SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING IN NEW HOME

By Arthur Farey

Pacific trained engineers are helping to build the West—and more of them are needed! The COP School of Engineering—now occupying its own, newly equipped buildings—offers tremendous career education for college qualified men today.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers has recognized the standard of Pacific engineering training by offering to aid its students through a cooperative work-study program under which trainees can alternate a year of campus study with a year of on-the-job employment in one of the California districts of the Corps.

Developed since 1947 by Dr. Felix Wallace, a top professional engineer, Pacific now presents a first class, thoroughly professional civil engineering program. The fine positions in which Pacific engineers are found today is evidence of this standard. Pacific engineers are not only equipped to design and construct roads, railroads, harbors, tunnels, bridges and dams—but the background of education and experience at COP prepares them for administrative responsibility. Hence many of them are found in management fields. Students today may select from three majors: civil engineering, engineering science, and management engineering.

The new engineering building contains electrical, materials testing, soil mechanics, and hydraulics laboratories, along with class rooms, drafting rooms, research rooms, and offices. Much of this improvement has been underwritten by engineering and construction people of this area and by Pacific alumni and associates.

Gordon L. Harrison, Charles Gulick, Ernest J. Goldman, and A. Roy Larson complete the engineering faculty—all men of excellent university background and professional engineering practice.

The College of the Pacific — San Jose State Story

The modern traditional series between the Tigers and Spartans began in 1921 and Pacific won the first three games, 34-0 in 1921, 23-0 in 1922 and 46-0 in 1923. The two teams did not meet again until 1929 but have played each other yearly since then, with the exception of 1943-44-45 when State discontinued football for the duration of World War II.

Following are brief accounts of the games beginning with 1929.

1929 — In the renewal of the series, the Tigers played the Spartans on even terms, the game ending in a 6-6 deadlock. Fullback Crandall scored for Pacific on an intercepted pass. Winters scored for the Spartans.

1930 — The Pacific Tigers rolled over San Jose State by a score of 27-0. End Ralph Francis scored one touchdown, completely covering the right side of his line on defense, while playing with a broken hand. Fullback Bob Stedman scored three times for the Bengals.

1931 — A duplication of the 1930 game, Pacific winning, 27-0. The majority of the game was played in State territory, so completely did the Bengals dominate the game. Playing in heavy mud, Fullback Bob Easterbrook scored three times for the Tigers.

1932 — San Jose State bounced back to take this one, 7-0, despite the efforts of "Biff" Strobridge, who played 60 minutes of outstanding football. End Bud Hubbard scored the only touchdown, racing 15 yards with a punt blocked by Charlie Barrachi.

1933 — Despite the passing of Tom Wilson and the running of Bob Hamilton, the Spartans copped this contest, 12-6. Hamilton returned a kickoff 45 yards for Pacific's score. Dee Shehtanian intercepted a Bengal lateral and ran 85 yards for one State score. The passing of Johnny Hines set up the other Spartan tally.

1934 — Although they outgained the Spartans by 112 yards to 52, the Bengals lost this game, 13-0. "Corky" Cortez and Bob Wicker were standouts for the Tigers. State's Jimmy Stockdale kicked three times for 60 yards from his own end zone. Stockdale and Rinaldo Wren scored the Spartan touchdowns.

1935 — Four Tigers, Doug Silva, Vic Barrett, Johnny Cecchini and Bill Avery, played 60 minutes in this scoreless tie. Neither team threatened seriously to score.

1936 — Paced by the running of Gene Rocchi, who scored State's only touchdown on a 50 yard run, the Spartans edged the Tigers, 8-0. A crowd of 5,000 in Spartan Stadium also saw Jack Martin block a Pacific punt by Bob Coe for a safety.

1937 — San Jose State's all time great, Leroy Zimmerman, scored once and set up another as the Spartans won, 12-7. Zimmerman, a sophomore, entered the game in the final period and propelled State to two scores after they trailed for three quarters. Halfback Morris Manoogian tallied the other SJS score.

1938 — Playing before a home town crowd of 10,000, the Spartans won, 19-6. Halfback Tommy Olaeta scored the lone Tiger touchdown. Leroy Zimmerman was again a big gun for the Spartans, along with Gene Rocchi, who scored twice.

