DELTA DELTA DELTA

Philosophy Doctorate Offered By Pacific

College of the Pacific, always among the first with academic improvements, will be trying something new next year. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Teaching will be offered in the major fields of chemistry and English. Under discussion for several years at Pacific, this plan has already been tried in two Eastern colleges. COP will be the first to apply and adapt the program on the West coast.

College enrollment across the nation is rapidly increasing, thus creating a great demand for college teachers. This doctorate will put more emphasis on teaching in the fields of chemistry and English than on research.

Advanced students interested in this degree should apply for graduate standing through the Director of Admissions. A student may be admitted to candidacy for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Teaching when he has completed satisfactorily 45 units of advanced studies, satisfied the foreign language requirements, passed the qualifying examinations, and received formal approval for such admission by his advisory committee and major department.

DAD'S WEEKEND

Delta Gamma is establishing a new tradition of Dad's Weekend at the local chapter November 11 and 12. The weekend's activities are planned so that the fathers will have a better understanding of what sorority life is really like. (Not REALLY!) Each of the visiting fathers will be presented with a Delta Gamma Dad sweat-shirt for the activities.

A picnic luncheon will start the festivities Saturday afternoon. The fathers will be shown around the campus and will gather at the house for a buffet dinner. A special section has been set aside at the Stadium for the girls, their fathers, and dates at Saturday night's game. On Sunday, the group will attend church services at Morris Chapel.

Prospective candidates may apply for graduate assistantships in their major department. The awards will include complete remission of tuition plus stipends of $1,000 to $1,500 per year, depending upon the applicant's qualifications and the nature of his assignment. Applications for assistantships should be made to the major department chairman not later than March 1 for the following academic year.

Debaters Travel To Modesto Today

Modesto Junior College will be the host at a two-day invitational speech tournament Friday and Saturday, November 11-12, on the MJC campus.

Invitations have been extended to sixty-eight colleges and universities throughout Northern and Southern California, Nevada, and Hawaii.

Upper and lower division contests will be held in debate, oratory, and interpretation. The subject for debate will be the current national question, "that the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all its citizens." Each team will debate both sides of the topic. The orations may be on any subject. Dramatic interpretation will be constructed around a central theme, representing the views of two authors.

Awards will be given on a point basis. First place winners in each division will receive trophies. Second and third place winners will receive certificates. Sweepstake awards will be given to the top-ranking Junior and Senior College.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC PRESENTS "MAGNIFICAT" AND MOZART SINGSPIEL

Dual Operas...

COP Conservatory of Music will present two operas on Tuesday, November 15th, at 8:15 P.M. The operas are being presented by the opera workshop under the direction of Dr. Lucas Underwood.

The first opera on the program is Bach's "Magnificat" and the soloists will be: Carolyn Nordvik (Et exultavit), Betty Kirkpatrick (Quia respexit), Wendell Brooks (Quia fecit), Nancy Pilgrim and Ernie Puscher (Et misericordia). Included are William Thompson (Deposuit potentes), Nancy Pilgrim (Esurientes), Betty Kirkpatrick, Pauline Young, and Kathleen Lewis (Suscepit Israel).

The "Magnificat" by Bach ranks in dramatic power, in well proportioned and concentrated formal organization and in freshness of invention with the best in St. Matthew's Passion and the B Minor Mass. Written for Christmas of Bach's first year in Leipzig it has long been recognized as of imperishable value in its powerful directness of expression and in its supreme technical perfection. Of particular interest is how the theologian and the musician Bach so well support each other. This is made obvious in every programmatically nourished phrase and in the very manner in which the text is divided up between soli and chorus.

The second opera is "Bastien and Bastienne," a singspiel in one act. Also under the direction of Dr. Underwood, the Opera presents Linda Agee as Bastienne, Stephan Lewis as Colaes, and Ernie Vrenios plays Bastien.

This is the first opera by Mozart that saw the light of the stage. It is the work of a twelve-year-old prodigy and shows, of course, hardly a trace of the individualism of characters that make the later Mozart the supreme genius of the musical theatre. The work is a direct imitation of the then famous "Le Devin in Village" by Rousseau which demonstrated the ideals of simplicity and naturalness as a cure against the stilted and artificial style of the French Opera.

