been in educational activities since his graduation in 1914. He was in the World War as a sergeant of the 364th Infantry, 81st Division, of the A.E.F.
Free time to time to re-examine ourselves. Self-criticism is the fundamental basis for personal development and social advancement.

One of the stark inconsistencies we come across everyday on the Colony ground is the way the residents show complete cooperation on the vital interest of the Project as a whole on one hand, and on the other, their complete lack of social consciousness when they go about collecting scrap lumber in the yard.

Their attitude and conduct in mess-halls and their spirit of helpfulness towards their neighbors have already won sincere commendation from the administration office.

But their conduct and manifestation of rugged individualism at the scrap lumber yard is anti-social to say the least. It is sickening to watch them "go to town" like a pack of wolves after prey.

It is hard to imagine that a group of Japanese people could be so selfish and so forgetful of their dignity as they do in the lumber yard. But the scene is repeated day after day.

Students of social pathology call it mass pathology. But this is no time for an editorial writer to discuss the situation disinterestedly. It is a subject for the Community Council to take immediate action in cooperation with block managers.

H.M.I.

TO THE EDITOR:

Here is a "gripe". Although this incident is only going on in our mess, I decided to put it to you. The so-called "higher-ups" seen to neglect or avoid that NO SMOKING sign. I notice that the man who is smoking is either a warden, block manager or the block chairman.

I don't think they have been granted special privileges. Let's either enforce the rule or tear down the signs.

TO THE EDITOR:

From time to time we need to re-examine ourselves. Self-criticism is the fundamental basis for personal development and social advancement.

We are faced by the task of rebuilding a single settlement from the people of many diverse communities. The selected leaders are now leading the people from a loosely-knit community to a newly established order of peace and harmony.

The soaring of the seagulls in the sky over the colony fills our hearts with strange fascination and unexplainable curiosity. We know the life of the past had tinge of complacency and leisure. Oman of hope, faith, and courage for the Mormon pioneer leader in Utah, Erithan Young, was characterized by seagulls. Starvation was threatening the existence of the colony by the inevitable destruction of the wheat crop by the rushing of the dreaded locusts. Hope was directed by continuous hardship and bad luck; they were losing hope in Erithan Young, and their courage was fast failing under relentless pressure of their desire to move on.

The strange and timely appearance of the flock of seagulls saved the Mormon colonists from total failure in colonization.

Like these Mormon settlers, we in Tulo Lake are also facing the question of success or failure in establishing peace in our community. Entrusted in the hands of our leaders is the task of building permanent and everlasting harmony. Seagulls give trend to thoughts of Mormon's faith in their leader.

Stories may be written about many miracles but miracles are not available unless we cast away our dislike and distrust for each other. Our hope lies in trust and tolerance in the future, faith in leaders and courage to stand the test and trials.

Seagulls which daily glide gracefully over many rows of barracks in the Center is a constant reminder of this hope and faith.
"Splendid!" was the consensus of reaction of the white staff to the Fourth of July program held here Saturday.

Project Director Shirrell: "I thought it was a very nice program. The only disappointment was that the flag pole wasn't high enough, but a longer one is being made to be put in the middle of the fire break."

Assistant Director Hayes: "I thought the Fourth of July program was splendid. A fine demonstration of spirit of American citizenship, which is prevalent in this Colony. The entertainment was well carried out and we are indeed fortunate in having a fine collection of talents."

Ted Waller, Community Activity Supervisor: "The work of the Volunteer Committees and the Community Activities staff was very excellent. The results of this work was the finest community program that I ever had an opportunity to participate in."

CAPACITY CROWD ENJOYS SHIN-DIG

Both dance pavilions, #720 and #820, were filled to capacity at the shin-dig which climaxed the gigantic Fourth of July celebration.

The committee in charge of the dance included Chie Aoki, Perry Saito, and Paul Takahashi. Takahashi and Jimmy Hishimoto were emcees and music was provided by Ray Nakamoto, Shig Aoki, and Shiro Kuncenatsu who provided the musical equipment.

Every resident in the Colony had about two bottles of soda pop and a half-cup of ice cream on the Fourth of July on the basis of these refreshments sold at the Community stores.

In half-July's time, the two stores in the Colony sold 700 cases of soda pop (15.6—bottles) and 400 dozens of ice cream (4800 cups).

