THIS IS THE COLLEGE OF THE PACIFIC TODAY

□ When one changes his name after 50 years, he runs the risk of confusion that only time can fully clarify. The name of this institution was changed from College of the Pacific to University of the Pacific on January 6, 1961.

Today, four years later, the University of the Pacific has come much closer to universal identification as the degree-granting institution for three liberal arts colleges and five professional schools with the College of the Pacific known as one of the liberal arts colleges of the University.

If any identification difficulty prevails, it naturally lives among those of us whose loyalty is deeply interwoven with the "College of the Pacific era." These alumni, along with a great many other people, are caught also in the overwhelming number of changes made at "Pacific" in the past four years.

To all who were closely associated with the College of the Pacific from 1911 until 1961, your pride in the accomplishments and stature of COP should never dim because the name utilized by the University during those 50 years is still preserved and vital to the everyday life of the University of the Pacific.

For example, more than 25 departmental and inter-departmental degree programs are offered by 19 departments in the College of the Pacific. Both the School of Music and School of Education offer Bachelor of Arts degree programs which are administered by the College of the Pacific. Further, students enrolled in any of the University's professional schools look to the departments of the College of the Pacific for courses to meet the general requirements of the University, and for elective courses to complete their study program.

College of the Pacific students, in turn, may enroll in any courses in the several University professional schools for which they may be eligible by preparation and interest.

The College of Arts and Sciences within the University of the Pacific that carries and preserves the name utilized by the University from 1911 until 1961.

A DISTINCTIVE ACADEMIC PROGRAM — VARIED, CHALLENGING ...

IN PRESENTING THE FAR-REACHING ROLE OF THE COLLEGE OF THE PACIFIC TODAY,
IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE ITS HISTORICAL PLACE IN THE 114-YEAR DEVELOPMENT OF CALIFORNIA'S FIRST CHARTERED* INSTITUTION OF HIGHER LEARNING

Three names --- One institution --- All woven into the fabric of California's "Pacific Pioneer" history

CALIFORNIA WESLEYAN COLLEGE
1851 - 1852

Located at Santa Clara, California

☐ A meeting of the Methodist Quarterly Conference at the First Methodist Church in San Francisco on October 18, 1850, just ten days prior to the arrival of the steamer Oregon carrying the news of California's admission to the Union, brought forth the first pledge of support for the establishment of an institution of higher learning.

An educational conference, convened in the Methodist Church of San Jose on the 6th and 7th of January, 1851, furthered the pledge of support in a recommendation for the "founding of an institution of the grade of university." In the excitement of California's admission to the Union, the legislature only provided for the incorporation of colleges. Thus, the charter petition submitted to the State Supreme Court, which was acting ad interim for the legislature, carried the name California Wesleyan College in the tradition of the pioneer Methodist-founded colleges. The charter was granted July 10, 1851 in this name with "university powers and privileges."

UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC

Location changed from Santa Clara to San Jose, California in 1871

☐ At the very first meeting of the 24 men appointed by the Methodist Church to serve as the Board of Trustees, it was decided to seek a change of name to "The University of the Pacific." The change was authorized March 29, 1852 by a new legislative enactment brought about by a petition from the Executive Committee of the Board.

COLLEGE OF THE PACIFIC

Location changed from San Jose to Stockton, California in 1924

☐ Dr. William Westley Guth was inaugurated president of the University in 1909. He had attended the Academy sponsored by the University of the Pacific as well as being graduated in the first regular class at Stanford University, doing graduate study at Boston University and earning a Ph.D. in Germany. As a leading educator of his time, he recognized that the endowment was inadequate to support a university program, stating "The University of the Pacific, or rather, the College of the Pacific, aims to be a college of high rank, and has a splendid equipment for first-class college work." His recommendation to change the name to College of the Pacific was acted upon and became official May 17, 1911.

1961 -

Located in Stockton, California with School of Dentistry teaching facilities in San Francisco

☐ A triple achievement was formally noted on Founders' Day, January 6, 1961: the name of the institution was reinstated as originally declared; adequate financial resources and academic credentials had brought the institution to full university status; survival of incredible difficulties had brought the institution to a decade beyond its centennial milestone. An extensive advancement program also had been launched for the University's second century of service.

* Three institutions are identified with the earliest history of privately supported, church related educational activities of collegiate rank in the West Coast area: (a) The University of the Pacific, chartered July 10, 1851; (b) Willamette University in Salem, Oregon - a Methodist institution - chartered January 12, 1853; (c) University of Santa Clara, formerly Santa Clara College - a Catholic institution - chartered April 28, 1855.

□ The College of the Pacific is at one and the same time the oldest and yet one of the newest segments of the University.

Old — because it embraces the subject matter fields which have been the heart of the curriculum since the founding of the University . . . history, philosophy, and science.

New — because only since 1962 have these and the newer subject matter fields been brought together into one operating unit.

Lacking a separate campus of its own or even a designated set of buildings, the College of the Pacific is not a "visible" unit of the University as are, say, Elbert Covell College or the School of Pharmacy. But lacking in "visibility," it is not the less "real" in the life of the University.

The College of the Pacific is an idea as much as an organization; a concern as much as it is a collegiate community. It is modern in the diversity of areas of study which it opens to the eager student; but it is traditional in its emphasis that underlying this diversity, there must be an undergirding of liberal learning if the student is to be truly educated. To this point of view, the College of the Pacific is deeply dedicated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above statement is that of Dr. Harold S. Jacoby, dean of the College of the Pacific. This depth of understanding, concern and endless commitment to the subject about which he speaks is reflected in the quality of the academic program he heads.

A Pacific graduate in the class of 1928, he earned his Master's degree at Northwestern University and his Ph.D. in sociology at the University of Pennsylvania in 1933, the same year he joined the faculty at his Alma Mater.

In 1942, Dr. Jacoby joined the War Relocation Authority as chief internal security officer for the Tule Lake relocation project, becoming Midwest regional director and then serving in Egypt, Palestine and East Africa with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration supervising housing and movement of Greek refugees.

In 1956, he spent a year teaching in Japan at Yamaguchi University. He was appointed to his present position in 1962 after serving as chairman of the Department of Sociology.

An abundance of community projects crowd his busy calendar, for example, currently serving as president of the Community Council of Stockton and San Joaquin County.

Coordinating the interests and aspirations of 95 energetic faculty members is a significant achievement in itself. The College of the Pacific Today is intimately linked to the leadership of Harold S. Jacoby.

THIS IS THE EMPHASIS AND DEGREE PROGRAM IN EACH DEPARTMENT:

ART (A.B.)

Both career and non-career objectives characterize the program of the Art Department. The majority of the majors are preparing themselves for graduate study in some area of special interest or for elementary or high school teaching. The Department is not interested merely in the production of artists or specialists in art, but in bringing to a broad segment of the University some understanding and appreciation for art and its place in the life of the educated man and woman. Full-time Faculty: Richard Reynolds (chairman), Earl Washburn, Howard Passel and Larry Walker.

BIBLE AND RELIGIOUS EDUCATION (A.B., A.M.)

For many years, the work of this Department revolved around the required courses in Bible and the field of religious education. Today, the required Bible courses still occupy a central position, but religious education has become primarily a graduate field. At the undergraduate level, emphasis is being placed on theological studies, church history and social ethics. Illustrative of this new development is the Pacific Center for the Study of Social Issues, supported by an annual grant from the Scottish Rite bodies and located in the Bible and R. E. Department. Full-time Faculty: Arthur Maynard (chairman), Kathleen Shannon, Walter Nyberg, Philip Wogaman, Lawton Harris.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES (A.B., M.S.)

Representing the consolidation of the once-separated Departments of Botany and Zoology, the Biological Sciences Department serves a varied cross-section of academic programs beginning with courses to fulfill University science requirements to specialized requirements of the pharmacy and pre-medical professions as well as the growing number of students preparing for graduate study. The curriculum includes the fields of botany, zoology, bacteriology, physiology, genetics and ecology. Full-time Faculty: J. David Carson (chairman), Conrade Head, Gerald Gates, Fuad Nahhas, Gary Brusca.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (A.B.)

