MEN WHO WIN

"I once knew a man
Who would figure and plan
The deeds he intended to do -
But when the time came
To get into the game,
He never put anything through.
He would dream with a smile
Of the afterwhile . . .
And the deeds he would do pretty soon.
He was all right at heart
But he would never start -
He never could get quite in tune.

If he would have done
Half the things he'd begun,
He'd be listed among those of fame -
But he didn't produce,
So he was of no use . . .
Good intentions do not win the game!
It is easy to dream . . .
And to plan and to scheme
And let them drop out of sight.
But the men who put through
What their dreams bring to view
Are the men who win out in the fight."

SCOUTING REPORT UOP VS CAL POLY-SLO

Given a choice, new UOP Head Coach Bob Toledo would surely not have wanted to start the 1979 season and his Tiger coaching career with the 31-7 loss handed his club by the University of Texas-El Paso last Saturday night. But heading into tonight's home opener against Division II power Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo, many positive signs shown in the opening defeat have Toledo and UOP eager to try their hand in battle once more.

Some of the more encouraging performances were turned in by:

- a defense that allowed UTEP only 253 yards of total offense (UOP picked up 281), let the Miners sustain only two drives and came up with four turnovers.
- freshman quarterback Sander Markel, a 6-3, 205 pounder who completed 22 of 39 passes for 180 yards in his UOP debut and showed poise, confidence and the ability to stand up to a fierce pass rush.

- a deep and versatile pass receiving corps from which eight different players caught passes. Junior Rob Wilson lead the way with five receptions.

- running back Mel Cook, who averaged 5.4 yards per carry while gaining 91 yards on the night. Cook also caught four passes and scored the Tigers' only touchdown on a nine-yard aerial from Markel.

The defense, anchored by linebackers Brad Vassar, Dallas Nelson and Mike Merriweather, kept the Miner offense at bay most of the night, but key mistakes and the Tiger offensive team's inability to take advantage of opportunities finally did Pacific in.

The Tigers were in UTEP territory four times during the first half (twice inside the 20) but came away empty-handed. It is that type of chances that Toledo hopes his club can capitalize on tonight.

Coach Joe Harper's Cal Poly-SLO Mustangs come into tonight's contest much the same way UOP entered the UTEP game. It will be the season opener for the Mustangs, who have had an opportunity to scout the Tigers, but have not faced a real game situation themselves.

Cal Poly, 7-3 overall last year, figures to have another strong team, particularly offensively, where the Mustangs return nine starters from '78.

The standouts on this unit are tailback Louis Jackson (5-11, 200) and flanker Robbie Martin (5-9½, 175). Dubbed "the excitement twins," the two juniors showed last season that they can put points on the board.

Jackson tallied 12 touchdowns to rank fifth in the nation in scoring, and his 1,131 yards on the ground made him the third-leading Division II rusher. Martin caught 21 passes, scored five touchdowns, and averaged 23.1 yards per catch.

The key offensive question mark for the Mustangs is at quarterback. Senior Craig Johnston, with 93 of 164 for 1,278 yards and 10 TDs, lead Cal Poly to the Division II Playoffs as a junior, but had knee surgery and may not be ready to go. Last fall's back-up Lloyd Nelson has a broken wrist, putting the job in the hands of senior Reid Lundstrom who threw a total of three passes last year.

The Cal Poly defense is less experienced with just two seniors among the first-stringers. The secondary, where all four starters return looks to be the strongest area.

Revenge could be a factor if anybody in the Mustang camp has a good memory. The last time the two schools met, back in 1949, the Tigers crushed the Mustangs, 88-0, in San Luis Obispo, en route to a perfect 11-0 season and the No. 10 ranking in the country.

In all, the two teams have met four times, with UOP winning each encounter.

After tonight's game UOP will travel to Idaho (Sept. 22) before returning home the following week to kickoff the PCAA season against Fullerton State.

Tight end Mike House caught 34 passes in 1978.

SAN JOSE STATE at Stanford

Two first-year coaches will get their first taste of this traditional backyard rivalry which has grown steadily during the seventies. The two new leaders will both have one game under their belts coming into today's clash.

Elway watched his Spartans roll up 438 yards of total offense against Utah State, only to see victory slip away in the final moments of a 48-48 tie. Dowhower saw the Cardinals go down to a 33-10 defeat at Tulane.

San Jose State may have one of the best opportunities in recent years to whip Stanford. The Cardinals are breaking in a new quarterback, Turk Schonert, and are without the services of brilliant running back Darrin Nelson for the season.

Offensively, San Jose is lead by senior quarterback Ed Luther, who threw for 294 yards last week, completing 26 of 45 and tossing two touchdowns. Running back Jewerl Thomas rushed for 115 yards and scored two TDs in the same contest. Defensively, cornerback Steve Hines, a second team All-PCAA pick last year, is one of four returning starters. Today will be the first of three consecutive games against Pac-10 clubs for the Spartans, who face Cal next week and Arizona is two weeks, both on the road.

An ironic twist to today's game has Stanford back-up quarterback John Elway facing his father, Jack, (San Jose State coach) for the first time.

UTAH STATE at Nebraska

Utah State showed plenty of offense, more than 500 yards worth, against San Jose State in their opener last week, a 48-48 deadlock. Today they will be facing a team that lead the nation in total offense in 1978, racking up an average of 501 per outing.

Much of that Cornhusker group is gone, but Nebraska should still be plenty tough. Tailback I.M. Hipp and tight end Junior Miller are the offensive standouts and Rod Horn anchors a stingy defensive unit.

Playing in Lincoln, Neb. will not help the Aggies, but facing the Huskers with the benefit of having played one game will.

Big guns for Utah State in their '79 debut included quarterback Eric Hipple, tailback Rick Parros and placekicker Steve Steinke. Hipple went to the air 44 times, completing 25 for 364 yards and three scores. Parros scored a pair of touchdowns and rushed for 86 yards while Steinke, the PCAA's leading scorer last fall booted a 34-yard field goal with no time on the clock to get the Aggies their tie. The Utah State defense is lead by tackle Rulon Jones, (6-7, 225), an All-American candidate.

Boise State at FULLERTON STATE

Fullerton State, coming off their most successful season in Head Coach Jim Colletto's four years there, got off on the wrong foot in last week's opening game, falling to Western Athletic Conference representative Nevada-Las Vegas, 35-14, in Las Vegas. Their foe tonight, Boise State, suffered a 9-7 defeat to Long Beach State last Saturday.

The Titans, one of college football's premier rushing teams a year ago, have graduated their entire backfield. Although the ground game remains a key factor in the Titans' scheme, new quarterbacks Eric Bullock and Kim Greene displayed a fine touch passing against Las Vegas.

FRESNO STATE at Montana State

Fresno State, which went from 9-2 and conference champions in 1977 to 3-8 and the PCAA cellar in 1978, started 1979 on a positive note, dumping visiting Idaho, 30-10.

The Bulldogs, who switched from the Veer to a Pro Set, have built their offense around junior quarterback Gary Kaiser. The defense is still somewhat of a question mark, with veteran linebackers and defensive backs, but an inexperienced defensive line.

Montana State rocked the Bulldogs, 35-14, last season in Fresno.

PACIFIC COAST ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Pacific Coast Athletic Association enters its second decade striving to continue the rapid growth and development it has experienced during the first 10 years.

The progressive NCAA Division I conference was founded in 1969 with the original roster including University of the Pacific, Long Beach State, UC Santa Barbara, Los Angeles State, San Diego State, San Jose State and Fresno State.

This lineup remained intact until 1974 when UC Santa Barbara and Los Angeles State dropped out, with Fullerton State joining. San Diego State left the PCAA in 1978, but Utah State took the Aztecs' place in 1978-79. UC Santa Barbara rejoined the conference in 1976 and UC Irvine became a member in 1977. Irvine and Santa Barbara do not have football teams.

Highly respected Jess Hill was named the PCAA's first fulltime commissioner in 1972. Hill got things rolling during his six-year tenure with such accomplishments as starting the popular PCAA Postseason Basketball Tournament (the first was played in Stockton in 1976) and forming the Northern California and Southern California baseball associations by merging the PCAA and West Coast Athletic Conference.

Fullerton State helped the PCAA gain national respect by coming within moments of making the final four in the 1978 NCAA basketball tournament - defeating New Mexico and USF before losing to Arkansas in the Western Regional Championship.

Lew Cryer succeeded Hill, who retired following the 1977-78 athletic year, and has kept the PCAA moving ahead.

Cryer has secured a football-basketball television package with Bob Eurich Enterprises, which will feature 12 football and seven basketball games. The conference's second commissioner has also helped create a football bowl game which is set for the second Saturday in December 1980, in the new 30,000-seat Fresno State stadium. The game will feature the PCAA and Mid-American Conference champions.

So it's easy to see the PCAA is continuing its rapid growth and development into a top-notch Division I conference.

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

ROBERT TOLEDO

First-year University of the Pacific Head Football Coach Robert Toledo and success have been good friends over the last 20 years.

The 13th coach in Pacific's 60-year football history has never played or coached on a losing team—and only twice has a team lost as many as four games in one season (Southern Cal 8-4 in 1977 and San Jose City College 5-4 in 1965). He has played on, or coached eight league champions in the last 18 seasons.

So it's easy to see Toledo, who has been an assistant coach at Southern Cal the last three seasons, knows what it takes to win—at any level.

"I took this job (UOP) for the challenge. I hope to turn the program around, win a lot of games, and win a conference championship," said Toledo, who inherits a team that went 4-8 last season.

"I think one of the things that will help me is that I have been at all levels. I have been at the high school level. I have been at the small college level. I have been at USC, which is the epitome of coaching—the best football players, the best team in the country. Now, I have stepped back a little. I know what it takes because I have been at USC, but I have never forgotten where I have come from because it's important you keep things in perspective.

"I don't expect us to have 60,000 people at a game. I don't expect us to have the Heisman Trophy winner. I don't expect a national championship football team. But I would like to win our conference. I would like to be competitive outside our conference. I would like to coach an All-American, or maybe a couple of all-star game players. But our number one goal is win the conference championship. If we win the conference championship, then I will have done what I have set out to do here."

Toledo's way to success over the years has been by the pass, and that's what he plans on doing at Pacific.

"After a period of years you start developing a certain philosophy. You start really believing in certain things because you see them happen," explained Toledo. "I think by watching all the people I have, and playing quarterback myself, there are certain things I have come to believe in. That's why you're going to see us throw the ball so much."

Toledo, 33 and one of the youngest college head coaches in the nation, has spent the last three seasons trying to destroy passing attacks as he coached the secondary at Southern Cal. The Trojans' defensive backs had 56 interceptions out of 70 over the last three seasons. His secondary picked off 28 passes in 1976 to lead the nation. Southern Cal was 31-6 during this time, winning two Pac-10 titles, two Rose Bowls and the Bluebonnet Bowl—the Trojans were national champions this last season.

Before going to USC Toledo spent three seasons at UC Riverside, the last two as head coach. The Highlanders were 15-6 during his two seasons as head coach (8-3 in 1974 and 7-3 in 1975), winning the California Collegiate Athletic Association title both years. UC Riverside was ranked among the Top 10 nationally in Division II in total offense both seasons. Toledo was the offensive coordinator at UC Riverside in 1973 when it was 8-2, and ranked fourth nationally in total offense.

The outgoing Toledo earned a shot at the college ranks after compiling a 26-5-1 record in three seasons at Riordan High School (San Francisco), winning two straight West Catholic Athletic League titles. He was an assistant at Riordan in 1969.

Four members of Pacific's coaching staff, plus one current Tiger player, have either played or coached with Toledo during this time. Inside linebacker coach Mike Haluchak helped Toledo coach the secondary at USC in 1976, offensive line coach Bill McQueary was Toledo's offensive coordinator at UC Riverside in 1974 and 1975 (they were also teammates at San Francisco State in 1967), outside linebacker coach Steve Peck was Toledo's defensive coordinator at UC Riverside in 1974 and 1975, wide receivers coach Dan Ferrigno was a star wide receiver at Riordan in 1970, and current defense standout Bruce Filarsky went to UC Riverside as a freshman, redshirting because of an injury and then transferring to UOP when UCR dropped football.

Toledo's playing career was just as illustrious, if not more so as is his coaching exploits.

He starred for San Francisco State in 1966 and 1967. The quarterback from San Jose led the Gators to a 16-5 mark in two seasons, going 9-2 in 1967 to win the Far Western Conference championship. San Francisco State was 7-3 in 1966, finishing second to Sacramento State in the FWC title chase.

