"YES" on Proposition 13

The expansion and development of Pacific's beautiful campus will be at stake November 6 when Californians go to the polls to decide whether or not to delete an outdated 1914 provision in the State Constitution discouraging the growth of California's independent colleges and universities.

Proposition 13, which was placed on the ballot by a 103-to-1 vote of the 1961 Legislature, proposes to amend Section 1a of Article XIII by deleting the 100-acre limitation on the size of a campus which may be exempted from property tax.

The section reads: "Any educational institution of collegiate grade within the State of California, not conducted for profit, shall hold exempt from taxation its buildings and equipment, its ground within which its buildings are located, (not exceeding 100 acres in area), its securities and income used exclusively for the purposes of education."

"The exemption granted by this section applies to and includes a building in the course of construction on or after the first Monday of March, 1950, and the land on which the building is located, if the property is intended when completed to be used exclusively for the purposes of education."

Pacific currently pays property taxes on undeveloped property it owns, and other property which is not used exclusively for the purposes of education. It is proper that we should. However, the University cannot afford to develop its total campus beyond the 100-acre limitation unless Proposition 13 receives a "Yes" vote in November.

There is a resistance among some people to any extension of tax exemption. However, the tax savings achieved by private education of 52,000 full-time students presently in independent colleges and universities in California far outweigh the small loss of taxable property to the State. There is no formal opposition to Proposition 13, but the action of the uninformed voter who is tired of marking "Yes" on his ballot by the time he gets half way through a list of 25 propositions can seriously affect the future development of University of the Pacific.

ON THE COVER: A library gift of more than 3000 volumes dealing with the history and culture of Mexico was presented in formal ceremonies Sept. 16 in the Conservatory Auditorium. The collection was presented by the government and various cultural organizations of Mexico to the university for use by the faculty and students of the new Elbert Covell College, the first four-year liberal arts college in the country with an all-Spanish curriculum. Looking at some of the volumes of "Coleccion Presidente Lopez Mateos" in Irving Martin Library where it is being housed are, left to right, Elbert Covell, Pacific regent for whom the college is named; Mrs. Amalia Castillo Ledon, under-secretary of Cultural Affairs, Secretariat of Public Education for the Republic of Mexico; Dr. Robert E. Burns, and Antonio Islas, Consul of Mexico, Sacramento.

PFEIFFER RESEARCH FOUNDATION PROMOTES NEW GRADUATE PROGRAM

Three representatives of the Gustavus and Louise Pfeiffer Research Foundation of New York held an August meeting on the Pacific campus with Dr. Robert E. Burns and Dr. Ivan W. Rowland, dean of the School of Pharmacy. Discussion centered around possible Foundation support of local experiments with better and new modern structural designing of laboratory facilities and subsequent improved teaching techniques.

A $44,000 grant to be distributed over the next four years for graduate fellowships was recently awarded to Pacific by the Pfeiffer Foundation, assisting the activation this fall of research programs in the areas of Pharmacy, Pharmaceutical Chemistry, and Physiology-Pharmacology.

Pacific's School of Pharmacy, established in 1955, is one of three schools of pharmacy in California, educating at full capacity nearly 60 percent of the manpower pharmacy of the state. Additional manpower not educated in the other two California institutions, the University of California in San Francisco and the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, is supported as available by out-of-state educational institutions.

The Pfeiffer Foundation, organized in 1942 for the furtherance and general improvement of public health through the advancement and promotion of medicine and pharmacy, provides funds for stipends beginning at $1800 per academic year for the new graduate program in the three areas. Pacific's recent progression stems from attention given to the over-all United States needs for pharmacists as related to preparation of capable researchers for industry, the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, and for future teachers in the 76 schools of pharmacy throughout the United States. Earlier sights were leveled at preparing students for more urgent needs of the state's retail outlets, hospitals and governmental agencies.

Active research programs in the areas of Pharmacy, Pharmaceutical Chemistry, and Physiology-Pharmacology were put into operation at the University of the Pacific this fall with the assistance of the Gustavus and Louise Pfeiffer Research Foundation of New York. Meeting on Pacific's campus this summer with President Burns and Dr. Ivan W. Rowland, dean of the School of Pharmacy, were three members of the Foundation's Board of Directors. Standing left to right, are Henry Herold of Pasadena, Dean Rowland, George Pfeiffer of Santa Monica, and Garfield Merner of San Francisco.

