San Francisco Newspapers Carry Stories On, Evacuees

The sale of San Francisco Chronicle and The Examiner in the Project set a record yesterday when 150 of both papers were sold out in a single day. The news of the evacuation was quickly spreading through the Project, and the papers were quickly sold...
It's been a long time since we grasped the smooth hard curves of a Coca Cola bottle. A visitor from the "outside" brought it in this stifling hot afternoon and instantly we emptied the content of invigorating sweet ambrosia down our parched throats. Ahhh... now with proper incentive we'll commence.

SURE RIGHT...

is the name appropriately adopted by the Block 34 softball team because of the proximity of the block's location to the sewerage pool. Block Manager Jack Okumura, player-manager of the team, has a half year old baby boy who won the affection of all the young girls in the block. We're always anxious.

ART 'CHARACTER' MORIMITSU chairman of the Writers' Club, has given the name, "A Tule Lake Interlude," to the book we are putting out for the Project's anniversary. Thanks to mimeographers, Harry Inukai and Mas Ogawa, we are working day and night to meet the deadline. The book, which will probably be bound in Klasman trash, will have the title "THE FIRST BATCH..."

of volunteers for the combat team left last week almost too quietly. What's the matter? Most of those fellows are leaving us and taking even wives and children behind, in their willingness to instill a richer concept of American democracy. What more can a man give up? Even the ancient Japanese code says that the finest Japanese have always believed that the greatest honor one can obtain is to give his life for the country of his birth. Personally, we would like to see the Japanese take pride in their contributions. I guess I was a good listener or alright...He dozed off in his seat.

"...I'm working and staying with a dawm swell family. They sincerely understand our predicament. I'm sure the majority is like them. Incidentally Norton (the person with whom he is living) is a bona fide veteran of the last war." is big enough to send them off with.

Evacuee writes "Leave Zoot Suit. Long. Haircut." Here

In a letter received by a member of the DISPATCH staff, Joni Shimoda, who left the Project for Chicago a couple of weeks ago, asserts that "The Nisei are not creating a very good impression by not mixing in with the Caucasians."

Shimoda suggest some sort of a relocation educational program within the centers to properly prepare the evacuees for resettling in communities where the first impression is going to be a powerful factor in determining whether resettlers will be accepted or not.

"Also to tell the zoot suit boys what to wear, to make them leave their hair on the barber shop floor and come out wearing conventional things," he wrote. "And for God's sake, tell them to leave those strange looking clothes at home! Better yet: leave the strange looking guys that inhabit such clothes within the center."

AH! IT HAS COME AT LAST....

It didn't seem as if it would arrive this soon what with the snow, wind, etc., sweeping through the city during recent weeks. But it is reliable. It always comes about this time each year. No matter what happens --wars, famines, floods, plagues--nothing can stop its coming.

For the Tuleans its arrival means uncomfortable days but what can they do for summer is here.
Two Named Marble Champs

Displaying championship form, Yoshii Arima, 5403-B and Ben Shimada, 1614-A topped the junior and senior division marble titles respectively last Saturday in the first all-city marble tournament.

Block 46 marble artists captured the runner-up positions with Victor Nakamoto and George Kobe placing second.

The marble tournament was sponsored by the Recreation Boys & Girls Activities with those ten years of age and above being eligible to compete. The winners of each division of the tournament advanced into the finals.

Awards were awarded to the two winners and ribbons to runners-up. Each finalist also received an award.