Toledo had one of the most fabled seasons in college football history in 1967. He completed 211 of 396 passes for 3,513 yards and 45 touchdowns (24 were intercepted). He threw eight touchdown passes in each of two games.

Six NCAA college division records were set by Toledo in 1967. The records still standing (he originally set eight) are: most touchdown passes in a season (45), most yards passing game (568 vs Hayward State Oct. 21, 1967), most yards passing season (3,513), most yards passing per game season (351.3), most yards total offense game (562 vs Hayward State), most yards gained per game total offense season (340.7). The 49 touchdown passes San Francisco State threw in 1967 is an all-time collegiate high.

He earned Division II second team All-America honors, was selected NorCal back of he year and was first team All-Far Western Conference selection in 1967.

But from the start Toledo has wanted to be a coach, and he has been influenced a great deal by Vic Rowen (San Francisco State head coach) and John Robinson (USC head coach).

"I always wanted to be a coach, ever since I was a little guy," said Toledo.

Toledo is married (wife Elaine), and has three children (Demetra 10, Christa 9, and Alissa 3). He graduated from San Francisco State in 1968.

The pressbox sages with the myopic binoculars may see the 1979 college offensive statistics strictly as a two-horse race. A sort of Affirmed-Alydar chase among institutional elms and ivy as it were, the suspense whittled down to a mere pair.

In Oklahoma colors, of course, is the fleet Billy Sims, a shifty halfback of the cruiser class who has only to cut his gaze toward the mantelpiece to prove his pedigree. There sits the 1978 Heisman Trophy, its very presence signifying that Sims indeed is of a rare breed.

In the 40-odd years of Heisman presentations, only six underclassmen ever lugged the thing home. Four of those juniors—Doc Blanchard, Vic Janowicz, Doak Walker, Roger Staubach—failed to repeat their acts as seniors.

Archie Griffin, late of Ohio State, made it two in a row, but he may have to share that distinction this year with young Mr. Sims, the sixth junior to be voted college football's most prestigious bauble.

As the one-time cotton-chopper from Hooks, Texas, was being lauded and feted and gluttoned in New York last winter, a reporter asked if Billy were enjoying all this hoopla. Sims looked up from his autographing, a broad smile spreading above his glistening tuxedo front.

"I'm having so much fun," he said, "I'm gonna have to do it again next year."

So there you have the favorite, the defending champ, the 205-pound scamp who made 20 touchdown trips last year in leading all collegiate rushers. And in doing so, Sims racked the highest rushing average ever for a major college campaigner. His 231 carries from Oklahoma's Wishbone launching pad averaged 7.63 yards, a number that may grow even more amazing with the years.

Then, of course, attention will flip ficklely to Charles White of the supreme Southern Cal stable, the other entry in the so-called match race. This latest in a long line of Trojan land grabbers was the No. 4 rusher in the land last season and he has the statistical advantage enjoyed by all Southern Cal tailbacks. They get plenty of work.

White, for example, carried the ball 111 more times than did Sims last year. His average (5.1) wasn't quite as gaudy, but who knows, perhaps Sims' figures would have shrunk with increased duty.

Still the offensive race, regardless of how the Racing Form dopes it, has more than two entries.

Around North Carolina, natives think Famous Amos Lawrence will claim his share of headlines. The junior dervish, who spins for a 5.3-yard average, passed the halfway point of his college career with more accumulative yardage than any runner except Dorsett and Po James. Especially did the 180-pounder finish strong, topping the 100-yard rush mark in five of his last six games, including a 167-yarder against Duke in the finale.

In the Southwest, there are three runners who have snared fans' fancy, each with a rather distinctive history. Two weeks before Texas Tech opened last season, big James Hadnot was a tight end and happy with his lot. Suddenly he was fullback and a bit uncertain with his lot. A few weeks into the season, and Tech Coach Rex Doc-kery looked like a genius with his emergency move. Hadnot became the hardest worker in the Southwest, shoving his 236 pounds after the tough yard-age between the tackles. "Kong" Had-not led the conference in rushing and, indeed, finished eighth among the national gainers. He's back for another helping.

At Texas A&M, big strapping Curtis Dickey is sometimes thought of as a track star, a 207-pound sprinter who once finished second in the NCAA 100-meter finals. "Football is my game," says Dickey. "I just ran track for fun. And the Heisman is my goal."

Another highstepper in that region is young Bernard Jackson of North Texas State. He was a wide receiver as a frosh, moved to tailback last season to average 132 yards rushing per game, and finish sixth among the national rushers.

The eleventh ranked runner of last fall, Joe Cribbs of Auburn, is another returnee, and so is stubby (5-9, 195) Allen Harvin of Cincinnati (No. 13) who had a speeds who, against Florida State, ran for two touchdowns, caught passes for two more, and threw for still a fifth. And then there's little Jesse Williams of Richmond, whose fans claim he's the fastest back in America.

For sheer drama, although his crowds aren't Rose Bowl size, Nathan Johnson of Northeast Louisiana is hard to beat. He weighs just 172 pounds, but on his six touchdowns last fall, he averaged 54 yards each.

In that same category, but wider acclaimed, is Darrin Nelson, a scurrying elf from Stanford. His coach, Rod Dow-hower, calls him "the most exciting player in the country. He gives us a di-mension no college team ever had." The little junior averaged 161 all-purpose yards last fall, rushing, catching, return-ing kicks. He's the only back ever to rush for 1,000 yards and catch 50 passes the same season, and he's done it twice.

Ralph Clayton, a healthy 210-pound Michigan wingback, is another of those versatile guys, averaging 22 yards for each of his pass receptions and keeping the enemy nervous with his wingback reverses, as does Kenny Brown, the dynamic wingback from Nebraska.

Many of the current crop of roadrun-ners seem built on a small last, like Leon Walker, the explosive halfback from UN-Las Vegas, and Mickey Collins of Wichita State. But the larger tourist class is still represented by Marion Barber of Minnesota, I.M. Hipp of Neb-sensational freshman season of 1283 yards.

Attention in the Southland is split between Frank Mordica, the first Vander-bilt back ever to rush 1,000 yards (321 in one game against Air Force); Major Ogil-vie, who brings memories of Johnny Musso to Alabama partisans; James Jones, a Mississippi State jack-of-all

Two of the premier athletes from the PCAA: Terry Metcalf from Long Beach State and miler Steve Scott of UC Irvine.

The Growth of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association

The need to grow.

What appears to be a rather simple statement is often a major contributor to the events that shape and change lives and determine the course of events. And so it was with the charter members of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Unhappy with their former conference affiliations, the charter members banded together for the step up to university level competition. The desire to play Division I football brought together the likes of Cal State Long Beach, Cal State Los Angeles, Fresno State and San Diego State, all former members of the California Collegiate Athletic Association, and San Jose State, UC Santa Barbara and University of the Pacific, each of which resigned from the tradition-steeped West Coast Athletic Conference.

Many new relationships must endure growing pains, and the PCAA has been no exception. In the early years, the dedication to Division I football was absolute. Santa Barbara's decision to discontinue football, and Cal State Los Angeles' de-emphasis of the sport cost both schools their conference memberships. UCSB was later readmitted without football, and in the interval, Cal State Fullerton joined the fold. Two recent additions, UC Irvine and Utah State brought the membership to eight, six of which sponsor football. Utah State is the first PCAA member to be located outside California.

It all started 10 years ago on July 1, 1969, and in that time, the PCAA has known three commissioners. J. Kenneth Fagans, handled the duties on a part-time basis in the early years. In January of 1972, the PCAA hired its first full-time commissioner, Jesse T. Hill, a man known and respected throughout the athletic community.

Hill served the PCAA for six-plus years, and in that time brought stability, financial security and national respect to the young conference. He was instrumental in acquiring automatic qualification to NCAA championships for several PCAA sports, and oversaw the inauguration of the highly successful postseason basketball tournament. He worked hard on the formation of the Northern and Southern California Baseball Associations which have been hailed by PCAA and WCAC participants as considerable money-savers.

When Hill retired last year, he was succeeded by Lewis A. Cryer. Long an athletic fundraiser of national note, Cryer is quickly gaining widespread recognition for his abilities as commissioner. His first major triumph came last spring when he led the quest for sanctioning of a PCAA football bowl game. Scheduled for 1980 in Fresno State's new 30,000-seat stadium, the bowl has already united numerous people from all over the San Joaquin Valley, and will involve countless more in the many activities that are planned to make it a truly significant event.

The dynamic Cryer seems to be a never-ending source of energy, and his impact has already been noticed in many areas of the PCAA's day-to-day operation. He has worked hard to increase the interaction between representatives of the member institutions, much to the satisfaction of all. His ideas and attention to detail had a positive effect on the most recent basketball tournament as well as its organizers.

the Southern Cal powerhouse. But he is a rapidly improving passer himself, just in case he wants to diversify the Trojan attack. In one late-season stretch of six straight wins, McDonald completed 64 percent of his passes, with 12 touchdowns as a result.

SMU's big Mike Ford, No. 1 in total offense last fall, will face somewhat of a transition. Wherein the Mustang attack formerly was mostly limited to Ford throwing to quick little Emanuel Tolbert, the nation's runnerup receiver last season, now Ford will have more tools.

Cris Collinsworth, flanker

Ford, like his passing rival, Mark Herrmann of Purdue, is but a junior. But then so are many of the country's headline quarterbacks—Phil Bradley of Missouri, who led the Big Eight in total offense; Mark Halda of San Diego State, last season's No. 3 thrower; Randy Hertel, the Rice aviator with a 56 percent gunsight; John Hall of Western Kentucky, who threw five touchdowns against Morehead State; and Rich Campbell, another in that historic list of California passers.

Syracuse thinks it may have the nation's best quarterback in Bill Hurley, who was granted an extra season of eligibility after busting his ribs in last fall's opener. And Arizona State is proud of the run-pass mixture of Mark Malone, the same gears that work so well for lean Jimmy Streater of Tennessee, Mike Wright of Bowling Green and Brad Wright of New Mexico.

The college countryside seems overrun with undersized receivers who have cunningly concealed springs in their breeches and seem entirely capable of clearing tall buildings in a single bound, catching footballs in the process. Tolbert, the aforementioned SMU whirligig, is one. He can walk under anything 5-10 off the ground. Gerald Harp of Western Carolina, who tied Tolbert for No. 2 receiving rank last year, is another. He's 5-7, for heaven's sakes. Felix Wilson of Kentucky, Brad Reid of Iowa, Carlos Carson of LSU, Kevin Williams of Southern Cal are others of stunted growth save when they punch their elevators for passes.

Prominent among the nation's receivers also are Lindsay Scott, a Georgia soph of amazing quickness and elusiveness, and Eugene Goodlow of Kansas State, whose touchdown catches included distances of 87, 68, 63 and 50 yards.

Florida thinks there is no catcher better than Cris Collinsworth, a stringy junior nicknamed "Cadillac," presumably for his long, comfortable trips. Like, a 97-yard kickoff return against LSU and touchdown journeys of 63 and 52 yards on pass receptions against Mississippi State.

Lam Jones, the Olympic sprinter, returns to Texas for his senior season and his worth, says Coach Fred Akers, is not limited to his catches and his reverses, but includes the acute worry he inflicts on opposing secondaries.

A familiar name—Dave Shula—is rewriting the Dartmouth pass receiving records (his dad coaches the Dolphins). Mardye McDole of Mississippi State led the SEC in receiving last season but doesn't know his new role in the Wishbone attack being installed by new Coach Emory Ballard. Steve Bogan, a Northwestern fuzzcheek, caught six touchdown passes last season, most ever by a Big Ten freshman.

This year, for some strange reason, centers have become praiseworthy objects. Bo Rein at North Carolina State thinks he may have the best player "at his position" who ever played in the Atlantic Coast Conference—Jim Richter, 6-3, 245 pounds.

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley says his Ray Donaldson is "the best I ever had."

Fred Akers at Texas says his best offensive lineman is 6-4, 250-pound Wes Hubert, a three-year starter at center. UCLA welcomes back Brent Boyd, "one of our best centers in 15 years" according to Coach Terry Donahue. Boyd missed all of last season with a broken foot. Nebraska expects center Kelly Saalfeld to hold together a green young offensive line. Tony Mason thinks his Arizona center Norm Katnik is the top Pac 10 player at that position. Iowa puts the major offensive responsibility on center Jay Hilgenberg, whose father was an All-America center there a generation ago.

