We Can Help You Get That Carefree Savings Feeling.

At the State National Bank, you can get that Care-free Savings Feeling in a variety of ways. From a Daily Interest Savings Account to a high-yield Certificate of Deposit, the State National can tailor a savings plan that's right for you. Your personal banker can even arrange to transfer money from your checking to your savings account automatically.

In addition to numerous savings plans, the State National features such helpful conveniences as: 24-Hour-Bank-by-Phone for round-the-clock banking that's as easy as a phone call; 24-Hour-Teller, which allows you to deposit or withdraw from checking or savings, transfer funds, or make a loan payment at any time, on any day; two easy-to-get-to drive-in banking facilities with a total of eighteen tellers; and facilities at both Fort Bliss and Beaumont Army Hospital.

These are just a few of the conveniences available to customers of the State National. For more information, stop by and talk to a personal banker, or call 532-9922. We've got a lot of ways to help you.

Miner Car Coaches

These El Paso car dealers are contributing to the success of the Miner athletic program by providing courtesy cars to be used in recruiting and scouting. By doing so, they greatly reduce the cost of these programs to the UTEP athletic department. We are deeply grateful and offer a sincere 'thanks' for all the help.

The pressbox sages with the myopic binoculars may see the 1979 college offensive statistics strictly as a two-horse race. A sort of Affirmed-Alydar chase among institutional elms and ivy as it were, the suspense whittled down to a mere pair.

In Oklahoma colors, of course, is the fleet Billy Sims, a shifty halfback of the cruiser class who has only to cut his gaze toward the mantelpiece to prove his pedigree. There sits the 1978 Heisman Trophy, its very presence signifying that Sims indeed is of a rare breed.

In the 40-odd years of Heisman presentations, only six underclassmen ever lugged the thing home. Four of those juniors—Doc Blanchard, Vic Janowicz, Doak Walker, Roger Staubach—failed to repeat their acts as seniors.

Archie Griffin, late of Ohio State, made it two in a row, but he may have to share that distinction this year with young Mr. Sims, the sixth junior to be voted college football's most prestigious bauble.

As the one-time cotton-chopper from Hooks, Texas, was being lauded and feted and glutted in New York last winter, a reporter asked if Billy were enjoying all this hoopla. Sims looked up from his autographing, a broad smile spreading above his glistening tuxedo front.

"I'm having so much fun," he said, "I'm gonna have to do it again next year."

So there you have the favorite, the defending champ, the 205-pound scamp who made 20 touchdown trips last year in leading all collegiate rushers. And in doing so, Sims racked the highest rushing average ever for a major college campaigner. His 231 carries from Oklahoma's Wishbone launching pad averaged 7.63 yards, a number that may grow even more amazing with the years.

Then, of course, attention will flip ficklely to Charles White of the supreme Southern Cal stable, the other entry in the so-called match race. This latest in a long line of Trojan land grabbers was the No. 4 rusher in the land last season and he has the statistical advantage enjoyed by all Southern Cal tailbacks. They get plenty of work.

White, for example, carried the ball 111 more times than did Sims last year. His average (5.1) wasn't quite as gaudy, but who knows, perhaps Sims' figures would have shrunk with increased duty.

Still the offensive race, regardless of how the Racing Form dopes it, has more than two entries.

Around North Carolina, natives think Famous Amos Lawrence will claim his share of headlines. The junior dervish, who spins for a 5.3-yard average, passed the halfway point of his college career with more accumulative yardage than any runner except Dorsett and Po James. Especially did the 180-pounder finish strong, topping the 100-yard rush mark in five of his last six games, including a 167-yarder against Duke in the finale.

In the Southwest, there are three runners who have snared fans' fancy, each with a rather distinctive history. Two weeks before Texas Tech opened last season, big James Hadnot was a tight end and happy with his lot. Suddenly he was fullback and a bit uncertain with his lot. A few weeks into the season, and Tech Coach Rex Doc-kery looked like a genius with his emergency move. Hadnot became the hardest worker in the Southwest, shoving his 236 pounds after the tough yardage between the tackles. "Kong" Had-not led the conference in rushing and, indeed, finished eighth among the national gainers. He's back for another helping.

At Texas A&M, big strapping Curtis Dickey is sometimes thought of as a track star, a 207-pound sprinter who once finished second in the NCAA 100-meter finals. "Football is my game," says Dickey. "I just ran track for fun. And the Heisman is my goal."

Another highstepper in that region is young Bernard Jackson of North Texas State. He was a wide receiver as a frosh, moved to tailback last season to average 132 yards rushing per game, and finish sixth among the national rushers.

The eleventh ranked runner of last fall, Joe Cribbs of Auburn, is another returnee, and so is stubby (5-9, 195) Allen Harvin of Cincinnati (No. 13) who had a speeds who, against Florida State, ran for two touchdowns, caught passes for two more, and threw for still a fifth. And then there's little Jesse Williams of Richmond, whose fans claim he's the fastest back in America.

For sheer drama, although his crowds aren't Rose Bowl size, Nathan Johnson of Northeast Louisiana is hard to beat. He weighs just 172 pounds, but on his six touchdowns last fall, he averaged 54 yards each.

In that same category, but wider acclaimed, is Darrin Nelson, a scurrying elf from Stanford. His coach, Rod Dow-hower, calls him "the most exciting player in the country. He gives us a dimension no college team ever had." The little junior averaged 161 all-purpose yards last fall, rushing, catching, returning kicks. He's the only back ever to rush for 1,000 yards and catch 50 passes the same season, and he's done it twice.

Ralph Clayton, a healthy 210-pound Michigan wingback, is another of those versatile guys, averaging 22 yards for each of his pass receptions and keeping the enemy nervous with his wingback reverses, as does Kenny Brown, the dynamic wingback from Nebraska.

Many of the current crop of roadrunners seem built on a small last, like Leon Walker, the explosive halfback from UN-Las Vegas, and Mickey Collins of Wichita State. But the larger tourist class is still represented by Marion Barber of Minnesota, I.M. Hipp of Neb-sensational freshman season of 1283 yards.

Attention in the Southland is split between Frank Mordica, the first Vanderbilt back ever to rush 1,000 yards (321 in one game against Air Force); Major Ogilvie, who brings memories of Johnny Musso to Alabama partisans; James Jones, a Mississippi State jack-of-all raska, Freeman McNeil of UCLA, James Wilder of Missouri, Vince Williams of Oregon, Joe Steele of Washington, Paul Jones of California, Matt Suhey of Penn State, all 200 and up. Suhey comes from a family of footballers—both his father and grandfather were All-Americans at Penn State.

THE LONELY END

When does a football legend come of age? At 21? Well, it's 21 years since 1958 when Army's Lonely End first lined up as a far, far, far flanker, almost on the sideline, and did not join the huddle between plays.

He was William Stanley Carpenter, Jr., a 6 foot 1, 205-pound second classman (junior) from Springfield, Pennsylvania, and probably the best all-around end in West Point annals. He was a mobile, high-reaching pass receiver, not far below Don Hutson standards, and had he played at a civilian college would no doubt have been an early-round pro draft choice. He was also an outstanding blocker and defender. In 1959, he was named All-America.

Most of all, while outwardly placid and reserved, he burned with intense competitive zeal and had a remarkably low pain threshold.

But Carpenter would have been remembered in football only as an All-America and not as a legend, had he not become The Lonely End. On the other hand, there would have been no Lonely End without Carpenter.

It was essential to the legend that it enjoy a background of victory, and the 1958 Army team, Coach Ed Blaik's last, was undefeated, first in the east, and third nationally.

As the season advanced, The Lonely End became a gridiron celebrity. On any team he would have been intriguing. As a Cadet he was even more so because his "loneliness" implied a break with regimentation. He invited anecdotes.

The week of the 14-2 victory at Notre Dame, Coach Terry Brennan of the Irish asked Jack Lavelle, his veteran scout and noted humorist, what The Lonely End did when trainer Ed Pillings came out with the water bucket. Did Carpenter go over for a drink?

"No siree!" replied Lavelle. "He sticks his hands in his pocket and whips out K rations."

The press was ecstatic about him; a typical comment: "Football hasn't seen anything like him since the invention of the forward pass." He even made the editorial page of the New York Times: "Holding aloof from the huddle, presumably getting the signals by radar or through someone twitching an ear, Cadet Carpenter came as close to being the nation's dreamboat as is good for an Army man to be."

It was the mystery surrounding The Lonely End, of course, that accounted for much, perhaps most, of his charisma. Army fielded other exceptional people in 1958. Halfbacks Bob Anderson and Pete Dawkins, and guard Bob Novogratz all made All-America. Scrawny, freckled Joe (The Urchin) Caldwell was West Point's greatest passer. Then there were Don Usry (The Sociable or Gregarious End), center Bill Rowe, guard Chuck Lyttle, fullback Harry Walkers, and others. To the opposition they posed problems. But Carpenter also posed a mystery, to the foes, to the fans, to the press.

