TRAVEL BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

Forty-six days on the continent and inside Russia is the plan for the 1957 summer tour of the College of the Pacific with Pan American airways. Tour conductors will be President Robert E. Burns, who visited Russia last summer, and Elliott Taylor, Director of Admissions and Tours at Pacific. Effects of communism on satellite countries, western Europe and NATO will be studied, courses for credit being optional. Further information may be gained from Mr. Taylor.

COAST TO COAST ON TV

Pacific's famed A Cappella Choir will be heard from coast to coast over NBC television network Sunday afternoon, March 31, on the program Wide Wide World. Yosemite Valley will form the majestic setting for the chorus, with Dean Russell J. Bodley directing. The locale will not be new for the Pacific group as the choir has given sixteen Easter productions from the Valley.

PRESIDENT BURNS HONORED

"To Lift Up Pacific"

by ART FAREY

When 600 Californians dined with him and in his honor at the Stockton Civic Auditorium on February 25th, Pacific President Robert E. Burns learned how to cope with compliments.

Flanked at the head table by Governor Goodwin J. Knight, publisher Joseph R. Knowland, Chancellor Tully C. Knoles, Senator Alan Short, Assemblyman William Biddick, Trustee President Ted F. Baun, Alumni President George Blaufuss, Methodist Conference Treasurer Frank Webber, and Pacific Student Association President John E. Corson, and heaped with commendations by each, Dr. Burns replied to all of them, "The thing that comes to me most strongly out of this is that I must get back to work."

The mid-career honorary event was staged by the Pacific Associates, with their President, Alex J. McRae of Stockton, presiding. It measured the esteem of the outstanding business, professional, academic and clerical contemporaries of President Burns for his contributions to Pacific and California life, and furnished a large charge of encouragement for the bigger problems awaiting him.

In 1947 when Dr. Knoles slid out of the C.O.P. driver's seat, his former assistant became the youngest college president in the West. After ten years he is a veteran. Among the colleges and universities in Northern California, only two have been at their post longer than Burns of Pacific.

The big banquet, representing faculty, students, church and fraternal constituents marked this productive ten-year span, and also the twenty-fifth year of the graduation of Robert Burns from Pacific. He is the first alumnus and the first layman to become President of California's first chartered college.

Dr. Burns paid tribute to his development staff during the decade that has seen fifteen new buildings erected, a fifty per cent increase in enrollment, and the inception of many new projects and departments including the Pacific Marine Station, The School of Pharmacy, The Fallon House Theatre, The California History Foundation, and several other enterprises.

Looking into Pacific's future, President Burns estimated full time enrollment will reach 1750 in four years, the maximum figure currently approved by the faculty and trustees for the present campus—and just at the moment when the mounting tidal wave of college enrollments will burst on California in full force. It was here that he hinted that Pacific may have to spawn a new college or colleges if private, church-related higher education is to keep pace with dynamic northern California. Today Pacific is the only non-tax supported college in the whole interior Valley empire.

Other Burns quotes:

"The private colleges have introduced most of the revolutionary changes in education."

"We must keep moral and spiritual values in the forefront, for we are a church-related college."

"The tenure of the average college president in the United States is less than that of football coaches."

"We must undergird Pacific with five million dollars of endowment funds."

"The resurgence of the liberal arts is one of the greatest things in higher education today."

Other quotes from the heart-warming occasion about Dr. Burns and the college he is developing—

Governor Knight: "— scholarly learning in practical practice."

Ted Baun: "This has been a good time to be a Pacific Trustee."

Frank Webber: "We are proud that Pacific is a Methodist College."

George Blaufuss: "He is a local (Pacific) boy who made good in a big way."

John Corson: "The welcome sign is always out at his door for students."

Chancellor Knoles: "The difficulties he will fare in the next ten years are the problems of expansion."

The trophies of the occasion included flowers for Dr. and Mrs. Burns from the Pacific Student Association, three one-hundred dollar bills from the Trustees, and a beautiful embossed congratulatory resolution from the California Senate presented by Senator Alan Short.

Tribute to the place of Mrs. Robert E. Burns in the making of a college president was paid by Mrs. Lloyd M. Bertholf, speaking at the request of Mrs. Tully C. Knoles who was unable to attend. The campus, church and community services of Mrs. Burns and her warm-hearted helpfulness were stressed by Mrs. Bertholf, wife of the Dean of the College.

To President Burns' mother, Mrs. J. L. Burns, confined in her home, the whole event was transmitted via special "school to home" telephone equipment installed by the Stockton office of the Pacific Telephone Company through the interest of manager C. Edward Best, a Pacific Associate. Her spoken appreciation was heard by the guests assembled through the two-way, amplified sound circuit.

When the Pacific Associates first proposed the anniversary event to President Burns he gave permission only "if it will be an opportunity to lift up the high purposes of Pacific." He was not disappointed. The cause of this College was well presented to an excellent cross section of California citizenry, and strongly endorsed by top leadership.

On the lighter side of the evening were the prize-winning pair of 1957 Pacific Band Frolic acts staged by Alpha Theta Tau sorority and Omega Phi Alpha fraternity, engaging entertainment that gave undergraduates the place they so well deserved in the all-Pacific event.

President Burns belongs to numerous professional, service, religious, and educational organizations and has immensely advanced the public relations status of Pacific by his service to the State of California through the Centennials Commission and the Parks Commission. He follows a relentlessly intense public speaking schedule and is currently president of the Western College Association and president of the California Independent Colleges Foundation. But all these things to him are accessory to his College, for he is first and last, Bob Burns of Pacific.

ALUMNI PRESIDENT: George Blaufuss '39 extends greetings to President Burns from Pacific's 6,000 living graduates.

"After all," he says, the College has been my life, and I must confess my decisions revolve around the advance of this institution and what it stands for in California life. I live and breathe it, and I know of no higher purpose to which I could devote my time."

It was to further Pacific that he was willing to parry the praises showered on him at the mid-career celebration. He refused only one gesture requested of him—the presentation, or even mention, at the banquet of his recent portrait by the late Nan Rice of Stockton. Consequently the picture has been hung without public announcement in the Irving Martin Library.

"THE DARK IS LIGHT ENOUGH"

A PACIFIC COED

by ELEANOR BAKER

Jackie Coker is a low junior in College of the Pacific. She is a sociology major and plans to become a lecturer and social worker. Last year she was a member of Spurs, sophomore women's honorary. After receiving her A.B. degree Jackie plans a year of graduate work, probably at the University of California in Berkeley.

This Pacific coed, a lovely blond, carries a full load of work and is a B-plus student. She loves to dance, swim, play chess, ride horseback, go to the movies and attend school productions. At present she is enrolled in an archery course.

Jackie has an unusually fine sense of humor, has a keen analytical mind, and a plan for life which calls for no favors or exceptions.

Jackie is deaf-blind!

A familiar three-some on campus is Jackie, Dorothy Klaus, her constant companion-reader-tutor, and S i n d e, Jackie's seeing eye dog. Now five years old, S i n d e has been with her since he was 18 months old.

Jackie really has three sponsors. Attendance at Pacific, chosen because it is a small intimate college, is made possible by the Helen Keller Scholarship for Jackie Coker given by the American Foundation for the Blind (New York), the State Department of Education and Vocational Rehabilitation, and the California School for the Blind, Berkeley. Tuition, books, supplies, and the pay of her reader-companion-tutor come through these three agencies. Her text books are translated in braille through the effort and devotion of a few dedicated persons working without financial reimbursement. In some cases the special paper only is provided.

