In Memory

Dr. George Colliver Passes

Dr George Harrison Colliver, Chairman and founder of the Pacific Department of Bible and Religious Education, died December 6 at age 68 in his home near the campus, as the result of a "posterior coronary occlusion."

Pacific was his life. After preparatory work in the old Pacific Academy he graduated from the College in 1915 and married his classmate Iva Bell Cooley in their commencement month. Five years later, following his graduation from the Boston University of Theology and two years as a church

A PRESIDENCY FOR BERTHOLF

After a decade of distinguished service to Pacific, Academic Vice-President Dr. Lloyd M. Bertholf will become the President of Illinois Wesleyan University, at Bloomington, Ill., on August 1, 1958.

His election was announced October 22 by the Wesleyan Board. Named Dean of the College in 1947, Dr. Bertholf came to Pacific after a 25 year career at Western Maryland University where he was Dean of the Faculty. He steered Pacific's academic progress through the difficult post-war decade of expansion and complexity. Last spring his title was changed in line with his coordination of the liberal arts curriculum and Pacific's group of professional and graduate schools: School of Music, School of Education, School of Pharmacy, School of Engineering, the American Academy of Asian Studies in San Francisco, and the Division of Graduate Studies.

Dr. Bertholf will long be remembered for his efficiency in academic organization. He also is a notable research biological scientist and is a former national president of Beta Beta Beta, biological fraternity. He has made a signal contribution to the Methodist Church relationship of Pacific, serving as Lay Leader of the California-Nevada Conference, and twice serving—along with President Robert E. Burns—as an official delegate of the Conference to the quadrennial General Conferences of Methodism.

DORMITORY PROGRESS

Ahead of schedule and 50% complete, the big new dormitory-dining hall for 400 Pacific coeds is now expected to be completed by June. A finance campaign sponsored by the Pacific Associates to underwrite all furnishings and equipment is also about 50% complete. About $140,000 more is sought. The million-and-a-half project will lift total campus housing capacity to more than 1000. It will actually provide more new space for boys than girls because the nearly 300-capacity South Hall-West Hall quadrangle will be turned over to boys.

CLASS OF '22 COMES HOME: These 35-year graduates with President Burns as their guest met at homecoming '57. NEW HIGH FOR HOMECOMING

Homecoming '57 on October 19 was the big one to date in the annual sequence of reunions. One thousand "old grads" were estimated to have participated in the various events; rallies, parades, barbecue, fraternity and sorority reunions, class reunions, and the Pacific - Idaho 7-7 football tilt. The class reunions were the most successful ever. At their various dinner affairs the graduates of '22, '27, '32, '37, and '47 gathered in more than 300 loyal alumni.

The class of '27 set the pace in percentage of members with more than half of their degree winners on hand. They also set a target for future anniversary groups to aim at—a class gift for Pacific, in this case $500 to furnish a room in the new dormitory! The concentrated effort of this class over a period of several months if duplicated annually by groups observing round number anniversaries would immensley strengthen the whole Pacific alumni structure.

Students, under the direction of junior Don Landeck of Altadena, staged the annual Pacific Avenue parade, but several living groups were unable to participate. Flu had hit the campus hard during the two weeks before homecoming. The West Memorial Infirmary was jammed, and overflow wards were set up in dormitories. But the parade floats that were completed were among the most spectacular ever.

Without any official consideration, the whole celebration was billed, inaccurately, as the "100th homecoming." The idea stemmed from the fact that in June, 1957, Pacific conducted its 100th commencement exercises, and the theory that some former graduates must have revisited the campus at some time in each of the years that followed. But no organized homecoming so titled was promoted before Pacific got ready to move from San Jose to Stockton in the early 1920's.

THE WINNER: First prize for floats entered by campus living groups went to Omega Phi Alpha's heroic stagecoach with Tommy Tiger in the driver's seat.

BAUN HALL DEDICATED

The newly remodeled and equipped building which houses the Pacific School of Engineering is now officially Baun Hall. With appropriate ceremonies on the afternoon of homecoming, October 19, a handsome bronze nameplate over the entrance was unveiled.

Ted F. Baun, for whom the building is named, is President of the Board of Trustees of Pacific and an engineering graduate of Pacific with the class of 1927.

Speakers for the dedication ceremonies were three Pacific engineering graduates: Henderson McGee, '27, of Sacramento and the U.S. Army Engineers Corps; L. Eugene Root, '32, Vice-President of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation and general manager of its Missiles Systems Division at Sunnyvale; and Stephen Goodman, '49, manager of the Santa Clara County Irrigation District No. 4.

On the "platform" were three former chairman of engineering work at Pacific: Clarence L. White (1921) of San Bruno; Charles W. Gulick (1931) of Stockton; and Dr. Felix A. Wallace (1947) who continues as chairman of the department of civil engineering since the appointment of Dr. Adelbert Diefendorf as Dean of the School.

FINE ARTS ON THE CAMPUS

Pacific Theatre opened its 34th annual season with one of its top achievements, an assertion not to be made casually when it is considered DeMarcus Brown looks back over more than 200 major plays staged for the campus-community audience. Wrote Sacramento Bee arts reviewer William Glackin who covered the special press night preview performance on October 24, "DeMarcus Brown's production of Othello may be his finest hour . . . a distinguished production . . . a compelling performance . . ."

