June 28 1880.

My Dear Miss

When there is a woman in ^{the case}
All the things of course find place.

So let me first congratulate you on your marriage — the news of which you ^{drop} on us, of a sudden. — How it seems your ^{marriage} began in April. And, let me tell you marrying is not a solus How it may be a solace.
Two people are always concerned in it. You have mentioned the name of one party, John Miss, but you say not a word about the other How, now who is she?
My wife & I wish to include her in the congratulations which we here with, most heartily, tender to you.

Next, I ask you for the Satisfactory specimens of the Alaskan Cypress, Cupressus nutkaensis.

And I can tell you that the apparently interminable Part. & Brit. is about to be finished. I saw Mr. Watson to-day polishing off the last sheets of the copy of the Index. He is going to J. D. No. 12, as soon as he gets the copy all in - in 2 or 3 days - and surely he needs the change. Prof.
Whitney is to see to the bringing out of the volume, and to the printing parts = into of a new ed. of vol.

I. I understand never, that the two volumes are to be also printed on smaller & thin paper, as one stout & portable volume, which I think will be most handy and useful.

Sergeant, Perry Engineer on the way to San Francisco & thence to Brit. Columbia.
Your interesting account of the forest of Alaska will tempt them to go on northward.

Look for the trio at the Palace Hotel, N.Y. by the time you get there.

Stems aquilina in Alaska grows much as it does in England & Scotland.

And now, repeating best wishes for yourself & Mrs. Minn. I am Very sincerely Yours