EDITORIAL

There were some unfortunate aspects about this year's Homecoming. One of the areas which definitely needs change is the building of floats. Every fraternity on the circle used the same general idea for their float. It seems to me that this duplication detracts from the color of the parade.

Obviously this situation could very easily be rectified. All that is needed is to have each group submit their ideas to a committee headed by some impartial person. It is very likely that someone on the faculty could be found to take on this job. In this manner there would be no duplication of floats possible and the interest of the parade would be heightened.

Another change I would like to see in Homecoming is the elimination of house decorations. I believe that the burden of constructing both a float and house decorations is too much for a living group to handle. House decorations seem much less important than participating in the parade. Perhaps the reason for this is the fact that so many more people watch the parade.

This problem could be dealt with in two ways. First, house decorations could be eliminated altogether. Second, they could be placed on a non-competitive basis. Either method would ease the burden on the living groups.

Letter To Editor

In reference to Mr. Olson's article of last week concerning the possibility of a chapel revolt, we would like to report that one has already taken place. We have declared our independence, not from God (hardly!), but rather from triteness, repetition, and dross. That aside, Mr. Olson's "Chapel on the Levee" might not be a bad idea. After all, God is on the levee, too.

Sincerely,
 Ruth Miller,
 Chapel Committee Chairman

Dear Ruth,

I am happy to learn that I have a reader. I am glad to hear also that God has joined the group on the levee. As far as triteness, repetition, and dross go, this is not only an admission that this trilogy has existed with the chapel in the past, but it is also a bland assertion that it no longer exists. I do not know whether or not this

STUDENT TEACHERS -

Those who expect to student teach next semester must attend a sign-up meeting on Thursday, November 17, at 11:00 a.m. Elementary education majors will meet in 110 Owen Hall. Secondary education people will gather in 106 Owen Hall.

Students who do not attend this meeting cannot expect to do their student teaching during the spring semester, according to Lloyd King, chairman, elementary education, and Carl Lang, chairman, secondary education.

Every time the average person makes ends meet, something break in the middle.

Dr. Ding Will Address COP Chapel Service

Dr. Edwin Ding, COP professor of philosophy and economics, will speak on "The Christian and Communism" at Tuesday morning chapel.

An alumnus of Fukien Christian University, University of Southern California, and Harvard University, Dr. Ding has recently returned from a sabbatical leave in Formosa.

Education major, Jinny Kahle, will serve as worship leader. Jinny is affiliated with Delta Gamma and Spurs. Also, she is an active campus debator. Delta Gamma members will be ushers.

There will be a Talk Back after chapel in the small dining room of Covell Hall.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Dear LuLu,

I am just furious at the hours that we have at the dorm. We have to be in so early that it's childish. All the girls were able to stay out later than that when they lived at home. It makes me so mad that I could scream. Isn't there something we can do?

Frustrated

Dear Frustrated,

I know what you mean, honey, but it is almost as easy to change girdles in a subway as it would be to change those hours. There is only one solution.—Start earlier.

Things were really wonderful this weekend for Homecoming. A lot of people complained about the rain and everything, but you have to look on the bright side of things. A little rain just helps to force things indoors where they belong in the first place.

I thought that the game was just scrumptious. All those rugged men running around and being strong. It is really an inspiration to watch all those muscular men play football. You girls must get a date with a football player or you haven't lived.

Incidentally, they should make those plastic sacks so that you cannot see through them. I mean, after all, they keep the rain out, but there are other things that count.

Ski Club Will Meet

The second ski club meeting will convene at 4:00 P.M., Thursday, November 17. The location of this meeting will be room 210 of the administration building. A two dollar entrance fee will be collected at this meeting to pay for patches, club cards, and publicity. At this time we will have completed plans for a kick-off ski party and definite plans for a ski trip. All enthusiasts from novice to expert are cordially invited.

Ed Students Granted Second Scholarship

A second $400 scholarship is available for next year's juniors and seniors majoring in elementary education, according to Dean Marc Jantzen of the School of Education. The California Congress of Parents and Teachers grants money to institutions that train students for teaching. Last year Pacific trained over 100 in the field of elementary teaching. This qualifies COP for money for a second scholarship.

