8TH ANNUAL

TIPPETT LECTURE

For the first time in the history of the Bishop Donald Harvey Tippet Lectures, a prominent person of another nation will be the featured speaker.

Dr. Yoshiaki Iisaka, professor of Political Science, Gakushuin University, Tokyo, Japan, will be the guest lecturer at the eighth annual lecture series April 19 and 20 on the Pacific campus.

The lecture will deal with the dialogue of Religion and the University Community with particular relevance to our world situation, according to Arthur Swann, director of libraries and chairman for the 1963 lectures.

Dr. Iisaka is presently assistant secretary of the Office of International Affairs, United Presbyterian Church in the USA. Last year he was a visiting lecturer on Far Eastern History at the University of Nebraska.

The noted lecturer has written many published works and translations, including Against Powers and Authorities, a study in political ethics; and Problems of Shintoism, a study of religious liberty.

Friday's lecture, "International Relations in Theological Perspective," will lead to responses by Dr. Dwight O. Baker, Sacramento State College, Raymond McIlvanna, University of the Pacific, and Dr. James Baird, First Presbyterian Church, Stockton. "The Japanese Students and World Affairs" will be the lecture topic Saturday morning, with responses by Dr. Harold Jacoby and Dr. Arthur Maynard of Pacific, and Rev. Laverne Sasaki of the Buddhist Church, Stockton.

The final lecture, "American Universities and International Affairs," will be presented Saturday afternoon. Responses will be given by Dr. Charles McCoy, Pacific School of Religion, Dr. Louis Mayhew, Stanford University, and Herbert Reinhelt, Pacific.

ON THE COVER: Two Pacific alumni paid a visit to the University campus recently, renewing acquaintances and familiarizing themselves with many new structural changes. Ruth Asay Dabritz is a resident of Washington state where her husband is a minister for the churches in Twisp and Winthrop. Her brother, A. Delbert Asay, has lived in Buenos Aires, Argentina, for the past 10 years. He directs the music program for Ward College, the noted Methodist High School there.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION LABORATORY SCHOOL

A magnificent experiment has been going on quietly in America since 1935—the University of the Pacific, with the advent of Miss Kathleen Shannon in 1955, became a part of that magnificent experiment.

Before her appointment as associate professor of religious education at Pacific, Miss Shannon served a vital function in a movement called the Character Research Project. The CRP, centered at Union College, Schenectady, N.Y., seeks to teach children and youth to make Christian religion a constructive force in daily life.

The child, the church, research, the use of scientific methods, the parents—all are integral parts of the CRP. Miss Shannon, an ordained minister of the Disciples of Christ, began her work with the project first as a field worker. Later she became a research associate and curriculum writer at the project's home base at Union College.

CHARACTER RESEARCH PROJECT

KATHLEEN SHANNON

—fellowship period, general project of the day, and worship service—is carefully planned to make the program a total experience.

A Family Program

Parents are participants from the very beginning. Children are registered for the cooperative laboratory school the previous spring, and a mass orientation session for parents is conducted. After a parent-teacher conference has been held in the home, a personality description of the child, as well as other "scientific instruments", becomes a part of each child's folder.

Weekly additions of home assignments, teacher evaluations, and parents' reports all become "scientific instruments" to help adapt the CRP program to the needs and understanding of the individual child.

The CRP curriculum is designed to help teachers and parents to guide children's development in eight dimensions of character which are practical expressions of the Beatitudes. The age levels begin with the two and three year old at the nursery level, progressing as high as grades 11 and 12, or the senior II level.

It is important to note that the laboratory school curriculum is NOT the total program of Christian education for children. The children are expected to continue to participate in their Sunday School activities as well as other mission studies provided by their church.

First University CE Laboratory School

Her arrival at Pacific was followed not too distantly by the establishment of a Christian education laboratory school, the only one of its kind in an institution of higher learning in the United States.

The school had its beginning in 1957, a cooperative venture for Pacific and Central Methodist church. During its opening year, the laboratory school was conducted as a part of the program of the children's division in the church. A year later, the school was opened to fifth and sixth grade students from other churches as well.