1939 — The Spartans ruined Amos Alonzo Stagg's 50th year of coaching celebration, downing the Tigers, 13-3. Roy Cooper kicked a field goal for Pacific's only points. Leroy Zimmerman and Bob Zetterquist won this one for State before an overflow throng of nearly 15,000 in Baxter Stadium.

1940 — Guard Dean Gay blocked a Spartan punt and fell on it in the end zone, but San Jose State won for the sixth straight year, 18-7. Halfback Bill Thomas played brilliantly for Pacific in a losing cause. Fullback Ed Tornell scored three times for the Spartans.

1941 — San Jose State won, 7-0, on a disputed play which later proved to be a questionable call by the officials. It was over whether Spartan Fullback Allen Hardesty fell across the goal line on a plunge. Bill Rhyne was the running star for the Tigers with an 8.8 yards per carry average.

1942 — The Spartans blanked the Tigers, 29-0, winning for the eighth straight year. Armando Minetto and Jean Ridley starred in Pacific's losing effort. Bill Perry, currently line coach of the Spartans, personally scored 23 points, with three touchdowns and a field goal.

1943-44-45 — War years, no game.

1946 — San Jose State resumed its domination of the Tigers with a 32-0 whitewashing in Amos Alonzo Stagg's final season. Quarterback Pete Denevi dominated the game with his pinpoint passing which rattled Pacific's defenses.

1947 — Bob Heck intercepted a pass and returned it 50 yards for a score and Bruce Orvis broke over guard for a 50 yard scoring run to lead the Tigers to a 14-7 win. It marked the Tigers' first win over State since 1931.

1948 — The Spartans staged a 14-7 upset over heavily favored Pacific in the famous Lodi game where Referee Frank Powers was fooled by the faking of Eddie LeBaron. On the play the official whistled down Fullback John Poulos at the line of scrimmage while LeBaron was passing to Roy Kirsten to the Spartan 18 yard line. SJS Backfield Coach Gene Menges, a sophomore, started his first game and passed for 116 yards, including a 70 yard pass play to Billy Parton to set up a score. LeBaron was held to one completion for minus one yard.

1949 — Don Hardey broke up the middle for 50 yards on Pacific's first play and the Tigers went on to crush State, 45-7. Eddie LeBaron, who in three previous years had completed only one pass against the Spartans, completed 12 of 19 for 195 yards in this one. Pacific Assistant Coach John Rohde caught his only TD pass against State in this one. Hardey gained 103 yards to pace the Bengal ground attack.

1950 — A mud battle in which favored Pacific was held to a 7-7 tie. Spartan Harry Beck gained 121 yards, including a 61 yard scoring jaunt, but Tiger Tommy McCormick rambled for 175 yards for rushing honors. Pacific gained 350 yards to State's 189. A Gene Menges to Billy Wilson TD pass was called back for a penalty.

1951 — One of the biggest upsets in the history of the series saw three touchdowns favored Pacific lose, 7-0. Tommy McCormick and Eddie Macon paced the Tigers to 240 yards rushing and Pacific gained another 84 passing but the Spartans stopped the Bengals seven times within the 10 yard line. State tallied on a 63 yard pass play from Lynn Aplanalp to Al Matthews, the only time the Spartans got across midfield.

1952 — This game was Tommy McCormick against San Jose State. The all time Bengal running star gained 145 yards and scored three touchdowns to push Pacific ahead, 21-20, late in the game. Then, with 24 seconds left, State's Roy Hiram hula-hipped 38 yards through Pacific's defenses for a 26-21 Spartan victory before over 29,000 roaring fans. The passing of Lynn Aplanalp and running of Dick Stults and Larry Matthews paced the winners.

1953 — Pacific, an underdog for the first time in years, played it to the hilt but lost a 7-6 decision. A Benny Pierce to Merv Lopes pass play just before the half, with Larry Rice's extra point, gave the Spartans the lead. A 40 yard Roy Ottoson to Art Liebscher pass in the fourth quarter gave Pacific its tally. Guard Tom Louderback blocked Al Dattola's conversion try for the margin.

1954 — Pacific won over San Jose State in Stockton for the first time since 1931, 13-7. The Tigers dominated the game, holding State to 71 yards rushing and 73 passing while Pacific went for 221 yards rushing and 51 passing. Bengal tallies were on a 19 yard pass from Bill Jacobs to A. D. Williams and a Quarterback sneak by Jacobs. Fred Delgadillo scored for the Spartans from three yards out. Sophomore Tackle John Nisby was a standout in the Bengal line.