Poise and Pulchritude

Miss California

Editor-in-Chief

Dairy Princess

In the areas of poise and pulchritude, Pacific continues in its never-ending pursuit of excellence.

Three lovely young coeds, Pamela Jean Gamble, Judy Hanshue and Holly Suzan Little, distinguished themselves during the year by being named to reign royally in the state and in the nation.

Pamela, Miss California of 1963, began her year-long beauty reign in July, when as Miss Monterey County she won the state-wide contest at Santa Cruz. The 18-year-old Pacific sophomore whose ambition is dramatic acting, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gamble of Carmel. As part of her award the brown-eyed miss won a scholarship to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, for a continuation of her dramatic experience with the Wharf Theater Company in Monterey. Dressed in a flame chiffon costume, her dance interpretation of Leonard Bernstein's "West Side Story" won for her the talent division of the Miss California contest.

Judy, one of 20 girls selected in the nation to serve as Guest Editors for Mademoiselle, went on to achieve further distinction as Guest Editor-in-Chief for the August College issue of the fashion magazine. The Los Gatos art major, who graduated from Pacific in June, visited outstanding personalities in the fields of design and fashion while on a tour of Rome as a guest of Mademoiselle. The Guest Editors won their appointments on the basis of assignments they completed during the school year, including reports on campus fashions, the arts, classroom studies, and extra-curricular activities.

Holly will reign for a year as California Dairy Princess, representing the dairy farmers and dairy industry of the State of California. The 19-year-old Gridley miss, daughter of Irvin Little, was selected from 14 finalists at the annual coronation pageant in Fresno Memorial Auditorium June 23. During her 11 years in 4-H work she has won many honors, and is a major in geology at Pacific. Each year Holly shows her own herd of guernseys. During her full-time job as Dairy Princess, Holly will tour California to talk about the family of dairy foods, and the role of the dairy farmer in the economy on the community.

Pacific Excellence Continues

Pacific's academic vice-president, Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, has recently gained national and state level recognition with his appointments to two advisory committees, prominent in the field of education.

As a member of the Advisory Screening Committee in Biology and Agriculture of the Conference Board of Associated Research Councils Committee on International Exchange of Persons, Dr. Meyer is responsible for reviewing applications and recommending candidates to the Board of Foreign Scholarships and the Department of State for university lecturing and post-doctoral research awards under the Fulbright-Hays Act.

Dr. Meyer was nominated to the position by the Division of Biology and Agriculture of the National Research Council of which he was executive secretary in 1952-53. Institutions represented by the five other committee members who will meet in Washington, D.C., are George Washington University, Massachusetts General Hospital, University of Wisconsin, Carnegie Institute of Technology and University of Illinois.

The academic vice-president's appointment to the statewide Advisory Committee on Science in High Schools was announced by Dr. Roy E. Simpson, state superintendent of public instruction. The committee, meeting this month in Sacramento, functions to advise the State Department of Education on orderly and substantial improvement and modernization of science courses in junior, senior and four-year high schools in California.

— Through Its Faculty — Through Its Administrators

It is the privilege of the Pacific Review to reprint some excerpts from a statement by Pacific's academic vice-president, Samuel L. Meyer, entitled "Forget About Everything Else."

"Here, at Pacific, we believe that teaching is an art and that the quality of it determines the stature of the University. We believe that the teacher is the very center of the educational process, with whom we can "forget about everything else." No institution of learning is any better than its teaching faculty. Great teaching is the distinctive feature of the great university.

"As Pacific moves into its one hundred and eleventh year, there are 164 individuals on the teaching faculty. Of that number, 124 are full-time teachers; 40 teach one or more courses but less than a full load. The background of training and experience represented by this faculty is most impressive.

"At the doctoral level, and more than half of the full-time teaching faculty hold that degree, the faculty brings to the Pacific campus the intellectual resources of the great graduate schools of America. Either at the doctoral level or for other graduate study and research, members of the Pacific faculty have been trained at foreign universities in Germany, France, Spain, England, Australia, Guatemala, Argentina, and Mexico.