Dwight Stephenson of Alabama doesn't have great size (6-3, 230) but he's been all-conference center as a sophomore and junior and is called one of the best blockers in Crimson Tide history.

Other than centers, offensive linemen getting advance notice include tackle Anthony Munoz and guard Brad Budde of Southern Cal; Ken Fritz, Ohio State's heralded guard; Pete Inge, a short but very wide guard at San Diego State; John Sinnott, a 270-pound tackle at Brown. And then there's Greg Kolenda, an Arkansas senior tackle who, according to Lou Holtz, "is no better than your everyday, run-of-the-mill All-American" and Melvin Jones, another 270-pound bulk from Houston. Navy decorates a brace of guards, Frank McCallister and Tom Feldman.

THE DEFENSIVE END KEEPS THE PLAY CONTAINED

PHIL CLARKSON (Shot with Nikon equipment)

by George Rorrer, Louisville COURIER JOURNAL

This is about defensive ends, and if you're looking for something light and funny, buzz off.

People in college football joke about a lot of things, but seldom about defensive ends.

Why? Why don't rolling heads look up and smile at the guillotine? Football games are won and lost at defensive end, that's why.

Behind many of the most spectacular offensive plays in football history have been gaffes on the part of defensive ends. And in front of the most gummed-up offenses you've ever seen are usually defensive ends doing themselves proud.

Modern offenses are designed to turn the defensive end into a fool. They often put him squarely at the point of attack, banging him hard physically and challenging him to make the right one of several possible decisions on many different plays.

To excel at defensive end, a player must be a super athlete embodying qualities rare among men.

A young Southwest assistant coach making a name for himself through the success of his defensive ends says he needs merely the best athletes on the defensive unit.

"It takes a special player," he said. "They see so much thrown at them, I frankly don't know how they ever learn it all. You used to just get a big, muscular guy and tell him to go get the quarterback, but not any more. In fact, you can be too big. I don't like to have them taller than 6 feet 3 or heavier than 220. Any bigger and they're not mobile enough."

You don't find such athletes in bunches, most coaches agree. "When I came here, we didn't have a single player able to play the position," the coach said. "It took three years to develop two of them."

The defensive end must be strong enough to fend off blocks by huge tackles and tight ends, and quick enough to avoid blocks by speedy, agile running backs who have a five-to-seven yard head of steam before they take their best shots.

He also must be smart enough not to take the bait in the cat-and-mouse game forced on him by the quarterback option play. And, increasingly, he has to be agile enough to play pass defense in the zone near the line of scrimmage—all without losing what the coaches call "containment."

By "containment," coaches mean it is the defensive end's responsibility to never, ever, let the ball get outside him and into that sideline groove to touchdown glory.

"If he loses containment, it's all over but the shouting," said a veteran Midwestern head coach. "That's the basic thing he has to do—contain."

When the play is run toward the outside, making the tackle is NOT the defensive end's primary job. If he can make it, fine, and it's usually for a substantial, sensational loss. But his main job is to force the runner back inside where pursuing linebackers or linemen can cut him down.

It is the defensive end's cardinal sin to be cut down himself, because that usually means containment is lost.

On many outside running plays, the defensive end is first hit by a straight-up block by the tight end or an offensive tackle. Those folks usually weigh in the 240-250-pound range and stand well over six feet tall.

Then, to try to turn the defensive end inside and keep him from doing his job, many offenses are designed to send a halfback or fullback out to block him.

Defensive ends have traditionally guessed wrong so often on quarterback option plays that the option has become a trademark of college football.

What happens on the option, pointed out a Southeastern offensive coordinator, is: "Our quarterback tries to fool the defensive end. His job is to make the end commit himself, then do the opposite—either keep the ball and run with it, or pitch to a trailing running back, or stop and throw a pass."

Forcing the runner inside is the main job of the defensive end.

To put the end even more on the spot, blockers try to seal off any help he could expect from the tackle alongside him or from the linebackers behind him.

On the off-tackle running play, a staple of any good offensive team, the end must quickly determine that he can abandon his responsibility to contain, then crash down the line and help the tackle who is usually being double-teamed. Of course, the offense tries to stop the defensive end from doing this by trying to block him away from the play—"kick him outside," in the vernacular—with a running back, and some college fullbacks weigh in the 220-240-pound range.

On plays which go to the opposite side of the field, the good defensive end doesn't just run helter-skelter for the ball. He first determines there aren't any potential pass receivers in his area (and covers them if there are), then he watches for reverse (or misdirection) plays coming back his way.

The Southwest coach whose ends have drawn national attention asks his charges to play pass defense every time the tight end angles to the outside—but to never, ever, sacrifice containment to follow the tight end.

Because few college teams have more than one man capable of playing defensive end well, many coaches have begun flip-flopping them—playing the bigger, stronger one across from the offense's tight end and putting the lighter, quicker one across from the offense's wide receiver.

There's a cat-and-mouse game for that situation, too. Offenses often shift the tight end from one side of the line to the other just before the snap, or send backs and-or wide receivers into motion to disrupt the defense.

It's all part of the evolution of the game. For a time, the wishbone offense was murder on defensive ends, but offensive coaches learned its best features could be preserved in the veer offense while improving the passing attack. Veer coaches soon learned the offense was too risky, producing too many fumbles to permit sound sleep. So many have gone to the "I" formation. They still have the option and passing capabilities, but the turnover risk is less.

"Everything is based on beating the defensive end," said the Midwestern coach. "If you can beat his containment, either by running outside or with the option, you're in good shape. If you can double-team the tackle and kick the defensive end out, you can run up the middle. If you can give your quarterback time to throw, you're okay, too."

"But a good defensive end can wreak havoc on you."

Either way, to a coach, it just ain't funny.

To excel at his position, the defensive end should be strong, agile, quick and smart.

Growth of the PCAA

means little unless it is backed by quality. All PCAA institutions are highly regarded in academic communities, and each is dedicated to the pursuit of excellence in athletics.

Cal State Fullerton won the hearts of many a year ago with its basketball team, and this past spring had one of the nation's superb baseball teams. Cal State Long Beach has long been noted for its basketball program. Fresno State boasts track legend Dutch Warmerdam on its coaching staff and hosts the annual West Coast Relays.

San Jose State has a well established tradition in track and field. UC Irvine won championships in seven sports on the Division II level (the only other NCAA school to win in as many sports is Michigan) and is a recognized water polo power. UC Santa Barbara has always been strong in volleyball, and University of the Pacific is well known for its football tradition dating back to the days of Amos Alonzo Stagg and Eddie LeBaron. Utah State has a great athletic heritage and annually fields strong football teams.

If there is one event that has solidified the conference and brought it much deserved notice, it has to be the postseason basketball tournament. Initiated in 1976, the event has grown to such a stature that capacity crowds are not uncommon. Members of the various news media are very complimentary about the competitiveness of the teams in the well-run tournament.

Conducted at the Anaheim Convention Center, the tournament has grown to involve all of the PCAA basketball teams after a couple of years of experimentation with various formats. The purpose of the tournament is to allow the team that is playing the best at the end of the season to represent the conference in the NCAA championships, and that team is not necessarily the regular season champion. The tournament concept is not without its critics, but all agree that it has been effective in practice.

One major contributing factor to the advancement of the PCAA is the dedication of support groups throughout the conference. Aggressive fundraising efforts by members has led to the cultivation of primarily nonalumni booster groups that have had a tremendous impact on the growth of the PCAA in general and the member institutions in particular. To illustrate the point, PCAA schools are averaging a quarter of a million dollars per year in contributions of cash, goods and services.

Some well known athletes have come from PCAA members. Terry Metcalf, formerly with the St. Louis Cardinals and now in the Canadian Football league, played his college football at Cal State Long Beach. Willard Harrell of the St. Louis Cardinals caused University of the Pacific fans to cheer a few years back. And, although they did not play in the PCAA, Utah State's alumni list contains the names of Merlin Olsen, Jim Turner, Bill Munson, Tony Adams and MacArthur Lane. UOP's John Gianelli represents the conference in the NBA.

Numerous Olympians have come from the PCAA, including Dwight Stones (track), Ed Ratleff (basketball) and Tim Shaw (swimming) of Cal State Long Beach, and John Powell of San Jose State, who placed third in the 1972 discus while competing for Greece. America's premier miler, Steve Scott, now preparing for the 1980 Olympics, ran as a collegian for the UC Irvine Ant-eaters.

Cal State Fullerton captured the NCAA Division I baseball title in 1979.

Many PCAA administrators have gained national recognition for their active involvement on NCAA committees. George Ilg (Fresno State) and Ed Betz (Pacific) have both served as the NCAA's district 8 vice president. Other committee memberships that are being or have been held include basketball, television, extra events, golf, volleyball, fencing, water polo and relations with junior colleges. President Stanley McCaffrey of Pacific serves on the Division I Steering Committee as well as on the jury that selects the recipient for the Theodore Roosevelt Award, one of the NCAA's most prestigious honors.

At the ripe old age of 10, the PCAA has come of age. Now it's not a matter of getting older, it's a matter of getting better, a goal Lew Cryer has dedicated himself to. In July, he concluded five months of work when he negotiated a PCAA football and basketball television contract. Cryer has also been planning some important modifications to the basketball tournament. Not big modifications, but the small ones that make a good event even better.

As with many jobs, there is a never ending list of things to do—the only limitations are the forming of ideas and the time to carry out those ideas.

New ideas and the willingness to make them work is what has made the PCAA one of the country's most progressive athletic conferences. With Cryer's limitless energy came the seemingly limitless number of ideas. PCAA, your future is bright!

INTRODUCING THE ALL NEW, 4-WHEEL DRIVE TRUCK. IT'S THE SON OF A LAND CRUISER.

Toyota's new 4-wheel drive truck. The only 4x4 that gives you all this. Practical size. Toyota quality. And Toyota's 30 years of experience building the Land Cruiser, one of the toughest 4-wheel drive vehicles going. Good reasons why we call the new 4-wheel drive truck the Son-of-a-Toyota Land Cruiser.

Now, a maneuverable 4x4.

The Toyota 4-wheel drive truck is trim, agile. And those sensible dimensions pay off on narrow trails. You'll go on ahead when others go back home.

Now, a well-equipped 4x4. Toyota's new 4-wheel drive Sport Truck has full carpeting, AM/FM radio, locking front hubs, and full instrumentation—standard. Tilt steering wheel and power steering are available options.

Now, a tough 4x4. The 2.2 liter overhead cam engine pumps out power. Drop the transfer case into "low" for tractor-like torque to climb a boulder-strewn path. Tough. That's Toyota's new 4-wheel drive truck. It's available in 3 models—Deluxe Truck, Sport Truck, and a special Black Package Truck (all the options listed above as standard, and more).

Shown below with optional rear bumper, sliding rear window and owner installed wide wheels and tires.

YOU GOT IT.

It is impossible to pinpoint the exact date, football game and campus the first person decided to pull out some fried chicken and a jug of iced tea and use his car trunk lid as a table. In fact, it is highly likely that on a Saturday many decades ago, baskets of goodies were being hauled simultaneously not to Grandma's house but to the peripheries of football stadiums all over the country.

Tailgating is too good an idea to have been the inspiration of a single person.

Whether the first tailgaters used what metal there was on a Model T or on a sleek Packard Coupe, it is safe to say the "sport" (although some call it an art) of tailgating blossomed into full fruition after World War II. Automobiles, even among students, became the rule on college campuses rather than the exception. And where there are automobiles and football games to be viewed, there most necessarily are tailgating parties.

The pioneer tailgaters would be amazed to see what a phenomenon the activity has turned into. With the increased number of recreational vehicles on the road these days, many stadium parking lots and grounds take on the appearance of a mobile home park each Saturday afternoon. Not to mention the proliferation of station wagons, hatchbacks and anything else that will open up and imitate a dining room.

Any college or university that has a football team and a few acres of land near the field is a prime spot for tailgating. For that matter, all it really requires is a football team. At one large Eastern university that has only sidewalks, stores and the typical trappings of urban life for a campus, people tailgate without tail or gate. Picnic baskets and little folding trays go right into the stands on game day. By 10 a.m., most of the spectators are already in their seats, helping themselves to the repast of their choice, be it a half dozen cheeseburgers procured at the local junk shop on the way to the game or a four-course luncheon prepared with Mom's loving care.

Ah, but true tailgating should involve some moving vehicle. It doesn't have to be a van or station wagon as several enterprising students at a Southern California school showed not long ago when they set up motorcycles and bikes in pairs and stretched plywood planks across to make their tables.