Recent trends in business education stress the growing importance of a strong liberal arts foundation. With this point in view the Department of Business Administration is in strong agreement. At the same time, it recognizes that techniques of analysis and decision-making must also be taught in order to provide a solid foundation for the business man of tomorrow. The Department is proud of the fact that all members of its faculty have had both academic and practical business experience. In addition to its full-time staff, five men from the Stockton business community serve as lecturers in the fields of their special competence. Full-time Faculty: Arthur Beckwith (chairman), Monroe Hess, Franklin S. Rice.

CHEMISTRY (A.B., B.S., M.S., Ph.D.)

In addition to serving the needs of the Schools of Pharmacy and Engineering, the Department of Chemistry has compiled an enviable record in the preparation of students for graduate study. More than half of the graduates since 1949 have gone into graduate study with one-third of this latter group having completed work for the Ph.D. degree. Full-time Faculty: Emerson Cobb (chairman), Herschel Frye, Howard K. Zimmerman, Richard P. Dodge, Charles A. Matuszak, Donald Wedegaertner.

CLASSICS (A.B.)

The Department of Ancient Languages has recently changed its name to Department of Classics. Curriculum planning and the Department's general program is demonstrating that the study of Latin and Greek is not on its way out. Although there has been an increase in the number of course offerings which do not require language preparation, enrollment in the beginning courses of both Latin and Greek has enjoyed a healthy resurgence. Full-time Faculty: Robert Smutny (chairman), John Murphy.

ECONOMICS (A.B.)

An understanding by the educated citizen of "the beauties, the wonders and the problems of our economic system" is the primary objective of the Department of Economics. Courses offered by the Department include some familiar and some probably not so familiar to alumni such as Labor Economics, Monopolies and Cartels, Fiscal Policy and the Economic Development of Underdeveloped Nations. Full-time Faculty: Charles Norman (chairman), Edwin Ding and Arthur Beckwith.

In addition to the College of the Pacific seal illustrated on the front cover, architectural detail on campus buildings include the coat-of-arms from Christ Church College (above) and Lincoln College (below) at Oxford University where John Wesley was both student and scholar. The College of the Pacific seal was designed by Dr. John L. Burcham, a Pacific vice president from 1921 to 1930 who participated in planning the Stockton campus. His grand-daughter, Betty Burcham, is presently enrolled as a sophomore in the College.

ENGLISH (A.B., A.M., Ph.D.)

Specialization tempered by broad concern for the education of the whole student characterizes the undergraduate and graduate programs of the Department of English. Members of the faculty in the areas of special competence include: Clair C. Olson, chairman, Chaucer and Medieval Literature; Lawrence J. Osborne, Milton and 17th Century English Literature; Ruth Faurot, 19th Century English Literature; Louis Leiter, Renaissance English Literature; William Binkley, 18th Century English Literature; Charles Clerc, Creative Writing and Modern Literature; Eugene Ross, Journalism and Teaching of English; Harry Wilson, 19th Century American Literature; and Marion Garthwaite, Children's Literature.

GEOLOGY AND GEOGRAPHY (A.B., B.S.)

The growth in offerings in geography and a marked increase in student enrollments in all courses characterizes developments in the Department of Geology and Geography. In contrast with a staff of one person in 1956, the Department now has three full-time and two part-time members. Full-time Faculty: John Sticht (chairman), James D. Blick, Stanley Volbrech and Ansel B. Clayburn.

HEALTH, PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND RECREATION (A.B., A.M.)

This Department serves the entire University with respect to physical education and activity courses. In addition it has an extensive program of theoretical courses designed to serve its majors, most of whom are planning on some type of teaching or coaching. Full-time Faculty: Paul Stage (chairman), Elizabeth Matson, Carl Voltmer, Doris Meyer, Don Camppora, Floyd Edwards, Melvin Morretti, Thomas Stubbs, Ed Henke, Douglas King and Connor Sutton.

HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE (A.B., A.M.)

While history continues to prosper, being served by a staff of six persons, political science has recently enjoyed a rise to the status of a full-fledged partner in the Department with the appointment of a second political scientist to the staff. Full-time Faculty: Historians - Malcolm R. Eiselen (chairman), Malcolm H. Moule, Randolph Hutchins, Walter Payne, Glen Price and Donald Grubbs; Political Scientists - Raymond McIlvenna and Walton Raitt.

HOME ECONOMICS (A.B., B.S.; A.M., in Family Life Education)

Miss Gehlken's retirement in June 1964 necessitated changes in the Department of Home Economics. Under the able direction of the new chairman, the Department has maintained a strong program and a full complement of courses by securing part-time lecturers, each of whom is a specialist in her respective field. The home management apartment in Manor Hall in which two students live for a half-semester to gain experience in the operation of a home remains one of the features of this Department. Full-time Faculty: Mrs. Maxine Garrigan (chairman).

MATHEMATICS (A.B.)

Increasingly in recent years, mathematics has become more than a mere tool for other areas. It has become a model of patterns of thought in a wider and wider range of subject matter areas, especially in the social sciences. The recognition of this by the Department of Mathematics is reflected in curriculum changes of the past few years, and the recognition of it by students is reflected in heavier enrollments in freshman mathematics among students of social sciences and prospective elementary school teachers. Full-time Faculty: Floyd F. Helton (chairman), G. Warren White and Frank C. Gentry.

MODERN LANGUAGES (A.B., French and German; A.B., A.M., Spanish)

In 1960, the Department of Modern Languages consisted of but three faculty members, one in each of the fields of French, German and Spanish. Presently there are ten full-time and three part-time faculty members in the same three language fields. Spanish instruction covering the range from beginning Spanish through work for the A.M. degree is carried on by John Wonder, chairman of the Department, together with Senora Graciela de Urteaga, Fernando Rivas, Albert Eraso and Robert Dash. Full-time French instructional staff are Janin Kreiter, Robert Kreiter and Marie Anne Bianconi. Leonard O'Bryon and Erwin Lippka are the full-time German staff.

PHILOSOPHY (A.B.)

Learning to think philosophically rather than learning about philosophy is the primary objective of the course work offered by the Department of Philosophy and is one of the reasons for the high reputation of the Department on campus. Beyond the campus and throughout the philosophic world, the Department is recognized for its sponsorship of the Philosophy Institute held annually at Asilomar and for the quarterly, now in its fourth year - The Philosophy Forum. Full-time Faculty: William D. Nietmann (chairman) and Herbert Reinelt.

PHYSICS (A.B., B.S., M.S.)

Because of an exceptionally favorable student-faculty ratio in the Department of Physics, upper division students have opportunities for research experience and individual study not often found in undergraduate education. One senior student is presently studying periodic properties of molecules with the aid of a grant from the American Chemical Society. Another spent last summer programming design studies for the bubble chamber of Stanford University's new linear accelerator. Full-time Faculty: Carl Wulfman (chairman), Richard Perry and Fred Inman.

PSYCHOLOGY (A.B., A.M.)

For many years, psychology was a segment of the School of Education. Since 1961, it has become a full-fledged department within the College of the Pacific. Curricular emphases revolve the polar interests of clinical psychology and experimental psychology with considerable use being made of campus and community situations for training purposes. Full-time Faculty: W. Edgar Gregory (chairman on one-year sabbatical), Wilfred Mitchell (acting chairman), Leonard Campos and Richard Ross.

SOCIOLOGY (A.B., A.M.)

Maintaining a balance between the development of theoretical understandings and participation experiences in research and community activities, represents the current emphasis in the Department of Sociology. Student groups currently are involved in programs at the Preston School of Industry and the Deuell Vocational Institution and recently participated in a study of the consequences of housing integration that was widely reported in the public press. Full-time Faculty: M. Lewis "Jack" Mason (chairman), David K. Bruner, Fay Goleman, Patricia Wagner and William F. Byron.

SPEECH (A.B., A.M.)