Take Jackie's text, Psychological Personal Adjustment for example. The printer, in this instance, is a Long Beach woman, Mrs. Frances C. Park, who has trained 16 individuals to transcribe books not usually put into braille. More persons are currently in training for a labor that brings no financial pay, only satisfaction for the heart and soul. This particular book itself is weighty matter and sizeable, for it takes $2\frac{1}{2}$ pages of braille to transcribe one printed page and each page is $11\frac{1}{2}$ inches square so that each chapter, as a rule, is larger than the original text. Texts for the semester total about 120 loose leaf volumes which take up a number of shelves in the over-sized book case which Miss Klaus has constructed for Jackie.

Jackie spends at least five hours a day in reading her studies in braille, while Miss Klaus spends at least 75 hours a month in reading class room work to Jackie, with Jackie's sensitive fingers placed over her mouth.

During class room sessions Miss Klaus translates by sign language into Jackie's palm as much of the lecture as can be taken, while a volunteer student in each class is taking down a duplicate set of notes, one for Jackie's reader. Jackie herself takes the shorthand form of braille while studying which few blind know. Examinations are taken at home, Jackie lipreading the questions and typing the answers. Beside reading her texts, Jackie enjoys reading the Readers Digest which is edited in braille and other books, journals and magazines as transcribed. Her texts are turned back when completed so that others may use them and so that there will be room for more.

As far as is known there are but three deaf-blind students who have gone through college in the United States besides Helen Keller.

It was at the Enchanted Hills Foundation camp, near Napa, Jackie's home town, that Miss Klaus, serving as the water front director, first met Jackie. The two formed a strong congenial bond—a mutual admiration society. Later, when Jackie was to enter college, it was Dorothy she wanted and Dorothy who responded. It is the closest of association, with but two weeks apart twice a year, but the girls have worked out a remarkable way of life. Dorothy, whose home is in San Diego, was graduated as a recreation major from San Diego State College. Her devotion to Jackie and understanding of her problems is as if she herself had an added sense. When not in the midst of studies the two girls still are a team. Jackie will scrub and clean the house while Dorothy will work in the garden, Jackie sometimes helping out of doors. Dorothy is dedicated to being eyes and ears for Jackie. One hardly realizes while visiting with them that Dorothy's fingers are forming the letters and words in Jackie's hand keeping her informed of conversation and what is going on.

Much of Jackie's fine outlook on life must be credited to her courageous mother, the two blending problems with an unique closeness and understanding.

The first six years of Jackie's life were the normal ones of a freckled, robust tomboy living with her parents in Coolidge, Arizona, near an Indian reservation. It was on Armistice Day, 1935, that Jackie, then 7, came home from riding her horse, Smoky, feeling ill. But a week before, in a bright red blouse she had captured a prize riding Smoky in the rodeo parade.

Jackie grew steadily worse, ran a high fever and became enshrouded with darkness. Not only could she not see, but she began to lose all sense of balance and muscle co-ordination. Then her word forming memory was gone, her speech became garbled. Her condition was feared hopeless. It was spinal meningitis in its most virulent form.

At first, believing the heavy darkness, the weird unreal sounds, to be only the temporary result of her sickness she was not frightened. But as her mother wept Jackie could feel her shaking, could feel her wet face, and it then began to occur to Jackie that she might never see or hear again. On realization it was like a great abyss opening up to engulf her. Gradually and slowly she decided to try to do her best because her mother would want it.

Neighbors suggested to Mrs. Coker that she part with Jackie and try to forget—that she place her helpless child in an institution for life. But Mrs. Coker only prayed for strength to keep her daughter alive. She spent months preparing special diets, in massaging the invalid and in walking her. Eventually her home therapy triumphed. One day Jackie could maintain her balance and manage a few staggering steps.

Her mother tried spelling words in Jackie's palm, but the second grader had known only the alphabet and not how to read. Then Jackie made a discovery. In gibberish she could ask questions and feel her mother's nodded answers. Short cuts through touch progressed, but relearning the simplest every day acts were an ordeal. As Jackie's bewilderment diminished her mother realized many evidences of mental alertness and began to wonder if after all her daughter might not be educated. But Arizona had no school for the deaf-blind. With almost fanatical zeal her mother vainly sought advice and finally took her problem direct to the governor of Arizona. A campaign of letters for action followed from friends and civic groups. It became a crusade. Then the governor unexpectedly visited the Coker home and as the deaf-blind girl clung to his hand he sat staring, realizing he had seen Jackie before—the little red-shirted prize winning girl in the Coolidge parade.

Back at the capital the governor set the wheels in motion. The legislature passed an appropriation for Jackie's education. A special teacher, Mrs. Helen Bloomer, was brought from Kansas City. Governor B. B. Moeur died soon after, but not before saying, "Jackie's schooling is about the best investment Arizona ever made. Mrs. Coker hounded me into it."

Jackie was enrolled in the Arizona State School for the Blind at Tucson, where she was to live and Mrs. Bloomer to teach. Her response to lessons in speech and lip reading amazed her teachers. Her sense of rhythm through pulsations in the floor, her shunning of braille slates to do mathematical problems in her head, her aptness in the sharpening of her remaining senses was more than average. She became a Girl Scout, went on hikes, sewed for the Red Cross and took part in school activities. When Jackie left the Tucson school for good after nine years, Mrs. Bloomer said, "In every achievement test Jackie's score was high above the highest on the scoring table. Classroom grades averaged between 85 and 90."

In 1946 Jackie entered Berkeley's California School for the Blind in the newly founded Deaf-Blind department, and her parents moved to Napa. She earned almost straight "A's" in a high school course that included English, German, French, physiology, biology, music, algebra, geometry, American literature and history, in preparation for her college and writing career. In her senior year Jackie transcribed braille at 20 cents a page enabling her to buy a few gifts for her parents.

Few knew of her mother's consecration, of her struggles, her working through the years to provide the extra things Jackie would need, her boundless faith and inspiring singleness of purpose.

Graduation Day, May 1949, Jackie stepped up for her high school diploma, turned to her teachers with an impromptu speech of appreciation and farewell, and blew a kiss to her mother. Jackie's father whispered to Mrs. Coker, "Did you ever hear our daughter talk more beautifully." Mrs. Coker was speechless then.

Jackie, in the opinion of some, is being groomed to follow in the footsteps of Helen Keller. It may be. Jackie is developing a stride of her own. She has ideas of her own as to deaf-blind relations, adjustments, and teaching techniques.

We look forward with Jackie to another achievement,—her commencement in 1958 from the College of the Pacific.

NEW ART CENTER FOR PACIFIC

ART ADMINISTRATOR:

Settled in its own spacious building with room for expansion, the Pacific Art department held open house January 18 to mark the completion of a newly remodeled Art Center. The project was made possible through gifts and supplies amounting to $10,000 much of which was obtained through the help of the Pacific Associates.

The interior of the war surplus building of steel, concrete and aluminum, formerly occupied by the department of engineering, was remodeled according to the plan of the art department. Work was done by the College maintenance department directed by Loren Anderson, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Its 9,000 square feet of floor space includes a large combined display gallery and lecture hall, five studio workshops, four offices, and 1,000 square feet of hallway space used for display.

Featured at the open house was a showing of the paintings of ten well known Stockton artists as well as work of students. Highlighting the exhibit of professional paintings was Oscar Galgiani's best known portrait of Chancellor Tully C. Knoles, the possession of the College and regularly hung in Anderson Social Hall. Other local artists invited to exhibit were Richard Yip, former student, and nationally known watercolorist and teacher; Helen Dooley Hodgins, Art Center staff member and outstanding watercolorist; Ruby Zahn White, Pacific graduate in art and wife of Prof. Warren White, head of the College's department of mathematics, and long a distinguished painter and holder of many prizes for her landscape paintings; Marjorie Reynolds, watercolor and oil painter, Stockton Art League prizewinner, and wife of Richard Reynolds, art department chairman; Lida Giambastini, Peter Rodriguez, and Lucille Bertsch. Prof. Reynolds also exhibited a number of his prize-winning sculptures.