Ted Eliopoulos of San Francisco as Othello, Jim Achterberg of Peoria, Ill., as Iago, and Tricia Beattie of Carmel as Desdemona were the top stars of the piece and will remain among the lists of the finest players developed at Pacific.

In the music field, Horace I. Brown launched his 25th year as director of the Pacific Conservatory Orchestra with the annual fall concert on November 26. For five years a first violinist with Leopold Stokowski's great Philadelphia Symphony, he was appointed to the Pacific faculty in 1933. Brown was a member of John Philip Sousa's World War I U.S. Navy Band which toured the nation to play at Liberty Bond rallies. After the armistice, oboist Brown was selected for a special band that sailed on the U.S. Flagship Pennsylvania to escort President Woodrow Wilson to France. After the war, Brown finished

NEW LECTURESHIP

The first GEORGE H. COLLIVER LECTURESHIP IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION, GROUP WORK, AND RECREATION was conducted December 2 to 4, bringing some 300 participants from throughout northern California to a unique new community service project.

Long envisioned by the founder and chairman of the Pacific Department of Bible and Religious Education, and brought to fruition by his leadership, it was not until the inauguration banquet for the annual program that Pacific President Robert E. Burns announced that the public lectureship will bear the name of Dr. George H. Colliver. Because permanent financing for the annual schedule is far from complete, Dr. Burns made his pronouncement on faith. Four days later Dr. Colliver died.

Intended to serve church school teachers and directors, ministers, leaders of youth organizations and character building agencies, teachers and parents—all who are engaged in the work of Christian education and personality fulfillment—the lectureship presents major addresses, seminars, workshops, exhibits, and demonstrations to inspire and instruct such leadership.

Theme for the first lectureship was the fine arts and their use in character and religious education. Four distinguished national leaders were assembled to head the program: Harold Ehrensperger, Boston University religious drama authority; Ruth St. Denis, famed "mother of American dance" and leader in religious choreography; Augustus Zanzig, Boston leader in the use of community and recreational music; and Natalie Cole, Los Angeles teacher noted for her guidance of character development through the graphic arts. Under this inspiring, devoted leadership the registrants of the first lectureship studied in fellowship for the common objectives they seek through their various areas of teaching.

For 1958, the announced theme for the George H. Colliver Lectureship will be Religion and Public Education.

KING MOHAMMED CALLS

Included in the much publicized U.S. tour of Mohammed V. King of Morocco, was a reception December 5, at the American Academy of Asian Studies in San Francisco, graduate school of the College of the Pacific. The visit was included in the State Department managed itinerary because of the close previous association of the Academy's Professor Rom Landau and the handsome, 48 year old Sultan. Landau is Chairman of the department of North African and Islamic studies.

Some of his adventures in Morocco were related in the December, 1956, issue of the Review. The former British Royal Air Force officer was first sent there after World War II by the Foreign Office Intelligence Department. He became known as a champion of Moroccan independence. His most recent visits were in the summer of 1956 and 1957. During the latter he was commissioned to write a new biography of Mohammed V to be ready in advance of his trip to the United States. Landau is the author of several other books on the African nation and is the recognized authority in America today on its history, culture, economy, and politics. He traveled with the King last summer on an official tour through the northern zone of Morocco.

This background explains why the temporal and spiritual leader of the Moroccans received a unique welcome at the Academy. As the monarch stepped from his car he was met by six ushers bearing flaming torches, and another who proffered a tray bearing a bowl of milk and dates—an ancient ceremony of welcome he wit-

ALUMNI FUND to AID FACULTY

by MONROE HESS '50

CHAIRMAN, ALUMNI FUND COUNCIL

The new Alumni Fund Council now has forwarded its first letter addressed to Pacificites everywhere seeking gifts for the new Pacific Alumni Annual Fund.

Nominated by the Council of the Alumni Association and the President of the College, the fund raising group will steer all future solicitation of the alumni body for financial aid to Pacific, determining objectives for giving, setting goals, and preparing the actual presentations, whether by direct mail or personal interview. After the first year, membership on the Fund Council will be by mail-ballot election of the general Association.

Behind the new fund program is the reorganization of the Association in 1955. Since then, no former student of Pacific has been asked to pay annual dues to secure the privilege of membership in the Pacific Alumni Association. He is, ipso facto, a member, because he is of Pacific. Without charge he receives all publications and is eligible to participate in all alumni activities announced by the Association.

The only requirement is that he or she must have a current address on file in the Association offices in order that he can be reached. At this point the Association needs help. Hundreds of Pacificites are not receiving the Pacific Review and other notices of activities simply because they cannot be addressed.

At what point in the total program does Pacific need the help of its alumni today? Your first Fund Council believes it is in the matter of faculty salaries. They must be raised. The first fund letters reveal some striking facts about this problem. Alumni can remember the sacrificial service of these professional leaders, rewarded by less than professional standard salaries. Alumni should warm to the task of helping to keep Pacific standard high by keeping its faculty the best. Future fund objectives will be determined by the elected Fund Council.