SCOUTS LEND PATRIOTIC COLOR, SHIRRELL TALKS

Under the misty gray ceiling that was the Saturday morning sky, Colony residents assembled in the central firebreak to join in on the nation-wide observance of the Independence Day.

The audience joined the choir in the chorus of God Bless America and the presence of the local Boy Scout troops lent color to the ceremony.

"America today fights for one principle for which men of the 13 colonies fought—the right to be free."

Elmer Shirrell, project director, told the evening assembly of estimated 8000: "We fight for our own right to be free from tyranny and we fight for the rights of other people to be free. Our cause is just, our people are united and we shall continue to fight in hand with other peoples of the world who believes as we do."

"We are rich in natural resources, in wisdom and skill, and we shall prevail", declared Shirrell.

VARIETY SHOW A HIT

Late summer sun dipped into the western hills as the Colony's first variety show simmered and faded into history last Saturday. A star-studded program attracted more than 6000 to the main firebreak and none went home until the final show was over.

Vocal soloists Sumiko Takeda and Riki Matsufuji and the Royal Hawaiian string ensemble with the pretty Sextette kept the audience at the edge of their seats with their renditions of sentimental popular songs.

"Jim'k" Labo, Ilma Noguchi and Sachiko Hori offered a few numbers of Japanese classics adding much to the delight of Issei's aesthetic eyes.

In the vein of sweetness and lightness Kumiko Nakamura played the violin to the accompaniment of Helen Nitta and won the hearts of many Tule-ans.

Tad Hitazumi and his magic harmonica, Smerick Ishikawa and his weight lifting company, semi-acrobatic dancing of Lucille Tanaka, accordion duet of Naoko Saito and Frank Iwase, and the Mexican hat dance by Reid Mayeda and Yukio Nakada contributed to the success of the evening.

REMAKING AN "ANGEL"

A Drunkard, riffraff - the scum of the earth.
He was that kind of a guy. It was a rare occasion when he looked sober and was in his carpenter shop on L Street making cabinets and tables. He used to make good ones when he made them, however. Perhaps it was too much to ask him to stay in his shop with tools in his hand - the people in Sacramento used to say - when he had nothing but wine, sake, and whiskey under his belt.

Having little money in his pocket, he would go to his friends, both food and drinks. The day after he had any cash in his pocket, his friends knew where they could find him. He usually went to jail - an aftermath of drunken brawl. Several scars on his face are the holdover from those long years of Calistel life.

He is here with us in this Colony - a new man - the one and only Enjiro Kodani, the man whom the people used to kid by calling "Hi, Angel!" Now he sleeps between two clean sheets - "I think of my mother," he whispers.) Edts plenty. ("I feel like a 20-year-old boy," he laughs.)

Most of his waking hours Enjiro spends his time before his little private table that he had made out of scrap lumber in the Recreation Hall at #1808, doing a neat job of painting signs and making all kinds of paraphernalia used in recreation. The small things that made the Fourth of July program more colorful came out of Enjiro's brushes and knives.

"When I return to Sacramento," he confides to his friends, "I'm going to be a Karusinan." *

The people who know him watch with amazement the new "Angel" at work.

* Christian.

WARD 4 WINS TOURNEY

Star-studded Ward 4 softballers were crowned champions of the July 4 tournament by a close 7-5 decision over the Ward 1 contingent. With Beans Yanocho chucking his second game of the day, the winners got off to a flying start as they touched Yaniyasu for three runs in the second. Ward 1's rally in the last inning fell short as they tallied three digits.

Batteries: Yamamoto & Hayashida, Taniyasu, Kurita.

Ward 4 earned the right to enter the finals of the tourney by virtue of their 3-1 victory over the erratic Ward 3 entry, while Ward 1 smashed their way to a 10-5 win over the Ward 2 all-stars.

RESULTS OF GIRLS' GAMES

In the exhibition girls' game the Irleton Screwballs pounded their way to a 20-3 win over the hapless Skirts. Although the game was close until the fourth, the winners' five runs each in the last three frames clinched the victory.

The other girls' games saw the powerful Hit and Runs crush the Salem ten by an overwhelming 40-2 count. Alice IkocLa pitched a fine game for the win.