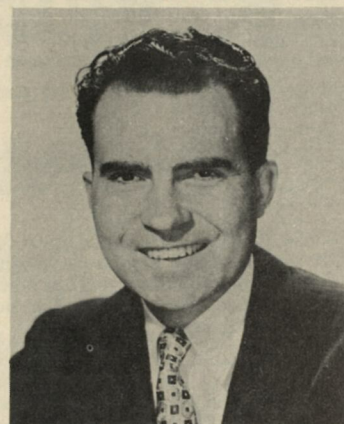

1955 — Pacific made it two in a row, 14-7, before 18,313, second largest crowd ever in Spartan Stadium. The Tigers out-gained State, 307 yards to 191 but the Spartans put up several brilliant goal line stands to stave off scores. The running of Ken Swearingen and Dewey Tompkins, passing of Jim Reynosa and receiving of A. D. Williams were key Bengal factors. Tony Teresa was outstanding for State in defeat.

THE GAME

By Fred Merrick, Sports Writer
SAN JOSE MERCURY

There's a new trend in the College of Pacific—San Jose State football rivalry, and the Spartans aren't too happy with the change. They hope to detour Pacific's recent domination of the series tonight, but the assignment promises to be a tough one.

Until the last two years, San Jose held the upper hand in this long and heated rivalry. From 1932 through 1953, the Spartans won 15 times while losing only twice and tying two games. Under Jack (Moose) Myers however the Tigers have captured the last two meetings and will be favored to make it three straight tonight.

Fans have come accustomed to stirring battles in this series, and tonight's contest should follow the pattern. With few exceptions the Spartan-Tiger meetings have produced close and exciting games, with the last five contests being decided by a margin of one touchdown or less.

With both clubs boasting explosive offensive threats, this 32nd meeting between San Jose and Pacific could be a free-scoring affair. The Spartans, led by Bob Reinhart, a fine passing quarterback, rank third nationally in team passing with an average of more than 200 yards per game. They also have running threats in halfbacks Art Powell and Jim Riley, who are backed by Walt Ackemann and Harvel Pollard.

Powell is San Jose's counterpart to Pacific's Dick Bass. He is the Spartans' leading pass catcher and ranks among the nation's leaders. The San Diego sophomore, like Bass, specializes in "big gainers." He has a 71-yard touchdown run to his credit as well as a 51-yard pass reception for a tally.

San Jose hasn't anyone to match COP's John Nisby in individual prominence in the line, but won't yield much to the rest of the Tiger forwards. The Spartans boast several outstanding ends, with Hal Boutte and Mel Powell heading the list. They also consider Captain Charlie Kaahue and Tackle Jim Hughes capable of holding their own against the best on the Pacific Coast.

DR. JOHN T. WAHLQUIST
President, San Jose State College

Stan Keith, a junior college transfer, has been outstanding at guard and Coach Bob Bronzan rates him the best middle guard to play for the Spartans in the last 10 years.

Bronzan, who has announced that he will retire as San Jose State football coach at the end of the current season, would like to bow out with a victory over arch-rival Pacific. Bob has three wins, a tie and two defeats on the record against the Tigers during his tenure as head coach. A win in this one would give him a winning edge, while a defeat would make the record all even.

No matter what the outcome, fans can expect to see an interesting and hard-fought game. Both teams rate the success or failure of their season on the result of the San Jose-Pacific game. A disappointing season can be salvaged by a triumph in this contest.

Pacific has won the last two games, the first time the Tigers have captured two straight since 1931. San Jose hopes to halt that win streak tonight.

SAN JOSE STATE COLLEGE

San Jose State is celebrating its Centennial anniversary during the 1956-57 academic year with only a memory to identify it with the institution's meager start. All aspects — name, place, size and objective — have been changed since its 1857 birth in San Francisco as Minn's Evening School.

Five young ladies and one gentleman met in one room with Mr. Minn 100 years ago. Now some 10,800 students and a faculty of 525 in a multi-million dollar plant are involved in the functions of the largest and oldest of California's 10 state colleges. San Jose State has the fifth largest undergraduate enrollment in the West.