How much should Pacific Alumni aid their alma mater? The Fund Council has hung up a 20,000 target for 1958-59. Three California comparisons: Whittier College, with fewer graduates than Pacific, received in 1956 $25,208 from its Alumni fund. Redlands University with fewer graduates, received $42,000. Occidental College, with about the same number of degree winners as Pacific, received $64,000.

A national index: 442 colleges and universities reporting their Alumni funds to the American Alumni Council received $104,000,276 from 20.5% of their former students who gave an average of $36.50.

Where should Pacific be in this picture? Your fund Council believes the $20,000 objective is conservative. The key to success is largely in the percentage of participation. Little Wofford College of South Carolina got 74.4% participation. Occidental got 31.1%. What is the measure of Pacific loyalty?

For your Fund Council, this measure is in the number of alumni responding, not the size of the individual gifts. Gifts ranging from one to one hundred dollars will easily do the job if the percentage of participation is high.

Today, the entire cost of the fine, expanding activity and service program of the Pacific Alumni Association, including the salary of our full-time Executive Manager, is underwritten in full by the College—a part of the regular annual budget operation. Here is the measure of Pacific's faith in its alumni.

Alumni can respond by helping to build a greater and finer Pacific, a college of which every alumnus will be proud to say anywhere, "that's my college." As an undergraduate, no Pacific student ever paid more than 70% of what his education cost Pacific. The gifts of others made up the difference. As Alumni, we can help make up that difference for the continuing thousands of young people who want to follow us through the halls of Pacific.

Have you responded to the first letter from the Fund Council?

ALUMNUS APPOINTED TO LECTURESHIP

Dr. Bernhard Anderson, Dean of the School of Theology at Drew University, New Jersey, will deliver the third annual Bishop Donald H. Tippet Lectures on Religious Perspectives in Higher Education, Saturday, April 19, according to the announcement of Dr. Lloyd M. Bertholf, Academic Vice-President.

An outstanding teacher, administrator, scholar and author, Dr. Anderson is a College of the Pacific graduate with the class of 1932, a major in the Department of Religious Education. Foremost among Old Testament authorities, his books include Rediscovering the Bible, The Unfolding Drama of the Bible, and Understanding the Old Testament.

Founded by Bishop Donald H. Tippet, resident Bishop of the San Francisco Area of the Methodist Church, the lectureship was inaugurated in 1956 by Dr. Ernest Cadman Colwell of Emory University, and continued in 1957 by Dr. Robert Elliott Fitch. Complete announcement of the schedule for the 1958 lectures will be carried in the February issue of the Review.

19th CENTURY

JOHN KEMPF, 98, oldest pensioner of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, who now lives with his daughter in Redding, was a student at the Napa Collegiate Institute which was merged with the College of the Pacific in 1896. Born in Oroville two years before the Civil War, the venerable gentleman spent his lifetime associated with gas and water companies in Utah, New York, and California. He assisted in founding the Pacific Coast Gas Association and is the only surviving charter member.

The Very Rt. Rev. Dr. JAMES M. MALLOCH, former Dean of St. James Cathedral, Fresno, is chairman of the Fresno Regional Pacific Associates. Dean Malloch, who has served 16 years as a member of the Fresno City Board of Education, was recently re-elected to another four-year term.

VEVA BROWN, scholarship coordinator for the Stockton Unified School District and an employee of the district for 28 years, was installed in October as state grand president of the California Scholarship Federation.

Mrs. LOIS WARNER WINSTON, composer of Pacific Hail, has returned to her tenth year of teaching in Oakdale schools following a year's leave of absence for an extended trip to Europe.

Dr. JAMES H. CORSON, superintendent of the Modesto City Schools for the past ten years, was named "Citizen of the Year" by the Modesto American Legion at a Veterans' Day breakfast. Dr. Corson was elected this fall as president of the California Association of School Administrators. A graduate of the Modesto city school system, Dr. Corson then entered Pacific where he was a football and Olympic Games star. Upon graduation he was an instructor and coach at Modesto Junior College and then returned to C.O.P. for 18 years to serve as a coach, instructor, and dean of men.

Mrs. SANFORD SWEET (PEARL SHAFFER '27) writes: "The Pacific Review continues to be of greatest interest. I enjoy it from cover to cover. Through this one issue (October) I learned something of thirty-eight friends of mine. Some of the news was good and some of it sad, but all of it of much interest. Thank you for the excellence of the publication which is an honor to Pacific." Pearl is studying German in the expectation of traveling in Europe next summer with her husband, a professor of chemistry at Stockton College. They will attend the International Exposition in Brussels. Mrs. Sweet is the curator of an extensive collection of Methodist historical material at Sears Hall on the Pacific Campus.

NEW POST FOR ARMY ENGINEER

Col. Robert R. Robertson, civil engineering major during the first years of Pacific on the Stockton campus, and a Tiger grid and basketball star, has assumed new duties as Chief of the Technical Liaison Division, Office of the Chief of Army Engineers, Washington, D.C. He serves as staff officer directly responsible to the Engineers for public information activities of the Army's Corps of Engineers.