"This past semester 35 newcomers joined the Pacific faculty. As teacher-scholars, they have brought to the campus a rich background of training and experience both in this country and abroad.

"We believe you share our pride in the strength of the Pacific faculty. It is a strong faculty."

Boosters Continue Support

A group of civic-minded sports enthusiasts, the Pacific Quarterback Club, has pledged its support of athletic activities in the area this year to the amount of $15,000. Since its origin in 1948, the Quarterback Club has offered continued encouragement to Pacific's athletic programs.

William Gaines, vice-president, presented a second check for $5,000 to President Robert E. Burns in his office August 30. The total $15,000 will be added to the athletic scholarship fund.

Quarterback Club officers and directors are C. Bruce Orvis, president; Gaines, vice-president; Bert I. Van Gilder, secretary-treasurer; Robert M. Eberhardt, past-president; and directors Richard Amerine, C. L. 'Chuck' Baker, Bruce Bradley, Wallace Brewer, John B. Cecchini, Albert J. Charles, Adolph Da Valle, Jr., Dean De Carli, Albert Dell Aringa, Carroll R. Doty, Leon H. Eakes, Robert 'Bud' Engdahl, Jr., Jacob 'Jake' Fetzer, Graham E. Frost, Walter M. Genuit, Thomas C. George, John M. Hammer, Dr. Laurence Heston, Eugene 'Gene' Isetti, Eddie D. Macon, Norman Mykles, Jack O'Keefe, Karl A. Schmidt, J. M. 'Sandy' Senderov, Lou Tsunekawa, Edgar P. Wagner, Ben C. Wallace, Jr., Donald G. Webb, Dean E. Wendt, Clifford C. Wisdom, Skipper K. Yee, Dr. Edward Yelland; Otto Dockter, Lodi; Ernie Bobson, Manteca; Donald J. Smith, Turlock; Richard Johnson, Sacramento; and Ray Hunter, Sonora.

HONORS PROGRAMS ADOPT PHILOSOPHY JOURNAL

The Pacific Philosophy Forum, a quarterly journal of the University of the Pacific Philosophy Institute, edited by Dr. William D. Nietmann, has been adopted for use in the Honors Program at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and the University of Oregon in Eugene.

A monograph in one number of the Forum which is used at the annual June sessions of the Institute when it meets at Asilomar State Park, will be published as a book by the Columbia University Press, and Prentice-Hall has inquired concerning the publication of Dr. Nietmann's monograph in another volume.

Forum authors present original works in philosophy within the reach of serious readers who are non-specialists in philosophy. Each volume is unified formally by a common topic and a common structure, a thesis, two counterthesis articles, and an article that assesses the philosophical contributions of the foregoing articles.

Dr. Nietmann, founder of the Pacific Philosophy Institute in 1948, has been chairman of the Department of Philosophy at Pacific since 1946. The Institute and the annual Tully Cleon Knoles Lectures in Philosophy, also established by Dr. Nietmann, have gained national stature in the philosophical world.

William Gaines, vice-president, and Robert Eberhardt, Jr., (right) past-president of the Quarterback Club, present a check for $5,000 to President Robert E. Burns, to be added to Pacific's athletic scholarship fund. Coach John Rohde looks on with approval. Since the Club organized in 1948, Century, Half Century and Sawbuck members have turned over a total of $124,000 for use in the many facets of Pacific's athletic picture.

LANDAU COMPLETES KING HASSAN II BIOGRAPHY

The first copies of the official biography of King Hassan II of Morocco, written by Rom Landau, professor of Islamic and North African history at Pacific, will be made available to the public this month.

Professor Landau returned to the United States by way of Devonshire, England, early in September after spending his 14th summer in Morocco completing his most recent book, "Moroccans—Yesterday and Today."

ROM LANDAU

The biography of the dynamic leader of emergent Africa was written at the request of the Moroccan government, preliminary to his state visit to the United States in March at the invitation of President Kennedy. Mr. Landau, author of a dozen books on Morocco and world-reknown as the leading authority on Morocco, is also the official biographer of the father of King Hassan II, the late King Mohammed V.