Four areas comprise the jurisdiction of the Department of Speech: public speaking, speech therapy, the theatre and radio-television. In each of these areas, the Department has enjoyed wide-spread recognition - the most recent instance being the selection of Paul Winters as the nation's "Debate Coach of the Year." Department Chairman Howard Runion is associated with Halvor Hansen in the speech therapy program. DeMarcus Brown and Curt Ennen constitute the theatre program staff. The radio-television staff includes John Dennis, Rod Rigg and John Davlin. Other speech staff include Edward Betz, Gordon Zimmerman, Donald Duns and Brenda Robinson.

Getting acquainted

at Pacific includes some formal moments that have a way of becoming informal and informative.

1 - Faculty: "The Ultimate Test"

In writing in the June, 1957, issue of Trustee, a quarterly letter to the trustees of church-related institutions of higher learning, Dr. Myron F. Wicke, then a member of the staff and now general secretary, Division of Higher Education, Board of Education, The Methodist Church, said: "A college or university must be measured primarily by the quality of its faculty. Regardless of the size and impressiveness of buildings, equipment, and endowments, the faculty is still the ultimate test of educational quality."

Through all of its long history, the University of the Pacific has been dedicated to the proposition that the success of its academic program depends upon the quality of its faculty. At Pacific, we believe, with Dr. Wicke, that "the faculty is still the ultimate test of educational quality."

Now in its one hundred and fourteenth year, Pacific has 209 individuals on its academic faculty concerned primarily with the instructional program on the Stockton campus. What is the background of training and experience this group of men and women make available to Pacific students? It is most impressive!

At the doctoral level (this year 60 per cent of Pacific's full-time academic faculty on the Stockton campus hold the earned doctorate), the faculty brings to students the intellectual resources of the great graduate schools of the East --- Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Brown, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State, Syracuse, Rhode Island, Boston and New York universities, the Union Theological Seminary, Bryn Mawr and Middlebury colleges; of the Middle West --- Chicago, Northwestern, Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio State, Purdue, Kansas and Kansas City; of the West --- Washington, Oregon, Oregon State, Colorado, Colorado College of Education, the University of California at Berkeley and at Los Angeles, the University of Southern California, and Stanford. Universities in the South and Southwest are represented by Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and Arizona State at Tempe.

Either at the doctoral level or for other graduate study and research, members of the Pacific faculty have been trained at such foreign universities as Marburg, Berlin, Bonn, Munich, and Erlangen in Germany; the University of Paris (Sorbonne) in France; Madrid in Spain; Bristol, Cambridge, and London in England; Glasgow in Scotland; Sydney in Australia; Ontario in Canada; the University of San Carlos in Guatemala; the Pedagogical University of Colombia; the National University of St. Augustine in Arequipa, the Main National University of San Marcos, and the Catholic University of Peru; the National University of Buenos Aires and the National University of Cordoba in Argentina; and the University of Havana in Cuba.

If the quality of a faculty is in any way related to the prestige and variety of the institutions where its graduate study was obtained, and there is adequate evidence that it is, the University of the Pacific faculty of 1964-65 should pass "the ultimate test" with colors flying. It certainly makes available to Pacific students, to all within the faculty itself, and to the community of Stockton a rich background of intellectual resources and a tremendous variety of educational experiences.

2 - Facilities: Gifts for continuous improvements

□ Construction of the first of two additions to Irving Martin Library at the University of the Pacific is to get underway within four months.

The three-story addition, plus basement, will be attached to the north side of the present structure and contain 16,800 square feet, nearly doubling present floor space.

"In recognition of the large gift made to the University in May 1966 by Mr. and Mrs. Don B. Wood toward this project, and as a tribute to their late son, John, the addition will be named Wood Memorial Hall, President Burns said.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wood are not alumni of the University but they have expressed a continuing interest in its growth. Their gift of $233,400 clearly demonstrates their concern for the needs of privately supported higher education," Dr. Burns added.

Mr. Wood is chairman of the board of Wood Canning Company, Stockton. In presenting their gift, Mr. and Mrs. Wood emphasized they felt "the University is doing wonderful work and merits expanding support to help it achieve its goals in higher education."

Total cost of the first addition, including furnishings, will be approximately $370,000. The construction schedule calls for completion in time for use of the building next fall. All financing for the present project is complete. No date has been set for the second three-story addition to be constructed on the south side of the present structure. Architects are Howard G. Bissell and Associates.

University library holdings now total over 122,000 volumes, according to Librarian Arthur Swann.

3 - Foundations: Grants determined by performance

□ The University of the Pacific has been selected as one of 20 outstanding liberal arts colleges throughout the United States to participate in a scholarship program established by the Stella and Charles Guttman Foundation of New York City.

Each of the schools designated by the Foundation will receive a total of $20,000, comprising a grant of $5,000 per year for a period of four years. At the end of four years, trustees of the Foundation will re-examine the program, which is expected to continue, possibly with constructive modifications based on the experience of the four initial years.

The grant will provide financial assistance to qualified students who aspire to higher education, and will total $400,000 to the 20 institutions selected.

In a letter to President Burns, Mr. Guttman wrote: "It is with great pleasure that I enclose the first annual scholarship grant to your undergraduate liberal arts college from the Stella and Charles Guttman Foundation."

"I am very pleased that the undergraduate college of the University of the Pacific is a participant in our Scholarship Program, since I regard it as one of the finest colleges in the United States. Assisting your students in this manner is a source of great personal satisfaction to me."

Along with the other educational institutions chosen for the grants the University of the Pacific reflects the conviction of the Foundation's trustees that private liberal arts colleges preserve the finest traditions of our American way of life, according to Mr. Guttman.

"Such schools stimulate fresh, creative thinking and encourage intellectual initiative. They are uniquely equipped to turn out the kind of young people our nation needs in these troubled times."

THROUGHOUT PAGES OF THIS PUBLICATION, IMPORTANT ACHIEVEMENTS ARE REPORTED THAT CLEARLY DECLARE THE DIRECTION IN WHICH THIS UNIVERSITY IS MOVING. FIVE EXAMPLES ARE PRESENTED ON THESE TWO PAGES. IN EXAMINING THE CONTENT OF THESE ACHIEVEMENTS, ONE STATEMENT — OBJECTIVELY PRESENTED BY A NEW YORK FOUNDATION — REITERATES PACIFIC'S PURPOSES AS WELL AS THE ESSENTIALS THAT BRING THIS UNIVERSITY TO THE THRESHOLD OF GREATNESS: "SUCH SCHOOLS STIMULATE FRESH, CREATIVE THINKING AND ENCOURAGE INTELLECTUAL INITIATIVE. THEY ARE UNIQUELY EQUIPPED TO TURN OUT THE KIND OF YOUNG PEOPLE OUR NATION NEEDS IN THESE TROUBLED TIMES."

4 — Administration: Experienced and committed leadership

□ The man in the center of this picture may very well have the distinction of completing the longest continuous service as a member of the governing board of any institution of higher education in the U. S. or the world. Until a reliable source can help verify the record, O. D. Jacoby carries the high honor of completing 50 years of continuous service as a Trustee and Regent at Pacific. Presenting him with a plaque during a program in his honor at the October Board meeting are President Burns (left) and Methodist Bishop Harvey S. Tippet.

Mr. Jacoby was first elected as a Trustee on September 26, 1914 when the campus was located in San Jose. He served as president of the Board from 1941 to 1952. In the latter year, he was given the Order of Pacific, the University's highest award.

A native of Pennsylvania, Mr. Jacoby came to California in 1901 to work for the old West Side Lumber Company in Tuolumne as a stenographer. The head stenographer was Elizabeth Jones whom he married in 1903. He entered the banking business as a private secretary to the president of American National Bank in San Francisco, eventually becoming cashier of an affiliated bank in Oakland. He then became executive vice president for East Bay operations of three banks that later merged into the American Trust Company.

The veteran Trustee resigned from the bank in 1928 to help organize the Golden West Savings and Loan Association of Oakland, serving as president until last year when he became chairman of the Board.

He is the father of one daughter and three sons: Mrs. Esther Comstock of Alamo (a 1926 Pacific graduate); Dean Harold S. Jacoby; Roger in Oakland (a 1935 Pacific graduate); and Wilbur in San Francisco.