Col. Robertson worked in the Corps of Engineers as a civil engineer on flood control works from 1930-1942, when he went on active service with the Corps of Engineers and served in the European Theatre of Operations. In 1945 he was assigned to Washington, D.C. where he served in the Military Construction Division until 1950. For the next three years he was in command of a Topographic Battalion, engaged in mapping large, unearched and remote areas of Alaska. Following the Alaska assignment he was director of the Inter-American Geodetic Survey, which executes the Army's collaborative mapping program for Latin America, 1953-1956.

COL. ROBERTSON

The colonel has been awarded the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal, American Campaign Medal, Army of Occupation Medal and the National Defense Service Medal. In addition he has received 15 decorations from various countries in Latin America.

His home is in Arlington with his wife, Elma, and daughter Roberta. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Robertson, live at 1234 West Flora, Stockton.

of five "women of achievement" named by the Taft Business and Professional Women's club. Her work with the Taft City School District began 28 years ago. In 1937, with the opening of Lincoln School plunge and hydrotherapy pool, she was assigned as swimming instructor and girls' corrective physical education teacher. Her work as a therapist soon extended to aid for the crippled on a community-wide basis. During a year's leave of absence she studied at Stanford, working with the cerebral palsied. Miss Boring was a member of Epsilon Lambda Sigma.

Mrs. FRANCES GREGG, wife of HAROLD GREGG '28, of Forest Knolls. Marin County, teacher, summer camp co-owner and director, is active in civic affairs. While at Pacific she was a member of Epsilon Lambda Sigma. She earned her secondary credential at Mills College and has taught in Hayward and Presidio High Schools. At present she directs the Forest Farm Summer Camp for Boys and Girls and is an upper teacher at Dominican Convent. She is a member of the Geronimo Valley Improvement Club, League of Women Voters, P.T.A., and a leader in home extension activities for 4-H Club and Girl Scouts as well as in the valley's community church.

1931

PAUL T. HUBBARD was named Chief of the Division of Casework and Counseling at Preston School of Industry in Ione in July when this new position was created by the California Youth Authority.

1932

L. EUGENE ROOT, Pacific alumnus distinguished in the field of air research and development, and general manager of the Missiles System division of the Lockheed Corporation, who was selected in 1945 by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the ten outstanding young men in the nation, has been named this year as a judge to help select the top 10 of 1957.

CHARLES PAGE '31, formerly with the Valley Times, San Fernando, and now a columnist for the Los Angeles Herald-Express, recalled in his Oct. 25 column, that he and Root went to Stockton High School and College of the Pacific together. He rummaged around in ancient issues of the Guard and Tackle, Stockton High's year book, and in the C.O.P. Naranjado and "discovered that Gene was sergeant-at-arms of the Hi-Y Club when I was secretary, but that he leaped into the president's chair the following semester. He made the honor scholarship society 16 of the 16 quarters he was in high school. He played football . . . and took part in the senior play . . . and was also a student government leader."

A second Pacific graduate also has won the coveted Junior Chamber of Commerce award. He is RICHARD FOOTE PEDERSON '46, international relations major and Department of State foreign service officer currently working in political and security affairs of the United States Mission to the United Nations. Pederson was named among the ten outstanding young men of the nation for 1956.

DAYTON COFFEY, speech and drama major, is teaching both subjects at Napa High School and College. He has produced and directed two historical pageants at the Napa District Fair and established a college radio workshop which broadcasts dramatic programs over Napa Radio Station KVON. He is included in the roster of the Pretenders Playhouse, said to be the most vigorous and talented community theatre group in the North Bay area. Coffey received his M.A. degree at Pacific in '52.

JERRY KEITHLEY, former city manager of Stockton and city manager of Palo Alto since 1950, first accepted and then declined the invitation of the city of San Diego, with nearly a half million population, to become its city manager. Keithley found his ties with Palo Alto too great to leave. During Keithley's administration in Palo Alto, the university city has built a city hall, municipal golf course, a city-wide parks program, a street improvement program and an extensive off-street parking program. A master plan has been developed to guide the city's future development which includes plans for the Stanford Industrial Park, a landscaped industrial area. A 24,000 square foot branch library is under construction and a multi-million-dollar flood control project is underway. Keithley also served as Palo Alto's representative in the complicated negotiations which resulted in joint financing of a 20-million dol-

WILLIAM 'BILL' BECKER, New York Times writer and former Staggs gridder, who followed Amos Alonzo Staggs from Chicago in the 1930's to play on Pacific's team, and who in August was speaker at Pacific's party given in tribute to the Staggs, is spending several months in Antarctica covering U.S. scientific posts in the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year. A challenging assignment, Bill first left for New Zealand, with his base of operations "down under" shifting between Little America and McMurdo Sound. Yes, Bill, we'll take three dozen penguin eggs!

Mrs. VIRGINIA E. HANNA (nee YOUNG) is teaching mathematics at Napa Senior High School. She has taught for the past few years at the Vichy School in the Napa District. She was a Tau Kappa Kappa member.