The opposite end of that sort of approach is done early by alumni of a large Southern university for the game with the long-time conference rival. Several years ago the organizing couple purchased a gigantic Winnebago and began outfitting it with the ultimate in tailgating. Not only is the machine done in the school colors, inside and out, but its owners have installed a rather sophisticated sound system that is programmed months ahead of time for the day of the big game.

Dramatic recordings of previous triumphs, complete with narration and crowd noises are played from the time the group leaves the Winnebago-owners' driveway until each member heads to the stadium to find his seat for the current contest. The alums hire a sympathetic but less enthusiastic man to drive so they may be free to toast each and every play—past, present or future—that strikes their fancy.

When the outcome of the game is upon them, its spirit goes right back into the Winnebago, either to be toasted anew or to be grieved over during the long ride home.

For most tailgaters, however, the Winnebago is in another league. Campers, though, have definitely found their places. One graduating class of the mid-Fifties at a Big Ten school has a half dozen representatives each homecoming game, all driving campers. They arrive in the stadium parking lot the Friday of homecoming weekend, the first on the spot raising the banner of the graduating year. One by one, the others cruise around the lot, looking for their banner and soon join forces. For them, tailgating is like a mini-vacation. Lawn chairs come out of the backs of the vehicles, lanterns are hung from each camper and the adults set about catching up on a year of news while the kids run around the parking lot as though it were a resort.

"My parents took me for so long," says the daughter of one of the "hardcore" attenders, "that my husband and I got our own camper right after we graduated and we've started to go. My kids are out there playing touch football the morning of the game just like I used to do."

Says a recent graduate of the Ivy League, "I've been dragging a barbecue grill to the last couple of big weekends just like my dad did. Nothing's changed, really, the tailgating is still the biggest reason to go to the game. Anyway, it's usually a lot more satisfying."

Speaking of satisfying, a stroll through almost any tailgate area the morning of a game could make the most indifferent eater ravenous. At one of the country's military academies, a special section near the stadium has been set aside for years for season ticket holders to park their various autos and tailgate. Identifying passes are mailed to all those eligible to use the area.

One fellow, who is on the waiting list, says, "Getting into that lot is like trying to get tickets to the last game of the World Series. But at least you can walk through and smell the hamburgers, steaks and hot dogs. Last year I passed a group of people who were barbecuing a whole leg of lamb! It was heavenly."

That brings up the subject of a menu. Perhaps in those early post-war years, it was enough to toss together a few peanut butter sandwiches for a tailgate party. Not anymore. Tailgate menus have graduated, as have the ways of simply putting them on the table.

When several persons meet for a tailgate party, each usually brings a dish or beverage. The more people involved, the more the backs of station wagons begin to look like Thanksgiving.

Yet, three couples who meet annually for a Pacific-10 rivalry have carried tailgating to possibly its most elegant extreme.

"It has escalated every year," says one of the wives, a '68 grad. "Now we're at the place where whoever is in charge one year will try to outdo whatever was done last year. We haven't sat on the ground on a blanket for the past four years. Always a table and chairs and a table cloth."

And, of all things for a fine fall day, lighted candelabra and recorded classical music on a tape deck.

"The gal who did the brunch last year brought pate, endive salad, cold roast duckling and some wonderful asparagus thing," says the woman in charge of next year's feast. "Then, as we were sipping freshly brewed coffee, she whipped up strawberries chantilly. And her husband brought a wine to go with every course. I'm at the place where I think I'll have to get Maxim's to cater or something."

Gourmet brunch or standby fried chicken, one of the common elements of tailgating is the sense of community sharing. Strangers looking for their own parties are forever being asked to sample some food or drink from tailgaters who park in every grove of trees, concrete parking lot or dirt clearing.

Says the father of a recent Southwest Conference quarterback, "I had such a great time just getting to the stadium, I almost missed my son's first two plays. I never realized a parking lot could offer so much."

Neither did an Atlantic Coast Conference group of alums until last year. "We got smart," says the ringleader, "We brought a TV set, watched the whole game and never had to stop our tailgate party."

Tailgating Recipes

In England, you'll likely get a summons for tailgating and a stern lecture from the magistrate.

That's because our cousins on the other side of the Atlantic haven't yet discovered that tailgating is actually one of the more delightful forms of partying we erstwhile colonists have perfected.

And in Britain don't call for a hot dog at a sports event. You'll probably get a blank stare. The English are more likely to snack on a Cornish Pastie and a mug of hot tea, or steak and kidney pie, wrapped in pastry, and washed down with barley water or Robinson's squash.

Sporting events in Britain aren't usually a family affair. 'Tis a pity. They never will know the autumnal delights of a tailgate bash—all the color, excitement and glamour of a college football crowd.

If you're looking for something different and very delicious to serve at your next tailgate outing, here are two new ideas from The R.T. French Company Test Kitchens in Rochester, New York, that will pile up a lot of yardage.

Hamburger Hoagies are spicy good and satisfy outdoor appetites while Lumberjack Soup provides a hot and hearty meal-in-a-bowl that can be made ahead of time at home.

To prepare the Hoagies, you'll need to bring along a small grill or hibachi, but your efforts will be richly rewarded with a juicy concoction easily seasoned with an envelope of chili seasoning mix and topped with tomatoes from your own garden and slices of American cheese. Crusty hero rolls will add a festive touch.

Another weekend serve Lumberjack Soup, which is aptly named. It combines ground beef, macaroni, tomatoes, and onion gravy mix in a thick nourishing soup that will sustain your tailgaters through all the action. Make it at home, place in a thermos, and serve piping hot at your pre-game ritual.

For an extra point with either recipe, serve Bean and Cabbage Slaw, a crisp combination of green beans and shredded cabbage. The zesty dressing is quickly made with prepared yellow mustard, oil and vinegar.

Complete your tailgate meal with fresh fruit and cookies and iced tea or coffee.

HAMBURGER HOAGIES

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1 envelope (1¾-oz.) chili mix
- ½ cup water
- 8 crusty rolls
- 8 slices American cheese
- 2 tomatoes, sliced
- 1 onion, sliced

Combine ground beef, contents of chili envelope, and water; shape 8 patties to fit rolls. Grill over hot coals. Serve on rolls topped with cheese, tomato, and onion.

8 servings.

LUMBERJACK SOUP

- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 envelopes (7/8-oz. each) onion gravy mix
- 1 can (16-oz.) tomatoes
- 3 cups water
- ¾ cup uncooked elbow macaroni

Brown meat in soup kettle or large saucepan. Stir in onion gravy mix. Add tomatoes, water, and macaroni to meat mixture; stir well and bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until macaroni is tender. Stir occasionally. 6 servings.

BEAN AND CABBAGE SLAW

- ¼ cup oil
- 2 tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 4 cups shredded or chopped cabbage
- 1 to 2 cups cooked chilled green beans (or 16-oz. can, drained)

Briskly stir together oil, mustard, sugar, and vinegar. Combine cabbage and beans in salad bowl; add dressing and toss lightly. 8 servings.

GOOD NEWS FOR PEOPLE
AND UNDER.

If you've always thought a little car meant a lot of crowding, you've obviously never looked into a Volkswagen Rabbit.

There happens to be so much room in a Rabbit that all 7'2" of Wilt Chamberlain can fit comfortably into the driver's seat.

Because the Rabbit has even more headroom than a Rolls-Royce.

As well as more room for people and things than practically every other imported car in its class.

Including every Datsun. Every Toyota. Every Honda, Mazda, and Renault.

Not to mention every small Ford and Chevy.

And, of course, what's all the more impressive about the room you get in a Rabbit is that it comes surrounded by the Rabbit itself. The car that, according to Car and Driver Magazine, "...does more useful and rewarding things than any other small car in the world..."

So how can you go wrong?

With the Rabbit you not only get the comfort of driving the most copied car in America.

You also get the comfort of driving a very comfortable car.

Because it may look like a Rabbit on the outside.

But it's a Rabbit on the inside.

INSIDE DEFENSE WORRY FREE

College football coaches make worrying a habit. First-year University of the Pacific Head Coach Robert Toledo is not an exception, but when it comes to his linebacking corps, he puts his mind at ease—especially since seniors Dallas Nelson and Brad Vassar are manning the inside linebacker posts.

Nelson and Vassar accounted for 248 tackles last season, despite the latter missing half the season because of a knee injury. Vassar is a two-time honorable mention All-America and first team All-Pacific Coast Athletic Association selection. Nelson was a first team All-PCAA choice, and UOP's most valuable defensive player last season. Both possess unusual quickness, strength and the ability to make the big play.

So it's easy to understand Toledo's cause for not worrying as much about this position as others.

Opposing offenses will have plenty to worry about, and both 6-foot-2, 225-pound athletes are ready to for a banner 1979 season.

"I started (last season) kind of slow, because of a lack of confidence and experience. But as the games went on, my confidence grew and I played a lot better football," said Nelson. "Right now, I have all the confidence in the world. It has carried over from last season.

"It will be a lot better with two people in the middle again. It takes off a lot of pressure."

Nelson certainly had a lot of pressure the last half of the 1978 season as the Tigers shifted from a 5-2 to a 6-1 alignment because of season ending injuries to Vassar, Bill Nunes and Sean Sullivan.

The injury hasn't altered Vassar's 1979 outlook, especially after spring practice.

"I made up my mind after my knee (right) was operated on that it would never be a problem," explained Vassar. "I just regard it as something that happened, and when I look at the scar on my knee I regard it as just a tattoo. I'm just looking forward to playing the best I can.

"I don't feel any different this year than any other year."

Vassar was in on 104 tackles in only six games last season, and it looks like he hasn't lost his uncanny sense of being around the football after his spring performance.

"A lot of being around the football is reaction, instinct and just a feeling. It's hard to explain," said Vassar of his unusual sense of not only being around the football, but being able to make a big play that can turn a game in the Tigers' favor.

Nelson understands what it will take to turn a lot of games in the Tigers' favor in 1979.

"I know if we play hard, and play good—good things will happen," said Nelson. "I think we will have a pretty strong defense, and if we keep the injuries to a minimum, and don't have a reoccurrence of what happened last season we should be in good shape.

You can be sure the linebacking corps is in good shape—Robert Toledo.

CAL POLY TRADITION

One of the true credits that should be afforded to the Cal Poly-SLO football program is its ability to find runners. Over the last few years, a new running back seems to start a superlative career just as another is finishing.

When Gary Davis graduated in 1975 and became a Miami Dolphin, Bob Trudeau came onto the scene and erased many of Davis' records. When Trudeau left in 1977, earning a tryout with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, Cal Poly football fans were left wondering who the heir apparent would be to the "Can You Top This?" game.

The answer was Louis Jackson. And by the time he leaves nobody may be able to top him.

"Our hope for him," confides head coach Joe Harper, "was that he would follow in the footsteps of Davis and Trudeau. Certainly, that's what he is doing."

The 5-foot-11, 195-pound junior from Fresno is well on his way to not only following in their footsteps, but also passing them by in a few categories as well.

Jackson, who held the NCAA Division II individual rushing lead going into the final week of last season, had to settle for fifth place averaging 126.3 yards per game. He racked up 1,131 yards, which is the third best rushing campaign ever for a Mustang rusher. And all this came in spite of Jackson being limited physically in the last five games of the season with leg and ankle injuries.

Jackson ranked eighth in the nation in scoring in Division II with 74 points. He ran for 12 touchdowns last year and set school records with 267 yards against Portland State and four touchdown runs against Fullerton State. Against Portland State, Jackson had a record-setting scoring dash of 87 yards and also scored on another run of 83 yards.

In 1978 Jackson accumulated enough yardage to take third place on Cal Poly's all-time single season rushing list. Only Davis and Trudeau have had better seasons.

"Louis has exceptional ability to find open lanes," says offensive backfield coach Dave Grosz. "He has great peripheral vision and the ability to change directions without losing momentum."

Jackson is looking forward to finishing his college career, and then aims for professional football. But there was a time when Louis wanted little to do with the game.

"I'd played some flag football but I wasn't to eager to get involved in contact. My mother wasn't to keen on the idea either," recalls Jackson.

"My dad got me into tackle football. He called me a sissy and that did it back in the fifth grade in Ogden, Utah."

Although his father, Roy, is a maintenance man at Fresno State, Louis didn't get a scholarship offer from the Bulldogs.