5 — Benefactors: Investments in youth

John N. and Jessie L. Ballantyne were the University's largest single benefactors in the 1963-64 fiscal year, giving nearly $400,000 toward the education of other people's children. The couple has no children but they have an uncommon concern for giving aspiring young people "a lift, not a gift."

This philosophy, expressed by "Nick" Ballantyne when he symbolically pointed the way for 18-year-old Carl Lyons, came last September at the time the Lodi couple presented $192,300 to establish a scholarship and loan fund to aid orphans and young people from broken homes.

"Nick" and Carl are shown above in the vineyard located on the Ballantyne home ranch four miles north-east of Lodi where "Nick" and Jessie have farmed for the past 38 years. This real estate together with other property and a cash amount made up the $192,300 to permanently endow the new scholarship and loan fund. Lifetime occupancy of the 3-acre home site on their ranch is a provision in the gift agreement.

Carl enrolled at Pacific this fall under qualifications of the John N. and Jessie L. Ballantyne Scholarship with encouragement expressed by "Nick" to "consider this scholarship award a lift that you can pay back by getting your education, getting a job and then putting something back into this scholarship fund that will make it possible to give a lift, not a gift, to many other orphans and young people from broken homes."

The Ballantyne Scholarship, as well as other scholarships already established at the University, are open to other contributions to increase the permanent endowment fund that makes it possible to award a larger number of scholarships and larger amounts.

In March of last year, "Nick" and Jessie presented a gift of $200,000 to the University. In recognition of the gift, a new residence hall accommodating 100 students was dedicated as Ballantyne Hall.

These two benefactors are the first to acknowledge the great satisfaction these gifts to the University have brought into their lives. They strongly encourage others to enjoy what can be a crowning achievement to a fruitful life as well as a sound investment that works to preserve the finest traditions of our American way of life.

APPRECIATION TO OUR BOARD OF DIRECTORS

□ Continuing appreciation is due all members of the Board of Directors for diligent efforts, not only in carrying out the business of the Quarterly Meetings, but in the additional follow-through given by each member on separate committee assignments. Even though all members are not able to attend every meeting, each member demonstrates a positive attitude toward participation in Board responsibilities. CONSTITUTION COMMITTEE — Bob Monagan, Chairman

One of the chief concerns of the Board of Directors is restructuring the make-up of the Board to provide direct representation for each College and School in the University. Determining the manner in which this will be set up for the future is the Constitution Committee assignment. Appropriate constitutional revisions will be presented for approval. Action has already been taken in anticipation of this need. Dr. William Low carries out direct representation for the School of Dentistry as a regular Board member. Two ex-officio members presently give voice for their respective University alumni groups: George Silva, School of Pharmacy and Bill Berck, School of Education. In the same ex-officio capacity, Pete Windrem represents the interests of the Pacific Student Association and Clayton Clement speaks to the interests of the senior class that assumes alumni status in June 1965. The total project promises improved representation leading to a stronger unity in the total Pacific Alumni Association program.

RECRUITMENT COMMITTEE — Tom Ferrari, Chairman

How does a prospective student evaluate a college or university? The criteria grow along the lines of an individual's personal preferences but certain measurements are always basic. One of these basics is the attitude demonstrated by alumni. Expanding the involvement of alumni in presenting the opportunities and benefits of an education at the University of the Pacific is the concern of the Recruitment Committee. Good headway has been made in developing a procedure that is effective and places minimum demand upon participating alumni coast-to-coast and around the world. All the planning is closely coordinated with the Dean of Admissions, Dr. Elliott Taylor.

STUDENT RELATIONS COMMITTEE —

Jean Goodwin Holt and Bud Sullivan, Co-Chairmen

One of the newest projects is organizing the method and manner by which current students can be more closely related to Pacific Alumni Association activities in anticipation of the time when these students become Pacific Alumni. The need merits high priority. Imagination and formative plans are well underway.

Other standing committees working on selected projects under the leadership of Board members are concerned with Curriculum, Placement, Athletics, Fraternity and Sorority Activities, Publications and Public Relations.

President Burns expressed appreciation in behalf of the University to Chris Kjeldsen Memorial Fund donors during halftime ceremonies at the Homecoming football game where Mrs. Mabel Kjeldsen presented a check for $10,000 from the Fund, making it possible to originate the first scholarship award. Donations are still encouraged by Fund sponsors to extend benefits of the Fund to more students. Mail gifts to Dean DeCarli, 3414 Dwight Way, Stockton.

□ Alumni who take up their working careers close to the Alma Mater home site are among those most often called upon to rally to that endless variety of tasks effectively performed by alumni. A good number of hometown alumni keep giving a willing hand to continuing requests from the Alumni Office. It is unusual, however, when a few of these alumni volunteer beyond these requests in the interest of advancing the Alumni Association and the University in general. Boyd Thompson is among those who come forth with a solid selection of new ideas matched with the follow-through to help get the job done.

Enough years have passed since Boyd earned his A.B. in 1943 and his Master's degree in 1948 to justify some tapering off on his alumni responsibilities. But each year continues to find him responding to a new need and a new task for which we are deeply grateful because he does such a capable job.

Qualifying as a yell leader for each of four undergraduate years is a preliminary test in the direction of becoming "A Real Tiger" in Pacific's booster ranks. Boyd passed that test, serving a head yell leader for his junior and senior years. He blended this with a liberal involvement in athletics starting as a trainer with the Stockton Junior College football team in 1941, serving as trainer for the Pacific Football team in 1942, earning three letters and the captaincy of the track team in 1943 that also earned him the Coaches' Award.

He had the title of faculty instructor for the U. S. Navy from his graduation date in 1943 until 1946 when he was back at Pacific enrolled for graduate study and working as track coach at Stockton Junior College. In his three years of coaching these track teams, he guided them to three undefeated seasons in regular competition, drawing a third position in the 1948 national track meet event.

As the affairs of Stockton College and College of the Pacific were then closely linked, this brought Boyd into the position of assistant athletic director at Pacific until 1951. From here he took up his present position as executive secretary of the San Joaquin Medical Society, the Society's Foundation for Medical Care and Executive Director of the Delta Blood Bank.

In alumni affairs, he serves on the Board of Directors as a regular member and immediate past president as well as carrying the responsibilities of Athletic Committee chairman, Awards Committee chairman and membership on the Board of Athletic Operations. He served as chairman of the alumni-sponsored Open House held November 8.

In the community, he's active as president of the Stockton Advertising Club, a past president of Family Service Agency and recent member of the Greater Stockton Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. In the further reaches of his work, he is trustee of the Community Blood Bank Council of the United States, president of the Medical-Dental-Hospital Bureau of America, Inc. and a member of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

Married to the former Virginia Graham of Roanoke, Virginia, Boyd is the proud father of three children, Tay, 12; Susan, 8; and Scott, 5.

ACCENT ON ALUMNI ACHIEVEMENTS

A primary appeal in all alumni projects is how the projects will benefit current and future students at Pacific. As general chairman of the alumni-sponsored Open House, Boyd Thompson found planning of campus tours with members of the Spurs and Knolens (sophomore and senior women's honorary organizations) especially appealing as represented by (from left) Peggy Grotenhuis of Louisville, Ky. and Mary Ann Koda of Dos Palos. Boyd recommends a continuation of Open House, annually sponsored by alumni, as a means of acquainting more residents throughout San Joaquin County with Pacific's extensive program in higher education. And who wouldn't want to attend with tour hostesses like this?

DEDICATED TO DEVOTED ALUMNI AND CONTINUED LEADERSHIP IN THE DENTAL PROFESSION

A GREAT MOMENT HAS ARRIVED! It is a moment that has made history in the records of gift support by devoted alumni. It is a moment that advances the dental profession to a new frontier of opportunity in its unending service to mankind. It is a distinguished moment in the long and arduous history of a "school that refused to die."

By provisions of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act and the appropriation bill signed by President Lyndon Johnson on September 19, 1964, a $3,805,785 federal grant has been allocated to the School of Dentistry, College of Physicians and Surgeons, making it possible to proceed with construction of a new $8,500,000 building at the corner of Sacramento and Webster in San Francisco. The work, patience, struggle and sacrifice to qualify for this grant truly demonstrates the strength of alumni devotion and outstanding professional competence of Dean John J. Tocchini and his faculty and staff.

