about it but of course realizes the helplessness of us all to do anything in the case. He has written me two letters. By the way in one of my letters to him I spoke of our being in a strait between two opinions as to whether it was best to leave our little one sleeping in his present quiet resting place and make it as beautiful as possible or to place the precious dust where others of our kindred would likely be laid, He replied about as follows.
"If my advice can be of any value I would think it much better to leave it as it is at least while many is there to keep the flowers fresh upon it."
This of late has been more and more my own thought

Father is sitting on the lounge and Do write soon
Joanna.

Did you rec^d the price of the chain which I sent?
I forgot to say that the chain on the front of the little dress is only about the length of an inch in length, a little longer.

Dearest Sister:-

I see it is nearly a month since the writing of your last letter and I certainly cannot answer without further delay, I did not intend being so long in telling you more about father.
Although we could hope for only a small congregation Walter decided to build a little house for him to speak in and try to get enough together to interest him.
He did not tell him before hand what his purpose was. Thinking it would have more effect to wait had to be turned into a until he enquired what little school house which the building was for and was very necessary, Father then tell him, but when however consented to stay he saw the frame going up with us until August and in answer to his inquiry when some note of his my was told that it was become due, this was for him and that he could his own proposition

 himself, he became very glad of happening that what excited and said something may occur it was of no use as he to change his mind. could now see plainly. He never mentioned that the Lord had not in yours and Willis' letter tended him to work here and I would not have and that he could not know who it was from go to Battle alone, he said but for the address that if this had been his John wrote him a fine field there would have been letter I suppose been more proper access and concerning it he able to him in his own was also silent. John is situation and as the building very much concerned

I was going to send you some flowers but I guess perhaps my envelope is full enough for this time I wish, I wish, I wish you could see the magnolia blossoms fresh and pure and beautiful. Oh I can't tell you what a thrill of pleasure went over me when I saw the sweet thing, Mary I love flowers, and one time I intend to bring a nice collection for you to see.
Mother is a good about bringing one specimen.

Give ~~my~~ our kindest regards to Mrs Hunt and tell her we were much pleased to see the notice of her day, in the paper I hope she is well.
I had a nice good letter from Mrs Turner, I must answer before she goes east.

My heart sends love and love to Mary, a kiss for the little almost two year old, and love to Mills.

and I have wished that some sweet little flowers such as Scotch daisies pink and white and my sweet little flowers which you think appropriate perhaps some forget me not would be pretty and one shrub of snow drop. I would like the most white flowers if without too much trouble you could plant them ~~over~~ ^{it} we could of course gladly make returns for anything you had to send for, and I know without being told that you will like to do it if you are only well.

The enclosed is the edging on one of the little nightgowns and a penciling of the tucking just as it is on the front, two tucks on each side straight and a little tripp of bias tuckling on each side. I was thinking it might perhaps look prettier in the picture than the plain dress, but if you think otherwise or have that part already finished some other way, I am not at all particular.

Walter had a very pleasant letter from Mr. Jewell the other day who reports you all well and very prosperous. We were glad to hear from them.

We are having a piazza built on our little house and the carpenter makes out to keep up a very substantial noise but I am about used to it for he has been hammering at the other side of the house for two weeks making a kitchen pantry & little store room, these are separated from the other part of the house by an open hall (roofed over head) which Willis will describe to you. It is true Southern style and a great comfort in warm days. We set our table there to eat and feel very aristocratic, Walter says he will hang ^a hammock in it for me to lounge in when it is very warm.

The weather is still remarkably cool and delightful I really do not believe we will need to go North this year