"Here is the only thorough study of Christianity in function in church and home," said Dr. Edward Blakeman in regard to the CRP. Dr. Blakeman, formerly of the Pacific School of Religion, is now consultant in public education and religion at Berkeley.

Fourteen young people come to "school" every Thursday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock to participate in a program perviously planned for them by four student teachers. The daily assignment, broken into three areas

Scott Nelson of Stockton, left, is one of four student teachers participating in the program of the Christian education laboratory school. James Schuck and Alice Rundle, both fifth grade students, discuss a current project with Mr. Nelson during a school session at Central Methodist Church. James was recently named the champion speller for his grade in San Joaquin county. Alice was a finalist from her school in the spelling competition.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGISTS

PACIFIC - SUTTER COMMUNITY HOSPITALS INITIATE PROGRAM

An agreement has been reached between the University of the Pacific and Sutter Community Hospitals of Sacramento which will result in a four-year program for the training of medical technologists, leading to a Bachelor of Science degree.

In an effort to help overcome a critical deficit in the training of medical technologists, the two institutions have prepared a program of study combining three years of academic instruction at Pacific with a fourth year of laboratory experience and training in the Sutter Community Hospitals.

"We believe this association is mutually beneficial and provides students with the opportunities which would not be within the reach of either institution acting individually," said Dr. Wayne Pollock, executive director of Sutter Community Hospitals.

Dr. Pollock points out that the use of laboratory tests in the diagnosis and treatment of disease is rapidly increasing in number and complexity and automated electronic equipment is becoming available in several fields.

Faculty Nucleus of Physicians

The first three years of training at Pacific will include the study of subjects specified in the technical fields including chemistry, physics, bacteriology and zoology. The fourth year at the Sacramento hospitals will deal with the technical aspects of the medical field, taught by a faculty nucleus of six physicians, all board certified specialists in pathology, and one physician specializing in hematology.

DR. WAYNE POLLOCK

DR. ROBERT BURNS

The technical training program will be conducted primarily in the recently completed Wheeler Diagnostic division which includes classrooms, laboratory, and routine and advanced equipment, representing an overall investment of approximately $750,000. In addition, the clinical laboratory and radioisotopes laboratory at Sutter General Hospital and the new cardio-pulmonary laboratory at Sutter Memorial Hospital will be used.

"The increased use of diagnostic facilities and a rapidly expanding population has created a demand for medical technologists greatly in excess of the supply," said President Burns. "To overcome the deficit, national organizations are urging the establishment of training schools in accredited hospitals," he added. California law makes mandatory a baccalaureate degree after 1965, a requirement that makes college affiliation almost essential.

Practical Application

Students in their fourth year will perform laboratory activities dealing directly or indirectly with patients as practical work. The compensation they receive will more than meet the educational expenses. Pacific will select and enroll all students for the four-year program.

The proposed course of training meets the requirements of the American Medical Association, and is approved by the California Department of Public Health. The program for the Bachelor of Science degree also complies with the requirements of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

Speech and Hearing Club Becomes National Fraternity

The Pacific Speech and Hearing Club has been granted membership in Sigma Alpha Eta, national speech and hearing Greek fraternity, according to Miss Sue Edelman of San Mateo, president.

The 45 members of the Speech Correction Club will make up the first national chapter on the Pacific campus. Professional programs are held regularly to help broaden the views of the speech correction profession.

Colliver Lecture Dates Set

The 1963 George H. Colliver Lectures will be held December 2, 3, and 4 with Dr. Martin Marty, member of the editorial staff of the Christian Century, as guest lecturer. Theme for the lecture series is "The Church and Urban Society."

Mexico, Spain On President's Itinerary

President Robert E. Burns returned early this month from Hawaii where he served as a consultant for the establishment of an interdenominational college there. His appointment to the planning committee was made by the Board of Education of the Methodist Church.

Still another area has called on Dr. Burns for consultation. In April a member of the Pacific Board of Regents will send Dr. and Mrs. Burns to Mexico City to consult with the founders of the new Latin American University there. Carlos Trouyet, one of the founders, had talked previously with Dr. Burns in New York City.