Since 1954, a large percentage of the 1,850 living alumni of this school has contributed generously to the building fund. This fund now totals $4,200,000. A $515,750 research grant from the National Institute of Health completes the amount required for the project. All this had to be accomplished before the School of Dentistry could qualify for the federal grant. By early diligence, it was among the first --- if not the first --- to receive its request for a matching grant.

Skidmore, Owings and Merrill are architects for the new nine-story structure. But it is fair to say the generosity of alumni determined the basic design for the future of this school in its service to the dental profession.

"We rejoice that the School of Dentistry has realized its victory," Dr. Burns said. "We salute the alumni, the dean, his staff and all who worked to pursue this high goal."

When ground is broken January 21 as part of the 66th Annual Alumni meeting of the School of Dentistry, College of Physicians and Surgeons, real evidence of the great moment will have arrived. Everyone is invited. The program begins at 2:30 p.m. Come and enjoy a great moment that reflects the high purpose of this total University.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY IN '66 — An effort is well under way to bring every available member of the Pacific A Cappella Choir for a three-day reunion at Homecoming 1966.

The Golden Anniversary for the first college a cappella choir to be organized on the Pacific Coast should be one of the greatest events in the long illustrious history of Pacific. There have been two choir directors: Charles ("Papa") Dennis who founded the group in 1916 and conducted it until 1934, and J. Russell Bodley who has conducted the Choir for the past 30 years. Both are enthusiastic about the 50th Anniversary plans.

Skipper Yee '50 and Vernon "Pop" Stoltz '29 have been working on preliminaries for the BIG SING IN '66. They now call for help in gathering names and addresses:

1. If you are a former member of the Choir, send your name, address and member years to the Dean's Office, Conservatory of Music;
2. Search your old letter files, Christmas card lists, etc., and send us names and addresses of choir members with whom you have kept in touch;
3. Add a few lines about what you are doing, where you have been — or simply indicate "pertinent information sent in on my Alumni Questionnaire to the Alumni Office." We'll follow up from there.

The goal: 500 is a minimum number. Start thinking ahead to Homecoming 1966 for a gala event — a unique experience you won't want to miss!

FACULTY ACTIVITIES

Fall Semester Summary

DR. EDWARD POHLMAN, associate professor of educational and counseling psychology, organized a symposium for the American Psychological Association national convention and presented one of the papers. The symposium dealt with psychological research on birth and population control.

ROM LANDAU, professor of history, published an article on "The United States and North Africa" in the summer issue of The Muslim World and an article on Morocco in the summer issue of The Middle East Journal. His best selling book, "God Is My Adventure," has recently been issued in paperback form. First published in 1935, the book became an immediate international bestseller and was reprinted more than a dozen times.

DR. IVAN W. ROWLAND, dean of the School of Pharmacy, was selected from among the top ranking pharmacy educators in America to speak to the 5,000 delegates at the 66th Annual meeting of the National Association of Retail Druggists held in San Francisco.

Approximately 230 colleges and universities hold membership in the Council which serves as the national organization representing the interests of American graduate education.

DR. LUCAS UNDERWOOD, professor of musicology, had to give up his speaking engagement at the IX International Musicology Congress in Salzburg, Austria, because of illness. His paper on the "Stylistic Unity in Verdi's Operas" was read in his absence by Dr. Otto Albrecht, treasurer of the American Musicology Society. Dr. Albrecht reports the paper was well received, discussed and quoted by the chairman of the Verdi Round Table, Professor Massimo Mila of Torino, and among others, by Professor Dr. Grout, president of the American Musicological Society.

DR. LEONARD P. CAMPOS, assistant professor of psychology, and DR. RICHARD B. ROSS, assistant professor of psychology, attended the annual convention of the American Psychological Association in Los Angeles. Dr. Campos went as a volunteer worker and Dr. Ross presented a paper entitled "Memory Deficits Produced by Unilateral Spreading Depression." Dr. Campos has been elected vice chairman of the San Joaquin County Coordinating Council for services to the Mentally Retarded.

DR. HOWARD K. ZIMMERMAN, associate professor of chemistry, presented four papers at the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in cooperation with two post-doctorate research fellows, DRS. PAUL GROSS and KLAUS BRENDEL. Their papers were the result of research on the fundamental chemistry of amino-sugars at Pacific under a grant from the National Science Foundation. Dr. Gross has accepted an appointment to the staff of the Carbohydrates Research Laboratory of Harvard Medical School, Boston.

DR. JOHN DENNIS, assistant professor of speech and director of broadcasting, has been awarded an honorary associate membership in the Anderson Research Institute, Inc. of Stockton. The purpose of the Institute is archeological study and investigation of biblical history and stories.

BETTY ISERN, associate professor of music and music education, attended a Music Therapy Symposium in Lawrence, Kansas, sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health through the University of Kansas, the purpose being to compile a resume of research in music therapy. Miss Isern was chairman of the section on Mentally Retarded. She also served as program chairman for the National Association for Music Therapy Conference held in Kansas City and currently holds the position of First Vice President of this national organization.

When it comes to bringing home what you went out to get, Paul Winter did such a good job he ended up bringing home top achievement for himself. He was named "Debate Coach of the Year" during ceremonies at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. November 28. His University of the Pacific team won the 1964 National Debate Championship at West Point as well as the National Television Debate televised coast-to-coast by educational television stations.

The University's academic leaders assembled as a panel to interpret basic aspects of programs within each College and School as part of a one-day workshop for the Board of Regents. The new encyclopedia is designed as a major reference source to suit student as well as adult general reference requirements.

NEW STAFF APPOINTMENTS

□ Jerry Weaver, a television newsman and 1960 Pacific graduate, was appointed director of the news bureau in the University's public relations office in August. He assumed responsibilities formerly handled by Mrs. Shirley Drake.

As a news cameraman and reporter for KCRA-TV (Channel 3, Sacramento) for the past three years, Mr. Weaver was their Stockton-Modesto area correspondent for the past year. He majored in radio and television as well as reporting for the campus newspaper, the Pacific Weekly, while a student at Pacific. He is married to the former Bonnie Sasse of Sacramento, a 1964 Pacific graduate. They became the proud parents of Robert Andrew, born November 19.

□ John F. Higgins became director of non-academic personnel in September. An expert in labor, government and management personnel relations, Mr. Higgins spent the past five years as personnel manager for the Golden Grain Macaroni Company in San Leandro. He also served as consultant in personnel relations to several Bay Area Companies.

He is married and a native of Medford, Massachusetts.

□ James L. Norvell, director of development for Yale Law School, joined the development staff as associate director of development November 1. Mr. Norvell's first assignment is coordinating fund raising for the new School of Pharmacy facilities.

His previous positions include director for health professions at University of Pittsburgh and director of development for Beaver College. An avid sports fan, he has held newspaper and radio sports reporter positions in the Midwest.

He is married and has three children.

□ Stanley R. Stevens, Jr. is the new secretary of the Anderson "Y" Center. He recently served as associate pastor of a United Church of Christ in South Laguna and previously was associate secretary of the University of Washington Y. M. C. A. He is married and has two children.

In announcing the appointment, Dr. M. Lewis Mason, president of the Anderson "Y" Board, indicated Norm Gustaveson has taken a position in Chapel Hill, N.C.

□ The name of Lester Ramon Jackson has joined the growing list of major benefactors at the University of the Pacific. Mr. Jackson (left) and his family were honored November 8 as a climax to the Open House program when Casa Jackson, a new residence hall in the Elbert Covell College quadrangle, was dedicated as a memorial to his parents, George and Josephine Jackson.

His daughters, to the left and right of President Burns as they posed after the ceremonies by the plaque for the new building are Mrs. Gwendolyn Jackson Halpin and Mrs. Beverly Jackson Farnum.

Half of Mr. Jackson's $250,000 gift goes toward the cost of a children's clinic in the new School of Dentistry building in San Francisco, also a memorial to his parents.

As a businessman who operated a homewares store at the corner of 10th and Clement Avenues in San Francisco since 1920, Mr. Jackson has made this significant investment in privately-supported higher education out of interest and concern for preserving the principles of free enterprise as carried on by the University of the Pacific.