How did he get his signals? How did he know whether the play would be a run or a pass? If a run, who was he to block. If a pass, what route was he to run? And as receiver or decoy? At the end of each play, how did he know which far side of the field to flank for the next one? Questions, twisters to pique Inspector Clouseau himself. (We shall give you the answers presently.)

Why was the Lonely End conceived and who gave him the name?

While in Chicago for the All Star game in early August of 1958, Coach Blaik was outlining his far-flanking attack to Coach Andy Gustafson, his former Army the Southern Cal powerhouse. But he is a rapidly improving passer himself, just in case he wants to diversify the Trojan attack. In one late-season stretch of six straight wins, McDonald completed 64 percent of his passes, with 12 touchdowns as a result.

SMU's big Mike Ford, No. 1 in total offense last fall, will face somewhat of a transition: Wherein the Mustang attack formerly was mostly limited to Ford throwing to quick little Emanuel Tolbert, the nation's runnerup receiver last season, now Ford will have more tools.

Cris Collinsworth, flanker Florida

Greg Kolenda, tackle

Ford, like his passing rival, Mark Herrmann of Purdue, is but a junior. But then so are many of the country's headline quarterbacks—Phil Bradley of Missouri, who led the Big Eight in total offense; Mark Halda of San Diego State, last season's No. 3 thrower; Randy Hertz, the Rice aviator with a 56 percent gunsight; John Hall of Western Kentucky, who threw five touchdowns against Morehead State; and Rich Campbell, another in that historic list of California passers.

Syracuse thinks it may have the nation's best quarterback in Bill Hurley, who was granted an extra season of eligibility after busting his ribs in last fall's opener. And Arizona State is proud of the run-pass mixture of Mark Malone, the same gears that work so well for lean Jimmy Streater of Tennessee, Mike Wright of Bowling Green and Brad Wright of New Mexico.

The college countryside seems overrun with undersized receivers who have cunningly concealed springs in their breeches and seem entirely capable of clearing tall buildings in a single bound, catching footballs in the process. Tolbert, the aforementioned SMU whirl-gig, is one. He can walk under anything 5-10 off the ground. Gerald Harp of Western Carolina, who tied Tolbert for No. 2 receiving rank last year, is another. He's 5-7, for heaven's sakes. Felix Wilson of Kentucky, Brad Reid of Iowa, Carlos Carson of LSU, Kevin Williams of Southern Cal are others of stunted growth save when they punch their elevators for passes.

Prominent among the nation's receivers also are Lindsay Scott, a Georgia soph of amazing quickness and elusiveness, and Eugene Goodlow of Kansas State, whose touchdown catches included distances of 87, 68, 63 and 50 yards.

Florida thinks there is no catcher better than Cris Collinsworth, a stringy junior nicknamed "Cadillac," presumably for his long, comfortable trips. Like, a 97-yard kickoff return against LSU and touchdown journeys of 63 and 52 yards on pass receptions against Mississippi State.

Lam Jones, the Olympic sprinter, returns to Texas for his senior season and his worth, says Coach Fred Akers, is not limited to his catches and his reverses, but includes the acute worry he inflicts on opposing secondaries.

A familiar name—Dave Shula—is rewriting the Dartmouth pass receiving records (his dad coaches the Dolphins). Mardye McDole of Mississippi State led the SEC in receiving last season but doesn't know his new role in the Wishbone attack being installed by new Coach Emory Ballard. Steve Bogan, a Northwestern fuzzi-cheek, caught six touchdown passes last season, most ever by a Big Ten freshman.

This year, for some strange reason, centers have become praiseworthy objects. Bo Rein at North Carolina State thinks he may have the best player "at his position" who ever played in the Atlantic Coast Conference—Jim Richter, 6-3, 245 pounds.

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley says his Ray Donaldson is "the best I ever had."

Fred Akers at Texas says his best offensive lineman is 6-4, 250-pound Wes Hubert, a three-year starter at center. UCLA welcomes back Brent Boyd, "one of our best centers in 15 years" according to Coach Terry Donahue. Boyd missed all of last season with a broken foot. Nebraska expects center Kelly Saalfeld to hold together a green young offensive line. Tony Mason thinks his Arizona center Norm Katnik is the top Pac 10 player at that position. Iowa puts the major offensive responsibility on center Jay Hilgenberg, whose father was an All-America center there a generation ago.

Dwight Stephenson of Alabama doesn't have great size (6-3, 230) but he's been all-conference center as a sophomore and junior and is called one of the best blockers in Crimson Tide history.

Other than centers, offensive linemen getting advance notice include tackle Anthony Munoz and guard Brad Budde of Southern Cal; Ken Fritz, Ohio State's heralded guard; Pete Inge, a short but very wide guard at San Diego State; John Sinnott, a 270-pound tackle at Brown. And then there's Greg Kolenda, an Arkansas senior tackle who, according to Lou Holtz, "is no better than your everyday, run-of-the-mill All-American" and Melvin Jones, another 270-pound bulk from Houston. Navy decorates a brace of guards, Frank McCallister and Tom Feldman.

THE DEFENSIVE END KEEPS THE PLAY CONTAINED

RICH CLARKSON (Shot with Nikon equipment)

by George Rorrer, Louisville COURIER JOURNAL

This is about defensive ends, and if you're looking for something light and funny, buzz off.

People in college football history have a lot of things, but seldom about defensive ends.

Why? Why don't rolling heads look up and smile at the guillotine? Football games are won and lost at defensive end, that's why.

Behind many of the most spectacular offensive plays in football history have been gaffes on the part of defensive ends. And in front of the most gummed-up offenses you've ever seen are usually defensive ends doing themselves proud.

Modern offenses are designed to turn the defensive end into a fool. They often put him squarely at the point of attack, banging him hard physically and challenging him to make the right one of several possible decisions on many different plays.

To excel at defensive end, a player must be a super athlete embodying qualities rare among men.

A young Southwest assistant coach making a name for himself through the success of his defensive ends says he needs merely the best athletes on the defensive unit.

"It takes a special player," he said. "They see so much thrown at them, I frankly don't know how they ever learn it all. You used to just get a big, muscular guy and tell him to go get the quarterback, but not any more. In fact, you can be too big. I don't like to have them taller than 6 feet 3 or heavier than 220. Any bigger and they're not mobile enough."

You don't find such athletes in bunches, most coaches agree. "When I came here, we didn't have a single player able to play the position," the coach said. "It took three years to develop two of them."

The defensive end must be strong enough to fend off blocks by huge tackles and tight ends, and quick enough to avoid blocks by speedy, agile running backs who have a five-to-seven yard head of steam before they take their best shots.

He also must be smart enough not to take the bait in the cat-and-mouse game forced on him by the quarterback option play. And, increasingly, he has to be agile enough to play pass defense in the zone near the line of scrimmage—all without losing what the coaches call "containment."

By "containment," coaches mean it is the defensive end's responsibility to never, ever, let the ball get outside him and into that sideline groove to touchdown glory.

"If he loses containment, it's all over but the shouting," said a veteran Midwestern head coach. "That's the basic thing he has to do—contain."

When the play is run toward the outside, making the tackle is NOT the defensive end's primary job. If he can make it, fine, and it's usually for a substantial, sensational loss. But his main job is to force the runner back inside where pursuing linebackers or linemen can cut him down.

It is the defensive end's cardinal sin to be cut down himself, because that usually means containment is lost.

On many outside running plays, the defensive end is first hit by a straight-up block by the tight end or an offensive tackle. Those folks usually weigh in the 240-250-pound range and stand well over six feet tall.

Then, to try to turn the defensive end inside and keep him from doing his job, many offenses are designed to send a halfback or fullback out to block him.

Defensive ends have traditionally guessed wrong so often on quarterback option plays that the option has become a trademark of college football.

What happens on the option, pointed out a Southeastern offensive coordinator, is: "Our quarterback tries to fool the defensive end. His job is to make the end commit himself, then do the opposite—either keep the ball and run with it, or pitch to a trailing running back, or stop and throw a pass."

Forcing the runner inside is the main job of the defensive end.

To put the end even more on the spot, blockers try to seal off any help he could expect from the tackle alongside him or from the linebackers behind him.

On the off-tackle running play, a staple of any good offensive team, the end must quickly determine that he can abandon his responsibility to contain, then crash down the line and help the tackle who is usually being double-teamed. Of course, the offense tries to stop the defensive end from doing this by trying to block him away from the play—"kick him outside," in the vernacular—with a running back, and some college fullbacks weigh in the 220-240-pound range.

On plays which go to the opposite side of the field, the good defensive end doesn't just run helter-skelter for the ball. He first determines there aren't any potential pass receivers in his area (and covers them if there are), then he watches for reverse (or misdirection) plays coming back his way.

The Southwest coach whose ends have drawn national attention asks his charges to play pass defense every time the tight end angles to the outside—but to never, ever, sacrifice containment to follow the tight end.

Because few college teams have more than one man capable of playing defensive end well, many coaches have begun flip-flopping them—playing the bigger, stronger one across from the offense's tight end and putting the lighter, quicker one across from the offense's wide receiver.