The art department has seen a rapid growth under the direction of Reynolds, who took over as chairman in 1948 after his return from service in World War II. Today there are 32 full majors in the department and a number for whom art is a minor. A large group of credential candidates of the School of Education take art courses while many general students take one or more courses as electives, some 50 per cent taking art work in some form before graduation.

Beginning in the fall of 1925 the art department on the Stockton campus was first housed on the second floor of Weber Memorial Hall of Science and chairmanned by the late Etta E. Booth. She held this post from 1898 until 1939, one of the longest teaching terms in the history of the College. Serving following terms as art chairmen were DeMarcus Brown, Pacific Theatre director, E. Grace Ward, and Suzanne Scheuer. Reynolds joined the staff in 1939. The full time staff of three also includes Earl J. Washburn, as well as numerous part time teachers for specialized courses.

ART GRADUATES IN ALLIED CAREERS

Many graduates of Pacific's art department have established themselves in professional art or allied careers in recent years, according to Richard Reynolds, chairman of the department. Since Reynolds came to Pacific his records show some half hundred students who have become art teachers at various school levels throughout the state. One art graduate, Regalada Valderama '47, is a teacher in her native Philippine Islands. Others are found in varied positions. They include Clint Ward '43, of Omega Phi Alpha and a quarterback on Stagg football teams, now manager of the San Francisco Division of Western Lithograph Company. His home is at 172 Oakfield Road, Redwood City.

Arthur McAlpine '47, is visual aids artist for Stockton Unified School District. Marion Warner, also a member of the class of '47, now married to Col. Walter Winston, has been active at the Art Institute in Dayton, Ohio, which has sponsored numerous exhibits of her work. Twice she was honored in the Painting of the Month feature of the Dayton Society of Painters. She also has exhibited throughout Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and West Virginia. At present she is art instructor at Campbell High School and has won awards in Santa Clara County Fair exhibits, Artists' Guild of Santa Clara County and Los Gatos Art Association.

Among members of the class of '48 William J. Smith is in advertising in Sacramento and Earl Horton has been in advertising with the Shell Oil Company in Sacramento.

Willard Cotton '49, was in photography with Reimans Camera Shop but since 1952 has been with the Mills Press in Stockton.

Robert A. Wilson '50, a former PSA president who graduated with honors from Art Center School of Los Angeles in '52 was with General Motors as an industrial designer from 1952 to 1955 and now is head of the interior and lighting department for Harndon Corporation, Industrial Designers, Los Angeles.

John Benty, also in the class of '50, was a General Motors industrial designer and graduated with honors in '52 from Art Center School. Since army service, 1954 to 1955, no data has been received on his occupation. Harlan Nelson of the same class began his commercial career as an artist for a lithograph company in Sacramento, then went into similar work in El Monte and Fresno.

Doris Johnson, after graduate study at Art Center School, is doing fashion illustration in Southern California. Ed James now is teaching for the U.S. Air Force dependents' school in Germany while last year he was in Spain.

Richard Yip '51, a special instructor in art at Pacific and Stockton College and with classes throughout the country, is a nationally known watercolorist. Robert E. Morris, also '51, now has an executive position in Concord Schools. Mary Ann Paddock, an honor graduate, went into executive training with the Emporium in San Francisco and became buyer in the Stonestown Emporium. A. William Strom, honor graduate, is now technical director of Pacific Theatre. He has had TV experience in the San Francisco area and operates his own professional marionette theatre.

Joseph O. Moore, class of '52, now is a career officer with the United States Naval Air Intelligence. Robert Butterbaugh '54, was part owner of an art shop in Stockton, The Forum, until his stint with the army. He now is in Panama but plans to take graduate study on his return.

ANOTHER CLASS ROOM: Prof. Earl Washburn checks work of students in layout and lettering.

NEXT ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

Open House in the new quarters of the Department of Engineering, the former library building, is set for Friday, March 29 from 2 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, March 30 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE GROUP ELECTS

Chi Rho, campus organization sponsored by the department of religious education for students interested in Christian service, installed new officers early in February at candlelight ceremonies in Morris Chapel. Wesley Brown, junior from Fargo, N.D., active in campus and church groups was seated as president, the first under Chi Rho's newly revised constitution.

While Chi Rho originally was organized to provide fellowship for those going into full time Christian service and for those who proposed to magnify Christian motivation in their chosen vocation, now any student on campus interested in Christian service is welcome to join, according to Miss Kathleen Shannon, faculty counselor.

Dr. Fitch Will Give Second Tippett Lectures delivered the annual Knoles Lectures in Philosophy at Pacific. Born of missionary parents in China, Dr. Fitch had his earliest education in Shanghai. He has served as a columnist and correspondent and for two years was a navy chaplain aboard an attack transport. His published books include Preface to Ethical Living, The Kingdom Without End, and A Certain Blind Man. He has contributed to numerous philosophical and religious journals.

The Second Annual Bishop Donald H. Tippett Lectures in Religious Perspectives in Higher Education are scheduled for Saturday, April 6, at the College of the Pacific in Stockton.

The lecturer will be Dr. Robert Elliot Fitch, professor of Christian Ethics and Dean of the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley. His address, Christian Faith and the Inquiring Mind, is slated for 10:30 a.m. in Anderson Social Hall. A luncheon and panel discussion will follow the formal lecture. Dr. Fitch will continue a lectureship inaugurated last year for the purpose of exploring Christian dynamic in campus life and college teaching. His scholarship was developed through attendance at universities here and abroad. He has served as a teacher of philosophy and religion in six universities and colleges before his affiliation with the Pacific School of Religion in 1949. In 1952 he

The establishment of a permanent forum by Bishop Tippett of the San Francisco Area of the Methodist Church for the consideration of religious motivation through higher education has come at a time when the Faculty Christian Fellowship is an emerging movement in American colleges and universities. The lectures are intended to provide a focal point in the West for college teachers who seek such fellowship in professional service and who have a concern for spiritual values to students in the pursuit of higher education in all areas of study.

Bishop Tippett, nationally noted church administrator, has long demonstrated his belief in the vital place of church-related higher education. He not only serves as a trustee of the College of the Pacific but of the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley and the Iliff School of Theology in Denver.

NATIONAL HONORS FOR PACIFIC MAN

KEEPING UP with the ALUMNI

Vicarious honor came to the College of the Pacific when alumnus Richard Foote Pedersen '46, former Stockton man and now of New York City, was named among the ten outstanding young men of the nation by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce in its annual recognition of men between the ages of 21 and 35. The citation event was staged January 19 in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

This is the second such honor to be accorded a Pacific graduate. A former recipient is L. Eugene Root '32, veteran air research and development expert, and now a company vice-president and general manager of the Sunnyvale Missile System Division of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

Mr. Pedersen, who is 31, was the first graduate of Pacific with a major in international relations. He was the only member of his class to receive his degree with highest academic honors. Now a Department of State foreign service officer, he currently is working in political and security affairs of the United States Mission to the United Nations.

While at Pacific he was an outstanding debater. Teamed with Manuel Furtado he won the annual Pi Kappa Delta regional tournament championship of 1946 in Los Angeles. Pederson earned a masters degree in 1947 at Stanford University and was granted his doctoral degree in 1950 by Harvard University.

Since obtaining his doctorate, Pedersen has been assigned to posts in Washington, D.C., New York, and Geneva, Switzerland. In 1952 he took time to make a YMCA goodwill tour to India as a delegate to the Third

C.O.P. SCHOOL OF PHARMACY SERVES THE PROFESSION

The Pacific School of Pharmacy concluded in February a series of eight in-service training programs on the campus for pharmacists of the Central Valley area. More than sixty attended the sessions, directed by C. C. Riedesel, associate professor of physiology and pharmacology.

Individual meetings were headed by Riedesel, Dean Ivan W. Rowland, and Emmons E. Roscoe, associate professor of pharmacology and physiology, plus two guest speakers representing the pharmaceutical industry. They are David Stiles of North Chicago, director of market development for the Abbott Laboratories, and Byrne Dickerson of Sacramento, divisional manager for Eli Lilly and Company.