While in Mexico Dr. Burns hopes to meet with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico to thank him personally for the Spanish library collection presented to the University of the Pacific for Elbert Covell College. He will also visit with Mrs. Gene Cady Gerzso, a graduate from Pacific with the class of 1934, who is assistant to the president at Mexico City College.

On April 16, the university president will attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Independent College Funds of America in New York City before traveling on to Madrid, Spain. While in Madrid, Dr. and Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Alma Teichert of Sacramento and Elbert Covell, Woodbridge, both members of the Pacific Board of Regents, and Robert Winterberg, executive assistant to the president for financial affairs, will be the guests of Dr. Robert Woodward, U. S. Ambassador to Spain and father of the idea for Elbert Covell College. The group will visit other parts of Europe, including Oxford and Cambridge from which many of the ideas were gathered for Pacific's cluster college plan.

Raymond College enrolled its first freshman class last September. The second cluster college, Spanish-speaking Elbert Covell College, will be open for classes in September, 1963.

DEAN TAYLOR TOURS SOUTH AMERICA FOR STUDENT RECRUITMENT

Dr. Elliott J. Taylor, dean of admissions, has just completed an extended tour of South American countries to recruit students for the new Elbert Covell College which will open in September.

The month-long tour, broadcast widely on Voice of America, included visits to secondary schools in Guatemala, Panama City, Bogota, Lima, Santiago, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Rio de Janeiro and other South American cities. South American students were invited to become a part of the new Spanish-speaking college of liberal arts which has set as its goal an inter-American educational program to meet the needs of all Americans in the Twentieth Century. All courses are taught in Spanish, with the exception of English, taught as a foreign language.

IN APPRECIATION

Professor Rom Landau, area study director of the Peace Corps contingent for Morocco which underwent a concentrated training program in San Luis Obispo recently, was officially honored by the Peace Corps during its commencement banquet.

A mounted brass plaque, presented to the noted Moroccan authority, was inscribed:

The Peace Corps Morocco Project I presents this plaque to Professor Rom Landau in appreciation for sharing with us his knowledge and love of Morocco.

For his individual efforts towards the success of the project. For his sincere and personal interest in each of us.

No other award has ever been given.

Sixty Peace Corps trainees, with the northwest African country of Morocco as their final common destination, embarked on the rigorous 15-week training program at California State Polytechnic College at the close of 1962. Professor Landau, while still continuing his classes at Pacific, was coordinator of the special area studies program, designed to acquaint the volunteers with the history, culture and life of the people of Morocco.

In commenting on the tribute paid him by the Peace Corps, Professor Landau remarked, "If the motivation is right, you can fly . . ."

THE NEW PLAYBOX

The University of the Pacific's newest dimension for dramatics, the Playbox, has proved to be a smashing success in its second season.

When "Bells Are Ringing" opens on April 18, the charts for reservations will already show several evening performances marked "sold out." The Broadway musical will round out the season for the intimate little theatre just off Pacific Avenue.

AND AN OLD REVIVAL

Pacific Theatre just concluded the run of its 267th production. The play, "Death Takes A Holiday," was first presented by the Pacific Little Theatre group on December 4 and 5, 1931. The director then, as now, was DeMarcus Brown.

How many grads remember the cast of this revival when it was performed on the stage of the Pacific Auditorium some thirty-one-plus years ago?

ISABEL FALCH EICHELBERGER '32 played the part of Cora. FRANK WILBUR, now associate director for Fallon House Theatre productions each summer at Columbia State Park, was cast in the part of Fedeale. Duke Lambert was played by ARTHUR FAREY '29 who later became director of public relations at Pacific, and currently is public information director for the California-Nevada Conference of the Methodist Church.

Two other young coeds playing the parts of Alda and Duchess Stephanie were ELEANOR STEVENS LETNICK '41 and MARY LOVE HARRIS BROWN '33. KORAL VAUGHN '33 has gone on to become personnel manager of The May Company in Los Angeles since her days as Princess of San Luca.