SAINT MICHAEL'S COLLEGE APPOINTMENTS

□ The Saint Michael's College Board of Trustees has appointed an architect and a director of development.

John Carl Warnecke and Associates of San Francisco were named at the October Board meeting as educational planners and architects for the new Episcopal-sponsored liberal arts college and Warren H. Page was given director of development responsibilities at their December meeting.

The Warnecke firm has served as project architect for the University of California - Berkeley campus since 1947 and since 1955, the firm has been a planning consultant and project architect at Stanford University. They are currently engaged in work at the new UC - Santa Cruz campus which has adopted Pacific's "cluster" college concept.

Thomas H. Creighton, a partner in the Warnecke firm, will be in charge of the project. He is a former editor of Progressive Architecture, the national architecture magazine. Design of the new buildings will be complementary to the rest of the University, according to Wayne Gray, Saint Michael's Dean of Administration.

Mr. Page joined the staff January 1. He has been headquartering in Salt Lake City as administrative coordinator in fund raising promotions for a state association of six privately-supported, church-related liberal arts colleges. Positions he previously held include field work for the National Voluntary Health Agency, executive director of the state affiliate Health Agency and public relations-development positions for several private colleges. He is married and has two children.

Dr. Larry A. Jackson, the new dean of the chapel, is shown speaking to the fall meeting of the Church Council. A native of Florence, South Carolina, he has been in Chile since 1957, first as a pastor and since 1959, as director of Santiago College. He received his Doctor of Divinity degree from Pacific in 1961, earning his A.B. degree at Wofford College and his B.D. at Union Theological Seminary. He is married and has four children.

THREE MEN NAMED TO BOARD OF REGENTS

Each for a three-year term

FERD WALTER CALLISON, M.D.

A specialist in abdominal surgery and gynecology, Dr. Callison is a 1918 graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons (now the School of Dentistry) when it was both a medical and dental school. He has been a visiting surgeon at French Hospital in San Francisco since 1920. Since 1954, he has been a visiting surgeon and president of Polyclinic Hospital and director of San Francisco Polyclinic and Post Graduate College.

Founding three life insurance companies and serving as president and director for a number of corporations are among his business career activities. He is current president and director of the National Safety Council - San Francisco Chapter, and past president and director of the Commonwealth Club.

THEODORE HENRY PALMQUIST, D.D.

Since September 1964, Dr. Palmquist has been the minister of First Methodist Church in Palo Alto, coming there after nine years as minister at Foundry Church in Washington, D.C. He served previously at Wilshire Church in Los Angeles and First Church, Fresno.

A 1934 Pacific graduate, Dr. Palmquist earned his B.D., D.D. and L.H.D. at Pacific School of Religion. He is in constant demand for church, civic, cultural and educational speaking engagements in all parts of the nation. One of his innovations, perhaps stimulated by his early creative work in advertising, is the use of dramatic groups and speech choirs to interpret biblical teachings in connection with his sermons.

WALLY MOON, M.A.

At an earlier meeting of the Southern California - Arizona Conference of The Methodist Church, Wally Moon was elected as one of the six representatives on the Board of Regents from that Conference. An active Methodist layman, youth leader, businessman as well as a nationally known baseball star, Mr. Moon rates education as his greatest interest next to baseball. He earned his B.S. in physical education and M.A. in administrative education at Texas A & M.

□ The name of Lester Ramon Jackson has joined the growing list of major benefactors at the University of the Pacific. Mr. Jackson (left) and his family were honored November 8 as a climax to the Open House program when Casa Jackson, a new residence hall in the Elbert Covell College quadrangle, was dedicated as a memorial to his parents, George and Josephine Jackson.

His daughters, to the left and right of President Burns as they posed after the ceremonies by the plaque for the new building are Mrs. Gwendolyn Jackson Halpin and Mrs. Beverly Jackson Farnum.

Half of Mr. Jackson's $250,000 gift goes toward the cost of a children's clinic in the new School of Dentistry building in San Francisco, also a memorial to his parents.

As a businessman who operated a homewares store at the corner of 10th and Clement Avenues in San Francisco since 1920, Mr. Jackson has made this significant investment in privately-supported higher education out of interest and concern for preserving the principles of free enterprise as carried on by the University of the Pacific.

SAINT MICHAEL'S COLLEGE APPOINTMENTS

□ The Saint Michael's College Board of Trustees has appointed an architect and a director of development.

John Carl Warnecke and Associates of San Francisco were named at the October Board meeting as educational planners and architects for the new Episcopal-sponsored liberal arts college and Warren H. Page was given director of development responsibilities at their December meeting.

The Warnecke firm has served as project architect for the University of California - Berkeley campus since 1947 and since 1955, the firm has been a planning consultant and project architect at Stanford University. They are currently engaged in work at the new UC - Santa Cruz campus which has adopted Pacific's "cluster" college concept.

Thomas H. Creighton, a partner in the Warnecke firm, will be in charge of the project. He is a former editor of Progressive Architecture, the national architecture magazine. Design of the new buildings will be complementary to the rest of the University, according to Wayne Gray, Saint Michael's Dean of Administration.

Mr. Page joined the staff January 1. He has been headquartered in Salt Lake City as administrative coordinator in fund raising promotions for a state association of six privately-supported, church-related liberal arts colleges. Positions he previously held include field work for the National Voluntary Health Agency, executive director of the state affiliate Health Agency and public relations-development positions for several private colleges. He is married and has two children.

Dr. Larry A. Jackson, the new dean of the chapel, is shown speaking to the fall meeting of the Church Council. A native of Florence, South Carolina, he has been in Chile since 1957, first as a pastor and since 1959, as director of Santiago College. He received his Doctor of Divinity degree from Pacific in 1961, earning his A.B. degree at Wofford College and his B.D. at Union Theological Seminary. He is married and has four children.

THREE MEN NAMED TO BOARD OF REGENTS

Each for a three-year term

FERD WALTER CALLISON, M.D.

A specialist in abdominal surgery and gynecology, Dr. Callison is a 1918 graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons (now the School of Dentistry) when it was both a medical and dental school. He has been a visiting surgeon at French Hospital in San Francisco since 1920. Since 1954, he has been a visiting surgeon and president of Polyclinic Hospital and director of San Francisco Polyclinic and Post Graduate College.

Founding three life insurance companies and serving as president and director for a number of corporations are among his business career activities. He is current president and director of the National Safety Council - San Francisco Chapter, and past president and director of the Commonwealth Club.

THEODORE HENRY PALMQUIST, D.D.

Since September 1964, Dr. Palmquist has been the minister of First Methodist Church in Palo Alto, coming there after nine years as minister at Foundry Church in Washington, D.C. He served previously at Wilshire Church in Los Angeles and First Church, Fresno.

A 1934 Pacific graduate, Dr. Palmquist earned his B.D., D.D. and L.H.D. at Pacific School of Religion. He is in constant demand for church, civic, cultural and educational speaking engagements in all parts of the nation. One of his innovations, perhaps stimulated by his early creative work in advertising, is the use of dramatic groups and speech choirs to interpret biblical teachings in connection with his sermons.

□ As a result of a gift from the Independent Bankers Association of Northern California, a library collection of books on banking has been started at the University in memory of the late R. L. Eberhardt, president of the Bank of Stockton and member of the Board of Regents until his death in October 1963. Mr. Eberhardt was a founder of this Association.

□ The Research Corporation of America has awarded a Frederick Gardner Cottrell grant to Dr. Charles Matuszak, assistant professor of chemistry.

Three National Science Foundation research grants have been received: one provides funds to aid three students in preparation for careers in chemistry research, one supports investigation of "Recent Sedimentation and Faulting in the Submerged San Andreas Rift Valley" under the direction of Calvin Daetwyler at the Dillon Beach Pacific Marine Station, and the third underwrites a summer research project for secondary level teachers at Pacific Marine Station.

Research grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of the Public Health Service will enable Dr. J. David Carson, chairman of the Department of Biological Sciences, to continue his experiments in cholesterol and Dr. John S. Tucker, assistant professor of natural sciences at Raymond College, to study "Reproductive Cycles in Marine Benthic Invertebrates."