A similar series of in-service seminars was begun February 11 in Sacramento for pharmacists of the north valley area and a third sequence is planned for Fresno later in the spring.

World Conference of Christian Youth. He is active on the national board and the national public affairs committee of the YMCA.

His work in the mission to the U.N. includes drafting of resolutions and speeches, advice on policy and tactics, and assistance in negotiations. Important items in which he has been U.S. primary delegation adviser in the U.N. include questions of forced labor in Russia, Communist China, and the satellite countries; permanent sovereignty over natural wealth resources, and the question of U.N. assistance to European refugees fleeing Communist-dominated countries.

Since last June Pedersen has been adviser in political and security affairs to U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. Previously he was adviser on economic and social affairs of the United States Mission and foreign officer for the office of the U.N. in economic and social affairs, for the Department of State. He also devotes much time to speaking to church, young adult and high school groups.

During World War II Pedersen served as an enlisted man in the European theatre with the 44th Infantry Division, from 1944 to 1945.

He is affiliated with the Riverside Church, New York; the Wider Quaker Fellowship and Pi Kappa Delta, Phi Rho Pi, Pi Gamma Mu and Pi Gamma Sigma, college professional societies. His wife is the former Nelda Newell Napier of Detroit. They have an 11-month old daughter, Paige Elizabeth.

Pedersen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pedersen, live at 922 North Orange, Stockton. The senior Pedersen was formerly general secretary for the Stockton YMCA and recently returned to Stockton after serving three years as Y executive in Las Vegas. Mrs. Pedersen senior received special honors in 1948 when she was named American Mother of the Year for the State of California.

BRADLEY COZZENS, assistant chief electrical engineer of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, was quoted at length in the February 15 nationally syndicated column, Capital Bright Sides. He explained to investigating senators ancient boosting oil prices what made the oil to light the lamps of Los Angeles get scarce and what to do about it.

Class of '27 Plans Big Reunion

One of the greatest class reunions in alumni annals is in the making for homecoming, 1957, when the 30-year class of 1927 will roundup on the campus.

Promotion is already underway. Marlitt Stark of San Jose, class secretary and immediate past president of the Pacific Alumni Association, reports that 50 of the 86 members of the class returned in 1953 for the 25th reunion of the group, the last class which reaches back to San Jose campus days where most of this group were freshmen. Some, however, completed their frosh year with an advance section which held classes in the Stockton Record building under direction of Dr. G. A. "Ole" Werner. An

DORIS (CARPENTER) MARION played the leading role of Evalina in the Palo Alto community players presentation of "Bloomer Girl," in December. Doris is a two-season veteran of chorus work in the San Francisco opera company and is currently soloist for the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, in Palo Alto. She holds a degree in music from Pacific where she sang several leading roles in student productions.

ROBERT NICHOLS, son of Mrs. Ray Nichols of 4523 Oak Hill Road, Oakland, and another of Pacific Theatre's drama students who has made good in the professional world, has currently been seen on the screen in the role of Pinky in the big Edna Ferber film, "Giant." He also is seen in many of the Medic television productions.

"Nickie" as he was known at Pacific, starred in theatre productions under DeMarcus Brown's tutelage. He was a member of Omega Phi Alpha. After two years here he left in 1947 to spend 20 months in Europe, one year under G. I. training at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London. He appeared on the London stage and became a member of the Players Theatre. He had triple characterizations roles in the motion picture "I Was a Male War Bride" filmed in Germany and London.

HAROLD PETERSON, seventh and eighth grade teacher in Washington School, Alameda, has declared his even better response is the goal of this highly active class for their 30th reunion.

To make this possible, Stark is trying to locate fifteen members for whom no current address is in the files. Any information about the following should be addressed to him at 935 Louise Street, San Jose.

The missing members are: Mrs. Auril Baker Wood, Mrs. Cornelia Ball Quirey, Gladys Bennyhoff, Alice Bunting, Ethel Campbell, Phillip H. Farwell, Daniel K. Hur, Yagaro Kinoshita, Mrs. Lurline Kratzer Tennant, Mrs. Irma Murry Brizard, Mrs. Vesta Raynsford Chastain, Mrs. Nellie Utt Miller, Mrs. Gene Stoutmeyer Waggoner, Mrs. Sussanne Chen Yao Wang, Mrs. Marcella White Wainwright.

RONALD W. PEARCE, serving a nine-month internship in public affairs with the Coro Foundation, was one of five Coro scholarship award winners who presented their findings after a five-week study of Atomic Development in the Bay Area before a panel of city and state officials, business and management leaders and the press in the Bay Area. He is the son of Barthol W. Pearce, '28, former Executive Manager of the Pacific Alumni Association and first director of the Food Processor's Foundation at Pacific. He now is director of Lakewood Memorial Park in Stanislaus County.

With The Alumni Clubs

LOS ANGELES

The greater Los Angeles area Pacific alumni clubs have announced a big roundup at Knott's Berry Farm, Buena Park, on Saturday, March 30. The Santa Ana Club, headed by Mrs. Frances Wolfram '47, will be host to the Pasadena and Hollywood sections and all other alumni in the region that can be assembled for the big reunion.

Pacific President Robert E. Burns will journey south for this monumental occasion along with Alumni Executive Manager Mel Nickerson. The plans stemmed from a planning session held February 9 in the Santa Ana home of Mary and Warren Rogers. Advance information on the gala Pacific party is available by writing or calling Mrs. Wolfram at 433 Crest Road, Orange.

MONTEREY BAY AREA

Dr. Malcolm Eiselen will be the principal speaker at a Monterey Alumni gathering in early April. President Marcus Williams and his committee are drawing up plans for an Alumni program to be held at the time of the A Cappella Choir presentation in Monterey on April 5. For reservation information call president Marcus Williams in Salinas or Dr. Fred Farley, vice-president, in Carmel.

MORE LIFE MEMBERS

A list of "all" Life Members of the Pacific Alumni Association published in the December issue did not include the following. Other corrections and additions will be printed, as available.

CONTRA COAST COUNTY

The El Rio Hotel in Antioch was the site of an Alumni get-together on February 16th. President Burns gave the principal address to the newly created chapter and Jack Myers presented the athletic picture of the College. Mrs. Doris Loveridge is planning an open house later this spring for prospective students in cooperation with the College Admissions Office. Current plans are to have an informal gathering of current and recent Pacific students of the area with high school seniors who express interest in attending College of the Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco Alumni met at John McMillen's Hotel Gaylord in San Francisco on January 4th to renew acquaintances. President Burns gave the principal speech of the evening and was introduced by Chancellor Knoles who was in San Francisco to give his "New Year's Address to the Commonwealth Club." The club has not elected officers but the following people were instrumental in making the dinner a success: Jeanne and "Mo" Hess, Enid and Doug Scovil and Rev. Fred Busher. More than fifty attended the nicely staged banquet reunion.

by CARROLL R. DOTY
ATHLETIC NEWS DIRECTOR

December's optimism, January's determination to come back strong and February's dejection over an unsuccessful season just about wrap up the basketball picture for this year.

Rated a contender for the California Basketball Association title in the pre-season, the Tigers managed but two wins in their first 10 conference games and were battling to stay out of the cellar.

To the question, "What happened?", there might be an answer in these comparative statistics.

Last year John Thomas averaged 18.5 points per game and 12.5 rebounds. This year he's averaged 14.8 points and 10.9 rebounds.

Last year Davis averaged 15.3 points per game and 10.9 rebounds. This year he's averaged 12.5 points and 8.9 rebounds.

Even more important, Thomas and Davis aren't getting off as many shots. Last year John took 17 a game and Dave 15. This year John's taken 13 and Dave 13, an average of six fewer shots per contest.