HOWARD BAILEY '34 played the role of Baron Cesa-rea. FRANCES HALL PRAHSE '33 was cast as Rhoda Fenton.

WILLIAM GEERY '33 has settled in the profession of voice teacher in Sacramento since his role as Eric Fenton. TULLY KNOLES, JR. '31, cast as Corrado, is making his home in Palo Alto where he is head of the adult education division. Stockton's ADELENE READ CAMPBELL '35 was Gracia.

ELROY FULMER '26, featured in the 1931 production as Prince Sirki of Vitalba Alexandri, has continued in the field of drama. He is currently director of the Contra Costa Civic Theatre and Contra Costa College theatre. ROBERT PATTERSON '48 of Lodi was Major Whitread in that cast.

And remember the production staff? Here are a few names that might seem familiar—MARGARET HENCH WADE '32, KAY KINSEY FOWLER '32, MARJORIE CRUMMEY REBHOLTZ '33, CARLOS WOOD '33, MARIAM HOTLE BURDO '33, BARBARA BORDEN HADLEY '32 and YANCEY B. SMITH '34.

... A DELIGHTFUL NEW DIMENSION

The Pacific Playbox, a delightfully attractive and comfortable little theatre, was developed a short time more than a year ago from a dingy, broken down bindery for a printing company.

Through ingenuity and hard work, an area no larger than 48 square feet was developed into the popular showplace of today. Curt Ennen, Pacific Theatre's technical director, surmounted phenomenal obstacles and developed an inviting yet technically correct setting for the intimate theatre productions.

The opportunities offered at the new 157 W. Adams Street setting are many, says the delighted 'Marc' Brown. Besides being able to offer the community some of the best entertainment possible, the university is able to give its students an immeasurable amount of training in the theatre—experience they would never be able to receive in giving perhaps two performances of a single production.

With a minimum of expense the variable Playbox theatre offers a maximum of opportunities for the drama student. Individual Kona chairs can be arranged in any combination: to take on the elements of the circle-in-the-round; for the utilization of two walls coming together in a corner; or to take advantage of a full brick wall as a background for a particular production.

One of the more intriguing factors for Playbox patrons has been the touch of elegance during intermission. Coffee served in white china cups is offered by Pacific coeds to each theatre-goer at his chair. Each capacity audience of 100 becomes a part of each performance—even during intermissions.

Fallon House's Columbia Company will open its 14th season July 6 and will continue through August 18.

Over 8,000 theatre enthusiasts attended the famous summer theatre last season, and Pacific Theatre hopes to bring that number even higher this year. Again, as in years before, Fallon House will offer a different show each night of the week, once the full complement of shows has been added to the repertory. Franklin Wilbur, drama coach at Franklin High School in Stockton, will return as associate director.

Receptionist Jan Bailey Takes Reservations

"EDWARD BANNISTER, SCHOLAR, PIONEER EDUCATOR, RELIGIOUS LEADER, BROUGHT TO CALIFORNIA IN THE YEAR IT BECAME A STATE A LEADERSHIP AND DEDICATION THAT WAS NEEDED IN THOSE EARLY, RUGGED DAYS. THE FOUNDING OF THE UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC WAS IN THE SPIRIT OF THE EARLY PIONEERS, AND THIS SAME PIONEERING SPIRIT SURVIVES AND GIVES IT VIGOR TODAY. IT IS THIS SPIRIT OF VISION AND BOLD ADVENTURE THAT INSPIRES MEMBERS OF THE EDWARD BANNISTER CLUB TODAY."

The Bannister Club

University of the Pacific

At the suggestion of Philip A. Danielson of Evanston, Illinois, a member of Pacific's Board of Regents, the University has established the Edward Bannister Club.

The club has been named for the institution's first president whose life represented dedication, vision, generosity, and enduring interest. An organization for select friends and alumni of the University, it serves as a means for Pacific to make known its gratitude and to encourage the continued interest of the men and women who have dedicated themselves to maintaining the academic excellence that is Pacific.

Membership in the Edward Bannister Club is open to friends and alumni who have pledged their intention to contribute $10,000 or more to the University over a period of ten years, or who signify their intention to provide $10,000 or more through their estate.