The United States Office of Education has allocated $178,000 to the University for student loans for the 1964-65 academic year under the National Defense Education Act. The University contributes an additional 10 per cent. Distribution of these funds is based on need with priority given those students studying education, sciences and modern languages. Last year, $249,042 was loaned to 357 students at Pacific. These students begin repayment one year after completion of their full-time education with up to 10 years to complete full payment.

□ A $400 scholarship, provided by the Jester's Club, was awarded Dennis Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Jones, Stockton, as the first of a planned series of scholarships by the Club. A graduating student is chosen from one of the five Stockton high schools for these awards. Dennis is an Edison High School graduate with an outstanding record in athletics, forensic competition and dramatics.

□ Five Pacific students were awarded National Methodist Scholarships this year: Elaine Chandler, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Chandler, Watsonville; Harold Griswold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Griswold, Orosi; Patricia Ann Bilbrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bilbrey, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Barbara Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Foster, Chula Vista; and Dorothy Hightower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hightower, South Pasadena.

National Methodist Scholarships are granted on the basis of superior academic standing, leadership ability, active churchmanship, character, personality and need. About 500 such awards are given annually throughout the nation by the Methodist Board of Education. Funds for the support of National Methodist Scholarships are received from local Methodist churches through offerings received on Methodist Student Day, the second Sunday in June.

□ Pacific faculty and staff pledged 122 per cent of their 1964 University Fund Goal; 400 people participated.

PACIFIC PARENTS — "PROJECT 1965"

□ Funds for more library books has been announced by Pacific Parents as their "Project 1965" with National Chairman Dr. Edwin Tippet (right) giving the project an enthusiastic send-off at the October 24 Parents' Day program before approximately 1000 parents. Last year, voluntary contributions from Pacific Parents paid for additional exterior campus lighting. This year's project coincides with the go-ahead on the new Wood Memorial Hall library addition and will supplement the regular library budget for purchase of more reference books to be stocked in the new library addition.

COLLIVER LECTURES HAVE CAPACITY AUDIENCE

□ The Eighth Annual George H. Colliver Lectureship, held November 30 and December 1, achieved a new high in attendance — over 500, indicating the growing appeal of this yearly event sponsored by the Bible and Religious Education Department. Dr. Reuel Howe presented four lectures on "The Church as an Agent of Communication." He is director of the Institute for Advanced Pastoral Studies in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, a postordination training center for ministers. Next year's lecturer will be Dr. Charles Brightbill, chairman of the Department of Recreation at the University of Illinois. His topic: "The Church and the New Leisure."

COMPUTER INSTALLED IN SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

□ Although designed for scientific tabulations, all schools and colleges of the University can make use of the LGP-30 General Purpose Computer now in operation in the School of Engineering. The electronic instrument is a product of Librascope Division of General Precision Company and was acquired from the University of Missouri. Lawrence E. Colip, associate professor of engineering, is supervising its operation.

Jaime Laredo, famous violinist from Bolivia, was a visitor at Elbert Covell College recently.

METHODIST STUDENT DAY

Over 500 high school students from 48 churches of the Northern California - Nevada Conference of The Methodist Church attended the Annual Methodist Student Campus Day. They were accompanied by 35 members of the Church Council whose membership represents the interests of the University in local congregations. The day's program gives these high school students the opportunity to become acquainted with the University program.

INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL

The international flavor of Pacific's faculty and student body makes the annual International Festival a natural campus event. Its timing, this year on December 4 and 5, provides the opportunity for campus and community to shop this world gift bazaar for Christmas purchases.

Folk singer Barry Oliver was a special feature this year. Life in different parts of the world was depicted each evening in a series of films.

The International Club, Anderson "Y" Center, World University Service and Pacific Association of World Affairs are co-sponsors of the Festival. Over $600 was raised this year for service projects among sponsoring organizations.

Pacific's Symphonic Band presented the opening concert at the 13th Annual Biennial Conference of the College Band Directors National Association when they convened at Arizona State University in mid-December. Their concert was presented in the 3,000-seat auditorium which was one of Frank Lloyd Wright's last creations.

Director Gordon Finlay directed the group in their fall concert as part of the November 8 Open House program. He also expanded this year's Band Day to include 20 high school bands from Northern California. Allen E. Jones, director of the Liberty Union High School Band at Brentwood, received the "Band Leader of the Year" award.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

To learn what work with people is like, nothing can match direct observation and participation in the helping agency. Combining formal classwork and experience is accomplished in the Department of Sociology's "Social Field Work" course, designed for students preparing for social work careers.

Students usually spend one day a week in the agency, jointly supervised by the Agency and the University. After orientation, each student serves as a trainee or aid, working with actual cases so far as his abilities make possible.

More than 20 agencies have cooperated to date. Students are currently doing field work at the San Joaquin County Welfare Department, Deuel Vocational Institution near Tracy, the local unit of the Community Treatment Program of the California Youth Authority and Stockton Redevelopment Agency.

Four social services directories have been prepared largely by Pacific students for what is now the Community Council of Stockton and San Joaquin County.

A memorial concert to the late Presidents John F. Kennedy and Herbert C. Hoover was presented November 22 by the University Symphony Orchestra and the A Cappella Choir under the direction of Ralph Matesky. An original composition by Mr. Matesky, titled "Prayer for Peace," climaxed the program. The work is based on the text of a prayer delivered by former President Franklin D. Roosevelt on "D" Day in World War II.

Dr. J. Russell Bodley directed the University Chorus and Orchestra in "The Messiah" presented annually during the Christmas season in Pacific Auditorium. Soloists were Morgia Gross, a senior from Woodstown, New Jersey, soprano; Judith Hammond, a junior from Los Altos, alto; Enrico Serbo, a graduate student from Stockton, tenor; and Robert Harris, a graduate student from Stockton, baritone. Dr. Charles Schilling performed as organist and harpsichordist. A complete simplicity in the performance and use of the harpsichord which is the gift of Mrs. Esther Blum provided a notable performance of Handel's famous work.

The University community has been saddened by the recent deaths of three people closely linked with Pacific.

John F. Schmieskors, purchasing agent for the past 10 years, died November 27 from a heart attack. He is survived by his wife, Margaret.

William S. Orvis, one of Central California's leading cattlemen and member of the Board of Regents, died October 7. He was a native of Stockton and is survived by his wife, Grace, and three children.

Warren D. Allen, former dean of the Conservatory of Music from 1913 to 1919, died in Seattle. He left Pacific to become head of the Stanford University Music Department and had since retired from that position.

GRID AWARDS... AND COMING TO GRIPS WITH GRID QUESTIONS

□ One win and nine losses sends any football team back to the drawing boards. The new designs and dimensions plotted for next year are promising and realistic. An enthusiastic turn-out for the 17th annual awards banquet backed up the 1965 optimism. Those who earned 1964 trophy recognition were congratulated by Phil Flock (center), new president of the Quarterback Club — that great “booster” organization and sponsor of this banquet. In front are Mike Sears (left), most improved; Flock; and Paul Latzke, ironman and captain's trophies. In back are Dick Kirby (left), outstanding lineman; Ismael “Smiley” Verduzco, most loyal; Johnny Rodgers, outstanding defensive player; and Al Ford, most valuable senior.

As the man very much on the receiving end of comments and criticisms, President Burns responded with a ten-point statement that gives excellence in football as well as academics top priority at Pacific.

Statement of Policy Relative to University of the Pacific Intercollegiate Athletics By President Robert E. Burns

1. To my knowledge there is not a single person who desires to eliminate intercollegiate athletics, particularly football, at Pacific. All of us want a good program. We all recognize its values. The experience of decades must say something of the value of this to us. Two institutions in Northern California, notably University of Santa Clara and the University of San Francisco, who did eliminate football have now reinstated the sport, all the while maintaining their other sports. I personally subscribe to a balanced program of intercollegiate athletics, including football.

2. One can get a good education at Pacific — in fact, one of the best. The facts are clear. Twenty to 25 per cent of our entering freshman class were honor students from high school. Sixty per cent of our teaching staff have the earned doctorate. Something must be happening educationally on the campus under these circumstances.