From the team standpoint, last year the Tigers averaged six more rebounds per game than their opponents. This year the margin is two.

When you figure that six of Pacific's CBA losses were by a margin of 11 points or fewer—and four of them by six points or fewer—those comparative statistics take on added meaning.

Also, last year Thomas scored 20 points or more eight times and was held below 10 just once. Davis also tallied 20 or more points eight times and was in the double figures 18 times. This year—with four games left as this is written—Thomas has gone over 20 points only six times while being held below 10 points six times. Davis has gone over 20 points just twice and been held below 10 six times.

Last season the other three starters averaged 14.6 points per game between them while this year Ken Flaig, Dave Klurman and Bill Embry are putting in 24.7 points between them on the average.

It would seem, then, that a cooling off in scoring by the Big Two, Thomas and Davis, has been one of the largest contributors to the cooling off of the Tigers.

The question then is, why? A much poorer defense on the part of Pacific is one reason. Last year opponents shot for a 37 per cent average from the floor. This year they're hitting at a 41 per cent clip. And with points coming easier for the opponents, they have more time to put the pressure on Pacific's big guns.

Last year the Tigers started slowly and were 6-9 at one stage. Then Thomas and Davis caught on fire to carry the club to nine wins in its final 11 games, catching most opponents napping at the switch. This year that advantage wasn't there. Every team Pacific's faced has been gunning for John and Dave, knowing they had to cut their point production to win.

FOOTBALL IN THE SPRING

Returning veteran College of the Pacific football players will be joined by 28 new Tigers when the football season opens next, according to Athletic Director and Head Coach Jack Myers

Nine are junior college transfers, four from Stockton College's Big Eight championship team. They are:

SHORTSTOP REYNOSA

Members of the unbeaten 1956 freshman team moving up are: Ends Ola Murchison of Forest Hill, John Simmons of Sacramento and Bill Fowler of San Jose; Tackle Larry Jones of Turlock; Guards Ed Wallace of San Francisco, Steve Pessin of Brooklyn, N.Y., Wayne Hawkins of Summit City, Mike King of Woodland and Ron Borcharding of Rivera; Center Stan Burns of Salinas; Quarterbacks Gary Hubb of Los Angeles and Jack Bowman of San Francisco; Halfbacks Henry Wallace of Long Beach, Wayne Thush of San Jose and Norman Bass of Vallejo, and Fullback Ed Swartz of San Jose.

The other three are Harlan Payton, a 200-pound guard who sat out the year's transfer rule from Chico State last fall, and Fullback Chuck Haggard and End Ed Sowash, who are re-entering school after missing one semester.

WOMAN'S WORLD

STEPHANIE CHASE is thought to be the first girl sports editor in the 106-year history of Pacific. She will serve on the Pacific Weekly staff during the spring semester and hopes to develop increased interest in the baseball team which she feels has been sadly neglected. Stephanie is a speech major from Sacramento and plans to make writing her vocation intending to pursue newspaper work. Stephanie rated a special news story and picture in a winter number of the Sacramento Union.

VISITING PROFESSOR:

Dr. Adelbert Diefendorf and Professor Gordon L. Harrison will stage an Open House at Pacific's new Engineering Department quarters, March 29 and 30.

A leading American engineer, whose work has carried him to Cuba, Mexico, and Guatemala, is teaching in the College of the Pacific engineering department during the spring semester.

He is Dr. Adelbert Diefendorf, recently retired head of the department of engineering at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City. Dr. Diefendorf has taken over the classes of Dr. Felix Wallace, chairman of the C.O.P. department, who is engaged in a special research program in structural analysis, his major field, at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Wallace plans to return here by summer or early fall. Meanwhile, Gordon L. Harrison, associate professor of engineering, is acting chairman of the department.

Dr. Diefendorf has long years of experience in both the practical and pedagogical fields of engineering. He received his B.S. and C.E. degrees at Ohio Northern University and his Doctor of Science degree at the University of San Carlos, Guatemala.

His teaching experience includes such schools as the University of Illinois, South Dakota School of Mines, University of New Mexico, and the University of Pittsburgh.

In addition, Dr. Diefendorf has been chairman of the Utah State Board of Registered Professional Engineers. He also has served on the constitution committee of the National Board of Engineer Examiners, and as president of the Intermountain Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Dr. William Wellington Norton, director of Pacific's Church and Community Music project, was dubbed "Mr. Messiah" in Merced this winter after conducting the Tri-County Choral and Orchestra association in the second of a series of three performances of the great Handel oratorio, "The Messiah."

Appointed to his project under the Lowell W. Berry Foundation, Dr. Norton's calendar for the current college year calls for the direction and conducting of 22 festival performances in as many California cities.

Dr. Dwayne Orton, educational consultant for the International Business Machines Corporation, editor of Think magazine, and a former Pacific teacher and dean, has recently been elected President of the Council for International Progress in Management.

Dr. Orton was a director for six years and chairman of the council's overseas committee. He was a delegate to the International management Congress in Brazil in 1954 and this year will represent the United States in a similar meeting in Paris.

Dr. Orton returned to Pacific as the 98th commencement speaker in June, 1955. It was in 1929 that he first joined the speech department at C.O.P., soon becoming its chairman. In 1933 he was named director of the newly established junior college unit, a year later becoming Dean of the general college. In 1936 Orton was named first president of the newly instituted Stockton Junior College. He is the recipient of the 1954 and 1955 George Washington Honor Medals from the Freedom Foundation for outstanding editorship and achievements. He holds honorary degrees from University of Redlands, Tusculum College, St. Lawrence University, and Clarkson College of Technology.

Roy E. Learned, associate professor of education and director of elementary education since 1953, is spending the second semester of the school year in an intensive study of institutions where experiments in elementary teacher education are outstanding or unusual. His observations are being made chiefly in the radii of Baltimore, New York City, and Nashville. Mr. Learned will also attend a National Superintendents Association meet to be held in St. Louis, and the Department of Elementary School Principals conference in Cincinnati.

Dr. Howard Runion, chairman of the speech department, on a sabbatical leave, is spending the current term at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor where he is teaching classes in speech and working in the department of audiology at the university hospital and clinic. He planned special study in the causes, treatment and cures of aphasia.

Warren D. Allen, dean of the Conservatory of Music at Pacific from 1913 to 1919 in its San Jose years, has been honored by Florida State University with the naming of its music library for him. He was a member of the music faculty at Florida State from 1949 until his retirement this past year.

Dean Allen left Pacific to head the music division of Stanford University and to serve as organist of its famous chapel, a position he held for 27 years. He is now living in Seattle.

Dr. Paul Arthur Schlipp, for 11 years head of the department of philosophy at Pacific, beginning in 1923, and now an internationally known figure as the senior professor in the philosophy department of Northwestern University, was honored at a surprise sixtieth birthday dinner February 6 at North Park Hotel, Chicago, accorded him as a tribute to an academician.

Colleagues, former students and friends presented him with a leather bound collection of letters and essays, many in appreciation, others commenting or elaborating on his philosophic creeds.

The contributions may be published under the caption, "Dear Professor." Dr. Schlipp is renowned as editor of The Library of Living Philosophers. He knows personally, and has visited and conferred with every one of the greatest living philosophers of the twentieth century.

In 1954 he returned to Pacific to deliver the sixth annual Tully Cleon Knoles Lecture in Philosophy. While on the Pacific faculty Dr. Schlipp was responsible for bringing outstanding guest lecturers and began the first C.O.P. publications in philosophy.

Donald S. Bibbero, assistant professor of business administration, was among the speakers last month at the second annual sales training clinic held in Sacramento at El Camino High School in conjunction with the Greater North Area Chamber of Commerce. His topic was Why Customers Buy. General theme was How To Meet Customers Buying Needs.