There's a cat-and-mouse game for that situation, too. Offenses often shift the tight end from one side of the line to the other just before the snap, or send backs and-or wide receivers into motion to disrupt the defense.

It's all part of the evolution of the game. For a time, the wishbone offense was murder on defensive ends, but offensive coaches learned its best features could be preserved in the veer offense while improving the passing attack. Veer coaches soon learned the offense was too risky, producing too many fumbles to permit sound sleep. So many have gone to the "I" formation. They still have the option and passing capabilities, but the turnover risk is less.

"Everything is based on beating the defensive end," said the Midwestern coach. "If you can beat his containment, either by running outside or with the option, you're in good shape. If you can double-team the tackle and kick the defensive end out, you can run up the middle. If you can give your quarterback time to throw, you're okay, too."

"But a good defensive end can wreak havoc on you."

Either way, to a coach, it just ain't funny.

and Dartmouth assistant, but then head coach at Miami (Fla.). At that point, Blaik, who had installed the formation in spring practice, planned to keep Carpenter in the huddle. But Gustafson warned Blaik that if Carpenter had to commute continually between his out-post and the huddle, he'd be used up physically.

This criticism made sense to Blaik. So he decided to keep Carpenter out of the huddle. It would conserve Bill's energy, and it would permit Army to run off more plays. But, most important, it would force a vital part of the defense to commit its intentions immediately. This in turn would give Caldwell a chance, much earlier in the 25 seconds allotted to put the ball in play, to assay the defense and call the proper play to negate it.

As to the name, The Lonely End, it was coined by the late Stanley Woodward, redoubtable sports editor of the New York Herald Tribune, and a long time friend of Blaik.

First to confront The Lonely End that rainy September 27, Saturday in Michie Stadium 21 years ago was South Carolina, coached by Warren Giese. Called by Giese his most experienced team, the Gamecocks had beaten Duke the week before, would beat Georgia the week after, had a 7-3 record, and came to West Point expecting to win.

They were destroyed, 45-8. Before they ever got over midfield, Army had 38 points. The Cadets made 344 yards running and 185 passing. While South Carolina was debating how to cover the far-flanking Carpenter on his lightning-quick and diverse downfield patterns, Caldwell and Anderson were completing passes not only to The Lonely End but to Dawkins and Usry. They put on a show that dazzled not only South Carolina but the crowd and the press.

They were even more spectacular in the first half against Penn State in Michie the next week, scoring all the points in a 26-0 victory. They completed nine of 11 passes for 258 yards, and gained 93 yards running.

The second touchdown, a one-yard smash by Anderson, was set up by a 33-yard pass from Caldwell to Carpenter, on which The Lonely End went high into the air to steal the ball out of the hands of a defender, a regular trick of his. He also scored the third touchdown by racing 23 yards with a long pass from Caldwell, who had somehow eluded a Penn State posse.

Carpenter put on his greatest show his senior year, 1959, when Army lost at Oklahoma, 28-20. He had a bad left shoulder that required his left elbow be taped to his side. He was catching the ball literally with one arm, and was seemingly oblivious to pain when tackled. Yet, he ran his patterns perfectly. Against double-coverage most of the time, he still worked his way into the open, caught six passes, and threw a touchdown block. Oklahoma rooters, waiting to shake his hand outside Army's dressing room, said: "If this is the kind of man West Point is turning out, we are assured good military leadership."

As a soldier, Captain Carpenter won the Distinguished Service Cross in Vietnam by calling down napalm and artillery fire on his own men "because it was available, because the enemy was overrunning us, and because retreating and leaving our wounded behind was out of the question."

When Captain Carpenter later took his wounded to a landing strip to be airlifted out of battle, he was greeted by Lt. Col Harry Emerson. Glassy-eyed from fatigue and smeared with mud, Carpenter spoke unhappily of his decision to call in the air attack: "I lost a lot of people in that strike." "But," Emerson interjected, "you saved the company." Later, when they pinned the DSC on him, Bill said: "It was the company that earned it."

You are still wondering, I hope, how

The Lonely End and the huddle communicated? Red Blaik, who authored the plot, came clean the other day:

"When Caldwell stood in the huddle, if his feet were squared, it was a run. If either foot was advanced, it was a pass.

"If it was a run, there were five different fundamental blocking assignments for Carpenter to choose from. If it was a pass, he followed one of the same routes as if he were going to block.

"He knew which one of the five on a signal flashed to him by Dawkins as Pete moved from the huddle to his position as wingback.

"Thus, Carpenter knew precisely which route to take, and either blocked in the secondary or was in a position to take a pass. And, on either run or pass, the defense was forced to cover him.

"The Lonely End formation was fundamentally to the right. So, when Carpenter, after a play, saw that the team would have to line up too close to the right hash mark for him to set the distance required by The Lonely End, he would, prior to the huddle, automatically post himself as a far flanker to the left. This signaled Caldwell to call formation left."

And, there, Inspector Clouseau, you have it, I hope.

It is impossible to pinpoint the exact date, football game and campus the first person decided to pull out some fried chicken and a jug of iced tea and use his car trunk lid as a table. In fact, it is highly likely that on a Saturday many decades ago, baskets of goodies were being hauled simultaneously not to Grandma's house but to the peripheries of football stadiums all over the country.

Tailgating is too good an idea to have been the inspiration of a single person.

Whether the first tailgaters used what metal there was on a Model T or on a sleek Packard Coupe, it is safe to say the "sport" (although some call it an art) of tailgating blossomed into full fruition after World War II. Automobiles, even among students, became the rule on college campuses rather than the exception. And where there are automobiles and football games to be viewed, there most necessarily are tailgating parties.

The pioneer tailgaters would be amazed to see what a phenomenon the activity has turned into. With the increased number of recreational vehicles on the road these days, many stadium parking lots and grounds take on the appearance of a mobile home park each Saturday afternoon. Not to mention the proliferation of station wagons, hatchbacks and anything else that will open up and imitate a dining room.

Any college or university that has a football team and a few acres of land near the field is a prime spot for tailgating. For that matter, all it really requires is a football team. At one large Eastern university that has only sidewalks, stores and the typical trappings of urban life for a campus, people tailgate without tail or gate. Picnic baskets and little folding trays go right into the stands on game day. By 10 a.m., most of the spectators are already in their seats, helping themselves to the repast of their choice, be it a half dozen cheeseburgers procured at the local junk shop on the way to the game or a four-course luncheon prepared with Mom's loving care.

Ah, but true tailgating should involve some moving vehicle. It doesn't have to be a van or station wagon as several enterprising students at a Southern California school showed not long ago when they set up motorcycles and bikes in pairs and stretched plywood planks across to make their tables.

The opposite end of that sort of approach is done early by alumni of a large Southern university for the game with the long-time conference rival. Several years ago the organizing couple purchased a gigantic Winnebago and began outfitting it with the ultimate in tailgating. Not only is the machine done in the school colors, inside and out, but its owners have installed a rather sophisticated sound system that is programmed months ahead of time for the day of the big game.

Dramatic recordings of previous triumphs, complete with narration and crowd noises are played from the time the group leaves the Winnebago-owners' driveway until each member heads to the stadium to find his seat for the current contest. The alums hire a sympathetic but less enthusiastic man to drive so they may be free to toast each and every play—past, present or future—that strikes their fancy.

When the outcome of the game is upon them, its spirit goes right back into the Winnebago, either to be toasted anew or to be grieved over during the long ride home.

For most tailgaters, however, the Winnebago is in another league. Campers, though, have definitely found their places. One graduating class of the mid-Fifties at a Big Ten school has a half dozen representatives each homecoming game, all driving campers. They arrive in the stadium parking lot the Friday of homecoming weekend, the first on the spot raising the banner of the graduating year. One by one, the others cruise around the lot, looking for their banner and soon join forces. For them, tailgating is like a mini-vacation. Lawn chairs come out of the backs of the vehicles, lanterns are hung from each camper and the adults set about catching up on a year of news while the kids run around the parking lot as though it were a resort.

"My parents took me for so long," says the daughter of one of the "hardcore" attenders, "that my husband and I got our own camper right after we graduated and we've started to go. My kids are out there playing touch football the morning of the game just like I used to do."

Says a recent graduate of the Ivy League, "I've been dragging a barbecue grill to the last couple of big weekends just like my dad did. Nothing's changed, really, the tailgating is still the biggest reason to go to the game. Anyway, it's usually a lot more satisfying."

Speaking of satisfying, a stroll through almost any tailgate area the morning of a game could make the most indifferent eater ravenous. At one of the country's military academies, a special section near the stadium has been set aside for years for season ticket holders to park their various autos and tailgate. Identifying passes are mailed to all those eligible to use the area.

One fellow, who is on the waiting list, says, "Getting into that lot is like trying to get tickets to the last game of the World Series. But at least you can walk through and smell the hamburgers, steaks and hot dogs. Last year I passed a group of people who were barbecuing a whole leg of lamb! It was heavenly."

That brings up the subject of a menu. Perhaps in those early post-war years, it was enough to toss together a few peanut butter sandwiches for a tailgate party. Not anymore. Tailgate menus have graduated, as have the ways of simply putting them on the table.

