News Analysis

By ART CARFAGNI

One of the main topics of discussion at the famous Yalta Big Three Conference was the final settlement of the long disputed Polish situation.

CURZON LINE

At this time, the three men decided that Russia should get all of the territory up to the Curzon Line, a boundary marked off by the British foreign minister of that name in 1920. For this loss of land, Poland would get parts of East Prussia and of East Germany, at least up to the Oder River.

As for the government, it would be composed of the more "democratic" elements of both the Warsaw, formerly the Lublin Committee, and the London Government-in-exile. Too, monetary reparations were promised to the new Poland.

GOOD SOLUTION

To many in Britain and in the U. S. this was a good solution of a ticklish problem, and it too afforded considerable salvation of prestige for the Western Powers, as it was obvious that the USSR was to get many wide concessions from Poland.

NO!

However, on Tuesday comes the news that the London government flatly refuses to abide by the "suggestions" put forth by the three suggestors, and announced that it would not cede Polish territory or talk of any type of settlement while troops of the USSR remained on Polish territory. Continuing, the exile government charged the conference with a breach of faith, and said that the agreement was not in keeping with the principle of the Atlantic Charter, which by the way was given a pat on the back at Yalta. Furthermore, the London regime declared itself the only recognized Polish government—disregarding the Lublin group.

Now this throws a diplomatic monkey wrench into the whole proceedings, as what was thought to be a settled question, again flares up as a possible ground for a new Big Three disagreement. However, the solution will probably come fast and be simple, that is from the Russian outlook. The thing to watch for will be an announcement from Washington and London that if the exile government remains adamant and does not enter into the spirit of things, they will have to withdraw recognition and in effect let Russia have a freer hand, if that is possible. So the most probable thing is that after a series of discussions, the London regime will be brought about

Attention! J. C. Students

Pre-registration for the Junior College ended officially last Tuesday, February 14. The new term will begin March 5. Within three weeks after this time, on March 23, students may add courses to their program.

A person may drop any given course within six weeks after the semester has begun. If after the six week period he still wants to drop, he may get a withdrawal only if he has a passing grade. If the student is receiving an "F" then an "F" will be recorded.

If it is necessary to petition out of a class, slips may be obtained in the registrars office. The instructors' signatures must be obtained as well as that of the counselor. Then the slip must be taken to the registrars office for approval.

Individual information may be obtained from Mr. Windmiller, the registrar.

ATTENTION!

The position of Editor and Business Manager of the PACIFIC WEEKLY are now open for applications.

Turn in applications to the Weekly office.

Expanded Summer Program Offered To C.O.P. Students

Plans for an expanded program of studies, which will enable college students to earn twelve units of work in ten weeks, or six units of work in five weeks, have been announced by Dr. J. Marc Jantzen, dean of the Summer Session.

Two special features are to be offered. One is a speech clinic-laboratory, where the Speech Department will offer summer school students an opportunity of observation as well as actual participation in learning corrective speech techniques, in addition to courses in theatre, in radio and in public speaking. The other is a workshop in elementary curriculum, though this will be offered during the first five weeks only.

Courses will be given in such fields as art, Bible, education, English, history, music, philosophy, physical education, political science, psychology, speech, and zoology, and will meet the needs to fulfill partial requirements for the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Music degrees; Master of Arts and Master of Music degrees; elementary teaching credentials; secondary teaching credentials; dental; secondary administration credential, and the special supervisory credential.

The first five-week session will start June 25 and end July 27. The second will start July 30 and end August 31.

The Summer School Bulletin, giving complete information of staff members and course offerings, will be published during March or April.

Draper and Adler Coming in March

Talented Companions Coming To High School Auditorium

Coming Saturday evening March 3rd to the Stockton High School auditorium, is another worth while attraction of the Stockton Music Series, those talented companions of the stage, Paul Draper, tap dancer supreme and Larry Adler, master of the harmonica. The New Yorker claims "their show is a wow." The duo made their first joint appearance in Chicago in 1940 and since then they have skyrocketed to fame by catching the public eye and interest. Their show is original and imaginative.

FROM THE PRESS

Virtuosity, versatility, and verve were all over the place—a capacity audience on hand—a highly interesting and original performance.—Philadelphia, Pa., Inquirer. The program was a refreshing change from concert routine—original, witty, ingratiating, and satisfying. The two artists provided superlative entertainment. — New Orleans, La., Times-Picayune. They performed to a packed, standing-room—(Continued on page 3)

TEN STUDENTS TO BE TEACHERS NEXT SEMESTER

Ten students are completing all the requirements for a teaching credential at the close of the present term, according to word from Dean Jantzen of the School of Education. Five students will receive the General Elementary Credential. These are Maxine Barks, Verle Goble, Anita Perry Reed, Lois Swift, and Martha Zeff. The following four will receive the General Secondary Credential: Eleanor Bertuleit, Bettygene Otto, Dorothy Thompson, and Edward D. Wood. Patricia Ellerson will receive a Special Secondary Credential in Home-making.

Dean Jantzen emphasizes that teaching is essential war work, and any student interested in working with young people should investigate the opportunities that teaching provides. A recent survey shows that the teacher shortage in the elementary schools of California is currently estimated at more than 3000 teachers and in the secondary schools at more than 1600. Students interested in going into teaching should see Dean Jantzen in Room 103 in the Administration Building.

By WAYNE PERRY

The fall semester is rapidly drawing to a close, and your snarling tiger has decided to finish off this term with the column you are reading. (Do I hear sighs of relief from scattered sources?)

It's been great fun writing little stories and telling little incidents (?) about the fellows who live at 112 W. Euclid, and the other civilian fellows on campus. Of course, none of it has been true except those items concerning my room-mate, Billy Graves. (He's working at Thor's tonight, so I can write anything I want about him).