The first publicly supported college in California, it was made a state college in 1862 and moved to San Jose eight years later. Originally designed as a teacher-training institution, only about 25 per cent of the students are now enrolled in this phase. San Jose State was the first in the nation to offer courses in several specialized fields, such as penology, and offers highly rated curricula in most of the 30 departments.

Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president from 1927 to 1952, pioneered this wide variety of study and training which has been instrumental in more than doubling the enrollment since the war. Dr. MacQuarrie's favorite description of progressive San Jose State has been, "A pioneer college still pioneering." Registration was curtailed for five years in the post-war period because of limited facilities on the 43-acre Washington Square campus.

A new era of expansion is underway under the guidance of Dr. John T. Wahlquist, president since 1952. State planners now envision an enrollment approximating 14,000 by 1962. There has been a constant race to provide adequate facilities for the rapid growth. A new gigantic expansion program calls for $29,000,000 in construction in the next five years. Already completed are new music, engineering and speech and drama buildings and a new wing on the physical education building. A $1,500,000 classroom building and additions to the science building and library are in progress.

The San Jose State physical education program has been a vital factor in the expansion of the college. Under Glenn "Tiny" Hartranft, the P.E. program has developed into one of the finest in the world. It has seen a peak of 400 majors and the graduates are quickly placed in secondary schools throughout the state. On the inter-collegiate level last year 33 Spartan teams competed in 324 events in one of the most active athletic programs in the nation.

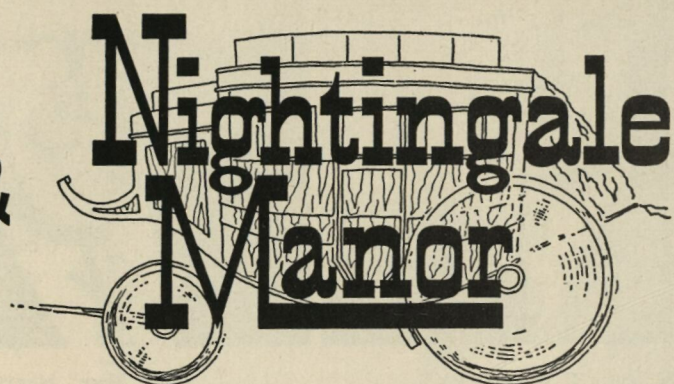

The athletic program at San Jose State includes 15 sports, all considered major, and notable accomplishments have been recorded in all. The sport slate includes competition in football, basketball, water polo, soccer, cross country, boxing, skiing, wrestling, gymnastics, swimming, judo, baseball, track, golf, and tennis. San Jose State has accounted for 19 individual national titles and two team championships. In addition, three Spartans have been Olympic Games competitors, with two more qualified for the 1956 team.

THE GAME

By Carroll R. Doty

Some notes picked up a random while wandering around the country with the Tigers: "Moose" Myers and his coaching staff are the first to admit that without the volunteer services, both at home and on the road, of a pair of Stockton's finest sportsmen, the job of putting the Tigers on the field would be a much more difficult task. The pair? Why, Bob Grogan and Larry Heller, naturally. Grogan is one of California's top sporting goods men and Heller is in the flooring business. They work for Central Valley Sporting Goods and Harold W. Thompson Company, respectively. But when it comes time to put the Tigers on the field, "Goose" and Larry might just as well be a pair of assistant coaches. Grogan actually has charge of all of Pacific's equipment problems but he doesn't let his responsibilities end there. If the weather turns cold in Milwaukee and the Tigers need long woollens to wear under their uniforms (as happened once), "Goose" is the man who gets 'em. Larry officially keeps the time played chart on the individual players for each game, but he doesn't stop there, either. If the field is soggy and the players need their shoes cleaned off quickly on the sidelines before returning to the game, Larry's the man with the wooden tongue depresser getting rid of the mud (and that's happened several times, too.) The two of them lend their services unselfishly and enthusiastically to the Pacific cause. I'd like to tip the fedora publicly to "Goose" and Larry.