When several persons meet for a tailgate party, each usually brings a dish or beverage. The more people involved, the more the backs of station wagons begin to look like Thanksgiving.

Yet, three couples who meet annually for a Pacific-10 rivalry have carried tailgating to possibly its most elegant extreme.

"It has escalated every year," says one of the wives, a '68 grad. "Now we're at the place where whoever is in charge one year will try to outdo whatever was done last year. We haven't sat on the ground on a blanket for the past four years. Always a table and chairs and a table cloth."

And, of all things for a fine fall day, lighted candelabra and recorded classical music on a tape deck.

"The gal who did the brunch last year brought pate, endive salad, cold roast duckling and some wonderful asparagus thing," says the woman in charge of next year's feast. "Then, as we were sipping freshly brewed coffee, she whipped up strawberries chantilly. And her husband brought a wine to go with every course. I'm at the place where I think I'll have to get Maxim's to cater or something."

Gourmet brunch or standby fried chicken, one of the common elements of tailgating is the sense of community sharing. Strangers looking for their own parties are forever being asked to sample some food or drink from tailgaters who park in every grove of trees, concrete parking lot or dirt clearing.

Says the father of a recent Southwest Conference quarterback, "I had such a great time just getting to the stadium, I almost missed my son's first two plays. I never realized a parking lot could offer so much."

Neither did an Atlantic Coast Conference group of alums until last year. "We got smart," says the ringleader. "We brought a TV set, watched the whole game and never had to stop our tailgate party."

Tailgating Recipes

In England, you'll likely get a summons for tailgating and a stern lecture from the magistrate.

That's because our cousins on the other side of the Atlantic haven't yet discovered that tailgating is actually one of the more delightful forms of partying we erstwhile colonists have perfected.

And in Britain don't call for a hot dog at a sports event. You'll probably get a blank stare. The English are more likely to snack on a Cornish Pastie and a mug of hot tea, or steak and kidney pie, wrapped in pastry, and washed down with barley water or Robinson's squash.

Sporting events in Britain aren't usually a family affair. 'Tis a pity. They never will know the autumnal delights of a tailgate bash—all the color, excitement and glamour of a college football crowd.

If you're looking for something different and very delicious to serve at your next tailgate outing, here are two new ideas from The R.T. French Company Test Kitchens in Rochester, New York, that will pile up a lot of yardage.

Hamburger Hoagies are spicy good and satisfy outdoor appetites while Lumberjack Soup provides a hot and hearty meal-in-a-bowl that can be made ahead of time at home.

To prepare the Hoagies, you'll need to bring along a small grill or hibachi, but your efforts will be richly rewarded with a juicy concoction easily seasoned with an envelope of chili seasoning mix and topped with tomatoes from your own garden and slices of American cheese. Crusty hero rolls will add a festive touch.

Another weekend serve Lumberjack Soup, which is aptly named. It combines ground beef, macaroni, tomatoes, and onion gravy mix in a thick nourishing soup that will sustain your tailgaters through all the action. Make it at home, place in a thermos, and serve piping hot at your pre-game ritual.

For an extra point with either recipe, serve Bean and Cabbage Slaw, a crisp combination of green beans and shredded cabbage. The zesty dressing is quickly made with prepared yellow mustard, oil and vinegar.

Complete your tailgate meal with fresh fruit and cookies and iced tea or coffee.

HAMBURGER HOAGIES

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1 envelope (1¾-oz.) chili mix
- ½ cup water
- 8 crusty rolls
- 8 slices American cheese
- 2 tomatoes, sliced
- 1 onion, sliced

Combine ground beef, contents of chili envelope, and water; shape 8 patties to fit rolls. Grill over hot coals. Serve on rolls topped with cheese, tomato, and onion. 8 servings.

LUMBERJACK SOUP

- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 envelopes (7/8-oz. each) onion gravy mix
- 1 can (16-oz.) tomatoes
- 3 cups water
- ¾ cup uncooked elbow macaroni

Brown meat in soup kettle or large saucepan. Stir in onion gravy mix. Add tomatoes, water, and macaroni to meat mixture; stir well and bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until macaroni is tender. Stir occasionally. 6 servings.

BEAN AND CABBAGE SLAW

- ¼ cup oil
- 2 tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 4 cups shredded or chopped cabbage
- 1 to 2 cups cooked chilled green beans (or 16-oz. can, drained)

Briskly stir together oil, mustard, sugar, and vinegar. Combine cabbage and beans in salad bowl; add dressing and toss lightly. 8 servings.

GOOD NEWS FOR
AND UNDER.

If you've always thought a little car meant a lot of crowding, you've obviously never looked into a Volkswagen Rabbit.

There happens to be so much room in a Rabbit that all 7'2" of Wilt Chamberlain can fit comfortably into the driver's seat. With space left over.

Because the Rabbit has even more headroom than a Rolls-Royce.

As well as more room for people and things than practically every other imported car in its class.

Including every Datsun. Every Toyota. Every Honda, Mazda, and Renault.

Not to mention every small Ford and Chevy.

And, of course, what's all the more impressive about the room you get in a Rabbit is that it comes surrounded by the Rabbit itself. The car that, according to Car and Driver Magazine, "...does more useful and rewarding things than any other small car in the world..."

So how can you go wrong?

With the Rabbit you not only get the comfort of driving the most copied car in America.

You also get the comfort of driving a very comfortable car.

Because it may look like a Rabbit on the outside.

But it's a Rabbit on the inside.

TONIGHT'S GAME

Tonight's opponent in the 1979 home opener of Coach Bill Michael's third campaign at UTEP is University of the Pacific of Stockton, Calif.

The Miners and Tigers have met a total of seven times before, but haven't played each other since 1975 when the Miners journeyed to Stockton. In that one, the Miners dropped a 40-10 decision after getting behind by a 24-3 count at the half.

All the parties in that game are gone, including the head coaches. New Pacific Coach Bob Toledo took over the reins of the Tiger program after last season, replacing Chester Caddas who had spent a long tenure there and is now an assistant coach at Colorado State University of the Western Athletic Conference. Last year the Tigers were 4-8 on the year and were 3-2 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, good enough for a third place finish behind Utah State and San Jose State.

This year, Toledo looks to 26 returning lettermen, which includes 16 starters. Two of those people are honors candidates on the defense, Brad Vassar, a 6-2, 225-pound senior, and Dallas Nelson, a 6-2, 220-pound senior.

The game will be the season opener for Pacific and the home opener for the Miners, who opened at North Texas State last week. In that one, the Miners dropped a 35-0 decision to a very powerful and veteran Mean Green bunch.

Player of the Week Award went to Curtis Stevenson, a 5-9, 150-pound defensive safety from Dayton, TX, and tailback James Copeland, a 5-10, 180-pounder from Ann Arbor, Mich., who transferred last spring from Cerritos Junior College in California. Stevenson collected six unassisted tackles, nine assists and caused two fumbles while Copeland rushed 10 times for 56 yards in his debut as a Miner.

Also on hand tonight are the Houston Oiler Cheerleaders known as the Derrick Dolls. Ten of the young ladies are here courtesy of The University of Texas at El Paso Athletic Department and the Hilton Inn.

Next week the Miners host rival New Mexico State for the 59th meeting of the oldest rivalry on the Miner schedule.

THE FIRST CHEVY OF THE '80s. CITATION. OUR MOST SUCCESSFUL NEW CAR EVER.

Ever since its introduction, people have been flooding Chevy showrooms across the country to see the 1980 Chevy Citation. And according to Retail Delivery Reports, 33,765 units were sold in its first three weeks, more than any new entry Chevrolet has ever introduced.

MID-SIZE ROOM FOR 5.

Citation's engine is mounted sideways, so the passenger compartment can be bigger. In fact, in EPA interior dimensions, Citation is classified as a mid-size car. With the back seat folded down there's room enough for two adults in front and 30 bags of groceries in back.

0 TO 50 IN 9 SECONDS FLAT WITH THE AVAILABLE V6.

In engineering tests, Citation goes from 0 to 50 in 9 seconds flat. That's with available 2.8 Liter V6 engine and automatic transmission. California figures not available. (Citation is equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.)

EASY ON GAS. 24 EPA ESTIMATED MPG. 38 HIGHWAY ESTIMATE.

That's with Citation's standard 2.5 Liter 4-cylinder engine and manual transmission. (Manual transmission currently not available in California. Calif. estimates lower.)

Citation's standard 4-speed transmission is made to conserve gas. It's an overdrive. And at cruising speeds the 4th gear lets the engine run slower than with a conventional transmission, helping to get impressive fuel economy.

IMPRESSIVE LONG-RANGE CRUISING ESTIMATES, TOO.

And Citation's long-range cruising estimates are just as impressive. 336 miles based on EPA estimated MPG (city) mileage figures, and 532 miles based on estimated highway MPG. Range figures obtained by multiplying Citation's 14-gallon fuel tank capacity rating by the EPA mileage estimates.