Several social functions throughout the year will offer opportunities for University administrative officers and faculty members to acquaint the club with plans and problems of the University. Activities will be delegated to a 12-member executive committee, appointed in the first instance by the Board of Regents of the University. Thereafter, the committee will be self-perpetuating upon annual approval by the Board of Regents. The president of the University and any vice-president of the University may be selected by the executive committee to serve as ex-officio members.

The University hopes that membership will reach 100 within the near future.

FASSETT GRANT IN AID

The generosity of W. W. Fassett, Sacramento, has helped to assure four years of higher education for three freshman coeds at the University of the Pacific.

As provided by the W. W. Fassett Grant-In-Aid established at Pacific this month, two Raymond College students, Janet McCombs, Wasco, and Kathleen Bingham, Long Beach; and Marie Dunlap, an education major from San Luis Obispo, will receive scholarship assistance during their four years of study at the University.

CALIFORNIA HISTORY FOUNDATION

Johana Harris, world-famous concert pianist, and Irene D. Paden, prominent author, lecturer, and traveler, will be featured at the Sixteenth Annual Institute of the California History Foundation March 29 and 30.

Leland D. Case, editor of Together magazine, and originator of the Jedediah Smith Society, will be a special guest for the annual breakfast meeting on Saturday.

During the annual Foundation banquet in Grace Covell Dining Hall, Mrs. Paden will report Highlights from a Visit to the Friendly Russian People. The Universal Language will be brought to life through the fingers of Mrs. Harris at the piano.

Civil War Centennial

The Civil War Centennial Program on Saturday will include a discussion of the Causes of the Civil War by Dr. Sam Ross of the Department of History, Sacramento State College. Glenn W. Price of the Department of History at Pacific will speak on the topic, Our Civil War Heritage.

Dr. Walter A. Payne, Department of History faculty member at Pacific, will be the guest speaker at the Foundation luncheon Saturday in Raymond College Great Hall. His topic will be Lincoln's Caribbean Colonization Project. Prior to the final luncheon on Saturday, Howard G. Bissell, chairman of the board of architects, will conduct a tour through Raymond and Covell Colleges, the first of the cluster colleges to be constructed on the Pacific campus.

Board Meetings

Other activities scheduled for the two-day meeting include a conducted tour of the Pioneer Museum and Haggin Galleries, concluding with a reception and tea. Sponsors are the board of trustees and junior women's group. President Jerry MacMullen, San Diego, will preside at the spring meeting of the board of directors, Conference California Historical Societies.

Professor J. Randolph Hutchins, past director of the California History Foundation, will be on hand for the luncheon meeting of the board of sponsors.

Special speaker for the Jedediah Smith Society breakfast will be Rev. Donald Chase, Jackson. He has chosen the topic, A Significant Spanish Document. Mrs. Hugh C. Tye of Stockton, president, will preside and call for the election of officers.

TOM

IRVINE

The Sprague Boys Go to Washington

The Sprague boys have taken Washington by storm.

Irvine '48, the first to make the move to the nation's capitol, has served as administrative assistant to Representative John J. McFall for the past six years. Last month Governor Edmund G. Brown appointed the Stocktonian as deputy director of the State Department of Finance in charge of federal liaison.

Tom '56 was assigned to the position of manager of public relations for Aerojet's Washington Office last March. He previously had been assistant manager of public relations for the Sacramento Plants for three years.

Family Ties to Pacific

Both men stem from 16 years in the field of newspaper writing, and have married their college sweethearts.

Marjorie Crow left Pacific during her college career to become the bride of Irvine Sprague. Michael, the elder of their three children, is a junior at the University of Maryland while 14-year-old Terry attends Page Boy School at the Library of Congress. Nearing the status of a teenager is their daughter, 12-year-old Kristine.

Tom and Patricia White Sprague '50 make their home in Bethesda, Md., and are busy raising two young sons, Gary, age 6, and Brian, age 3.