"My high school team (Roosevelt) was not very successful so schools like Cal, San Jose State and San Diego State wanted me to prove myself in junior college first. That is not what I wanted to do," Jackson said.

In fact, Jackson might be playing for the Air Force Academy right now had it not been for the persuasiveness of Mustang assistant coach Jim Sanderson.

"I'd taken all the (Air Force) tests when Coach Sanderson made me an offer and I decided on Cal Poly after a visit," Jackson said.

Although things are going well for Louis on the field these days, he remembers times when he's had his share of embarrassing moments.

"I remember when I was in the fifth grade and I was just starting and could not remember the plays. I went the wrong way in a game and ran into the other running back. They pulled me out right away."

"Then when I was a senior at Roosevelt High we were playing San Joaquin Memorial, the No. 1-rated team in the valley and we were ahead. But I fumbled three times in a row and they scored each time and we lost by one touchdown. It was humiliating."

When asked who the most influential person has been in his life, Jackson answers quickly: "My mother (Thelma)."

"She is the one who has kept me on the right track and off the streets. She has backed me in sports and gotten me involved in church."

Jackson spent three years during high school singing bass in the choir at the Pearly Grove Baptist Church in Fresno.

Unlike most fans, Jackson watches pro football on television with an expressed purpose.

"I've tried to imitate the pros," he said. "All the biggies—O.J. Simpson, Gale Sayers, Walter Payton, Tony Dorsett. I

Louis Jackson is not easy to catch on the football field, but during his spare time you can catch him in a movie theater or on a disco dance floor.

With adventure films like "Star Wars" being his favorites, Louis will sometimes go to three different movies when he's home for a weekend in Fresno.

Dancing is another way for Jackson to demonstrate his quick moves.

"I love to dance," smiles Lou, "and disco is what's happening and I'm right there."

Louis Jackson is "right there" romping up and down the gridiron, but as his opponents have found, he's never in one place for long.

LOUIS JACKSON, junior running back from Fresno, picks up the yardage in big chunks for the Mustangs.

CAL POLY-SLO

JOE HARPER, HEAD COACH

Cal Poly Head Football Coach Joe Harper begins his 12th season with a new title to add on to his list of honors—"Winningest Football Coach in Cal Poly History."

Last year's 7-3 record moved Harper into first place past the legendary LeRoy Hughes, who coached from 1950 through 1961 and logged 72 victories. Harper's record is 75-32-3, a .695 percentage, which ranks him No. 10 among the winningest coaches in the NCAA's division II.

The 1979 schedule finds Harper competing against two other coaches on that "Winningest Top 15" list: Jim Sochor of UC Davis (71-20-2; .774; nine years) who is No. 2, and Bob Blasi of Northern Colorado (81-38-2; .678; 13 years) who is No. 12.

Cal Poly currently holds eighth place among winningest Division II schools in the last 10 years (1969-1978) with a 68-27-3 record for a .709 percentage. In the last five years (1974-1978), the Mustangs are 15th in the nation (31-15-2, .667).

Among 1979 Cal Poly opponents in the last 10 years, UC Davis ranks No. 2 (73-24-2, .747), Northern Colorado ranks No. 7 (66-26-1, .715), and Puget Sound is No. 15 (66-32-1, .668). In the last five years, UC Davis is the No. 1 school (42-8-0, .840) and Puget Sound is No. 14 (33-16-1, .670).

Harper has led Cal Poly to two post-season appearances, the first coming in 1972 when North Dakota beat Poly, 38-21, in Sacramento's Camellia Bowl, and the second coming in last year's 17-0 loss to Winston-Salem State in the first round of the NCAA Division II playoffs.

The 43-year-old coach was chosen Kodak District 9 Coach of the Year in 1972, after the Mustangs finished 8-1-1. Harper also received the award in 1973, having compiled a 9-1 record.

Before the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) abolished its football championship in 1977, because of the decline in the number of football-playing members, Harper led the Mustangs to five titles, one co-championship, two second-place finishes, and a tie for second. Going into 1979, his CCAA record is 28-4-1, for an .864 percentage. Harper's teams have not lost a CCAA game since 1975.

Joe Harper's philosophy in coaching is not just concerned with winning football games, but also with building the character of the men playing football for him.

"Self-realization is what we seek to develop in our players," Harper pointed out. "It is our hope that our players find out something about themselves, develop a sense of responsibility, understand discipline, understand cooperation and understand what it's like to realize their potential."

"Consistent performances are critical in putting together a team that will win on a regular basis," says the coach. He looks to the fact that his present coaching staff has been maintained for virtually his entire tenure as a big reason for his success at Cal Poly.

The Mustangs have ranked nationally in rushing three times under Harper, being No. 5 in both 1969 and 1970, and No. 10 in 1975. Overall, his teams have averaged 239.6 yards per game.

In 1969, his team was rated No. 5 in total offense, while his '70 club was No. 3 and the '73 squad ranked No. 11.

Harper teams have ranked high in scoring over the years, ranking No. 3 in the nation in 1970, No. 2 in 1973, No. 14 in 1975, and No. 7 last year.

Harper captained the 1957 UCLA Bruins during his collegiate football career and also played rugby for five seasons.

Before coming to Cal Poly in 1968, Harper had assistant coaching positions at UCLA, Riverside City College, Colorado State, UC Santa Barbara, and Colorado. He had spent five seasons as the Buffaloes' offensive line coach at Colorado immediately before arriving in San Luis Obispo.

Harper graduated from Glendale High in 1954, earned his bachelor of science degree in physical education at UCLA in 1959 and his master's in 1960. He and his wife Jean are parents of two sons (Bradley, 19, and Dan, 17) and a daughter (Kerri Jean, 10).

STOCKTON HALL OF FAME

There have been a number of outstanding athletic teams from Stockton and San Joaquin County down through the years. But perhaps none has distinguished itself more than Stockton's 1954-55 YMCA National Volleyball Champions.

Playing against such nationally recognized volleyball powerhouses as the Dallas YMCA, Santa Monica Swim Club, Long Beach YMCA and Hollywood twice, the Stockton team drove to the national title in 1954 at Tucson, Arizona, winning five straight matches.

For those who don't follow volleyball, a match consists of winning the best two of three games. Stockton took 10 straight games without a defeat on the way to the national crown.

The basic team then went to the Pan American Games in Mexico City in 1955.

It was the first time volleyball was a part of the Games, and Stockton YMCA started it off with a gold medal for the U.S.A. by downing the Mexico City team in the finals.

(Editor's note: This is just one of the many who have earned a spot in the Stockton Athletic Hall of Fame.)

University Of The Pacific offers a diversity of academic programs that would normally be associated with a much larger university than the 6,200 students attending classes in Stockton, Sacramento and San Francisco.

Pacific was founded in 1851 as California's first chartered university. The independent institution now is comprised of 10 schools and colleges.

Located On The Stockton campus are two liberal arts colleges and schools of music, engineering, education, pharmacy, business and public administration, and a graduate school. The university's dental school is in San Francisco and Pacific's McGeorge School of Law is in Sacramento.

The liberal arts colleges include College of Pacific, the largest arts and sciences college with more than 50 major programs; Elbert Covell College, the only Spanish-speaking college in the United States.

Throughout Pacific the emphasis is on teaching, although research is recognized as having a need in the various disciplines.

The students at the university are represented on nearly all the policy-making committees, and the Associated Students play an active role in campus life through social and cultural programs for the community. The Stockton metropolitan area, with a population of more than 175,000, also is the scene of many programs that take the students off campus in a multitude of community involvement activities.

Stockton Is Located In the Central Valley of California, 75 miles east of San Francisco and 50 miles south of Sacramento.

The American Eagle Radial. Why it belongs on America's finest cars.

The Goodyear American Eagle Radial tire is as revolutionary today as our first rayon cord tire was in 1938 and our Polyglas in 1967 and the Polysteel Radial when introduced in 1974.

What makes the American Eagle Radial the tire for today is belts of Flexten cord. It is made from a flexible, man-made aramid fiber that is, pound for pound, stronger than steel. Flexten cord—a step ahead of steel—makes the American Eagle Radial tough and strong. Yet, the American Eagle is gratifyingly smooth riding, too.

Comfort, control and confidence are the qualities of the American Eagle Radial... the unique luxury tire designed by Goodyear for the American driver and the American road. We invite you to inspect and to enjoy American ingenuity... from Goodyear.

THE RETURN MEN

RON ROSS (Shot with Nikon equipment)

their course is somewhat predictable. But a football. Oblong. Pointed at the ends. Roll it along a flat surface, and its course resembles a Saturday night imbibor trying to tread the straight white line.

And hurtling along the ground at him are eleven people bent on flattening him. Separating him from the object of his attention—if not his arms or legs from the rest of his body.

"There has always been the impression that you find a great runner, put him back there under a kickoff or a punt, and you instantly have a great return man," said a former Midwestern football coach. "Well, I've put great runners back there, and after a couple of tries they say, 'Hey, Coach, why don't you put Jones back there to catch it first, and then he can toss it to me and I'll run with it after that.'"

The Return Man. The football player who can bring a stadium crowd to its feet with his exploits; the football player who can bring a stadium crowd down on his neck with his foibles.

"It's the loneliest place there is on a football field," said the former coach. "In many ways, the return man is like a goalie in hockey. If he makes a mistake, it's there for everybody to see. "But the really good ones love it. It's their moment at center stage. It may only happen seven or eight times a game, but the good ones can hardly wait for those times.

"It is their chance to shake and bake. They have so much confidence in themselves that they love the stress of the moment. They know that if they are successful, their success can be one of the most devastating things that can happen to the other team in the course of a game."

Coaches start sounding like sorcerers when they try to describe what this rare breed of football player has to be able to do to be successful.

"The big thing is that he has to be able to catch the football," said another successful coach. "He's not worth much if he can't catch the football.

"He has to have hands that would allow him to catch an egg if he had to. He can't fumble the ball, he really can't ever let the ball hit the ground.

"He has to have total concentration. He has to be oblivious to everything that's going on around him. And he has to want to do it.

"Besides all that, he needs a sixth sense—a radar that let's him know when he should catch the ball and run with it, and when he should signal for a

37% BETTER EPA ESTIMATED GAS MILEAGE IN OUR MOST EXCITING PONTIAC PHOENIX EVER.

What a difference a model year can make.

That's all it's taken for our all new 1980 Pontiac Phoenix to score 37 percent better EPA estimated MPG over its 1979 counterpart. (Based on a comparison of 1979 and 1980 Pontiac Phoenix models with standard engines* and automatic transmission. The highway increase is 50 percent.)

It's all the more exciting when you consider these 1980 Phoenix mileage estimates.

Remember: Compare the circled estimated MPG with that of other cars. Your mileage may vary depending on speed, trip length and weather. And your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate.

But great mileage is just the beginning of the excitement. Phoenix for 1980 has been dramatically redesigned from the ground up. Choose from the rakish new five-passenger Phoenix Coupe and the sporty and versatile five-door Phoenix Hatchback.

You get an exciting new chapter of Pontiac driving fun. With front-wheel drive. Rack and pinion steering. And MacPherson strut front suspension.

Another exciting thought. You get even more standard features than on our well-equipped '79 Phoenix. Such new standards as radial tuned suspension, integral body-color bumpers, column-mounted dimmer/washer switch, dome lamp switches on all the doors, load floor Hatchback carpeting and much more.

That's more Pontiac.

So don't let the excitement pass you by. Buy or lease the all new Phoenix Coupe and Hatchback at your Pontiac dealer's. It's going to be quite a year.

RETURN MEN

ABOUT THE AUTHOR—Jon Roe has been working for the Minneapolis Tribune for 12 years and has covered college football for 11. He attended the University of Minnesota and St. Cloud State University. Roe was voted Minnesota Sportswriter of the Year in 1973.

fair catch and not try to run. And while all that's happening, he has to be able to see out of the corner of his eye just where everybody is on the field.

"A lot of people are scared to death trying to do it.

"Returns, whether they're kickoff or punt returns, have become more and more sophisticated every year," the coach continued. "Over the years, although it's not really anything new, coaches have realized that the kicking game has become one-fourth to one-third of a game.

"Look at any close game, and you'll usually be able to find that it was decided in some phase of the kicking game. Last year, for instance, we had three games that were decided or turned in our favor because of a punt or kickoff return."

Coaches now want a punt launched in less than two seconds (preferably much less). And they want the punt to "hang" for more than 4½ seconds (preferably five or more seconds). They have designed punt formations (putting the kicker 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage) that make it difficult to block punts. And they have created special teams that employ players who can cover the hoped-for 40 or more yards of a punt in less than five seconds to tackle the return man before he has a chance to shake and bake.