REMEMBER: Compare the circled estimated MPG to the estimated MPG of other cars. You may get different mileage and range depending on your speed, trip length and weather. Your actual city mileage and range will be less in heavy city traffic. Your actual mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate.

YOU'VE GOT TO DRIVE IT TO BELIEVE IT.

When you drive Citation you'll see what all the excitement is about. The way it feels. The way it maneuvers. The way it rides. And Citation's front wheel drive puts approximately 65% of its weight over the "driving wheels" to give you impressive traction on wet or snowy roads.

IT'S A WHOLE NEW KIND OF COMPACT CAR.

There's still a lot about Citation that we haven't mentioned. Like slip stream design to cut down on wind resistance and wind noise. The hidden cargo area in all hatchback models, so what's inside is protected from view. A dual diagonal braking system. And much, much more. That's why we encourage you to see your Chevy dealer and test drive the 1980 Chevy Citation today. This could be the car you've had in mind.

1979 FOOTBALL RULE CHANGES

by John Adams

WAC Supervisor of Football Officials

The 1979 NCAA Football Rules Committee, recognizing superb balance between offense and defense, did little to change the game and College Football 1979 should soar to new heights.

The skill phases during 1978 set records highlighted by a 49 percent forward pass completion average, 1.5 field goals scored per contest, featuring a 58 percent success ratio and 92 percent efficiency on PAT attempts. Total offense per game was 663 yards also an NCAA record.

Making football safer for America's collegians, while keeping it just as exciting for the customer, has been the rules committee goal for many years.

"We had no fatalities or catastrophic injuries in 1978," observed David M. Nelson, editor of the rules body. Nelson also emphasizes cooperation of the coaching fraternity in "eliminating the head as the primary point of contact in teaching blocking and tackling" as extremely important in the dramatic decrease of serious injury.

Surgical knee cases, although decreasing, remain a major concern and blocking below the waist following any change of possession joins previous restrictions on crack back blocking at the line of scrimmage as an illegal act. This theory is that a sudden change in the status of the football left players subject to blind side contact in the lower leg area.

Violent play in the areas of spearing, ramming, butting (with the helmet), kicking a foe, striking a blow, and roughing the kicker now carries an automatic first down, where previously in a long yardage situation, the sticks might not have moved following these infractions. The defenseless wide receiver may not be cut down prior to the throw in another move toward elimination of the knee injury.

Coaches have long objected to the return of the ball to the previous spot following a receiving team foul during a scrimmage kick. These fouls will now be penalized where the kick ends with the receivers going on offense. Fewer fouls will offset as live ball/dead ball fouls are penalized in the order of their occurrence. This assures that the cheap shot will be enforced rather than offset by an offside or motion call.

Many fans will notice the newly marked team areas (between the 30 yard lines) which will be 12 feet rather than the previous six feet from the sideline. Also the press and other sideline occupants will be required to remain behind this 12 foot restraining line around the field in a move to give the spectator a better view of the sometimes critical sideline play. In addition, a coaches' box which is six feet from the sideline and between the 30 yard lines is designated to give these gentlemen working space.

Despite these few minor alterations College Football will look like last year's edition with more excitement and a great probability of new records and achievements.

The American Eagle Radial. Why it belongs on America's finest cars.

The Goodyear American Eagle Radial tire is as revolutionary today as our first rayon cord tire was in 1938 and our Polyglas in 1967 and the Polysteel Radial when introduced in 1974.

What makes the American Eagle Radial the tire for today is belts of Flexten cord. It is made from a flexible, man-made aramid fiber that is, pound for pound, stronger than steel. Flexten cord—a step ahead of steel—makes the American Eagle Radial tough and strong. Yet, the American Eagle is gratifyingly smooth riding, too.

Comfort, control and confidence are the qualities of the American Eagle Radial... the unique luxury tire designed by Goodyear for the American driver and the American road. We invite you to inspect and to enjoy American ingenuity... from Goodyear.

Roll it along a flat surface, and its course resembles a Saturday night imbibor trying to tread the straight white line. And hurtling along the ground at him are eleven people bent on flattening him. He is garbed elegantly and expensively: helmet with a protective face mask, shoulder pads, thigh pads, cleated shoes, jersey and pants. A proud warrior. Yet, at his moment of truth, he might just as well be naked. He is the focal point of everybody's senses. As many as 100,000 sets of eyes are watching him. His every move; his every twitch.

The focal point of his attention is an object hurtling from the sky that really is not meant to be caught. But his job is to catch it. And run with it. A long way.

In any other sport, the word "ball" denotes something round, something easily handled by the human hand. Baseball. Basketball. Racquetball. Golf ball. Roll them along a flat surface and it's there for everybody to see. But the really good ones love it. It's their moment at center stage. It may only happen seven or eight times a game, but the good ones can hardly wait for those times. "It is their chance to shake and bake. They have so much confidence in themselves that they love the stress of the moment. They know that if they are successful, their success can be one of the most devastating things that can happen to the other team in the course of a game."

Coaches start sounding like sorcerers when they try to describe what this rare breed of football player has to be able to do to be successful.

"The big thing is that he has to be able to catch the football," said another successful coach. "He's not worth much if he can't catch the football."

"He has to have hands that would allow him to catch an egg if he had to. He can't fumble the ball, he really can't ever let the ball hit the ground."

"He has to have total concentration. He has to be oblivious to everything that's going on around him. And he has to want to do it."

"Besides all that, he needs a sixth sense—a radar that let's him know when he should catch the ball and run with it, and when he should signal for a

41% BETTER EPA ESTIMATED GAS MILEAGE IN OUR MOST EXCITING PONTIAC PHOENIX EVER.

What a difference a model year can make.

That's all it's taken for our all new 1980 Pontiac Phoenix to score 41 percent better EPA estimated MPG over its 1979 counterpart. (Based on a comparison of 1979 and 1980 Pontiac Phoenix models with standard powertrains.* The highway percentage increase is 42 percent.)

EPA ESTIMATE MPG

HWY ESTIMATE

It's all the more exciting when you consider these 1980 Phoenix mileage estimates.

Remember: Compare the circled estimated MPG with that of other cars. Your mileage may vary depending on speed, trip length and weather. And your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate.

Standard powertrain not currently avail. in Calif.

But great mileage is just the beginning of the excitement. Phoenix for 1980 has been dramatically redesigned from the ground up. Choose from the rakish new five-passenger Phoenix Coupe and the sporty and versatile Phoenix Hatchback. You get an exciting new chapter of Pontiac driving fun. With front-wheel drive. Rack and pinion steering. And MacPherson strut front suspension.

Another exciting thought. You get even more standard features than on our well-equipped '79 Phoenix. Such new standards as radial tuned suspension, integral body-color bumpers, column-mounted dimmer/washer switch, dome lamp switches on all the doors, load floor Hatchback carpeting and much more.

That's more Pontiac.

So don't let the excitement pass you by. Buy or lease the all new Phoenix Coupe and Hatchback at your Pontiac dealer's. It's going to be quite a year.

fair catch and not try to run. And while all that's happening, he has to be able to see out of the corner of his eye just where everybody is on the field.

"A lot of people are scared to death trying to do it.

"Returns, whether they're kickoff or punt returns, have become more and more sophisticated every year," the coach continued. "Over the years, although it's not really anything new, coaches have realized that the kicking game has become one-fourth to one-third of a game.

"Look at any close game, and you'll usually be able to find that it was decided in some phase of the kicking game. Last year, for instance, we had three games that were decided or turned in our favor because of a punt or kickoff return."

Coaches now want a punt launched in less than two seconds (preferably much less). And they want the punt to "hang" for more than 4½ seconds (preferably five or more seconds). They have designed punt formations (putting the kicker 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage) that make it difficult to block punts. And they have created special teams that employ players who can cover the hoped-for 40 or more yards of a punt in less than five seconds to tackle the return man before he has a chance to shake and bake.

On the other end of the kick or punt, coaches have also devised strategies.

"We have a 'short man,' a guy a few yards ahead of the return man, who

Close coordination between the return man and his blockers is essential.

yells out a code word to let the return man know what's happening while the return man concentrates on the football," said a Northern coach.

"Maybe the short man will call out 'Red' which means just catch the ball, but don't try for a return. Or 'Green' which means the return is on. And the return man already knows that he will be returning the ball left, right or up in the middle."

While the return man and the short man are getting their signals straight, nine other teammates are peeling back to get into position to form a wall of blockers. "The Picket Line."

"It takes a lot of people to make the thing work," he continued. "It doesn't just happen by accident."

"You can have all sorts of rules," said a former mentor. "Try for the return if your heels are on your 10-yard line, but just make the catch if your heels are on the 8-yard line. Things like that."

"But what it really takes is a rare breed. Everybody wants to play centerfield like Willie Mays, but not everybody plays centerfield like Willie Mays."

The Return Man. Glory or Goat. Cheers or Catcalls. Any volunteers? Ooops. Shouldn't have raised your hand, that's a fair catch.

A successful kick return can be a devastating blow to the opposition.