Keeping in the Pacific Program has been a tendency shown by the Sprague family. Norma S. Gordet and June S. Fergusson, known as the Sprague sisters during their Pacific days, followed in the steps of their mother, Claire D. Sprague. For she, too, has been a Pacific coed.

THE FACULTY WORLD

DR. J. MARC JANTZEN, dean of the School of Education, is one of a five-member subcommittee on Teacher Education in Liberal Arts Colleges which compiled a publication on Liberal Arts Colleges and Teacher Education.

The subcommittee is a part of a national program of study and activities geared to the task of encouraging the improvement of college and university offerings in teacher education, conducted by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

An article on Practices in Student Teaching by Dr. Jantzen appeared in Issue 7 of the AACTE study series, a survey of programs, practices and problems compiled by the subcommittee.

DR. JAY REEVE, chairman of the Department of Educational and Counseling Psychology, was a guest lecturer for the 52nd Annual Convention of the Music Teachers' Association of California held in Santa Barbara. Dr. Reeve's address was on the topic, "Motivation of Children, Seven Principles for Artists."

DR. WARREN B. MARTIN, provost of Raymond College, is the author of the lead book review published in the January 23 issue of The Christian Century. Dr. Martin presented his analysis of the book, The Retreat To Commitment by William Warren Bartley III.

DR. JOEL W. HEDGPETH, director of the University Marine Station at Dillon Beach, has been nominated as a member of the council of the Association for Tropical Biology which was constituted at the Neotropical Botany Conference in Trinidad last July. He also has been enrolled as a founder member of the new Association.

Officers and council for the Association will take office July 1, 1963, according to J. W. Purseglove, University of the West Indies, chairman of the executive committee.

GEORGE B. WILLIAMS, instructor in mathematics, has received a National Science Foundation grant to attend a summer institute in Numerical Analysis for college teachers of mathematics, physical sciences and engineering, June 24 through August 16. The eight weeks session at UCLA is to promote the training in numerical analysis as it pertains to modern computing methods and automatic digital computers.

KATHLEEN SHANNON, associate professor of Religious Education, was a delegate to the Governor's Conference on Delinquency Prevention in Sacramento this month. Conference participants considered ways in which California communities can identify and work constructively with children and youth who appear to be delinquency prone.

MRS. FAY GOLEMAN, associate professor of Education and Sociology, will continue to serve on the Governor's Advisory Committee on Mental Health at the request of Governor Edmund G. Brown.

California's mental hygiene program, universally recognized as one of the most outstanding in the nation, last year presented a plan projecting bold and imaginative approaches to effective treatment of mental illness and mental retardation.

Mrs. Goleman has served under three governors in this capacity, and for three terms was a member of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth. Prominent in community service, the mother of three children served for two terms as president of the Stockton and San Joaquin County Community Council, and on the boards of San Joaquin County Public Welfare, Parent-Teacher Association Foundation and Temple Israel. Mrs. Goleman recently presented a paper on social work at a staff conference of Mount Zion Psychiatric Clinic in San Francisco.

She is the widow of Professor Irving Goleman who was awarded a posthumous Honorary Doctor of Humanities Degree by Pacific in June, 1962, the only such degree ever given.

A review of a guide book to Latin conversation, written by EDWARD Y. LINDSAY, acting chairman of the Department of Ancient Languages, has been published in the January issue of The Classical Journal. Since 1939 Professor Lindsay had been chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages, Grant Union High School District, Sacramento.

DR. JOHN V. SCHIPPERS, assistant professor of Education, is co-author of an article titled, "Word Problems in Arithmetic," which appeared in the February issue of The Instructor Magazine. Dr. Schippers taught in the laboratory school of the State University of Iowa before joining the Pacific faculty last September.

MISS ELIZABETH MATSON, professor of health, physical education and recreation, is on sabbatical leave and touring Tahiti, New Zealand, Australia, and the Fiji Islands on a combination business and pleasure trip.

She will visit the University of Otago in Denedin, New Zealand, the Universities of Melbourne and Sidney in Australia to observe physical education teaching methods and to talk with educators. Miss Matson will return to Stockton in July to resume her teaching duties during second summer session.