On the other end of the kick or punt, coaches have also devised strategies.

"We have a 'short man,' a guy a few yards ahead of the return man, who

Close coordination between the return man and his blockers is essential.

yells out a code word to let the return man know what's happening while the return man concentrates on the football," said a Northern coach.

"Maybe the short man will call out 'Red' which means just catch the ball, but don't try for a return. Or 'Green' which means the return is on. And the return man already knows that he will be returning the ball left, right or up in the middle."

While the return man and the short man are getting their signals straight, nine other teammates are peeling back to get into position to form a wall of blockers. "The Picket Line."

"It takes a lot of people to make the thing work," he continued. "It doesn't just happen by accident."

"You can have all sorts of rules," said a former mentor. "Try for the return if your heels are on your 10-yard line, but just make the catch if your heels are on the 8-yard line. Things like that."

"But what it really takes is a rare breed. Everybody wants to play centerfield like Willie Mays, but not everybody plays centerfield like Willie Mays."

The Return Man. Glory or Goat. Cheers or Catcalls. Any volunteers? Oopps. Shouldn't have raised your hand, that's a fair catch.

A successful kick return can be a devastating blow to the opposition.

WHY MORE AND MORE PEOPLE ARE ASKING FOR A CHAIN SAW THEY CAN'T EVEN PRONOUNCE.

Poolen. Pullen. Polann.

With a name like Poulan, getting people to say the name right may be asking a lot.

On the other hand, people ask an awful lot of our saws. Quick starting. Extra cutting power. Quiet operation. Beautiful styling. Durability. Affordability.

And we deliver all that plus a lot of other standard features, no matter which Poulan saw they buy. From the Poulan Micro XXV right on up to our pro models.

At Poulan, we figure the more we put into our saws, the less people have to put into cutting.

Maybe that's why more and more people keep asking for our saws.

And as long as they keep doing that, they can say the name any way they like.

TOP DEFENSIVE PLAYERS IN THE COUNTRY

by John Mooney, Salt Lake City TRIBUNE

The late Alvin Nugent (Bo) McMillin would be proud of the defensive stalwarts returning to the 1979 college football wars.

When he took over the reins at Indiana U. "Bo" described the material he wanted—"the kind who hunt bears with a switch."

And he invited the alumni to "Ship, haul or drive those babies to Bloomington. What we need is plenty of those big, rough, tough rawhide pilgrim boys who kinda growl when they walk."

The All-America defensive stalwarts of today are much more vocal than McMillin's recruits who "growled" but the former coach would have drooled at the prospect of coaching the players nominated for post-season honors.

Of the 170 defensive players being pushed for honors by their schools, some who won't even receive honorable mention on the All-America teams, or first team recognition in their conferences, would have been deemed the answer to McMillin's prayers a few decades ago.

Consider that the average "All" team includes three linebackers and 46 have credentials worthy of note in any list of top players.

By the alphabet, you can run the gamut of Arthur Akers of UCLA to Gregory Wright of Delaware State.

So, with no attempt to rate them, here are those most likely to be called when the roll is compiled at the end of the season:

John Corker, Oklahoma State, was consensus defensive

Fresno State's expanded stadium will be the site of a new bowl game matching the champions of the PCAA and the Mid-America Conference.

A New Era for the PCAA

A solid foundation has been set, and now it's time to get on with the building.

That's how Lew Cryer, commissioner of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, views what he calls the new era for the PCAA. The conference had its tenth birthday in July, and over the span of those 10 years, has become one of the country's finest athletic associations. Cryer intends to make it even better.

It was a year ago that the dynamic, young commissioner came to the PCAA from the University of Oregon. Cryer's well respected abilities as a fundraiser and promotions man made him an obvious choice for the job.

Before succeeding retiring Jess Hill as PCAA commissioner, Cryer spent two years in Eugene as the Ducks' associate athletic director. In a relatively short amount of time, he increased Oregon's fundraising capabilities measurably, and helped generate an impressive new interest in football. His tireless amounts of energy border on the legendary, as evidenced by his administering of four NCAA championship events (basketball, gymnastics, track and golf) in one year.

A tour of duty in Stockton as the University of the Pacific's assistant athletic director preceded the move to Oregon. There his abilities gained national respect as he increased the Tiger's fundraising efforts nearly 15 times in only five years.

But that was yesterday. Occasionally Cryer pauses to reflect, but the vast majority of his energy is directed toward the future; the football bowl game, the basketball tournament, television appearances for both football and basketball, and on and on.

The bowl game, matching football champions of the PCAA and the Mid-American Conference, was sanctioned by the NCAA Extra Events Committee last April. Sponsored by the Greater San Joaquin Valley Sports Association, the bowl is scheduled for inauguration in December, 1980, pending completion of Fresno State's new 30,000-seat stadium. Plans have the football game capping a spectacular week of cultural and sporting activities that are designed to include people from all over the Valley, as well as areas served by the PCAA and the MAC.

Work is well under way with GSJVSA president, former Congressman B.F. "Bernie" Sisk, as fellow committee members say, "keeping the train moving." Committees have been appointed and are functioning, for although there is more than a year between now and the game, an immense amount of work is yet to be done.

It's been the annual postseason basketball tournament that has been the showcase event for the conference, and Lew Cryer was the man to administer

What it means to be a breed apart.

Imagination, instinct, and versatility (not size alone) set Merrill Lynch apart from the rest of the herd.

Too many people see only the size of Merrill Lynch; they miss the subtler qualities that truly make us a breed apart. For example:

Imagination. An oil exploration company needed $75 million, but traditional ways of raising it would have overly diluted earnings or impaired financial flexibility. Our solution: a public offering of convertible preferred stock.

Instinct. A corporate client wanted to buy back 200,000 shares of its own stock. Getting the best price was a question of market timing...of knowing when to walk out of the market and let the price sink, when to buy aggressively.

That's instinct. And it helped us buy all 200,000 shares within 1/2 point of the starting price.

Versatility. We can also help you reach your personal financial goals, despite changing markets and tough tax laws. As your assets grow and your needs change, your Account Executive can keep pace with equities, commodities, bonds, annuities, and tax investments.

How can Merrill Lynch's unmatched resources benefit you? Ask us. Find out what it means to deal with a breed apart.

player of the year in Big Eight ... AP All-American despite missing games late in season with injury ... Made team high of 130 tackles.

Michigan knows the team with the best defense will represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, and the Wolverines are high on Ron Simpkins, who made All-Big Ten as a junior, and who led Michigan in tackles with 174 ... Twice named wire service Player of Week on defense which was second nationally in defense against the score and eighth in rushing defense.

Mozell (The Axe) Axson is rated among the all-time linebackers at the University of Miami, and in his soph season in 1978, led all Miami tacklers, with 126 stops.

Although an even six feet in height and 225 on the scales, The Axe bench presses over 300 pounds. His top show last year was 17 tackles in the upset of Auburn.

Called by a former coach "The best looking physical prospect I ever saw," Mike Massey of Arkansas finally is emerging from the shadows of two former three-year lettermen, after recovering three fumbles and making 57 tackles as a swing man last year.

David Hodge of Houston led the SWC champs in tackles and was named outstanding defensive player in Cotton Bowl ... Named AP Lineman of the Week and was named to AP and UPI All-SWC teams after making an All-America first team as a soph ... His fourth year as starter.

George Cumby of Oklahoma also claims recognition as the Big Eight Player of the Year after being voted Newcomer of the Year in 1977, when he was voted AP All-American and All-Big Eight ... Last year credited with 114 tackles and intercepted five passes for 82 yards, including a 40-yarder for a touchdown against Kansas State.

Stanford offers a tandem in junior Milt McColl and soph Craig Zellmer. McColl follows his father, Bill, and brother, Duncan, in the All-America parade at Stanford while Zellmer made 19 tackles against USC as a sub for Gordy Ceresino, the school's all-time tackle leader.

Dennis Johnson, USC's inside linebacker, led Trojans in tackling last two seasons. He had 124 tackles, a pass interception and seven pass deflections while making the All-Pac-10 first team.

The Western Athletic Conference offers three good linebackers in Danny Frazier and Glen Redd of Brigham Young and Mike Forrest of New Mexico. Frazier is a 6-5, 221-pound soph and Redd a quick junior.

Forrest is rated one of the best returning players in the WAC, with 162 tackles, including 46 unassisted stops ... Started as a prep quarterback, played tight end as a frosh and moved to linebacker as a soph.

Scott Carter of San Diego State was a good one when he was healthy ... Finished with 71 unassisted and 68 assists although he missed half the Aztec games.

Notre Dame will argue for the cause of Bob Crable and Bobby Leopold as two of the best in the country, while UCLA counters with its Dynamic Duo of Billy Don Jackson and Arthur Akers.

Jackson played defensive tackle the first two years but moved to inside linebacker in the spring to replace All-America Jerry Robinson ... As down lineman last year made 65 tackles and was named to All-Coast second team ... Also voted first team Soph All-America honors ... Against Cal, intercepted pass and scored on 16-yard run.

Akers started only three games, but had 11 tackles against Kansas and 10 against Stanford ... Extremely physical player.

Buddy Curry was North Carolina's leading tackler the last two seasons ... Injured last year which slowed him a bit, he was outstanding defensive performer in 1977 Liberty Bowl with 18 tackles ... On very first play of his collegiate career he intercepted pass against Northwestern and has seven career interceptions.

Dan Bass of Michigan State is one of top players in Big Ten. He was ninth in conference in tackles and picked on second team in all-conference ... Returned interception 99 yards against Wisconsin.

Among the top players in the East are Lance Mehl of Penn State, a 6-4, 220-pound senior who led the 1978 team with 96 tackles; Gregg Milo, rover from Navy; Gregory Wright of Delaware State; Mike Brewington, Eastern Carolina; Jim Collins, Syracuse veteran; and Ben Botone of Rhode Island. Brewington is one of the reasons East Carolina has been among the leaders in total and rushing defense.

In the South-Southeast, there's Otis Wilson, a transfer from Syracuse to Louisville, who is called by a former coach "the best linebacker in the nation." ... Led team with 157 tackles, including 93 solo, also had six interceptions.

Auburn offers Freddie Smith and Georgia Tech boasts Henry Johnson (99 tackles) and Al Richardson (68 tackles and five fumble recoveries).

Johnnie Cooks of Mississippi State played as a freshman a year ago and led team in 73 solo tackles and 42 assists, plus 12 sacks for minus 42 yards.

Scot Brantley of Florida is a three-year starter who was SEC Rookie of Year as a frosh and All-SEC the last two years ... Averaged 14.5 tackles a game for three years.

In the heartland country, Iowa's Jim Molini, Western Michigan's Eric Manns, Western Kentucky's Chuck DeLacey, Brian Anderson of Wichita State and Northwestern's trio of Kevin Berg, Ben Butler and Chuck Kern may be sleepers.

Moving along, John Bungartz of Cal State-Long Beach, Clump Taylor of Southern Mississippi, Willie Thomas and Cliff Odom of Texas-Arlington, Jim Bayuk of TCU, Harold Thompson of Northeast Louisiana, Mike Singletary of Baylor, Ed Judie of Northern Arizona, Brad Vassar of Pacific, Kent Clausen of Montana and Byron Hunt of SMU have their boosters.

Singletary, for example, earned defensive player of the year in the SWC after being Newcomer Player of the Year on defense the year previously ... Holds school record for tackles at 232.

The defensive ends aren't as numerous, naturally, but they lack nothing in quality. Texas A & M sees its senior star, Jacob Green, as a worthy honors candidate. His 116 tackles included 160 yards lost.

U.S. Naval Academy points to Charlie (Thunder) Thornton as Navy's "big play man" who had 88 tackles, including 11 for losses of 76 yards ... Outstanding after gaining All-America honors two years. His coach says, "What can I say about Hugh Green except that he's a great, great football player? Everyone knows that."

Leonard Mitchell
Houston, DT

In two previous years, Green has 21 sacks for 133 yards, 120 tackles and 63 assists ... Broke into college ball two years ago against defending champion Notre Dame and Hugh made 11 tackles, including two quarterback sacks and an extra point block.

Terry Dion teams with Neil Elshire at Oregon for what coaches agree should rank with the best pairs around. Dion led team in tackles for loss (15) and fumbles caused (5) while Elshire turned in 75 total tackles and 11 tackles for loss.