Mrs. Irving Goleman, assistant professor of sociology and consultant in psychiatric social work, has been appointed to a vice-presidency on the Stockton Community Council. The council is composed of 98 organizations and agencies interested in problems of health, welfare, recreation and the like.

Dr. Wilfred M. Mitchell, professor of clinical psychology, has been named to the West Coast Advisory Council of the Experiment in International Living. Dr. Mitchell attended the regional meeting of the national educational institution in San Francisco early in January, which marked the 25th anniversary of the international program. A few C.O.P. students have enrolled in the experiment in the past, according to Mitchell, and he hopes to arrange for others to study abroad while living in the homes of foreign families. The experiment works in cooperation with the U.S. Department student exchange program.

Dean J. Russell Bodley of the Pacific Conservatory discussed relationships between the organist and the minister at a recent meeting of the Central California Chapter American Guild of Organists. Special guests included church organists and ministers of Stockton and Lodi.

Allan Bacon, retired organ professor of C.O.P., was honored in observance of his 32nd year as a member of the chapter.

Arthur Holton, assistant professor of music theory, director of the Stockton Chorale, the College Oratorio chorus and the choir of the Central Methodist Church, left February 1 with Mrs. Holton and family for Southern California. Mr. Holton will spend a semester leave studying for his doctor of education degree at the University of California at Los Angeles. He also is serving as acting minister of music at the Westwood Community Methodist Church. The Holtons are both members of Pacific Alumni class of '47.

Dr. George Ingebo, associate professor of education and psychology, was named to the nominating committee of the newly organized Sacramento Area Personnel and Guidance Association, composed of school administrators and personnel consultants. Purpose of the new group, which will seek membership in state and national groups, will be to coordinate the development of personnel guidance in schools, business firms and public agencies.

Dr. Ivan W. Rowland, dean of the school of pharmacy, addressed the San Francisco Women's Auxiliary to the California Pharmaceutical Association at its January meeting.

Dr. Clair Olson, professor of English, has been named one of the judges by the San Francisco Browning Society of its annual prize contest for a poem in the dramatic monolog form developed by Robert Browning. Deadline for entries is March 27. Entry is limited to residents of the nine Bay Area counties. Dr. Olson also is a member of the Literary Awards Jury of the Commonwealth Club of California.

Among speakers at the mid-winter seminar held by the Choral Conductors Guild of California the last of January in San Francisco were Dr. Charles Schilling, professor of organ and choral music, and Arthur Holton, oratorio director. The seminar was held in the northern part of the state for the first time in its history. The Northern California Choral Conductor's Guild was the host.

Dr. Alonzo L. Baker, professor of political science and international relation, has a regular weekly TV program now Sunday afternoons from 3:30 to 4:00 o'clock on Station KCRA, Channel 3, Sacramento. The show is titled, No Man Is An Island and deals with international issues. Dr. Baker also has 5-day a week news commentary on radio station KTUR, Turlock at 6:45 p.m.

Dr. Frank Lindhorst, director of Christian community administration and professor of religious education, has been elected for the third successive year to chairmanship of the Department of Christian Education for the State Council of Churches.

HONOR SOCIETY INITIATES

Pacific chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholarship fraternity, initiated nine seniors and three juniors at mid-January ceremonies. Seniors must be among the upper 12½ per cent in scholarship rating, while juniors must be among the upper ten per cent.

The new members are as follows: Seniors, John Corson, Modesto; Mrs. Barbara Cutler, Orinda; Stan Daniel, Merced; Mrs. Edna Dyke and Ruby Kim, Stockton; Clarence Irving, New Orleans; Patty Lou Lloyd, Richmond, Dora Maupin, Yuba City; and Susan VanderLaan, Ripon.

Juniors: William Bristow and Alberta Fedler, Stockton; and Mrs. Janice Krahenbuhl, Los Molinas.

Mom and Dad Were Tigers Too

ELIZABETH PATTON: Is carrying on a tradition of three generations. A freshman, she plans to major in religious education and become a director in that field. She is a member of Chi Rho and the Chapel Choir.

Returning to Mother's and Dad's Alma Mater holds true with at least 50 of the more than 1264 full-time students enrolled at College of the Pacific this year. Of this second generation group sixteen have parents who both attended C.O.P. back in the twenties and early thirties, the pioneers of the Stockton campus.

Sixteen others have mothers who spent college days here while 17 are walking in their father's footsteps. William Mendenhall, senior pre-ministerial student from Hickman, Stanislaus County, claims a third generation heritage, his great-grandfather, Sylvester Mendenhall, having been a student at Pacific in its San Jose campus days.

Elizabeth Patton, freshman from 1238 Minnesota, San Jose, is carrying on the family tradition of three generations on the maternal side of her family. Not only did her mother attend Pacific, but her grandparents, an aunt and uncle and a great-aunt.

Elizabeth's mother, Mrs. Barret H. Patton, was the former Edith Gilman '23. A member of Alpha Theta Tau, she went into the teaching profession. At present she teaches at the James McKinnon School for the Mentally Retarded in San Jose. Elizabeth's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George David Gilman, were both members of the class of '94. Her grandmother, the former May Bell, deceased in 1936, also belonged to Alpha Theta Tau. Mr. Gilman, who resides at 140 Valley View Drive, San Jose, was a member of the Pacific Board of Trustees for more than 20 years, serving prior to 1920 through 1943. He was on the board when the monumental decision to move the College to Stockton was made.

An aunt and an uncle, Maude and Ralph Gilman, were graduated in '16 and '25 respectively. Miss Gilman, who lives at 2079 Scott Street, San Jose, is a supervisor with the San Jose City School department. Ralph, who is married and lives in Los Gatos, is a banker with the American Trust Company in San Jose.

Mrs. Grace Gilman-Hobson, a great-aunt, and another Alpha Theta Tau member, attended Pacific from 1893-1895. She is living at the Odd Fellows Home in Saratoga.

PROMISED

IRMA MAY HARPPER '53, former drama student from Exeter, and now with the National Broadcasting Company in Hollywood, and Loyd Enos Brown of Strathmore will recite marriage vows in June. Residence will be made in Fresno where Brown is employed by the San Joaquin Valley Irrigation District and where he is continuing his studies at Fresno State College toward a chemical engineering degree. Four years and ten months of his nearly nine years in the army were spent as a prisoner of war, after which he was hospitalized for nearly a year. Miss Harpper works as an actress and as a model on the Queen for a Day television show.

ALFRED R. ALSTRAN '54, and Marilyn Mortimer, both of Berkeley, are planning a spring wedding. Alstran was a member of Alpha Kappa Phi.

MARGARET GERST '55, of Alameda, and Earl Packard Anderson, graduate of the University of Utah, plan a March wedding. At Pacific Margaret belonged to Alpha Theta Tau. She is now employed as an airline stewardess flying out of Washington, D.C.

MARY MACRITCHIE '55 of Alpha Theta Tau, announced her engagement in January to Pacific senior Clyde Raymond Conner, former varsity basketball player and professional football star with the San Francisco 49ers. A former Omega Phi Girl, the bride-to-be is employed as a probation officer at the San Joaquin County Probation office. Mr. Conner was affiliated with Omega Phi Alpha and the Block P society. He took time out to play a season with the 49ers, emerging as one of the outstanding rookies of the year in the National Football League. He returned to Pacific this spring to complete work for his degree in physical education.

HOWARD D. BUCKNER '55, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Hartzell Buckner of Chico, and Becky Lane, senior and education major at Reedley College, have announced future plans together. Buckner spent two years in army service in Korea and for the past two years has been employed as music instructor at Reedley High School.

BARBARA WEBBER '56 and LEWIS WOODWORTH STEWART '56, plan an early summer wedding in Morris Chapel. Miss Webber was president of Epsilon Lambda Sigma while at Pacific. She now teaches in Modesto. Stewart, whose home is in Yuba City, was 1955-1956 editor of the Pacific Weekly and a member of Alpha Kappa Phi. He is employed by the Roseville Press Tribune.

