REPATRIATES NOW BEING RESETTLED IN MANCHUKUO

Information regarding former residents of U. S. who returned to Japan on the last exchange of nationals between the two countries was picked up by monitors of the Federal Communications Commission from an English broadcast by Radio Tokyo on Oct. 14, according to the Minidoka Irrigator.

The broadcast follows:

"Former residents of the U. S. who returned to Japan aboard the steamship Teia Maru will (one word missing) a village in Manchukuo. The government authorities in Manchukuo are making preparations to accord courtesy to the new settlers."