As well as the two elementary education scholarships, a grant of $400 is available to one of this year's seniors for graduate study next year in the field of secondary education. Application for these scholarships may be made between now and March 1, 1961, through Mrs. Pearl Piper, scholarships secretary.

But those intentions are completely obliterated in the text and the music of Mozart. "Bastien and Bastienne" depends entirely on make-believe and stage convention. For the rest it lives on the charm and grace that are uniquely Mozart, particularly when the soli drop the pretensions of arias and approach the characters of songs.

Phi Sigma Tau News

COP's chapter of Phi Sigma Tau, a national philosophy honorary society, has had its 1959 schedule of meetings published in the October issue of the Phi Sigma Tau Newsletter. This publication is widely distributed amongst chapters of the national society and has recognized authority in the area of club programs.

Also, the Pacific chapter is currently sponsoring a national annual essay contest. This year, the essay topic is "Cultural Crisis." The winner of the contest, open to the general public, receives room, board, and tuition at a session of the annual Philosophy Institute, held at Asilomar.

Pacific's Phi Sigma Tau chapter meets in conjunction with the Philosophy Club, the oldest departmental group on campus. For practical purposes, membership is limited to twenty, although thirty have paid dues this year. All members are majoring in philosophy.

Throughout the college year, several Phi Sigma Tau meetings are open to all interested students. Periodically, other sessions are held, open only to registered membership.

RAIN, RECORDS, AND VICTORY

By DEL ALBERTI

I sat with the rain dripping off my derby, a coke diluted with rain drops in one hand and a soggy hot dog in the other. The steady rain glistened in the bright stadium light. It fell upon the football field, already a sea of mud; it fell and ran in oozy rivulets on the north banks of the stadium; it fell upon the mud-covered players upon the field, and the coaches, and the spectators . . . and it kept falling.

Noah might have sailed his ark under the goalposts, or a fishing fleet from San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf might have cast their bait on the fifty yard line. But this didn't happen.

Amidst the mud and muck of the Homecoming encounter, a senior from Brentwood, California, Herman Urenda, set a new Pacific Memorial Stadium record. Early in the second quarter, Urenda took a Spartan kickoff at the Pacific ten yard line and rambled 90 yards up the muddy field for a Tiger touchdown. Urenda's spectacular run was the longest kickoff return since Cincinnati's Babe Ruth returned a Tiger kickoff for 50 yards in 1956 at the Pacific bowl.

I read further down my rain-logged football program and noted a few more stadium records. Eddie Macon dominated the "stat" columns in the first years of Pacific Memorial Stadium, which was completed in 1950. The stadium's longest punt return, 100 yards, was chalked up by Macon in 1950 against Boston University. The following season Macon scored a total of 30 points in one game, including 5 touchdowns, both standing stadium records, against Denver.

In the 1958 San Jose State-Pacific traditional, left half-back, Dick Bass, set two stadium statistic marks. Bass holds the most total yards rushing record with 253 yards, and the most net yards rushing record, 226 yards. Both these records were set in this game, in which the Bengals defeated the Spartans, 26-13, before 28,000 football fans.

Pacific quarterback, Tom Flores, set a number of single game records in the 1956 San Jose State game. Flores completed 12 out of 14 pass attempts for a percentage of 85.7. The ace quarterback also threw three touchdown passes in the 1956 contest with the Spartans. The Tigers won this game, 34-7. The following season, Flores set another stadium mark against Tulsa with 36 attempted passes.

The stadium attendance mark was set in the 1951 USF-COP entanglement, when 41,607 spectators overflowed the stadium. In

GO TIGERS

UPSET-MINDED TIGERS HOST UNDEFEATED AGGIES

College of the Pacific's dampened Tigers, who proved they weren't afraid of water, or the Spartans of San Jose State last weekend, play host to the undefeated Utah State Aggies tomorrow evening on the Memorial Stadium pond. Kickoff time is set for 8:00 p.m.

Utah State, which last week cinched no worse than a tie in the rough and tumble Skyline Conference by dumping Wyoming 17 to 13, continues to maintain its place as the Nation's number one rushing team.