Dave Otto returns as a starter at Harvard after a good sophomore year when he turned in 26 tackles. West Virginia is pushing Delbert Fowler, who led the Mountaineers the last two years in tackles for loss with a total of 17, and quarterback sacks, four each season.

Don Blackmon earned second team All-America honors last year for Tulsa, with 97 tackles, 14 for losses totaling 134 yards, plus three interceptions and four deflections. Two of the interceptions came against then-second ranked Arkansas.

Lawrence Cole figures to give Nebraska a solid shot at an honors defensive player. He had 61 total tackles, including four sacks ... One of strongest athletes, "L.C." is a devoted weight lifter.

Arkansas argues there wasn't a better defensive end in the SWC the last two years when Jim Howard, a two-year starter who was named All-Conference second teamer both years ... Had 15 tackles against Baylor and an intercepted pass which turned the game around. Against UCLA in Fiesta Bowl, caused fumble that set up Arkansas touchdown.

Mat Mendenhall, a 6-6, 230-pound senior from BYU, and Charlie Baker, of New Mexico, who has been compared to Robin Cole, are the top defensive ends in the Rockies.

Roland James, DB
Tennessee

Baker led Lobos in quarterback sacks with 12, and also turned in 12 other tackles for losses. Mississippi plugs Big John Peel, while LSU will fight for John Adams and Lyman White, who totaled 152 tackles.

Wendell Ray, at 6-5 and 218, is the best defensive player on the Missouri squad, with 66 tackles last year ... Interception of a Dexter Green pass on Missouri 10 stopped a drive which could have given Iowa State the lead.

Sam Stepney of Boston U. is a good candidate from the East, while Lafayette lists Tim Gerhart as one of its finest-ever ends, with Little All-America selection in 1978 to go with All-East honors.

Farley Bell, who started for Cincinnati last year after switching from Ohio State, has been tabbed as the best end in Bearcat history.

Ohio U. fans believe they have a real winner in Steve Groves. Switched to defensive tackle last year after knee surgery, Groves had a fine year. Moved to end again this year, he should have a good season.

Harris for the most points.

Also worth watching are Ron Crews of Nevada-Las Vegas, Nick Westerberg of Oregon State and Jerry Calovich of Kansas.

The guys in the interior of the line, in the "trenches," don't get many "sacks" or unassisted tackles, and rarely do they get the headlines. But what a group to draw from.

Start with the Big Ten where Stanley Ralph of Illinois is the strongest man on the team, and also one of the fastest; or at Wisconsin, where Tom Schremp is a starter for the third year, or at Iowa, where John Harty, 6-6 and 260, is one of the defensive bright spots.

Ball State is high on senior tackle Rush Brown, who was an all conference selection last year.

Penn State provides two of the outstanding candidates in the East, headed by Bruce Clark, who won the Lombardi Award and finished second in the Outland voting. Clark was an All-America first-teamer as well as ABC-TV defensive player of the year.

The other Nittany Lion tackle, Matt Millen, finished fourth for the Lombardi Award, and he, too, gained All-America honors.

Among the Ivies, Yale offers two top middle guards in senior Ron Barlow and junior Kevin Czingar. Navy boosts John Merrill, an all ECAC selection who is the biggest (248 pounds) player Navy has had in years.

On the East seaboard, consider Doug McDougald and Mike Faulkner of Virginia Tech, Ben Bottone of Rhode Island, Tom Pierzga of Boston U., and Colin McCarty of Temple.

In the Southeast-South, The Citadel backs David Wardlaw, Duke has Tim Cadigan, who can bench press 400 pounds; Clemson is high on Jim Stuckey, an All-ACC pick last year, who had 17 tackles against Georgia and made the two big plays in the win over North Carolina.

In the SEC, Auburn is high on Frank Warren while nose-guard George Atiyeh leads LSU. Mississippi State offers tackle Tyrone Keys, all 260 pounds, who is exceptional as a pass rusher. Richard Jaffe, was the leading tackler for Kentucky two years ago and third leading tackler last year as nose-guard. All-SEC team twice.

Mississippi counts on James (Lazarus) Jordan at nose-guard and Southwestern Louisiana has Dale Thomas as a good prospect.

The Southwest would be led by Houston's two tackles, Hosea Taylor at 260 and Leonard Mitchell, 6-7 and 270. Taylor led down linemen with 44 tackles and seven sacks while Mitchell led team with eight sacks and returned two pass interceptions for touchdowns.

Harvey Armstrong of SMU was voted Newcomer of the Year and had 117 tackles for second All-SWC honors, while Wesley Roberts is TCU's best.

In the Big Eight, Chris Boskey of Iowa State was Defensive Newcomer of the Year; LaVal Short of Colorado was a second team middle guard; Rod Horn is Nebraska's top defensive tackle and Jim Zidd is a talented defensive end at Kansas, while Kerry Weinmaster at middle guard has excellent "all" credentials for Nebraska.

Pat Ogrin and Don Jessie are Wyoming's best tackles; Ryan Williams is an outstanding tackle for the Air Force; Glen Titensor, a transfer from UCLA, has good notices from BYU, as has Craig Silverman from Nevada-Las Vegas.

Rulon Jones from Utah State follows the Aggie Tradition of Tackle U., and Cleveland Crosby is Arizona's best

the first one. Hosted by the University of the Pacific at the Stockton Civic Auditorium four years ago, the tournament involved only four PCAA teams. All eight teams now play in the tourney that is getting more and more competitive each year.

PCAA basketball fans have become so enthusiastic about the event that determines the league's representative to the NCAA playoffs that the best seats in the Anaheim Convention Center are bought very quickly. In the future, Cryer plans to have the event completely sold out long before regular conference season is over.

The PCAA has come a long way.

Not long before birthday number 10, the PCAA, for the first time, went out of state when it granted membership to Utah State University. The relationship has been a good one, and often prompts questions about further expansion. The PCAA is always looking, comes the answer. But the league is solid, so prospective members would have to enhance the overall quality of the conference. At this time, six PCAA schools compete in Division I-A football and all eight play basketball, so it would be a good bet that any additional members would field football teams.

Schools in the PCAA have fine women's programs to complement those of the men. Although the women's teams have their own local and national administrative bodies, the PCAA is proud of their accomplishments. In the past year, two conference members won Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIW) national championships. The volleyball title went to Utah State and the Cal State Fullerton gymnasts won in their sport.

The 1979 PCAA Basketball Tournament: Utah State and UOP.

Good teams need good facilities, and PCAA members are constantly striving to improve the places their teams compete. Four schools are working on new places to play and two are expanding existing facilities. Cal State Long Beach already plays its basketball in the spacious Long Beach Arena and its football in the soon to be greatly expanded Anaheim Stadium.

Fresno State plans to open the 1980 football season in its new 30,000-seat, on campus stadium, the one that is to become the home of the PCAA Bowl game. San Jose State's intimate Spartan stadium is due for expansion, as is Utah State's Romney Stadium. Cal State Fullerton has an expansive football and baseball complex on the drawing boards, and people there are working hard to make it a reality.

It won't quite be the same when the Tigers move out of Stockton Civic, the famous "snake pit," but Pacific fans will soon be heading to a new events center to watch UOP basketball. UC Santa Barbara's Robinson Gym just recently became a pit, and already the Gauchos are moving to their new events center. Even the oft referred to "cracker box" Titan Gym may soon be history as Fullerton is clearing basketball dates with the Anaheim Convention Center.

A major key to successful collegiate athletic programs is successful fundraising, and this is where Cryer's expertise can be of great benefit to PCAA schools. With ever increasing demands being placed on the athletic dollar, what with inflation, rising insurance rates, the upgrading of women's athletics and the like, the importance of generated revenue becomes more critical each year.

PCAA schools have a good foundation in the fundraising art, but, as with most things, there is always room for improvement. The commissioner is continually counselling school officials on ways of streamlining fundraising programs. PCAA fundraisers periodically meet as a group to discuss ideas and offer solutions to common problems.

It is the PCAA's aggressive leadership that holds the key to the future, Cryer believes. "The strength of this conference comes from the energy of its leadership—the presidents and chancellors, athletic representatives, directors of athletics, right on down to the talented and aggressive coaching staffs at each of our member institutions," he stated when he was hired.

The dedication to building the strongest possible athletic programs comes from all levels, and that is what makes the future so bright. "The potential of the PCAA is significant because of the people committed to realizing that potential," summarizes Cryer.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR—John Mooney, past president of the Football Writers Association of America, has been associated with newspapers in Salt Lake City since 1939. A native of Iowa and a graduate of the University of Iowa, he went directly from the editorship of The Daily Iowan student newspaper at Iowa, to the sports desk of the Chicago Tribune. He moved to the Salt Lake Telegram in 1939, became its sports editor in 1941, and switched to the morning Tribune as sports editor in 1948.

tackle nominee.

The Far West linemen are headed by Doug Martin, one of the best honors candidates from Washington. Vince Goldsmith from Oregon, Chuck Evans of Stanford, Pat Graham of Cal and Tom Tuinei of Hawaii are other good linemen.

Cal starts off with two outstanding cornerbacks in Anthony Washington and Daryl Swanson. Washington intercepted six for 224 yards and two touchdowns in first six games, while Swanson is devastating against the run.

But the top defensive back on the coast is free safety Kenny Easley, UCLA's consensus All-America of last year. His two-year total of 13 interceptions already shares the Bruin school record.

Dennis Smith led USC in interceptions with seven and was fourth in team tackles while Trojan Ronnie Lott had 63 backs in Mike Guess and Vince Skillings, the latter with five interceptions, and one for a TD.

Penn State has another All-America defender in Pete Harris who led nation in interceptions last year while Minnesota offers free safety Keith Edwards, who also is tops as a kick returner.

VMI offers free safety Walt Bellamy while San Jose State likes the chance of cornerback Steve Hines. Tim Wilbur of Indiana led Big Ten in interceptions with six for 115 yards.

Johnnie Johnson of Texas led the defensive backs in the Heisman voting last year as he gained All-America honors. But Tennessee will hear nothing but Roland James whom his coach calls the best defensive back he has ever known.

Vanderbilt gets into the action with Ronnie Myrick at strong safety. Notre Dame's Dave Waymer is one of the Irish co-captains and a steady performer.

Maryland pushes Lloyd Burruss, who had 71 tackles from his secondary post. The Citadel likes the chance of safety Paul Gillis while Duke rates Dennis Tabron as one of its best-ever backs.

Kentucky notes that cornerback Larry Carter has 4.5 speed and among the national leaders in punt returns. LSU likes cornerback Chris Williams who led SEC in interceptions.

James McKinney has his backers at Auburn and Texas Tech's Larry Flowers was named All-SWC. Mississippi State has Ken Johnson. Iowa State counters with Mike Schwartz. Kansas State's best is Sam Owen while Colorado likes Mark Haynes, to round out the field.

Mozell Axson

tackles as the rover, along with three interceptions.

Tim Smith at corner is top for Oregon State.

Oklahoma has a top safety in Darrol Ray, All-Big Eight star who tied school record for interceptions with seven. Georgia adds Scott Woerner, a top corner and great punt returner for its choice. Free safety Woodrow Wilson of North Carolina State ranks as an honors favorite.

In the WAC, Utah boasts Jeff Griffin will be the best pass defender and tackler before he's through.

of Tulsa must be considered, as well as Jerry Holmes of West Virginia. North Carolina calls Ricky Barden its best All-America bet at defensive back. Pitt likes Jo Jo Heath as its rebuilding secondary.

Cornerback Donzell McDonald and safety Ricky Harr are best at Colorado State while Wyoming pushes Michael Dennis as a defensive back.

Chris Judge is a free safety for TCU while Alabama pushes cornerback Don McNeal. Pacific counters with Stan Shibata at safety and Texas-El Paso has All-WAC Eddie Forkerway.

COULD A SHADOW SHED LIGHT ON THEIR SECRET?

The door creaked a cautious welcome as they pushed it open. Their eyes scanned the sparse office, locked on mine, then darted to the darkened hall. Who were they? Why were they here?

Two things I knew for sure. First, they were being followed. And, second, they had real class. Lots of it. Just the cut of their clothes said style and elegance. The fabric said taste.

Questions buzzed in my mind like hornets. But, in this business it's money first. So I told 'em my fee and took a swig of cold coffee. They went for their wallets and suddenly, the pieces fit. I caught a glimpse of a familiar label inside their coats, and knew why they were followed. There ain't a dame around who can pass up the great looks of Haggard Imperial slacks and sport coats.