JENEAN FRANE '55 of Alameda and Carl Horstman, young businessman of Stockton, recently announced their engagement. The bride-to-be also had one year of graduate work at Pacific. She now holds a position in the Sacramento school system. She was a member of Tau Kappa Kappa.

WALTER JEFFORD, JR. '50 is engaged to Georgia Krabel of Ojai. The date of the wedding will be June 8. Walter is employed with the Shell Chemical corporation in Ventura.

THOMAS MACKENZIE '56 of Galt and MARCIA LOU BROWN '50 plan a June 9 wedding in Morris Chapel. Miss Brown, daughter of Pacific Theatre Director DeMarcus Brown and Mrs. Brown, is teaching public speaking at the new St. Mary's High School in Stockton and also conducts a private studio of drama. Her fiancé is teaching in Colonial Heights. The couple, who have lived within a few miles of each other most of their lives, did not meet until 1955 against the romantic backdrop of Paris during a summer tour.

DONALD OLSON '56, a music major, and Christine Ford, both of Madera, announced their betrothal during the Christmas holidays. Olson is now teaching music in Lancaster.

JANE FISCHBECK '56 and Bruno F. Malchow, both of Sonoma, have announced plans for an early summer wedding. Miss Fischbeck is presently teaching home economics at Del Norte County High School. Her fiancé is attending San Jose State College.

RUTH BARBARA DOW '56 and Maynard Bostwick '57 announced plans in January for a July wedding. While at Pacific Miss Dow served as president of Epsilon Lambda Sigma sorority and of Panhellenic. She was on the student council and is listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." She was named outstanding senior woman by the American Association of University Women. Bostwick, whose father is dean of students at Trinity College, San Antonio, is vice-president of the Pacific Student Association and a member of Blue Key. He is affiliated with Archania.

CHARLES (MICKEY) HOFFMAN '56 and Marilyn Harris, both of San Mateo, announced their betrothal at a January dinner party.

EDLE HANSEN and DONALD CORNELL '57, business administration major, have disclosed plans for a June wedding. Miss Hansen is teaching in Stockton while Cornell is stationed with the U.S. Army at Camp Hanford, Washington.

Wedding Bells

DUANE P. VANCE '43 and Jean Audre Madsen exchanged wedding vows during a December afternoon ceremony in the First Methodist Church of Butte, Montana. Jean is a former teacher at Broadway School in San Jose while Duane is employed as traffic and passenger agent for Southern Pacific Co. in Butte. They are at home at 43 E. Broadway, Apartment J., Butte, Montana.

LT. JOSEPH C. HINMAN, JR. '50 and his bride Barbara Jean Blaue '51 have just returned from a wedding trip through Oregon and Washington. They were married in Sacramento last November. Barbara majored in speech at Pacific and was speech therapist in the Sacramento school system. The Hinmans plan to make a career of the Air Force.

GAIL HOUSMAN '53 married Rodney E. Titus, a graduate of Southern Methodist University, in December rites. Gail has been employed as a speech therapist at El Monte School for cerebral palsy children in El Monte.

The newlyweds have made their home at 128 Laurel in San Carlos.

MARJORIE JEAN WILLIAMS '53 and George Emerson Rusch were January justweds at a quite ceremony in Santa Clara. The bride, who was a graduate of Berkeley High School, and member of Alpha Theta Tau at Pacific, is employed by the Santa Clara County Board of Education. Her husband, an army veteran, is a senior education major at San Jose State College.

MARY LOUISE CONRAD '54 of Corning and formerly of El Camino, and the Rev. Lewis Wakefield of Half-Day, Illinois, were married New Years Day. The bride has been a student at the University of Chicago Seminary for the past year and a half. On graduation from Pacific she received a Danforth scholarship which provided a year of counseling work at Western State College in Kalamazoo, Michigan. Her husband is pastor of the Congregational Church in Half-Day.

ERNESTINE ANN STAFFORD '54 of Escondido and Thomas Griswold of Williamstown, Massachusetts, were married at a holiday ceremony in Escondido. The bride spent several years at Pacific before studying two years at the School of Music at Yale University, returning last summer to complete work for her degree. Mr. Griswold, a graduate of the Yale School of Music, is a music instructor at Williams College in Williamstown, where they are making their home. Miss Elizabeth Spelts, soprano, of the Pacific Conservatory faculty, accompanied by Miss Shirley Turner, sang at the wedding.

ELDON KIDD '54 of Modesto and Elaine Hansten of Concord were married in November with rites in St. Clements Church in Berkeley. Their home has been established in Modesto. It is remembered with interest that at the commencement ceremonies when Eldon received his baccalaureate degree his mother, Mrs. P. D. Rayfield (Mrs. Alma C. Kidd '54), a long time Modesto teacher, received her master of arts degree.

BEVERLY LOUISE NASTICH '56 of Ione became the bride of David E. Wik, Jr., of Menlo Park at ceremonies solemnized at Central Methodist Church, Stockton. The bride was an Alpha Theta Tau member and has been teaching third grade at Oliver Hartzell School in San Rafael. Mr. Wik, a graduate of San Jose State and an army veteran, is assistant sports editor of the Palo Alto Times.

MARVIN DAVID HENCH, JR. '57 and Laverna Tweed of Walnut Creek and an University of California sophomore, married in January, are now residents of Manor Hall. HENCH and his twin brother, Thomas, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin David HENCH of Walnut Creek, are business administration majors. Tom is engaged to Pacific student Sharon Ray Black of Santa Ana. They plan an August wedding.

BARBARA R. BAIN and GEORGE MASON HUGHES '57 were married in a December ceremony in Morris Chapel. The bride, whose home was in Wasco, is majoring in elementary education. The benedict, from Lodi, is a science major.

DENNIS O'BRIEN '57 of Oakland, business education major who will graduate in June, recited marriage vows January 23 at Church of the Annunciation in Stockton with Gail Isabel Gomes, Stockton girl who is a junior student nurse at San Joaquin General Hospital. Dennis is an Omega Phi Alpha member.

LEE H. TONNER '57 was married to Carol Hughlett of Cincinnati, Ohio, in September. The bridegroom is working for a music therapy degree at Pacific.

DAVID TE SELLE '57 exchanged marriage vows with Elizabeth Panzer during a Christmas Day ceremony in First Methodist Church of Sacramento. The bride is a graduate of San Francisco State College. Best man for the ceremony was the bridegroom's twin brother John Te Selle, also of the class of 1957.

JANET CAROLINE FINK '57 of Lodi and Dean Norman Robinson, who were married in Lodi in December are now making their first home at Fort Lewis, Washington, where the benedict is stationed with the U.S. Army. The bride, who received her degree and teaching credential in February, has recently joined her husband there. He received his commission as second lieutenant upon graduation from the University of Santa Clara.

Pacific Advents

LOREN and LOUANA DAHL '42 are the proud parents of a seven pound baby boy born November 21. Walter Ray joins sister Candy, 2 years. The family make their home at 1437 El Nido Way, Sacramento 25.

JOE HODSON '50 and Mrs. Ollie Hodson have announced an addition to the family: a son, Gregory, born August 22. He was met by Linda, 3 years, and Geoffrey, 4½, at 320 W. Walnut Street in Stockton.

BOB and BETTY HODSON '50 presented two year old Jacqueline with a sister, Nancy, in September. The Hodsons reside at 3689 S. Court, Palo Alto.

ADAH MARIE RUHL MILLER-BLAUD '51 and HENRY BLAUD, a graduate student '55 of Inverness are announcing the birth of their second daughter, Danielle Jeanne, born January 20. Denise is 15 months old. David Miller, Adah Marie's son by a former marriage to Al Miller, (deceased member of the class of '40) celebrated his 14th birthday February 11 by launching his 11-foot sailing dinghy, a gift which he diligently refinished himself.