In establishing their position as conference leader last weekend, the Aggies surprised all, with particular emphasis on victim Wyoming, by proving to everyone and anyone concerned that they are one of the most versatile ball clubs in the Rocky Mountain area. Rushing, always their proven offensive weapon, as well you might expect, took a back seat to passing and a crucial field goal in that encounter.

Doing the passing was a familiar name in the national sports scene, Dolph Camilli Jr. Dolph Jr., the son of the former Brooklyn Dodger great, did some pitching of his own from his quarterback position, hitting on 3 of 6 pass attempts, all in critical game situations.

Another familiar name in the Utah State backfield is that of right halfback Tom Larscheid. Tom, younger brother of former COP ace halfback Jack Larscheid, who is presently starring for the Oakland Raiders, is one of the leading collegiate runners in the Nation and a 5-8, 166 pound counterpart of his older brother.

Doing the kicking for Utah State and a definite threat to the Bengal end zone is less known, but equally dangerous, fullback Lamont Millar. This junior athlete was seventh in the nation in punting last year, averaging 44.6 yards per kick, and is a set field-goal threat.

Utah State, with this formidable trio of big name backfield standouts and an imposing line to match, will be taking on a Tiger team which seems to have reached well-balanced, mid-season maturity.

In last Saturday night's rain deluged contest, the underdog Tigers displayed this maturity in outplaying and out-fighting the heavily favored Spartans 26 to 20, before a soggy but enthusiastic Homecoming crowd of 15,000.

Herman Urenda, intercepting a desperation San Jose pass in the last few minutes and returning a kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown; durable Dick Scott scoring three touchdowns and carrying the ball 27 times; and the entire first two units of the interior line for superior blocking and play execution under adverse environmental conditions, combined for the seventh successive San Jose defeat by College of the Pacific and retention of the hallowed victory bell.

In a contest that was a great deal more than a football game between two independent colleges, the Tigers emerged victorious and this game, Ollie Matson, University of San Francisco flash, carried the ball 29 times for a standing stadium record.

The rain is still falling and my program is drenched. The house that LeBaron started building and Bass finished is resembling a muddy lake. Let it rain! Hey, coke boy, make that two more cokes.

Intramural Swimming Competition Scheduled

Tuesday, November 22, will mark the beginning of intramural swimming competition at Pacific. Trials will be held on the 22nd with the final entrants swimming off against each other for top honors on Wednesday, November 28. Trial and final events will get under way at 4:15.

The 50 yard free style, butterfly, backstroke and breast stroke events, plus 75 yard individual medley and 100 yard free style will be held during the trials. The finals in diving are also slated on the 22nd.

Finals in these event plus the 150 yard medley, 200 yard free style relay and 220 yard free style will be staged Wednesday of the following week.

Individual events will be scored on a 5-3-2-1 basis while relays will be judged on a 10-6-4-2 system. Officials have announced that entrants will be allowed to participate in three individual events plus one relay or two individual and two relay events. Participants must come from men's living groups and must not have a varsity letter in swimming.

Currently the tennis intramurals are in action. First round action involving two out of three set competition was completed on Wednesday. Entrants are currently engaged in quarter-final play.

Football action ended this week. Although results were not available at this edition, West Hall has the championship evidently wrapped up. Sporting a perfect 6-0 record and a battle with Archania this week, the worst West Hall boosted their win-loss record over the .500 mark for the first time this season at 4 wins and 3 losses.

The Aggies, who still have their traditional climax with the University of Utah in front of them, have had no trouble in maintaining a .500 mark as they've recorded eight straight wins and remain as one of the five major undefeated teams in college grid circles.

If the past two games against Idaho and San Jose State have been any indication, tomorrow night's clash with famous names, exciting action, upset-conditioned Pacific in the familiar spoiler's role, and a quick prayer for good weather, should certainly be worthy of genuinely deserved fan support.

could do would be to tie Delta Upsilon and Rhizomia, currently deadlocked for second place at 5-1. If West Hall lost, and Delta Upsilon and Rhizomia both won, West would still be awarded the crown by virtue of its victories over the two other clubs. Following these three in the standings are: South Hall, Phi Delta Chi, North Hall and Archania.