3. Presently the University is granting 81 tuition scholarships in all sports, 52½ of these are for football. A freshman team has been fielded which is designed to build up the varsity squad. According to the coaches and the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation this number of scholarships is adequate to field a representative football team.

4. The University has been, and is still willing to underwrite a reasonable amount for an intercollegiate program. We have always done this. We expect to do so in the future. Incidentally, our gate receipts for football for this year and last year are approximately the same. Remember that we subsidize intercollegiate debate, music activity and the Pacific Theatre and do it on the basis that it is a part of the University picture.

5. Scheduling has been our cross to bear. We are not members of a conference. We are classed as an independent. If there were a group of schools in northern California like Redlands, Cal Tech, Whittier, Occidental, and Pomona our problems would be solved. However, this is not the case. We can't play these schools because they are too far away with practically no gate to cover expenses. The old Pacific Coast Conference setup, now the A.A.W.U., contains schools which more nearly meet our academic standards, but we can forget about breaking into that group. The Far Western Conference consisting of schools such as San Francisco State, Sacramento State, Cal Aggies, Chico, etc., do not allow scholarship aid. It is my opinion that we couldn't last one season without scholarships. The C.C.A.A., embracing schools like Los Angeles State, San Diego State, etc., have enrollments of men several times larger than ours. A few days ago the coach from University of Santa Clara called and asked if we would be interested in talking to a number of schools about a new conference. We told him we had struggled with this problem for years and would be willing to talk to anyone at any time. Presently we have a Faculty Athletic Policy Committee and an Athletic Operations Committee at work. If I am any judge their most important topic of discussion is scheduling. The big question is always: “What is our way?” Remember that we are scheduled through 1969. I can pledge to you that this matter is open and always awaits a fruitful idea. However, it is no area for rank amateurs or second guessers. Those of us who have grappled with this for many years know there is no simple answer.

6. There has been some talk as to whether intercollegiate athletics was getting the same break as the rest of the University as far as the Admissions Office is concerned. Remember that for freshman admissions we require 20 semester grades of A's and B's in the last three years of high school, 12 of which must be in the so-called academic solids. For transfers, we require a 2.3 average if one is not eligible to enter directly from high school. About 5 per cent of our freshman admissions are what we call “on trial” and favor those who show promise of success. Practically all schools in America do this, including the best known schools. This year the University of California at Berkeley admitted almost 100 freshmen under a new provision of the school's master plan which allows admission of a limited number of students under special procedures outside the basic requirements. Twenty-three of these were athletes. There have been several conferences between the coaching staff and the Admissions Office. After all facts were reviewed it was the conclusion that intercollegiate football is getting a fair break on admissions at the freshman level. The admission of transfer students seemed to be a critical problem. The suggestion was made that more vigorous and extensive recruitment be made among qualified junior college students. This involves the Admissions Office, the coaching staff, the Quarterback Club, alumni, and other interested parties.

7. When it comes to recruitment I believe we are vulnerable. We have some dead wood on the team. Some are not contributing to morale. Some are not doing their best. Putting it another way, the University community is not getting value received for its expenditure. Comparisons are odious and not always pertinent, but compare if you will the results we are getting with eight debate scholarships (a national championship), a few music scholarships in the A Cappella Choir and a few drama scholarships. Students on athletic scholarships are getting approximately a $2,250 package per year at a resident university. This should be very attractive. I have the promise that the football squad will be gone over with a fine tooth comb. Those remaining will be those with desire and academic purposes. Desire wins on the football field as well as in other areas of life.

8. The coaches admit they have made some mistakes. Their statements have been recorded in the public press. They have stated this to me privately as well. They say they know what their mistakes are and that they are taking immediate steps to correct them. Another assistant coach to add to the two which we have has been suggested. This is probably sound as we compare the number of staff members to our competitors. When a new member of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation is being hired it can be kept in mind that a person who can give assistance in this area is highly desirable.

9. We have the fourth largest stadium in California. It is maintained at low cost because it is built primarily out of white cedar and does not require paint except for a few special places. There is no debt on it. Actually it serves as a municipal stadium and we receive some rent from it. We have a good practice field and our dressing rooms are adequate. We do need to install a track, a new swimming pool, new tennis courts, a new pavilion primarily for basketball, as well as other appointments. In our master plan of development we have been going over ideas as to how some of these things can be provided. We are not overlooking the possibilities. It is true, however, that prospective athletes or physical education majors could criticize us on the lack of facilities yet to be provided.

10. I am a great believer in the theory that what we do we should try to do well. Many people have remarked to me that Pacific usually does things with class and finesse. If we are putting debate teams on the rostrum they debate to win. This is why Coach Winters has just been selected “Debate Coach of the Year” nationally. When our A Cappella Choir performs it does so with the perfectionist attitude of Dean Bodley. When our theatre produces a play, DeMarcus Brown extolls the best, and this has led many to Broadway over the years. Our various departments and schools should strive to be at the top. Certainly this should be true with a football team. The character building possibilities are defeated if it enters a contest with any other motive. Inasmuch as we are in football we go in with the idea of winning. If we lose, as we must at times, we learn how to take that too. But winning is the idea of the game and I trust we shall never depart from that objective.

REUNION OF 1934 FOOTBALL TEAM

□ In keeping with the Homecoming theme of "Remember When?" and to honor the memory of Chris Kjeldsen, his teammates on the 1934 football squad gathered to relive such headline glories as: "40,000 Admit Pacific Equal to U.S.C." and "Stagg's Warriors Unleash Most Dazzling Aerial Attack Ever Seen Along the Pacific Coast." Here they were then (front row, from left) assistant coach Laurie Apitz, Roger Baer, Tom George, Walt Foster, Elmer Pryor, Corky Cortez, Bob Wicker, Bob Coe, Joey Olaeta, Leon Eakes, and head coach Amos Alonzo Stagg. (Second row): graduate manager Ralph Francis, Bud Savage, George Truckell, John Cechini, George Corson, Carl Brown, Jim Bainbridge, Bill Ijams, Les Russell (deceased), Gordy Johnson, and Mose Lang. (Top row): Jimmy Thompson, Rod Lynch, Bob Blanchard, George Lapin, Gene Corrigan, Chris Kjeldsen (deceased), Dave Kipp, Vic Robinson (deceased) and Oliver Mann. (Not in picture: George Challis, Fred Dodge, Red Singleton, and Bob Randall.)

Countries represented on the soccer team are: Ecuador, Guatemala, Bolivia, El Salvador, Argentina, Colombia, Nicaragua, Chile, Peru, Venezuela, U.S.A., Spain, Costa Rica.

BASKETBALL PASSES EARLY SEASON TESTS

□ Without one returning letterman, head basketball coach Dick Edwards has swung into high gear for his second season at Pacific as a follow-up to the superb performance of his "heavily senior" squad that earned second spot last year in the tough West Coast Athletic Conference with their 15-11 performance. Early 1964-65 season contests brought wins over California State at Hayward, Idaho State, San Diego Marines, San Francisco State and Arizona State with losses to Utah State and Sacramento State. Coach Edwards has some promising talent including sophomores Bob Krulish, 6-6, and Keith Swagerty, 6-6½, both first team All-Northern California freshmen team selections. Fourteen players have earned positions on the varsity squad and 20 freshmen checked in with freshman coach Denis Willens. Pacific's varsity team is (front row, from left) Eric Jacobs, Jim Hughest, Dan Dugan, Art Gilbert, Tom Lewis, Ron Shelly, and Coach Edwards. (Back row, from left): Bob Krulish, Joe Kelley, Keith Swagerty, Don Odale, Jim Hill, and Bruce Parsons. Absent from the picture are Gary Neece and Jim Henderson.

□ Phi Kappa Tau's showboat took first place in men's living group float competition at Homecoming. Miss Pat Bentley (right) won the Homecoming Queen honor as one of 26 charming candidates. A 19-year-old junior majoring in international relations, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Bentley from Charleston, South Carolina. She will be eligible for her pilot's license after 40 more hours' flying time.