ROBERT T. ELEY, speech major, who earned his masters degree in Elizabethan drama at Pacific in 1940, this summer produced the Starlight production of Shakespear's Taming of the Shrew by Valley Theatre '57 in Woodland Hills. The attraction proved so popular that plans are being made to establish a regular Shakespeare festival of two or three plays in the outdoor theatre each summer. Eley served three years as director of soldier entertainment for the Army in England and Europe during World War II, and then four years as director and actor with John Burrell, Sir Lawrence Olivier, and Sir Ralph Richardson for the Old Vic Repertory Company in London. He then organized the New York Repertory Company at the Cherry Lane Theatre in Greenwich Village. He also was a co-founder of the San Francisco Repertory Theatre.

LESLIE KNOLES, Dean of Men at Modesto Junior College, is now a commander in the USNR, having received his promotion in October from lieutenant commander. He received his M.A. from Pacific in June.

1943

The Rev. ALLAN B. PHILP and Mrs. PHILP, the former MARIAN STILL, B.M. '44 of Exeter, are moving to Visalia the first of the year where he will take over the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church. Allan graduated from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in '46 and since has served as pastor of Presbyterian churches at Corte Madera, at Bend, Oregon, and for the past five years at Watsonville. He is moderator of the San Jose Presbytery. The Philp's have two sons, aged 10 and 8.

Mrs. CLAYTON LONG, nee Marian Wichert, music major who has taught piano privately and in public schools, also continues her concert career, appearing as soloist before various groups. She is the wife of CLAYTON LONG, '40, band instructor and dean of men at Napa Junior College, also an accomplished pianist.

EARLENE WATERS, master of arts '56, dean of girls at East Bakersfield High School for the past five years, began in October her duties in Long Beach as secretary of the California Association of Women Deans and Vice-Principals. Miss Waters was a Tau Kappa Kappa member.

GENE McCABE of Modesto, dramatics teacher, actor, and director, is currently working for his masters degree at Pacific. PACIFIC SPORTS

by CARROLL R. DOTY
ATHLETIC NEWS DIRECTOR

For the third year in a row two College of the Pacific football stars will be in the lineup for the West when Football's Finest Hour, the annual Shrine East-West game in San Francisco, is played December 28.

Tom "Flingin" Flores, passing ace of the Tigers over the past two seasons, and his favorite receiver, Farrell Funston, will join 23 other gridders from colleges and universities west of the Mississippi to play in what has become perhaps the best known and most worthy football contest of them all.

Previous Bengal Shrine players have been Art McCaffray in 1943, Eddie LeBaron and John Rohde in 1949, Dick Batten in 1952, Art Lieb-scher in 1953, Gene Cronin and A. D. Williams in 1955 and John Nisby and Galen Laack last year.

TOM FLORES

Flores completed 83 passes in 1957 to wind up his career as Pacific's third all-time passer with 156. Only LeBaron with 204 completions and Roy Ottoson with 175 top him on a career basis.

Funston caught 15 passes to total 44 for his career and rank fourth among all-time pass catchers for the school. Ken Buck with 82 receptions, Rohde with 81 and Wes Mitchell with 46 are the top three.

In winning five, losing three and tying two, the Tigers presented the school with another winning season. Only once in the past 11 years have the Pac-Cats lost more than they've won.

Coach Jack "Moose" Myers has 32 players returning, about half of whom will be lettermen. They include:

- LE—Ola Murchison, Chuck Lander
- LT—John Williams, Adrian Vera, Dick Bateson
- LG—Carl Kammerer, Ken Castles, Joe Malpasuto, Stan Swanson
- C—Stan Burns, Bob Long
- RG—Bob Sartwell, Noel Manoukian, Steve Pessin
- RT—Wayne Hawkins, Sherman White, Harlin Payton, Ed Wallace

RE—Bob Denton, Ed Sowash,
Gary Giovannoni, Bill Fowler

QB—Gary Hubb

LH—Dick Bass, Jack Larscheid,
Henry Wallace

RH—Norman Bass, Bob Coronado,
Rich Cox

FB—Ken Uselton, Bob Hicks,
Ed Schwartz

There will be two coaching additions to the Pacific staff in 1958. Line coach John Nikevich resigned after five years at the close of the 1957 season. Myers will replace him and also add a backfield coach to his staff, something he operated without this past fall.

At the present time the Tiger '58 schedule lines up with California in Berkeley, September 20, Arizona State in Stockton September 27, Fresno State in Fresno October 11, Cincinnati in Stockton October 18, Marquette in Milwaukee October 25, San Jose State in Stockton November 8, Washington State in Stockton November 15 and San Diego State in San Diego November 22. Two open dates, October 4 and November 1, remain to be filled.