TOP DEFENSIVE PLAYERS IN THE COUNTRY

by John Mooney, Salt Lake City TRIBUNE

The late Alvin Nugent (Bo) McMillin would be proud of the defensive stalwarts returning to the 1979 college football wars. When he took over the reins at Indiana U. "Bo" described the material he wanted—"the kind who hunt bears with a switch." And he invited the alumni to "Ship, haul or drive those babies to Bloomington. What we need is plenty of those big, rough, tough rawhide pilgrim boys who kinda growl when they walk."

The All-America defensive stalwarts of today are much more vocal than McMillin's recruits who "growled" but the former coach would have drooled at the prospect of coaching the players nominated for post-season honors.

Of the 170 defensive players being pushed for honors by their schools, some who won't even receive honorable mention on the All-America teams, or first team recognition in their conferences, would have been deemed the answer to McMillin's prayers a few decades ago.

Consider that the average "All" team includes three linebackers and 46 have credentials worthy of note in any list of top players.

By the alphabet, you can run the gamut of Arthur Akers of UCLA to Gregory Wright of Delaware State.

So, with no attempt to rate them, here are those most likely to be called when the roll is compiled at the end of the season:

JAY BERWANGER

The First Heisman Trophy Winner

by Nick Peters, Richmond INDEPENDENT GAZETTE

Today's Heisman Trophy winners are assured of multi-year, six-figure contracts, off-field endorsements and a chance for instant professional success.

It wasn't always that way.

During the Great Depression, University of Chicago's one-man gang, Jay Berwanger, was considered the finest football player of his era, a distinction which made history in 1935 when he was selected as the first winner of the Heisman Trophy and also became the first athlete ever drafted by the NFL.

Berwanger, who in modern parlance "could do it all," had the audacity to ask George Halas for a two-year contract at $12,500 per. Though he was a hometown hero and a natural for the Bears, that allegedly excessive demand terminated contract talk.

Jay Berwanger, now a 65-year-old millionaire businessman in the Chicago area, thereby never played a down of professional football. Despite the lack of additional exposure, it is to his credit that his name ranks with Thorpe, Nagurski, Nevers and Grange as symbols of early gridiron greatness.

After he had played his final game for Coach Clark Shaughnessy's Maroons in 1935, Spalding's Football Guide stated that the U. of Chicago suffered "an irreparable loss." It was a prophetic observation, for in 1939 the school dropped major college football.

Berwanger was born March 19, 1914, the son of a Dubuque blacksmith. The Iowa country boy was rangy and athletic at an early age, blossoming into a prep sensation at Dubuque High.

College recruiters flocked to see the six-foot, 195-pound schoolboy sensation, who was an all-around athlete in more ways than one. He was president of the senior class and ranked among the top 10 percent academically, the type of stuff of which legends are made.

Scholarship offers came from such prestigious institutions as Yale, Harvard, Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa. But just as he was his own man while dealing with Halas, Berwanger showed his independence at a much earlier age by opting for a school which didn't even

The incomparable Amos Alonzo Stagg was Chicago's coach when Jay enrolled in 1932, but the Maroons had no idea they were blessed with a football superstar until his varsity career began under Shaughnessy in 1933.

The triple-threat sophomore halfback was an instant success, earning MVP honors for a 3-3-2 squad as an outstanding 60-minute player. Jay first flashed his brilliance with a 27-yard touchdown pass against Washington of St. Louis in his second college game. He capped the season with a 65-yard touchdown gallop in a 39-0 pounding of Dartmouth.

Though the cast around him didn't improve, Berwanger was even better as a junior, leading the Maroons to a 4-4 record, topping the Big Ten in scoring and earning All-America honors.

His rise to prominence also was assisted by a specially-designed protective device to shield a broken nose suffered in his final freshman game. Berwanger became known as The Man in the Iron Mask—and his gridiron exploits made the nickname more famous than Dumas' literary figure.

In the 1934 opener, Jay ran 25 yards for a TD and passed 26 yards to John Baker for another as Carroll crumbled, 19-0. His 57-yard scoring run was the big play in a 27-0 romp over Michigan and he returned a kickoff 97 yards for a TD in a 21-0 blanking of Indiana.

Berwanger's 30-yard TD pass to Tom Flinn powered a 19-6 victory over Missouri and Chicago was 4-0. But then bigger and better foes began wearing down the tissue-thin Maroons and losses to Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota and arch-rival Illinois left Chicago 4-4.

But Jay's luster didn't diminish. He became Chicago's first All-American in 10 years. His ball-carrying and passing skills were obvious, but the rest of his bother to recruit him.

The U. of Chicago had a high academic rating and was much more concerned about degrees than touchdowns. The bright student-athlete had similar priorities, so he made the trip to Chicago and sold school authorities on his scholastic prowess.

"I had heard about the new educational concepts of Robert Hutchins (Chicago president) and I thought they would be good for me," explained Berwanger.

Imagination, instinct, and versatility (not size alone) set Merrill Lynch apart from the rest of the herd.

Too many people see only the size of Merrill Lynch; they miss the subtler qualities that truly make us a breed apart. For example:

Imagination. An oil exploration company needed $75 million, but traditional ways of raising it would have overly diluted earnings or impaired financial flexibility. Our solution: a public offering of convertible preferred stock.

Instinct. A corporate client wanted to buy back 200,000 shares of its own stock. Getting the best price was a question of market timing...of knowing when to walk out of the market and let the price sink, when to buy aggressively.

That's instinct. And it helped us buy all 200,000 shares within 1/2 point of the starting price.

Versatility. We can also help you reach your personal financial goals, despite changing markets and tough tax laws. As your assets grow and your needs change, your Account Executive can keep pace with equities, commodities, bonds, annuities, and tax investments.

player of the year in Big Eight ... AP All-American despite missing games late in season with injury ... Made team high of 130 tackles.

Michigan knows the team with the best defense will represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, and the Wolverines are high on Ron Simpkins, who made All-Big Ten as a junior, and who led Michigan in tackles with 174 ... Twice named wire service Player of Week on defense which was second nationally in defense against the score and eighth in rushing defense.

Mozell (The Axe) Axson is rated among the all-time linebackers at the University of Miami, and in his soph season in 1978, led all Miami tacklers, with 126 stops.

Although an even six feet in height and 225 on the scales, The Axe bench presses over 300 pounds. His top show last year was 17 tackles in the upset of Auburn.

Called by a former coach "The best looking physical prospect I ever saw," Mike Massey of Arkansas finally is emerging from the shadows of two former three-year lettermen, after recovering three fumbles and making 57 tackles as a swing man last year.

David Hodge of Houston led the SWC champs in tackles and was named outstanding defensive player in Cotton Bowl ... Named AP Lineman of the Week and was named to AP and UPI All-SWC teams after making an All-America first team as a soph ... His fourth year as starter.

George Cumby of Oklahoma also claims recognition as the Big Eight Player of the Year after being voted Newcomer of the Year in 1977, when he was voted AP All-American and All-Big Eight ... Last year credited with 114

Stanford offers a tandem in junior Milt McColl and soph Craig Zellmer. McColl follows his father, Bill, and brother, Duncan, in the All-America parade at Stanford while Zellmer made 19 tackles against USC as a sub for Gordy Ceresino, the school's all-time tackle leader.

Dennis Johnson, USC's inside linebacker, led Trojans in tackling last two seasons. He had 124 tackles, a pass interception and seven pass deflections while making the All-Pac-10 first team.

The Western Athletic Conference offers three good linebackers in Danny Frazier and Glen Redd of Brigham Young and Mike Forrest of New Mexico. Frazier is a 6-5, 221-pound soph and Redd a quick junior.

Forrest is rated one of the best returning players in the WAC, with 162 tackles, including 46 unassisted stops ... Started as a prep quarterback, played tight end as a frosh and moved to linebacker as a soph.

Scott Carter of San Diego State was a

Notre Dame will argue for the cause of Bob Crable and Bobby Leopold as two of the best in the country, while UCLA counters with its Dynamic Duo of Billy Don Jackson and Arthur Akers.

Jackson played defensive tackle the first two years but moved to inside linebacker in the spring to replace All-America Jerry Robinson ... As down lineman last year made 65 tackles and was named to All-Coast second team ... Also voted first team Soph All-America honors ... Against Cal, intercepted pass and scored on 16-yard run.

Akers started only three games, but had 11 tackles against Kansas and 10 against Stanford ... Extremely physical player.

Buddy Curry was North Carolina's leading tackler the last two seasons ... Injured last year which slowed him a bit, he was outstanding defensive performer in 1977 Liberty Bowl with 18 tackles ... On very first play of his collegiate career he intercepted pass against Northwestern and has seven career interceptions.

Dan Bass of Michigan State is one of top players in Big Ten. He was ninth in conference in tackles and picked on second team in all-conference ... Returned interception 99 yards against Wisconsin.

Among the top players in the East are Lance Mehl of Penn State, a 6-4, 220-pound senior who led the 1978 team with 96 tackles; Gregg Milo, rover from Navy; Gregory Wright of Delaware State; Mike Brewington, Eastern Carolina; Jim Collins, Syracuse veteran; and Ben Botone of Rhode Island. Brewington is one of the reasons East Carolina has been among the leaders in total and rushing defense.