The noted author and scholar met with Algerian National leaders during his recent Moroccan visit, and made several appearances on television and before personnel at American airbases.

PACIFIC PART OF STUDY TOUR

A young physicist from West Pakistan, Mohammed Jan Khan, included the University of the Pacific as a part of his four-month study tour of the United States this fall.

A Reader in Physics at Peshawar University, the 34-year-old Moslem has been traveling as a participant in the Foreign Specialist Program of the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, U. S. Department of State. Hosts to the visitor during his Stockton stay were Dr. and Mrs. Emerson G. Cobb who recently returned from a year in Pakistan. Dr. Cobb, chairman of Pacific's Department of Chemistry, was a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Peshawar during the past year.

Memory Fund Established by Zeta Phi

A scholarship fund in memory of Doris Bishofberger Cope '40 who died with her husband, Robert, in an airplane crash during Stockton's Captain Weber Days celebration in July, has been established by Zeta Phi, local social sorority.

Mrs. Cope, a native of Lodi and former teacher at Lodi Union High School, was in charge of the County Welfare Department's old age assistance program at the time of her death. While at Pacific she served as president of Zeta Phi.

Contributions to the fund may be sent to Mrs. Beverly Hoag, 1036 N. Lincoln, Lodi, California.

Lindsay Chamber of Commerce Pays Tribute to A. A. Stagg

A small Sequoia Gigante redwood tree, taken from within the shadow of the Giant Sequoia tree dedicated to Amos Alonzo Stagg on his 99th birthday, was planted on the Pacific campus to honor the 100th anniversary date, August 16, of the Grand Old Man of Football.

The gift, a tribute to Mr. Stagg's service and clean sportsmanship, was presented on behalf of the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce by A. C. Tienken.

The abundance of new growth on the shoulders of Jordan Peak Mountain in Tulare county where the giant redwood has grown for an estimated 3,000 years is second to none, according to Mr. Tienken. We might assume that the seed of the dedicated tree is embodied in the redwood now growing on Pacific's campus, he added.

"KINGFISH" LEVINSKY DIES

Constantine "Kingfish" Levinsky, head of Anderson Dining Hall at Pacific before his retirement, died early in July at the age of 67. A native of Lithuania, he had no known survivors.

ONE OF THE WORLD'S FOREMOST PIANISTS—NOW PIANIST IN RESIDENCE AT PACIFIC'S CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC—HAS WON THE HEARTS OF AUDIENCES WHO HAVE HEARD HER—MANY FOR THE FIRST TIME—DURING HER MANY GUEST PERFORMANCES IN THE PAST MONTHS.

Johana Harris, a famous concert artist never too busy to lend her talents for the betterment of others, gave the first in a series of benefit concerts planned throughout Northern California, in Stockton on October 10. The recital was given to raise scholarship funds for promising young musicians in the Stockton area under the co-sponsorship of the three Stockton high school student bodies and the Conservatory.

Violinist Henri Temianka, founder of the Paganini String Quartet, appeared as guest artist in a special performance of "Sonata for Violin and Piano" by Roy

Harris, world-famous American composer and husband of the gifted pianist. The dynamic writer who is presently a guest lecturer at the University of California in Los Angeles, will join the Pacific faculty in 1963 as composer in residence.

Johana Harris, who formerly headed the music department of the Inter American University in Puerto Rico, was honored with her husband last November by an invitation from President Kennedy to the White House for her aid to the Puerto Rican people, devastated by tidal waves.

A fitting tribute to the Johana Harris Benefit Concert, published in review of her first public concert since coming to the Pacific Conservatory, states: "... New York's Lincoln Center is not likely to hear as fine an artist as graced the stage of Stockton Junior High School's auditorium last night. . . ."

"...The Piano Shouts in Exultation!"

The Remarkable Harrises

Roy and Johana Harris, remarkable as an artist team, might also be considered remarkable as a family team. The Harris family of five children, ranging from ages 5 to 18, is divided between Southern and Northern California until the Stockton residence is fully established.