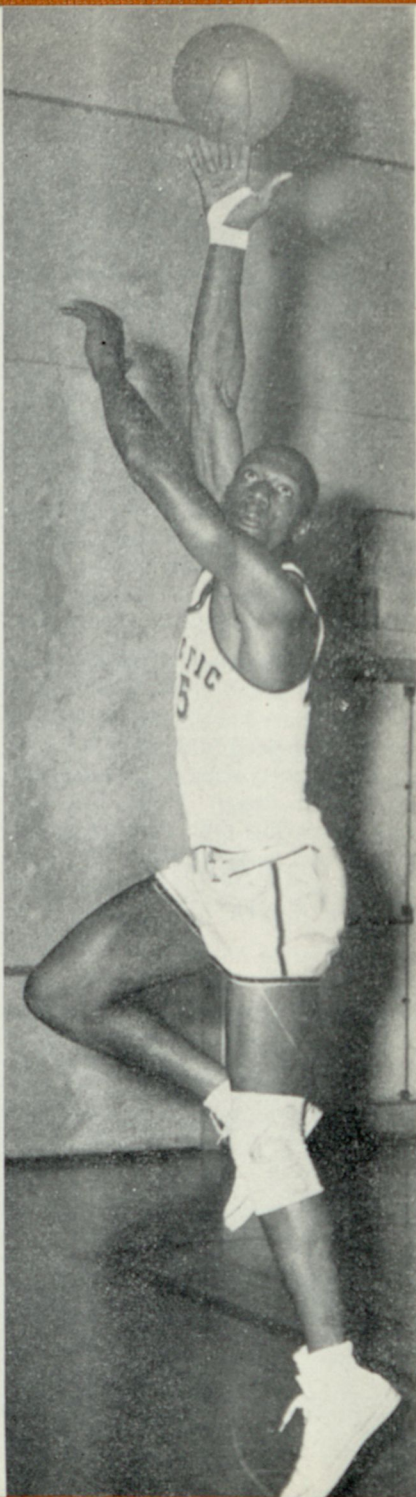

BASKETBALL

by BILL TUNNELL

With eight sophomores on a 14 man squad, Tiger cage Coach Van Sweet expects something less than a winning season. Although having just dropped the opening game to Stanford, 77-61, at the time this was written, Van can look forward to a number of bright spots in the current campaign.

One of these is the first "big" man to play varsity basketball for the

LE ROY WRIGHT 6' - 8"

Tigers. Leroy Wright stands just a shade over 6' - 8" and although an untried sophomore he gives promise of great things to come. Shooting the hook shot equally well with either hand, Wright seems to have all the necessary equipment to develop into the first All-American candidate in Tiger cage history.

Playing alongside Wright at forward post is the lone senior in the starting five, Ken Flaig. With a good scoring touch and outstanding rebounding ability, Flaig could well be the determining factor in future Tiger games. Teaming with Flaig at the forward post is junior Don Cockburn, an exceptionally good shooter with an abundance of hustle.

The team leader is junior guard Dave Klurman, "little man" at 5' 10". Klurman has all the moves of a top player, good driving ability, practically every shot in the book, and the needed desire. With one more year of playing time remaining after the current season, Klurman could well be acclaimed the greatest guard in Pacific history.

Alternating on the first unit at the other guard post are Maurice Jones and Gary Kaufman. Jones, a cautious player, may prove to be the calming influence the inexperienced Tigers need. Kaufman, an exceptional shot-maker, was a Dell All-American while playing high school ball in his native Brooklyn, N.Y. Both men are sophomores.

Most observers feel that with an abundance of sophomore talent, Coach Sweet's cagers are just two years away from being one of the greatest basketball clubs in Pacific history.

CLINIC OPENS HEARING LAB.

Not only is the new audiometric testing laboratory for complete hearing evaluation the latest installation of Pacific's up-to-date Speech Therapy Clinic, but the first of its kind in the Central Valley.

Installed in a sound testing room with adjoining control and observation booth in Bannister Hall, the testing service and equipment provided has not previously been available nearer than San Francisco and Oakland.

According to Dr. Howard L. Runion, director of the clinic, the complete diagnostic facilities are being utilized in speech therapy training courses and for community service. The Crippled Children's Service is using the laboratory to determine need for hearing aids and physicians in the valley area are making referrals to the laboratory. Pacific students are invited to use the service.

The examiner can accurately record the frequency ranges audible to the person being checked by "pure tone testing," while determination of the type and amount of hearing loss is accomplished by the "free field" test.

Construction of the audiometric testing room was finished partly through the college budget appropriation, but was made possible by gifts of money and materials from the Stockton Quota Club, Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, Delta Chapter of Athena, Mu Gamma Chapter of Alpha Iota, the Belstone Company, and Harold W. Thompson.

Inspection of the new facility is invited by Dr. Runion.

THE STUARTS EDIT NEW PACIFIC PERIODICAL

The Pacific Historian, quarterly bulletin of the California History Foundation and the Jedediah Smith Society, edited by Reginald R. Stuart, director of the California History Foundation at the College of the Pacific, and Mrs. Grace D. Stuart, made its initial appearance this year. Volume I, Number 1, was issued in February and Number 4 appeared in November. The new journal already is gaining recognition from the Pacific to the Atlantic and in British Columbia. The Hazelton Letters, which have been appearing, edited and annotated by Mary Geneva Bloom, have created interest at Cornell University.

Two thousand are being issued at each printing and for the current year are sent free to sponsors and others interested. Cost for 1958 will be $2.

HEDGPETH SOUGHT BY WORLD SCIENCE GROUP

Dr. Joel Hedgpeth, zoologist and resident director of Pacific's Marine Station at Dillon Beach, has been named to an international committee of scientists scheduled to meet in Venice, Italy, April 8-14. The committee is composed of experts on water conditions known as the International Association of Limnology. As the development of a worldwide standardization of salinity classifications is a necessity the group currently is concerned with standardizing the systems used to classify the degree of saltiness in brackish water. Dr. Hedgpeth has been invited to present a paper.