In the South-Southeast, there's Otis Wilson, a transfer from Syracuse to Louisville, who is called by a former coach "the best linebacker in the nation." ... Led team with 157 tackles, including 93 solo, also had six interceptions.

Auburn offers Freddie Smith and Georgia Tech boasts Henry Johnson (99 tackles) and Al Richardson (68 tackles and five fumble recoveries).

Johnnie Cooks of Mississippi State played as a freshman a year ago and led team in 73 solo tackles and 42 assists, plus 12 sacks for minus 42 yards.

Scot Brantley of Florida is a three-year starter who was SEC Rookie of Year as a frosh and All-SEC the last two years ... Averaged 14.5 tackles a game for three years.

In the heartland country, Iowa's Jim Molini, Western Michigan's Eric Manns, Western Kentucky's Chuck DeLacey, Brian Anderson of Wichita State and Northwestern's trio of Kevin Berg, Ben Butler and Chuck Kern may be sleepers.

to Robin Cole, are the top defensive ends in the Rockies.

Baker led Lobos in quarterback sacks with 12, and also turned in 12 other tackles for losses. Mississippi plugs Big John Peel, while LSU will fight for John Adams and Lyman White, who totaled 152 tackles.

Wendell Ray, at 6-5 and 218, is the best defensive player on the Missouri squad, with 66 tackles last year ... Interception of a Dexter Green pass on Missouri 10 stopped a drive which could have given Iowa State the lead.

Sam Stepney of Boston U. is a good candidate from the East, while Lafayette lists Tim Gerhart as one of its finest-ever ends, with Little All-America selection in 1978 to go with All-East honors.

Farley Bell, who started for Cincinnati last year after switching from Ohio State, has been tabbed as the best end in Bearcat history.

Ohio U. fans believe they have a real winner in Steve Groves. Switched to defensive tackle last year after knee surgery, Groves had a fine year. Moved to end again this year, he should have a good season.

In the Pac-10 nominations, Arizona State notes that Bob Kohrs tied in the 1978 defensive statistics for the Sun Devils with unanimous All-America Al

The new Nikon EM. Easiest way to catch all the action!

This is the Nikon for you. Amazingly small, easy to use, and very easy to afford. Born of the tradition of quality that makes Nikon the overwhelming choice of professional photographers. Ready to give you superbly sharp, life-like color shots any pro could be proud of. Automatically!

Just focus and shoot—Nikon space-age electronics do the rest. The Nikon EM even alerts you with an exclusive audible "beep" if light conditions are not right for best results.

Add the low-cost motor drive and fire away at up to 2 shots a second. Turn night into day with the inexpensive, totally automatic thyristor flash. Zero in on key plays with the sharp Nikon telephoto lens... take in the whole field with the Nikon wide angle. Now you don't have to be a pro to shoot like one!

All this Nikon picture-ability can be yours for a lot less than you'd imagine. See the new Nikon EM and its even more advanced team mates—the compact automatic Nikon FE and classic FM—at your Nikon dealer. You'll find him in the Yellow Pages. Or, write to Nikon Inc., Dept. Harris for the most points.

Also worth watching are Ron Crews of Nevada-Las Vegas, Nick Westerberg of Oregon State and Jerry Calovich of Kansas.

The guys in the interior of the line, in the "trenches," don't get many "sacks" or unassisted tackles, and rarely do they get the headlines. But what a group to draw from.

Start with the Big Ten where Stanley Ralph of Illinois is the strongest man on the team, and also one of the fastest; or at Wisconsin, where Tom Schremp is a starter for the third year, or at Iowa, where John Hart, 6-6 and 260, is one of the defensive bright spots.

Ball State is high on senior tackle Rush Brown, who was an all conference selection last year.

Penn State provides two of the outstanding candidates in the East, headed by Bruce Clark, who won the Lombardi Award and finished second in the Outland voting. Clark was an All-America first-teamer as well as ABC-TV defensive player of the year.

The other Nittany Lion tackle, Matt Millen, finished fourth for the Lombardi Award, and he, too, gained All-America honors.

Among the Ivies, Yale offers two top middle guards in senior Ron Barlow and junior Kevin Czingler. Navy boosts John Merrill, an all ECAC selection who is the biggest (248 pounds) player Navy has had in years.

On the East seaboard, consider Doug McDougald and Mike Faulkner of Virginia Tech, Ben Bottone of Rhode Island, Tom Pierzga of Boston U., and Colin McCarty of Temple.

In the Southeast-South, The Citadel backs David Wardlaw, Duke has Tim Cadigan, who can bench press 400 pounds; Clemson is high on Jim Stuckey, an All-ACC pick last year, who had 17 tackles against Georgia and made the two big plays in the win over North Carolina.

In the SEC, Auburn is high on Frank Warren while noseguard George Atiyeh leads LSU. Mississippi State offers tackle Tyrone Keys, all 260 pounds, who is exceptional as a pass rusher. Richard Jaffe, was the leading tackler for Kentucky two years ago and third leading tackler last year as noseguard. All-SEC team twice.

Mississippi counts on James (Lazarus) Jordan at noseguard and Southwestern Louisiana has Dale Thomas as a good prospect.

The Southwest would be led by Houston's two tackles, Hosea Taylor at 260 and Leonard Mitchell, 6-7 and 270. Taylor led down linemen with 44 tackles and seven sacks while Mitchell led team with eight sacks and returned two pass interceptions for touchdowns.

Harvey Armstrong of SMU was voted Newcomer of the Year and had 117 tackles for second All-SWC honors, while Wesley Roberts is TCU's best.

In the Big Eight, Chris Boskey of Iowa State was Defensive Newcomer of the Year; LaVal Short of Colorado was a second team middle guard; Rod Horn is Nebraska's top defensive tackle and Jim Zidd is a talented defensive end at Kansas, while Kerry Weinmaster at middle guard has excellent "all" credentials for Nebraska.

Pat Ogrin and Don Jessie are Wyoming's best tackles; Ryan Williams is an outstanding tackle for the Air Force; Glen Titensor, a transfer from UCLA, has good notices from BYU, as has Craig Silverman from Nevada-Las Vegas.

Rulon Jones from Utah State follows the Aggie Tradition of Tackle U., and Cleveland Crosby is Arizona's best talents were just coming into focus. He was voted the team's best blocker and once made 15 straight tackles in a Big Ten game.

His athletic skill was not limited to the gridiron. The next spring, Berwanger entered the Kansas Relays and placed fourth in the decathlon the first time he ever tried the gruelling event. He was tougher and stronger, figuring to go out with a blaze of glory for the Maroons in the fall.

A 28-7 season-opening loss to Nebraska exposed Chicago's lack of quality players and depth, but there was no denying Berwanger's greatness. His virtuosity paced a 31-0 rout of Carroll and he fired a 38-yard touchdown pass in a 31-6 drubbing of Kalamazoo. A 19-0 setback to Purdue left the Maroons 2-2.

A 13-7 victory over Wisconsin set the stage for a home field contest against mighty Ohio State, which was a 40-point favorite to unleash its vengeance on the lowly Maroons.

"Berwanger's all I've got," groaned Shaughnessy before the Nov. 9 clash. "The other boys are good, hard-working youngsters, but they don't have it as football players. You can forget about all the other names and numbers—just watch Berwanger. If we do anything, he'll do it."

It was a most accurate assessment, and could have described every Chicago outing against a formidable foe in the mid-Thirties. But Berwanger's ominous presence took the Maroons out of the ordinary category and made them a threat against anyone. The Buckeyes learned that lesson the hard way on that rainy, muddy Saturday afternoon.

The Buckeyes' superior strength and depth began to take hold in the second half against the banged up Maroons, but Berwanger wasn't finished. After Ohio State scored in the third period, Jay gave the classic struggle its most memorable moment.

With the ball on Chicago's 15, Jay began circling left end and cut back sharply as he spotted a hole in the Ohio State line. He bolted through the line of scrimmage and four defenders lurked ahead. He dodged the first two and stiff-armed the third, leaving just the safety.

Berwanger made his move, grounded the would-be tackler with another stiff-arm and sailed into the end zone for an electrifying 85-yard score. Ohio State came back to win the game, 20-13, but all people could discuss was the one-man show as Jay upstaged the Buckeyes.

He was credited with eluding eight tacklers on that magnificent run, finishing the day with 130 yards rushing in 13 carries. He also connected on three of seven passes for 118 yards and scored Chicago's extra point. Francis Schmidt, the Columbus coach, called Jay "the best back Ohio State faced since Red Grange."

Berwanger was the star of the Chicago Maroons in the early Thirties.

The Maroons suffered a letdown and were walloped by Indiana, 24-0, the following week, but Berwanger went out in style when his Chicago career concluded against the Illini.