A TRADITION IN SPORTS

OFFICIAL NCAA PUBLICATIONS cover the college sports scene.

For more than three quarters of a century, official NCAA guides and rules books have provided college sports fans with the best reading for all seasons. Each guide is packed with schedules, records, previews, championship stories, statistics, results, scores, photos and (see listing) the official playing rules. With availability well in advance of the season, they are perfect "warm-ups" for your favorite sports.

FOR THE FOOTBALL FAN! Four great publications.

NCAA FOOTBALL GUIDE

—The perfect preview of the coming season, as well as a great reference throughout the year. District-by-district features, schedules, results, form charts and much more.

NCAA FOOTBALL RECORDS

—The answer book of college football, and the ideal companion to the Guide. Best performances, yearly champions, coaching records, win streaks, longest plays. A treasure for the aficionado.

FOOTBALL RULES & INTERPRETATIONS

—The final word on how the game should be played. A one-volume combination of the "must" books for football playing and officiating.

READ-EASY FOOTBALL RULES

—For the more casual armchair "official." A "peoples' version" of the official rules and a delight to read.

McGEORGE SCHOOL OF LAW

At the University of the Pacific's McGeorge School of Law, the future is now. This progressive attitude has been a part of the institution since it began teaching the foundations of the law profession in 1924.

Now in its 55th year of academic training, the Sacramento-based campus has gained a reputation for its innovative leadership in legal education, and modern facilities at its disposal.

Earlier in this decade, McGeorge opened its widely praised and imitated "Courtroom of the Future", making use of modern technology (audio and visual aids and design) to create an improved trial facility.

Another creative concept, the Law Office of the Future, became a reality last February. Its purpose is to maximize the lawyer client relationship, and again using technical and architectural methods to their greatest advantage.

Barely around the corner (scheduled to be dedicated in April of 1980) is the Center for Advanced Study of Law and Policy, which together with a million-dollar plus grant for new housing will give McGeorge an even further edge in sustaining its outstanding legal instruction into the next decade.

The 13-acre campus, which merged with UOP in 1966, is one of the most prestigious law training grounds in California if not the entire nation. Its status is backed up by a sterling record of graduates passing the bar exam and being placed in the profession.

In the most recent (1977) survey made by the California State Bar Journal, McGeorge topped every law school in the state by having 91.3% of its graduates pass the bar exam on their first attempt, during that year. On the national level, such renowned universities as Yale (89.5) and Michigan (87.9) were ranked below McGeorge and even Harvard's School of Law held only a narrow margin (92.2).

A cumulative study (1975-77) done simultaneously showed McGeorge again as the dominant California school and comparing favorably with any other campus in the country.

The growing national prestige of McGeorge is reflected by the fact that 52% of the students came from out-of-state in 1978-79.

McGeorge, which deals exclusively in law, is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is fully accredited by both the American Bar Association and the Committee of Bar Examiners of the California State Bar. The Sacramento campus has 43 full-time faculty members.

Intent on offering students the most diverse training possible, McGeorge offers more than 80 different elective courses, ranging from international tax planning to farm and ranch law, designed to give its students specialized background in the area of their choice.

For the last six years the school has also offered a European program headquartered in Salzburg, Austria, giving students an opportunity to study European society, as well as the comparative legal systems.

Numerous other realistic legal programs are available offering students practical applications of their classroom studies. Included in these courses are work-study programs in public agencies, legal aid clinics and attorney general and state public defender appellate clinics, where students work hand-in-hand with government employed professionals.

McGeorge also offers its future lawyers full access to vast array of legal resources including 135,000 volumes of legal material in its modern library. The library also contains computerized copy of almost all state and federal statutes and cases and its fine video equipment allows users to view their own and other simulated courtroom performances for critique and learning experience.

McGeorge's twice yearly Pacific Law Journal, which is devoted to analysis and in-depth reporting of California legislation, is entering its 11th year of publication and is one of the most highly read of any California law review.

The school's undergraduates enter several competitions each year and have perennially been among the top award winners in the state. The 1978-79 national team finished second in the country in overall competition in New York.

Woodward's 'name game' a gridiron classic

Whether Walter Camp or Caspar Whitney originated the annual selection of all-America teams remains a point of argument among some college football historians. But there is no question as to the identity of the true pioneer in putting together, mirthfully, what he called his "Irregular All-America." The late Stanley Woodward, recognized as perhaps the ablest sports editor in America in his heyday at the New York Herald Tribune, spent many hours in fabricating fascinating player-college name combinations. He even consulted with "scouts," scattered geographically. Much of the charm of such whimsy is to be found in solving the correct punctuation in reference to sound production and intonations. With many true football fans, it became a name game. And still is, in some sections of the country.

Here are my favorite first and second teams selected by Woodward. If certain names stump you, pass on to the next name and come back:

Bal, Lehigh	E	Munova, Miami
Hunschbacher, Notre Dame	T	Cedarczoff, Lebanon
Gardnov, Ala.	G	Spahnisch, Maine
Mentleigh, Ill.	C	Cann, UCLA
Souper, Marquette	G	Snaique, Pitt.
Youez, Marshall	T	O'Howigh, Miss. U.
Hay, Baylor	E	Sella, Bates
Frivel, La Salle	Q	Ahmfein, Hawaii
Markida, Lafayette	HB	Inkum, Tex.
Huyubin, Dayton	HB	Fertham, Ore.
Brusyatietwicz, Colgate	F	DeBelza, St. Mary's

With the advent of two-platoon football, Woodward adapted to all-America offense and defense units, continuing to succeed in producing smiles, chuckles and even hearty laughter. He completed this selection shortly before his death:

OFFENSE		DEFENSE
Schlodoun, Tulane	E	Wytecriss, Mass.
Mann, Furman	E	Spelada, U-Conn.
Uaidoniponda, Sewanee	T	Strentha, Tenn.
Snowdin, Buffalo	T	Prehz, Ala.
Tregrozin, Brooklyn	G	Mietmiem, St. Louis
Beticroquers, New Mex.	G	Yurinda, Army
Spray, Ursinus	C	Grand, Kenyon
Proto, Cal.	B	Ithadda, B.U.
Taigonaraino, Mo.	B	Wearan, Wash.
Cheezitda, COP	B	Chierfrolle, Notre Dame
Pigue, Penn	B	DeBoisfromme, Syracuse

On one occasion Woodward picked three backs from the same school: Fergaard, Fercontre, Anfer, Yale.

Just as unlikely a joker as Woodward, from his dour mien, was his good friend Asa Bushnell, longtime executive secretary of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association. It was Bushnell who put a humorous concluding touch to one of the most embarrassing experiences ever suffered by a football referee.

In the middle of the 1940 season, during a game between Cornell and Dartmouth, a field goal had given Dartmouth a 3-0 lead early in the final period. With less than five minutes left to play and the ball in midfield, Cornell took to the air and moved to Dartmouth's five-yard line, first down and less than a minute left on the clock.

Cornell picked up three yards on the first play, one more on second down. On third down, there was scarcely any gain. To stop the clock, Cornell called time out, and was penalized five yards for delay of game. This placed the ball on the six-yard line. On fourth down, Cornell's pass attempt into the end zone was incomplete.

William H. "Red" Friesell, a referee of long-proved excellence, put the ball on the 20-yard line, in Dartmouth's possession. But after a consultation requested by the Cornell captain, Friesell changed his mind and put the ball on the six-yard line to give Cornell another down. Later it became known that the Cornell players thought there had been a double-offsidess penalty on the previous play, the incomplete pass. With six seconds left, Cornell scored a touchdown and apparently won the game, 7-3.

Sports writers covering the game thought that Cornell had scored on a fifth down and so reported it. Friesell admitted that he might have made a mistake. On Monday, after Cornell officials had studied the game films, which showed five downs and no evidence of a double-offsidess, they called Bushnell, who forwarded the information to Friesell, who expressed his regret. Cornell athletic director Jim Lynah and head coach Carl Snavely both sent telegrams to Dartmouth relinquishing claim to the victory and the score was recorded officially as Dartmouth 3, Cornell 0.

Knowing fully how low in spirit his good friend Friesell would be, Bushnell sought to cheer him up with a telegram sent to Red's home. The message was worded: "Don't let it get you down, down, down, down, down."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL: STUFF OF LEGEND

UOP ATHLETICS

Dave McAlpine earned MVP swimming honors as freshman in 1978-79.

OVERVIEW OF THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM (Soccer, Swimming, Water Polo)

(Editor's Note: This will be the first of four pieces looking at the non-revenue sports at University of the Pacific)

Consistency is probably the best device available to measure the quality of a particular athletic program.

Two of the three University of the Pacific sports that we will examine in this article, water polo and swimming have withstood this test well in the last decade and established themselves as excellent programs. The third, soccer, has barely been in existence long enough to be judged, but early indications are that with the same improvement seen thus far, it will join the swimming and water polo squads as a solid addition to the UOP athletic program.

Let's take a brief look at the accomplishments of each in recent years.

Soccer - Although fragmented records of soccer date back to 1969 the sport was not really prominent at UOP until 1975, and on-the-field success has yet to come.

Playing first in the West Coast Inter-collegiate Soccer Conference and for the last three seasons in the Pacific Soccer Conference North, the Tiger have shown considerable improvement despite facing possibly the most rugged conference opposition in the West.

The 1978 season, the best ever at UOP, saw the Tigers win six times as many games as they had won in the three previous seasons. That they posted only a 6-11-2 overall mark last fall points out how rough the road has been to respectability.

Last year, the squad scored an all-time high 47 goals, lead by Victor Zapien's eight, and goalie Bill Barker, who will be starting his third season in the nets in '79, recorded three shutouts.

Zapien and defensive standout Roger Spaulding were both accorded honorable mention All-PSC honors despite the club's seventh-place finish. It was the second consecutive time that Zapien has been honored.

Swimming - After a pair of "down seasons," sixth-year Coach Gordon Collet looks ready to guide his young team back toward the glory years that characterized the '70s.

During the last decade, the Tiger swimmers under the tutelage of Collet and Bill Rose (1969-74), posted 10 straight winning dual meet records, captured two PCAA titles and placed among the top 25 teams in the nation for seven seasons in a row (1971-77).

Probably the biggest of the Tiger stars during this high water period was backstroke artist Craig Schwartz (1974-77) who won eight individual PCAA championships and went to the NCAA Championships during each of his four seasons. Schwartz made the finals in the 200 backstroke three times, finishing third in 1976.

Other standouts were freestyler Rick Reeder, a three-time NCAA point-getter, Kevin Drake, who scored in the 400 individual medley in 1977, and teammate Richard Cannon, who scored in the same race.

Although the 1978-79 contingent claimed only fifth in the PCAA Championships, there was promise for a bright future. Three school records were broken by swimmers who will return this season, Brad Jope (100 breaststroke), Gary Fregeau (200 breaststroke) and John Rotticci (200 butterfly). In addition, the team MVP was a freshman, Dave McAlpine, who made the finals in three events at the PCAAs in Long Beach.

Water Polo - The Tiger water polo squad, which along with its swimming compatriots has had a long list of commendable clubs, has faced an uphill climb for recognition since the inception of the PCAA.

Despite regularly being among the upper echelon of the nation's water polo squads, the Tigers have been buried in the middle of one of the top two conferences in the country since 1969. The competition is still improving and in 1979, a young, rebuilding UOP team will be facing perhaps the strongest overall PCAA cast ever.

As in swimming, the exceptional individual during the last ten years has undoubtedly been Craig Schwartz, who gained first team All-PCAA honors for three consecutive seasons. Kit Follmer gained All-PCAA accolades in both 1975 (first team) and 1977 (second team).

Victor Zapien led UOP in scoring last season.

BENNY BUGGS (21) slams home two.

First-year head coach Dick Fichtner has plenty to smile about with nine of his top 10 players returning from a first Pacific Coast Athletic Association regular season and post-season tournament championship team. Top returnee is 6-9 junior forward Ron Cornelius, who was the league regular season and post season tournament MVP. Senior co-captains Matt McGuire and Scott McLaughlin, seniors Paul Demsher and Billy Bryant, juniors Matt Waldron, Rick Paulsen and George Dzubak and sophomore Benny Buggs are the other top players coming back. Two-time junior varsity MVP Tim Will, sophomores Norm Edwards and Lee Smith, junior college transfers Reggie Love and Don Herick, plus freshmen Laurence Held and Matt Clevenger, will all battle for a varsity spot. So it's easy to see the Tigers are ready to build on their success of last season.