Dr. Lindhorst, recently presided as chairman of the Church Leaders Section of the 1957 Area Conference in San Diego of the National Adult Education Association. This was the first time that a church session was included in the program. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders participated on the panel headed by Dr. Lindhorst.

director of religious education at San Jose, he was brought back to alma mater by Dr. Tully C. Knoles and asked to organize a department of religious education—first on the Pacific Coast.

Dr. Colliver's passing came with little warning while he was in the midst of his thirty-eighth year on the faculty, six months before his intended retirement, and just two days after the inauguration of the annual George H. Colliver Lectureship in Religious Education, Group Work, and Recreation (see Campus Newsfront, page 8). He will be vividly remembered by literally thousands of Pacific students, for some instruction in Bible has been a Pacific degree requirement throughout his years on the campus. Many called him, affectionately, "Rabbi."

Two great religious convictions, early established, were a driving force in Dr. Colliver's career. He believed that religion can and must be taught as well as caught, and he believed that religion must be socially dynamic in all areas of life, not something merely to be talked about in churches and classrooms. He lived out his convictions. One of the first graduates in religious education at Boston, he established community schools in this field both in San Jose and Stockton, as well as the College department. For twenty-seven years he devoted his personal leadership to religious and youth character building projects in Stockton, working with minority racial groups on the fringe of "skid row." He always spoke passionately for Christian social principal, was long a member of the Methodist Federation for Social Action, and became its California-Nevada Conference President in 1954.

There were battles to be fought in what may have seemed a serene and secure career to many who knew Dr. Colliver. Chancellor Knoles relates how an irate mother came to him in protest that her son be forced to listen to Bible lectures and demanding that he be excused. Dr. Knoles declined the request, but suggested she audit the class. Weeks later she returned, in tears, to declare that Dr. Colliver's class was her finest educational experience.

In the matter of social declarations, Knoles recalls also the night on the new Stockton campus when a flaming cross of the Ku Klux Klan blazed on the Calaveras River levee behind his home. The next day a delegation confronted Knoles in his office to tell him the symbol was aimed at George H. Colliver. They advised that Knoles dismiss him, and/or Colliver should get out of town. Knoles gave them a flat no. Colliver stayed.

Son of a hard rock gold miner, George Colliver was born in the Mother Lode at Hornitos, now a "ghost town," in Mariposa County. He early became a jeweler and watch maker, and practiced this trade during the years of his education. Throughout his career he never ceased also to study. He did advance work at the University of California and Harvard, and was awarded the Doctor of Pedagogy degree by the University of Southern California in 1945.

Dr. Colliver was a member of the California-Nevada Conference of the Methodist Church. He belonged to the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, and served as president of the Pacific Coast Association for Religious Studies. Many of his articles on Bible interpretation and Christian education have been published in leading journals of religion. In 1957 he delivered the annual Pacific Faculty Research Lectures, speaking on his twenty-seven years of character education in Stockton's depressed areas.

In addition to Mrs. Colliver, long employed in the Pacific library, Dr. Colliver is survived by five children, Mrs. Ruth Miriam Sessions, Fresno; Grant Colliver, San Jose; Mrs. Ava June Wilson, St. Helena; Mrs. Hazel Lois Coward, Antioch; and Mrs. Francis Harriet Coburn, San Carlos.

The Morris Chapel, home of his widely noted college department, was filled to capacity on the afternoon of December 9, for the memorial service in honor of Dr. Colliver, immortal Pacificite.

Dr. Allen E. Woodall, 54, professor of journalism and Stockton College English teacher, died October 18 in Stockton. Since 1947, he had taught both for Stockton College and Pacific, serving as an associate professor of English at Pacific until last year. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Maralyn, Pacific alumna of '52, and Sylvia.

Dr. Woodall had gained national recognition as an educator and poet. His verse was published in many magazines. He is the author of Remembrance Ode (Pacific Review for December, 1950) which won a Pacific Centennial ode competition.

Harrison Lee Williams, 87, a retired Escalon district rancher, died September 15 in Stockton. He attended the College of the Pacific when it was located in San Jose.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Deakin, who attended Napa College during the 1890's, were killed in an automobile accident near their Napa Home on August 4. Aged 81 and 79, respectively, the couple was interested in Napa-C.O.P. reunions. The Deakins lived for some years in Paso Robles.

Frank B. Wooten, 85-year old retired school administrator and real estate man of Berkeley, died September 11. He was born in Linden where his mother settled after coming to California by wagon train. Mr. Wooten attended Pacific at the turn of the century in San Jose.

He also attended Stanford University where he was a classmate of Herbert Hoover, graduating in 1895 in the university's first four-year class. In 1900 he became principal of Lodi High School and in 1905 was made principal of Stockton High School.

Mrs. Rheta Zimmerman, 73, of Burlingame and Los Gatos, known throughout the state for her activities in preserving and restoring things of historical value, died October 16. She was a member of the board of sponsors of the California History Foundation of the College of the Pacific and pioneered the movement to establish a state park at the Mother Lode town of Columbia, where Pacific now has its summer repertory players at Fallon House Theatre. Mrs. Zimmerman was associated with many state historical groups.