There are two kinds of cleverness, and both are priceless. One consists of thinking of a bright remark in time to say it. The other consists of thinking of it in time not to say it.

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill-in and mail this coupon.

FROSH UPSET BY TRADITIONAL FOE

As far as the College of the Pacific freshmen football team is concerned, history did not repeat itself last Friday afternoon as the Ticubs lost a 27-8 contest to the San Jose State frosh at San Jose.

Last year the Ticubs handed the Spartans a 26-7 defeat in the memory-filled and condemned Baxter Stadium. Leading the attack were Jack Sparrow, who ran for one touchdown and passed for another, and Duane Isetti, who returned a punt 64 yards for a touchdown.

This year Sparrow is the Tigers' third string quarterback. As for Isetti, his football future is a question mark due to an injured spleen received in fall camp.

In the game last Friday the Ticubs could never untrack themselves. The Spartans scored the first time they had the ball. The drive covered 63 yards with halfback Bob Farris going up the middle for the final 14 yards. Just before the half ended Farris again scored on an eight yard pass play.

The Spartans again scored in the third quarter on a 47 yard romp by halfback Tom Cousey. In the final period Cousey again scored on an eight yard shot over tackle.

With two minutes left, the Ticubs started a 44 yard drive of their own. Passes from quarterback Howie Campbell to Ted Watkins carried the ball to the one where Campbell scored on a quarterback sneak. Russ Pinching passed to Ted White for the two points.

Again it was the same old problem of the Ticubs lacking manpower. With only 17 players on the squad's roster the starters just ran out of gas.

As for the coaching staff point of view there was no comment. The only problem was that the Ticubs started too late. In the last two games they jumped out to an early lead and hung on till the final gun.

The eight points scored by the Ticubs was the lowest output of the season. The previous high was 32 points against Deuel Institute last week.

The loss evens the Ticubs record at two wins and two losses with two games left to play.

Poloists Drop Two

The College of the Pacific water polo team suffered two close defeats last week at the hands of San Francisco State College and the Pacific alumni.

San Francisco State edged Pacific's team 12 to 11 to take over second place in the league standings.

The second defeat of the week was at the hands of the alumni 15 to 12. This annual match was marked by the well known college spirit which was evident throughout the encounter between the alumni and the undergraduates, as student coach John Felix of the poloists, scored 12 of the alumni's 15 markers.

A FASCINATING FIELD—WOMEN'S SPORTS

At Pacific women's sports are divided into three classes: intramural, extramural, and special activities. All these sports are sponsored by Women's Recreation Association. WRA is a part of the Pacific Student Association and receives financial support through the student body.

The intramural activities are those within the school, between classes and living groups. The intramural sports include swimming, softball, and basketball, which take place during the fall, and volleyball, which will take place during the spring. There is an intramural basketball tournament going on at the present time. It began on November 10th and will continue on through the 14 and 15.

The extramural activities are those taking place between schools. These include swimming, hockey, badminton, and basketball during the fall and volleyball, individual sports, and softball in the spring.

On November 12 there is a badminton tournament at Chico State, and on November 17 there will be a hockey game with Stockton Jr. College.

Anyone who is interested in extramural activities should contact Sue Mossler at Zeta Phi and those interested in intramural should contact Ellen McLarnin at Delta Delta.

The special events include those between classes and the bicycle picnic to be held in the spring.

COP is the president school of CARFCW (California Athletic and Recreation Federation for College Women) and is in charge of its convention to be held in March at Asilomar. There are sixty-five member colleges and each college sends about six delegates. Karen Arverson from COP is the student president.

At this conference, there will be a general discussion on women in college athletics. Pacific can send as many delegates as would like to go. If you are interested in going, contact Sally Lemos at Zeta Phi.

College of the Pacific also has co-educational sports events in tennis, badminton, and volleyball.

The tennis tournament is in progress now, and the badminton and volleyball tournaments will take place in the spring.

Next spring the women hope to begin interest groups for more advanced students. They are not of a class nature, but will be handled by upper division Physical Education majors.

WRA PLANS FALL ACTIVITIES

WRA intramural basketball games are off to a good start this year with Ellen McLarnin of Tri Delta as coordinator.

The first of three games was played last evening. More games will follow on Nov. 14 and 15.