Chicago, which had been beaten by Illinois 7-0 and 6-0 in Jay's first two seasons, was itching for revenge—and Berwanger made it possible. He gained 149 yards rushing, returned a punt 49 yards to the one, plunged over for the touchdown and scored the extra point that gave the Maroons a 7-6 victory and a 4-4 record.

In three seasons, Berwanger carried the overmatched Maroons to an 11-11-2 standoff, rushing for 1,839 yards, scoring 22 touchdowns and averaging 38 yards per punt. Christy Walsh, a football historian and All-America selector, called him "a defensive backfield all by himself."

Others were equally impressed. Jay was the Citizens Savings Player of the Year, a consensus All-American and the first Heisman Trophy winner in 1935. Liberty magazine polled athletes for its A-A squad and 104 of the 107 players who faced Berwanger named him as the best halfback they encountered.

"He was the best you could imagine and then some," said Shaughnessy. "Jay seldom got hurt because he seldom got hit hard. Honestly, it was as if he never allowed himself to be hit hard."

Berwanger, who was voted to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame, played in only one organized game following his college career, a 1937 semi-pro contest against the Bears. As usual, he excelled.

But it mattered not. Jay Berwanger was through with football, except for a stint as a Big Ten referee, a chore which he handled as deftly as carrying a pig-skin.

"He was one of the best officials of his time," said former coaching great Pappy Waldorf, who was college football's first Coach of the Year in 1935 while at Northwestern.

"Although Northwestern and Chicago were close, we never played the Maroons," noted Pappy, "but I saw Berwanger play and he was everything they said he was. He also was a highly-skilled referee. I can remember a Northwestern game he worked where a back made a long touchdown run. When he got to the end zone, Jay was with him stride for stride. He was a great one."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR—John Mooney, past president of the Football Writers Association of America, has been associated with newspapers in Salt Lake City since 1939. A native of Iowa and a graduate of the University of Iowa, he went directly from the editorship of The Daily Iowan student newspaper at Iowa, to the sports desk of the Chicago Tribune. He moved to the Salt Lake Telegram in 1939, became its sports editor in 1941, and switched to the morning Tribune as sports editor in 1948.

The Far West linemen are headed by Doug Martin, one of the best honors candidates from Washington. Vince Goldsmith from Oregon, Chuck Evans of Stanford, Pat Graham of Cal and Tom Tuinei of Hawaii are other good linemen.

Cal starts off with two outstanding cornerbacks in Anthony Washington and Daryl Swanson. Washington intercepted six for 224 yards and two touchdowns in first six games, while Swanson is devastating against the run.

But the top defensive back on the coast is free safety Kenny Easley, UCLA's consensus All-America of last year. His two-year total of 13 interceptions already shares the Bruin school record.

Dennis Smith led USC in interceptions with seven and was fourth in team tackles while Trojan Ronnie Lott had 63 backs in Mike Guess and Vince Skillings, the latter with five interceptions, and one for a TD.

Penn State has another All-America defender in Pete Harris who led nation in interceptions last year while Minnesota offers free safety Keith Edwards, who also is tops as a kick returner.

VMI offers free safety Walt Bellamy while San Jose State likes the chance of cornerback Steve Hines. Tim Wilbur of Indiana led Big Ten in interceptions with six for 115 yards.

Johnnie Johnson of Texas led the defensive backs in the Heisman voting last year as he gained All-America honors. But Tennessee will hear nothing but Roland James whom his coach calls the best defensive back he has ever known.

Vanderbilt gets into the action with Ronnie Myrick at strong safety. Notre Dame's Dave Waymer is one of the Irish co-captains and a steady performer.

Maryland pushes Lloyd Burruss, who had 71 tackles from his secondary post. The Citadel likes the chance of safety Paul Gillis while Duke rates Dennis Tabron as one of its best-ever backs.

Kentucky notes that cornerback Larry Carter has 4.5 speed and among the national leaders in punt returns. LSU likes cornerback Chris Williams who led SEC in interceptions.

James McKinney has his backers at Auburn and Texas Tech's Larry Flowers was named All-SWC. Mississippi State has Ken Johnson. Iowa State counters with Mike Schwartz. Kansas State's best is Sam Owen while Colorado likes Mark Haynes, to round out the field.

Tim Smith at corner is top for Oregon State.

Oklahoma has a top safety in Darrol Ray, All-Big Eight star who tied school record for interceptions with seven. Georgia adds Scott Woerner, a top corner and great punt returner for its choice. Free safety Woodrow Wilson of North Carolina State ranks as an honors favorite.

In the WAC, Utah boasts Jeff Griffin will be the best pass defender and tackler before he's through.

of Tulsa must be considered, as well as Jerry Holmes of West Virginia. North Carolina calls Ricky Barden its best All-America bet at defensive back. Pitt likes Jo Jo Heath as its rebuilding secondary.

Cornerback Donzell McDonald and safety Ricky Harr are best at Colorado State while Wyoming pushes Michael Dennis as a defensive back.

Chris Judge is a free safety for TCU while Alabama pushes cornerback Don McNeal. Pacific counters with Stan Shibata at safety and Texas-El Paso has All-WAC Eddie Forkerway.

COULD A SHADOW SHED LIGHT ON THEIR SECRET?

The secret of these good looking Haggar Imperial® fashions is the styling plus fine fabric. It's a comfortable blend of Today's Dacron® from Burlington Menswear® and worsted wool to resist wrinkles and keep you looking good.

The door creaked a cautious welcome as they pushed it open. Their eyes scanned the sparse office, locked on mine, then darted to the darkened hall. Who were they? Why were they here?

Two things I knew for sure. First, they were being followed. And, second, they had real class. Lots of it. Just the cut of their clothes said style and elegance. The fabric said taste.

Questions buzzed in my mind like hornets. But, in this business it's money first. So I told 'em my fee and took a swig of cold coffee. They went for their wallets and suddenly, the pieces fit. I caught a glimpse of a familiar label inside their coats, and knew why they were followed. There ain't a dame around who can pass up the great looks of Haggar Imperial slacks and sport coats.

WAC EXPANSION

Expansion of the Western Athletic Conference is taking place in stages with two of the four proposed members on board. San Diego State University officially became a member of the WAC on July 1, 1978 and the University of Hawaii joined July 1, 1979. The Air Force Academy will officially become a member on July 1, 1980. The University of Nevada at Las Vegas' membership is pending final WAC Presidents' Council action. Vacancies in the league were created when Arizona and Arizona State left the WAC to join the Pacific Eight Conference as of July 1, 1978.

Stadium Information

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics is anxious to render maximum service to our patrons. We hope that you will feel free to seek our assistance in any problems which you might have on game nights. Some of your questions may be answered below.

The Athletic Business Office, El Paso Police Department, campus police, ushers, vendors and other attendants are available to assist you.

EMERGENCY CALLS—In case of emergency a call to the press box, 747-5154, will enable the Public Address Announcer to page you.

PUBLIC TELEPHONES—Located on the west side are four phones located at the entrances of each rest room. On the east side there are two phones in the middle of the concourse, and two others are located on each side of the press box.

REST ROOMS—Rest rooms are located in the concourse which circles the heart of the stands. On the West side the rest rooms are located on each end. On the East side the rest rooms are in the middle of the concourse downstairs. Rest rooms are also located at the top of the stadium on each end of the press box. Your assistance in helping us keep these rooms clean will be appreciated.

LOST AND FOUND ARTICLES—Should you lose an article while attending a game, call the Sports Information Office 747-5330. Spectators finding articles are requested to deliver them to the nearest usher or to the press box.

AMBULANCE SERVICE—Ambulance service is provided courtesy of the El Paso Ambulance Service, and is available for any emergency which might occur in the stadium during a game.

QUALITY REFRESHMENTS—Your attention is directed to the refreshments service which is provided for your convenience and enjoyment. The concessions are operated under the supervision of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. Concession rooms are located in the concourse on each side of the stadium and each end of the press box.

WILL CALL SERVICE—Individual game tickets may be reserved by telephone by calling the Ticket Office 747-5234. The office will provide you with information on tickets available. The WILL CALL BOOTHS are located at each end of the stadium. Tickets which have been purchased will be held at the will call window of your preference.

PROVEN:
THAN EVER BEFORE POSSIBLE.

NEW MAGNAVOX
TELEVISION.

MORE LINES OF RESOLUTION MAKE THE DIFFERENCE.

Lines of resolution determine how sharp your color TV picture will be. The more lines, the sharper the picture. And Magnavox has more lines than ever before possible.

Ordinary color TV pictures have 260 lines. Magnavox Computer Color 330 delivers 330 lines. That's 25% more lines of resolution for Magnavox. That means Magnavox has a 25% sharper, crisper, clearer color picture.

For documentation of this fact, please write:
Magnavox, Dept. 700, Fort Wayne, IN. 46804

NEW MAGNAVOX TOUCH-TUNE TELEVISION ALSO GIVES YOU:

- ☐ Computer Touch-Tuning... for ease and exactness.
- ☐ Computer Designed Chassis... for reliability and performance.
- ☐ Improved Sound... for greater realism.

And Magnavox is cable-ready for 20 cable channels without a converter... to save you time and money.