George Easton Petrie, registrar in the Adult Education Division of the San Francisco Public Schools, who died October 25 after a lengthy illness, attended Pacific in its early years on the Stockton campus. He also studied at San Francisco Theological Seminary and served as minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Alameda from 1935 to 1943.

The Rev. Edgar Allan Lowther, 75, nationally known Methodist leader, a former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Oakland, and an honorary member of the board of trustees of the College of the Pacific, died October 9 at his home in Oakland. He served as an active trustee of Pacific from 1934 to 1954. He was the author of several books and a contributor to national church magazines. He also was a lecturer at the Pacific School of Religion.

Dr. James L. Hagerty, professor of philosophy, associated with St. Mary's College as a student and teacher for 43 of his 58 years, died September 11 in San Francisco. Since 1951 Dr. Hagerty had been among the nationally recognized leadership personnel at the annual Pacific Philosophy Institute at Lake Tahoe.

Dr. William Nietmann, chairman of Pacific's department of philosophy and director of the Philosophy Institute, pays the following tribute to Dr. Hagerty: "The dialectical method is basic to philosophizing, and Jim Hagerty was the sharpest dialectician I have ever had the privilege of hearing. In his death philosophy has lost one of its finest proponents. The College of the Pacific is grateful that his con-nessed nowhere else on his American tour. Seated on a specially prepared dias in the main lecture room, the King listened to a brief speech of welcome from his biographer, accepted the original MS from him, and spoke a gracious response—repeated by an interpreter for the benefit of the more than 100 guests.

President Robert E. Burns and Dean of Graduate Studies Dr. Willis N. Potter officially represented Pacific, along with Academy President Dr. Ernest Wood, and the founder and Chairman of the Board of Governors of the unusual school, Mr. Louis P. Gainsborough. Other guests included the consulates of all the Islamic nations, students and faculty of the Academy, other faculty members from the Stockton campus, their wives and guests.

Press cameras flashed and motion picture cameras for TV film hummed as a colorful event unfolded on a precise thirty minute schedule, an event which revealed in most effective manner the purpose and validity of such an enterprise as a school of Asian studies.

YVONNE YEARIAN is teaching Army Department children at Sagami-hara Elementary School near Tokyo, Japan.

JANE NELSON is teaching second grade overseas for the Army in Germany.

Mrs. FRANCES COOLIDGE, a sixth grade teacher and a member of the Stockton Unified School District's disciplinary committee, had an article on corporal punishment, "To Spank or Not to Spank", in the October issue of the CTA Journal.

Mrs. Coolidge undertook a survey of policies in California regarding the use of the disciplinary rod in twenty large school districts. The result showed that a majority of the large districts are permitting corporal punishment, that communities do accept it, and that it is helpful in maintaining discipline. From other surveys it was found that many teachers would like the right to do the spanking.

A nationwide opinion poll on the subject revealed that 72 per cent of the superintendents favored the use of corporal punishment and 69 per cent had approved it as a policy.

MARGARET HELEN ALDRIDGE, who was graduated with honors, is teaching English, drama, and speech in Galt Union High School. She taught last year in Escalon.

STANLEY EMERSON of Oakley, who completed work for his baccalaureate degree last summer, sailed October 26 for Japan as caretaker for 20 heifers, the first of a shipment of livestock sent to provide "pioneer farmers" in Hokkaido with dairy stock.

The Stockton Council of Churches and the Stockton Ministerial Association launched the program in San Joaquin County, handled through Heifer Project, Inc., an interfaith rehabilitation organization which has been instrumental in the shipment of more than 10,000 heifers to war stricken and underdeveloped countries in the world.

JOE CARDINALE of Oakland, who attended Pacific last year as a speech-drama major, and co-authored the sprightly Pacific Theatre musical revue, Once Over Lightly, and who had leading roles in other productions, has been selected for training in theatre arts at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. A song writer, Joe's drama experience has included Oakland night club and TV singing.

First Lt. DON VONDER AHE of Brentwood, who took two years of pre-dental training at Pacific, was graduated September 27 from the military orientation course at the Army Medical Service School, Fort Sam Houston, Texas. He received his Doctor of Dental Science degree in June at the University of California.

JEANNIE MCCUITION of Tracy, a former music student at the Pacific Conservatory, who in the summer of 1955 was recommended to officials of Westminster Choir College at Princeton, New Jersey, for advanced study, by Allan Bacon, then director of the organ department at C.O.P., has received high musical honors at Westminster Choir College.

Selected as one of only three students out of a total of 1,500 applicants at that time, Miss McCuiston has been chosen for the third straight year as a member of the Symphonic Choir which last month gave a series of four concerts in Carnegie Hall to the accompaniment of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. She also was recommended by her professors to be church organist of the Glenside First Baptist Church in Philadelphia.

WILL NAME DANFORTH FELLOWS

Dean of Men Edward Betz has been named by Vice-President Lloyd M. Bertholf as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for the 1958 fellowships.

Eligible are college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1958, for their first year of graduate study.

The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

Candidates also "must be men of outstanding ability, personally congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition." A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments.

Clarence Irving, C.O.P. '57, is now at Stanford University on a Danforth.