Staying with "Pa" in Santa Monica are Shaun, 16; Daniel, 15; Maureen, 6; and Lane, 5. Eighteen-year-old Patricia, who already has an eye on an acting career after summer stock in Pennsylvania, is living in Stockton.

Johana, a fifth generation Canadian by birth, points out in the way of most mothers that "all the Harrises are so Irish our youngest calls the Queen of Egypt Cleopatricks."

HOMECOMING

NOVEMBER 3

Ten lovely Homecoming queen candidates will vie for the coveted title until November 2 when the 1962 title-holder will be announced at the Friday evening rally. The pretty coeds will dine with their judges at a luncheon October 25, and on the afternoon of October 29, will appear on KOVR-TV, Channel 13, Sacramento. Candidates are (front row, left to right) Donna Reineke, Glendale; Linda Hoffman, Gardena; Karen Rigor, Tahoe; Jill Lamm, Pleasanton; (back row, left to right) Judy Pearl, Robbins; Sue Rogers, Santa Rosa; Lee Knight, San Jose; Barbara Franks, Monrovia; and Jeanne Cockrum, Shandon. Karla Bailey, Burbank, is not shown.

There is just enough time to make final arrangements to attend the fun-packed Homecoming events scheduled for Saturday, November 3.

Beginning with registration at 9:30 and continuing until the wee hours of Sunday morning when the Pacific Alumni Club plays host to the Homecoming Ball, there will be reunions galore, one of the best Homecoming parades ever, a special alumni section at Pacific's football game with San Jose State, and a special autograph party for Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt.

The students on campus are doing their best to make the day a memorable one, too. Enthusiasm will start to grow Friday evening at a special barbecue on Anderson Y Lawn for students and alumni, followed by a spirited rally when the Homecoming queen and her court will be revealed, and finally the Freshman bonfire.

Floats from each living group and various campus organizations, intermingled with bands from the surrounding area, will make their way down Pacific Avenue, beginning at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Dr. Robert E. Burns will speak at the annual alumni luncheon in Anderson Dining Hall at 12:30. From 2:00 until 4:00, Raymond College will hold open house to enable alumni to meet some of the faculty and students and tour the most recently established facilities on the Pacific campus.

There's a reunion for everyone!

- Keep in Touch -

By what better method can Pacific keep up on current activities, structural changes, as well as controversial issues that arise on campus, than to receive each week the latest issue of the Pacific Weekly?

The student publication hopes to establish bigger and better issues this year and become a self-sustaining enterprise. Subscriptions are available at the Pacific Weekly Office for $2.50 per semester; $4.75 per school year; $9.50 for two years; and $18.00 for four school years.

Colliver Lectureship

"Church and State in the Responsible Society"

The 1962 Colliver Lectures which will be held on the Pacific campus November 26 - 28, will address themselves to the increasingly complex issues and problems of Church and State relationships in the modern world.

Designed to provide a confrontation between persons of widely differing religious background and philosophical learning, and leaders in religion, education and government, the basic framework will be established by a lecturer who is uniquely fitted to interpret the deeper implications of the issues and problems in Church-State relations.

The 1962 Colliver Lecturer is Dr. Walter G. Muelder, Dean of Boston University School of Theology and Professor of Social Ethics. The author of such books as Methodism and Society in the Twentieth Century, Religion and Economic Responsibility, and Foundations of the Responsible Society, Dean Muelder presently is chairman of the study center of the World Council of Churches, Chateau de Bossey, Switzerland. Distinguished guests from across the nation and California are also included on the roster for the sixth annual conference.

$2,000 Awarded To Raymond College Program

Visiting Lecturers Project

The University of the Pacific and the Raymond College Program were chosen to receive one of 30 grants awarded to institutions of higher education in the United States by The Sperry and Hutchinson Company in New York.

The Sperry and Hutchinson Company Lectureship Program now in its third season, provides grants up to $2,000 for visiting lecturers in public affairs and the social sciences throughout five geographical regions of the United States. A $2,000 check for use in the Raymond College Program was presented by Fred Accord, regional representative for the S & H company, to Dr. Warren B. Martin, Raymond provost, and President Robert E. Burns on Pacific's campus.

The objectives of the program are to bring outstanding experts in these fields into direct and informal contact with faculties and students, and to strengthen the influence of the sponsoring colleges by their presentation of distinguished visitors in public lectures.

