by this letter The Doctor is not at home this morning and as he was not aware of the fact that I was going to write to you he has not left any orders but perhaps he will write some when he comes in.

How are you prospering
this term? and have you concluded to spend next summer with us if so please write and we will have that little bed in that little room in our little house all ready for you at any time.
So come We should be pleased to hear again come from you I close With much love Emma

Racine Wis. Feb. 4th 1874

My Dear Mary

Your letter was received some time ago and I would say I hasten to answer only that I fear you would call it a slow hasten. We were very glad to hear from you
for it did seem so long

I soon saw that precious garment of which you spoke so eloquently in your letter but a few days after I chanced to observe another white garment of which you did not speak viz.

a white apron. I did not find your blue bow
for some time after so I thought I had better not send them until I heard from you as there might be other articles you had forgotten your lunch (I am sorry to say) I fear you will never
and different use. The others we will send perhaps to you and perhaps tomorrow I cannot say which as you are probably aware one does not always attend

Aunt has been walking for some time does not creep at all any more Last Saturday was our wedding day and we did invite Mrs & Mrs Foster to take tea with us
as much as Mrs J.
about it lately and therefore had not thought of being that memorable
words to invite her
so she was very happily (I suppose) surprised
Do you remember that into and those pens in post when you were here