Spc./3. ARDEN FAREY '55 and GWEN (COMFORT) '56, welcomed their first born on December 22 in Frankfort, Germany—a girl, Krista Claire. She expects to see the Statue of Liberty for the first time late in April when the family returns to the USA after nearly a year in Germany, courtesy of the U.S. Army. Arden is attached to the Headquarters and Service Company of the 23rd Army Engineers Battalion in the Third Armored Division.

EDWARD (BUZZ) H. KAHN '53, and Mrs. Kahn of 6803 Glen Mawr, El Cerrito, are the parents of a second child, Steven Allen. "Buzz" was a member of Omega Phi.

A daughter, Eileen Janet, was born February 5 to Rochelle and BOB STERES '53. They are temporarily living in Columbia, Missouri, where Bob is attending the graduate school at the University of Missouri.

IN MEMORY

Mrs. Mary Gibbons Cooper, thought to have been the oldest living alumna of the College of the Pacific, died September 29, 1956, in Hayward just a few weeks before her 100th birthday date—December 8.

She was the daughter of Dr. A. S. Gibbons, who served as Pacific's fourth president from 1857 to 1859 and again as its seventh president from 1872 to 1877.

During the early 1880's Mrs. Cooper, then known as May Gibbons to the college community, with a degree of master of arts, was teacher of voice in Napa Collegiate Institute. She held important musical positions in eastern institutions and was also known as a writer of verse. Following her retirement she lived many years in Pacific Grove and in Monterey.

Friends of Dr. and Mrs. Harold S. Jacoby, presently in Yamaguchi, Japan, have established a memorial fund in honor of the couple's 13-year old son, Peter, who died there late in January of a cerebral hemorrhage. Contributions are being received at the office of President Robert E. Burns and by the Rev. George D. Goodwin, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Stockton.

A Pacific alumnus of the class of 1928 and now chairman of the Pacific department of sociology, Dr. Jacoby is on a leave of absence for a year, teaching in Yamaguchi University.

Besides his parents, Peter is survived by two brothers, Jonathan, 15, and Stewart, 9; his paternal grandparents, O. D. Jacoby, a long time member of the board of trustees of Pacific, and Mrs. Jacoby of Oakland; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Florence Dunkerly of Pasadena.

Tragedy struck Dean Lloyd Bertholf's family February 10 with the death of his father, Albert L. Bertholf, 85, at his home in Spivey, Kansas. The senior Bertholf was burning trash in his yard when his clothing caught fire and he was fatally burned, passing away a few hours later at the Kingman hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Bertholf left immediately for Kansas, funeral rites being held the following Tuesday. Dr. Bertholf's mother also survives.

Mrs. George F. Krickeberg, 85, a lifelong resident of Santa Clara and granddaughter of the Rev. Isaac Owen, one of the founders of the College of the Pacific, died February 6. She is survived by two sons, Adolph and Leo B. Robinson of Redding; a brother, Cornelius McHugh of San Jose; and four grandchildren.

The Rev. Owen was sent out in 1948 by the General Conference of the Methodist Church and the Board of Missions to California to meet the challenge of the discovery of gold. He arrived overland in 1849 from Indiana, a determined, energetic, forceful, dedicated man with broad plans for founding Methodism in California and establishing a university. His money-raising ability was of the greatest. Coupled with his ardor for education he headed the first subscription list for the college, and was instrumental in purchasing the first site in Santa Clara and in obtaining the first charter to be issued for a college in the state. It was in Owen's home in Santa Clara where leaders met to discuss and formulate plans for the college, the town where Mrs. Krickeberg lived and died.

WINIFRED DICKSON '29, wife of H. A. Dickson, State Board of Equalization official, passed away in November at her home in Sacramento after a long illness. She had resided in Sacramento since 1946. Her mother was the former Florence Carpenter of a pioneer Martinez family. Besides her husband, she leaves a sister, Janice Baker of Singapore, two grandchildren, and four aunts.

W. CLARKE BRIGGS '33, died January 9 at his home in Modesto after a long illness. He was a member of the Fred Seely Automobile Company of Modesto for the past ten years. Born and reared in Stockton, he was the son of Attorney and Mrs. Hubert G. Briggs. Besides his parents Mr. Briggs is survived by his wife, Geraldine, and a son and daughter, William Clarke, Jr. and Janice Lynn, all of Modesto. Four brothers also remain, three of whom are Pacific alumni. They are Edward Hubert, Hamilton '41, associated with his father in law and a member of the Alumni Council; Robert Owen '48, English instructor at Stockton College; and Richard '51, co-owner of the Alley Shop in Stockton.

STUDENTS GO HUNGRY FOR HUNGARIANS

Pacific students raised a total of $398 for the aid of Hungarian students through a sacrifice meal in December. The undergraduates, who dined on a skimpy menu of rice and vegetables soup with no seconds, were to contribute the difference between the diet fare and a regular meal.

Stan Daniel of Merced, student affairs commissioner, headed a student group which met informally at the Anderson Y with Director Thomas Clagett to evolve a plan for refugee aid. They got a 100 per cent response to the idea, all living groups cooperating during the campus dinner hour. "This is a really spontaneous movement among the Pacific students. And as for the meal, it's better than two thirds of the people in the world will have the same day," said Daniel.

Other aid plans, probably including a clothing drive, will be instituted later. These efforts are in addition to regular annual campus campaigns for student relief funds distributed through the World University Service.

BODLEY SCHOLARSHIP FUND

A free will offering at the December performance of Handel's Messiah held in the Civic Memorial Auditorium netted $400 for the J. Russell Bodley scholarship fund for graduates of Stockton College who enter the C.O.P. Conservatory. Attending Pacific this year on the scholarship, which honors the conservatory's dean, is Joan Robin Locke of 831 W. Euclid, Stockton.

FINE ARTS TOUR IN EUROPE SET

Miss Virginia Short, professor of music at Pacific and at Stockton College, is again planning a music and art tour of Europe for this summer, departure date being July 4. Forty-six days in Europe, including eleven evening performances is on the schedule, and will include the unexcelled Music Festivals of Salzburg and Bayreuth, an evening of music in Vienna, Opera under the stars in Verona and Rome, folk dancing beneath the Alps, ballet in London's Festival Hall, Paris Opera and Folies-Bergere, and evening gondola serenade in Venice.

Optional extensions are planned before the tour to Spain and Portugal

(9 days) and following the tour to the Edinburgh Music Festival (7 days) and/or Scandinavia (11 days).

Backstage visits with the festival stars, European guides provided for sight-seeing, enough leisure time for personal interests, all unite to make the tour under Miss Short's direction and enriching summer.

College credit up to six units, graduate or undergraduate may be earned.

Miss Short lead a group through Europe on the Music and Art Tour in 1955 and has lived abroad for two years. She may be contacted at her home at 410 East Walnut, Stockton.

SILVER LAKE HISTORY PUBLISHED

The Pacific Alumni Association is planning another special Alumni Summer Camp for members and their families during the 1957 season at Silver Lake, the Stockton City Recreation Camp in Amador County. Those planning to attend will benefit by reading the booklet published last year, One Hundred Years at Silver Lake, Amador County, 1848 - 1948 which relates the history and lore of this pioneer country.

The book is the result of research and study by the late Stella Spillner Swenson who submitted her findings as a report in April, 1948, while a student in Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt's Early California History seminar at Pacific in competition for the annual Kirkbride history award. The idea of publishing his wife's report, according to Mr. Bert Swenson, was revived, stimulated and the manuscript edited under the direction of the Silver Lake Campers Association.

Mr. Swenson, recently retired, was for many years associated with the recreation department of the City of Stockton and was closely allied with the development of Silver Lake as a summer camp.

Dates for the 1957 Pacific encampment are July 7 to 13.