The Tigers are fortunate, also, in having two of California's oldest and most outstanding newspapers, the Stockton Record and the Oakland Tribune, "cover" the team on every home and road game. Each paper sends one of its top staff men on all road games, as well as staffing the home contests. For the Record, Tom Spargue is the Pac-Cat expert and his factual reporting and sparkling writing combine to give the myriad of Bengal rooters the complete lowdown every time. Of course, at home Sports Editor John J. Peri does an unusually good job of column comments on the game and either Ben Remington or Hank Froshaug cover it from the dressing room angle. Bill Dunbar follows the Tigers most of the time for the Tribune, with Ben Giuliano taking over on occasion. Both see to it that Pacific's football fortunes are well reported in the East Bay Area. Dunbar and Giuliano both like to bring their readers the unusual and interesting angle about the team as well as the straight game story. On the air, Kenny Kirwan and Ted Payne of Station K-JOY have been bringing all of the Tigers home and road games "live" to Pacific fans over a five station central California network and judging from the letters received, they are giving Pacific the best on-the-spot radio reporting job done in many a year. Play-by-play man

Kirwan is a veteran sports announcer who will also be bringing Tiger basketball to local radio sets this winter. All in all, it appears that Pacific fans are getting the best coverage of the Tigers they've ever had.

Already the Tigers have traveled about 11,000 miles to play football games this fall. With one more road game slated, the figure will run up to around 13,000 miles before the 1956 grid season closes. But no matter where Pacific plays, whether it be Lawrence, Kan.; Milwaukee, Wisc., or Tulsa, Okla., there are always some of the faithful on hand to lend a little moral support. Just picking a few names at random, there's Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chatfield of Sacramento, father and mother of the Bengal's flanker back, Chuck. They flew with the team to Milwaukee and drove their automobile to Tulsa. Chuck was injured and didn't get to play in the Marquette game but he caught the touchdown pass that brought the Tigers to within one point of Tulsa. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Van Gilder of Stockton, he's the secretary of the Quarterback Club, took the train all the way to Tulsa and were even at the airport to meet the team Friday evening. Several Stockton businessmen, Jack Peters, Bill Gaines, Charles Livingstone, Jack Skelton, Karl Schmidt, Al Charles, Jerry Knapp, Sherwood Norton, Jack Kemp and QB Club prexy Fred Van Dyke have made at least one road game with the team. One of Pacific's biggest supporters and workers in Sacramento, Jack Toedt, was a fan in Kansas. There are others who have gone along with the team before, and will in the future. They all are folks who enjoy the game of football and like to see the Tigers play it. Pacific thoroughly appreciates their interest and support.

And now for the football team itself. The Tigers lost the one-point decision in Tulsa but they once again proved that they're the type of a ball club that can come back strong when the going is tough. Tulsa was an alert, defensively strong and hard hitting ball club, easily the finest team on defense the Bengals have played. Pacific was fortunate to continue its winning ways for two weeks after Dick Bass was battered and bruised into ineffectiveness. The other Tiger backs, mainly Tom Green and Jack Larscheid, have taken up the slack amazingly well but its pretty had to lose a player of "Mobile Dick's" talents and not suffer for it. The strong passing game developed by "Moose" Myers to take some of the pressure off the running attack, now becomes an increasingly important weapon in the Pac-Cat arsenal. The unbeaten bubble has burst, but "dem 'Cats" are still a thrillingly potent club to contend with. And this traditional meeting with San Jose State tonight could easily be one of the most heart-stopping clashes in the long series on heart-stoppers between these two old rivals.

HALF-TIME WITH THE PACIFIC MARCHING BAND

"Presenting the nationally famous College of the Pacific-Stockton College Marching Band." This phrase introduces one of the outstanding musical organizations on the Pacific Coast. The Marching Band, under the very capable direction of Art Corra, plays continuously while on the field.

The 77-piece band, equally famous for its difficult musical arrangements as it is for its intricate formations and tricky dances, will play and dance their way through a tribute to George Gershwin on tonight's program.

This outstanding musical aggregation compiles some interesting statistics while completing a night's presentation. During each half-time stunt, the band uses enough steps per player for each member to walk one-half mile. During one day of rehearsal for a night's performance, each player walks two miles. By the end of the season, each player has marched the equivalent of 100 miles. Taken together, the entire band has marched 7800 miles, or across the nation and back, with side trips to spare.

Assisting Mr. Corra in tonight's performance are Don Oliver, drum major; Frank Yorke, senior band manager; Allan Ruck, assistant manager; David Te Selle, student director; Betty Hackett, dances; and James Crockett, announcer.