A painting by RICHARD REYNOLDS, professor of art, has been selected by the jury for the National Exhibition of Small Paintings for inclusion in its 1963 year-long traveling exhibition sponsored by the tour Gallery Associates in Albuquerque, New Mexico. The painting selected is "Pattern along the San Joaquin."

SOUTH PACIFIC

FAR EAST

Dr. and Mrs. Ivan W. Rowland met with fellow pharmacists and their wives in Honolulu early this month on their first step of the 1963 Pacific Pharmacy Holiday and Professional Tour.

The first Professional Pharmacy tour, unique in the field of educational tours, was conducted by the Rowlands during the summer, 1961, when this same group toured Europe. Contacts with professional groups and pharmaceutical firms during the trips are special features.

Making the tour of the South Pacific and Far East with the Rowlands are Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Davison and Dr. and Mrs. Paul W. Schreiber, Livermore; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Foley and Mrs. Henry John Haaf, Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Ted D. Lyckberg and Mr. and Mrs. Louila J. Fischl, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. George Probert, Torrance; Frank W. Robinson, Menlo Park; Yoneo Suzuki, Sacramento; and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pelletier and daughter, Janice, Newport Beach.

Visits to Tahiti, the Fiji Islands, Hong Kong, Australia, New Zealand, and Japan are but a few of the stops on the itinerary before the group returns to the Hawaiian Islands on April 29.

A third son was born to Dr. and Mrs. Philip Wogaman '54 on March 12 in Stockton. Paul Joseph, weighing in at 7 pounds, 14 ounces, will have plenty of company when he joins brothers Stephen and Donald in the family circle.

Pacific Associates Report

Death Takes Frank McKeegan

Frank C. McKeegan, prominent Stockton businessman and treasurer of Pacific Associates, died unexpectedly in his home February 28. The community, and the Pacific Associates, will feel a great loss in his absence.

Mr. McKeegan, born in 1890 in Oakland, was president of the Bravo & McKeegan clothing store which he helped found in 1929. During his 72 years he became a leading figure in the community. In 1962 he was proclaimed "Mr. Better Business Bureau" at the close of his term as president of the organization. He also was a past president of the Credit Bureau of Stockton, a director of the downtown merchants group, and a founder and director of the Delta Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. McKeegan is survived by his wife, Agnes, and two sons, Robert and Thomas, currently president of Pacific Associates.

Annual Spring Meeting Changed to May 17

The Pacific Associates annual spring meeting has been changed to Friday, May 17.

At that time President Robert E. Burns will give a full account of his April trip to Europe and his visit with Ambassador Robert Woodward.

Southern Californians Meet at La Canada

More than 100 friends and alumni of Pacific attended a stimulating meeting at La Canada Country Club March 15. Special plaudits are in order for the many Southern California alumni who contributed so much toward making the meeting the tremendous success that it was, reports Donald E. Payne, executive secretary of the Pacific Alumni Association.

President Robert E. Burns was the guest speaker. Pianist Johana Harris also honored the group with her music, and received a standing ovation at the close of her performance. Other Pacific representatives attending the get-together were Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, Jess Rudkin, and Donald G. Smiley.

Herm Saunders '40 was general chairman for the evening. Assisting as dinner chairman was Betty Tudor '42. Bud Stefan '43 was master of ceremonies. Others contributing to the successful evening included Anna Louise Keck Germeshausen '29 and Roy Hamma '35.

Edna Smith Cooke '08 was honored as the oldest Pacific alumnus present. Len Detrick '50, chairman of the Alumni Fund Council, was also on hand for the event. Newsletters will be in the mail with further details for an informal summer get-together in the Southern California area.

'17 Grad Donates Piano

Charles Conrad Weidemann '17 of Lodi has donated a valuable grand piano to the University. It will be played on the stage of the Conservatory for the first time late in March. Mr. Weidemann previously taught music in the East.

New Associates Welcomed

Wallace D. Brewer and Harold R. Nelson have accepted membership in The Pacific Associates. Both of the active businessmen have expressed a special interest in the area of business administration and economics.