J. RUSSELL BODLEY DR. FRANK THOMPSON

Conservatory Dean Honored

The first honorary Doctor of Music degree to be awarded at the 75-year-old University of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Wash., was decreed on J. Russell Bodley, dean of Pacific's Conservatory of Music, in June.

The degree was presented by Dr. Franklin Thompson, president of the sister Methodist institution, as he described Pacific's dean as "musician extraordinary—recognized leader in the field of choral music and distinguished member of the leading musical organization on the West Coast and the nation."

Dr. Bodley, a graduate of Pacific and a member of its faculty since 1923, is the tenth dean of the oldest collegiate school of music in California. Since 1934, Dean Bodley has been director of Pacific's nationally-recognized a cappella choir, credited for stimulating the Western revival of a cappella singing. A noted composer in the choral field, the Conservatory dean was honored in 1955 with the establishment of a scholarship fund bearing his name, presented annually to an outstanding music student at Stockton College for further study at the Pacific Conservatory.

Parents Visit Campus

More than 1200 Pacific parents spent Saturday, September 29, on Pacific's campus gaining an insight into the social and academic activities of their collegiate children, and perhaps recapturing some of the nostalgia of their own campus days.

Parents Day activities, planned by a committee of students, faculty and parents, were received with enthusiasm thanks to the hard work and planning of Committee Chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keller of Martinez and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patton of San Leandro. Other parents contributing their efforts toward the success of the day were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hood, San Lorenzo; Dr. and Mrs. Ray Nordstrom, San Leandro; and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haner, Oakland. Donald G. Smiley, executive assistant in the Office of Development, is executive director for Pacific Parents.

Public Receives First Glimpse Of Elbert Covell College

The dining room of the new Elbert Covell College, the first four-year liberal arts college in the United States with an all-Spanish curriculum, was opened to the public for the first time September 16 on the occasion of official presentation of more than 3000 volumes from Mexico to the University of the Pacific.

Mexican and United States dignitaries dined with representatives and friends of Pacific, a concluding event in observance of Mexico's movement for independence from Spain in 1810.

Formal acceptance of the library collection by Pacific was made in ceremonies during the afternoon in the Conservatory Auditorium. A plaque, placed in Irving Martin Library where the volumes are housed, bears the inscription:

"The Coleccion Presidente Lopez Mateos, given by the Government of Mexico and various cultural institutions of Mexico to Elbert Covell College of the University of the Pacific, founded in the year 1851, through the General Direction of Cultural Relations of the Consulate of Mexico in Sacramento, California, 16 September, 1962."

Distinguished guests present for the occasion included Senora Mercedes Fernandez, federal congresswoman, Mexico City; Dr. Leopold Zea, director general of Cultural Affairs, Department of Foreign Relations, Mexico; Dr. Jacob Cantor, director of Inter-American Plans and Programs, Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs, U. S. Department of State, Washington, D. C.; Jesus Maren, president, Comite Patriotico Mexicano, Stockton; Rodolph Franco, director of Comite Patriotico Mexicano, Stockton; Dr. Amalia Castillo Ledon, under-secretary of Cultural Affairs, Secretariat of Public Education, Mexico; Dr. Arthur J. Cullen, director, Covell College; Dr. Adolfo Dominguez, consul general of Mexico, San Francisco; Professor Jesus Ferrer Gamboa, Board of Education, Mexico City; Dan Luebano, deputy director, Department of Finance, State of California; Antonio Islas, consul of Mexico, Sacramento; Dr. Howard S. McDonald, regional representative, Office of Education, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, San Francisco; Elmer R. Boss, mayor, Stockton; Dr. Robert E. Burns, Pacific president; and Elbert Covell, member of Pacific Board of Regents and for whom the college is named.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR MU ZETA RHO — PHILOMUSIA

The search is still on for alumnae of Mu Zeta Rho or Philomusia who have received no meeting notices since June 1961 or before.

Big things are happening. Please give your correct address and maiden name to Mrs. Louis Thanas, 2447 Douglas Road, Stockton, and bring the roster—and yourself—up to date.