Then, too, you've seen little excerpts from the never-dull, daily life of that fountainhead of energy—Don Noble. He never fails to amaze me with his mental feats. (He falls down the stairs on the average of twice a day because he always forgets that he lives on the second floor).

I've also included notes on the doings of big Jack Lyons, Don Ambler, and Dick Johnsen.

Always in evidence around Pacific, too, are Lyman Burk and Hector Pratt—the men with the yells and the bounce for Pacific's games. (Burk is a philosopher on the side, too).

And now we come to Ed Spiess, who walks meditatively around the campus; Don Blake and Warren Hill, of the "muscles"; Julio Harris, the photographer who "Made Sammy Run"; Bill Roberts, with the big grin and happy greeting for everyone; and our own Hank Scrimsher of the up-swept hair-do.

THAT'S ALL

It's been a good semester with lots of activities and lots of creative effort. There is one thought that we should keep in mind—college life is incomplete without activities of all sorts, but the principal reason for being in college is to work and learn. It's well not to lose sight of that fact.

So now it's closing time, and your Tiger snarls a friendly farewell—until later.

THAT'S LIFE

The Hall was more noisy than ever and every doorway was jammed with suitcases, checkered laundry bags, trunks, and tennis rackets. As June made her way through the mess she shouted good-byes through the open doors of her friends' rooms. "Bye Sue, take good care of my black hat, Mom would kill me if she knew I loaned it." "See you in a week Max. Have a good time in the city, and p-l-e-a-s-e try to find those art supplies for me. Don't forget to write a few lines if you get a chance to come up my way next week, and Janie, tell Fred hello for me." As she walked jauntily down the stairs and out towards the yellow cab she breathed a sigh of relief. Another semester had ended.

AT THE DEPOT

At the depot the people shuffled up and down waiting for the train. She heard the train whistle and turned her head to watch the silver machine coming faster and faster towards her. The wheels screeched to a stop and one by one the people pushed her towards the platform, and soon June found herself within the train.

HOME AGAIN

Outside the scenery passed swiftly, each mile was bringing her closer to home. Home to all the familiar things. It would be good to sleep and eat! That was all she would do for nine whole days. When she tired of sleeping she would eat and when she grew tired of eating she would sleep. Her nice comfortable bed with springs and a thick mattress, and mom's fried chicken dinners—that was home. There would be no studying, no term papers, no exams. Life will be peaceful again.

COLLEGE WAS BEHIND

College was behind her and soon she would see mom and dad, her home, her tiny black dog, and her own room with the flowered bedspreads and white curtains. Yes, it will all be the same. Her folks, her home, her dog, her room. Nothing will have changed. She will be the same too. Well, almost. Just more tired than before. Her head nodded, and she smiled—she was going home.

FORMER PACIFICITES

By Norma Sprague

As you have probably already surmised from every available space in this Weekly, this is the last edition of the semester, but we hope to have all of you back . . . struggling through these pages once more when the presses start to roll at the beginning of the new semester. But to those of you who may be leaving us, this message is directed. Don't hesitate to write a line or two now and then to let us know where you are and what you are doing when you once become a Former Pacificite!

Another thing that you have probably guessed is that the Lt. Irvine Sprague, 23, pictured here is a relation, and you are right. He is my big brother . . . so please permit me to be rightfully proud of his new gold bars. While here at Pacific he was the Chairman of the Publications committee, business manager of the Weekly, and an active member of Rho Lambda Phi. A former Stockton Record City Hall reporter, Lt. Sprague went into the army in an Anti-Aircraft Unit at Camp Haan in April 1943.

LT. SPRAGUE

After 5 months he entered the Army Specialized Training Program at University of Indiana for 7 more months. From there he went to Camp Campbell, Kentucky, to join the Armored Field Artillery. He was commissioned a 2nd Lt. in the Infantry on Jan. 26, at Fort Benning, Georgia. Last Friday he reported to Fort Ord for overseas duty after spending a week with his family here in Stockton.

PROMOTION

Marine Sergeant James L. Dunphy has been promoted to that rank at Marine Fleet Air West Coast, Naval Air Station, San Diego, California. He obtained an Associate of Arts degree here.

"We're somewhere in New Guinea"

Where the sun is like a curse,
And each long day is followed
By another slightly worse.

We're somewhere in New Guinea
Where the ants and lizards play,
And a hundred fresh mosquitos

Replace each one you slay.
So take me back to old New York
For that my soul I'd sell

Because this God forsaken jungle
Is a substitute for Hell."

(The above poem was sent to me by a friend that was based in the Pacific area. The fellow, Casey by name, came from New York and talked like one of the original Dead End Kids and it is safe to say that he did not write the above poem so if any one knows the author I will give them one good five-cent cigar if evidence supporting the claim is submitted with the author's name.)

The orders for Mid-Shipmen Schools came and all of the prospective Mid-Shipmen know where they will take their training. Cornell, Columbia, "Oil-school"—New Jersey, Fort Skyler, Notre Dame and Princeton are the schools that were assigned.

They carefully carried the wooden box out of the hospital and loaded it into the hearse.

ANCHORS AWEIGH

Mary Yelland C.O.P. Student, Joins WAVES

Mary Alice Yelland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Yelland of Clarksburg, California, and a junior at C.O.P., signed with the Waves at the recruiting office in Stockton on January 16.

After being sworn in, during the latter part of this month, she expects to be sent to Hunter College in New York, where she will undergo her basic training.

If her preference is taken into consideration, she will be placed in the Hospital Corps.

Mary Alice will be the third from her family to join the Navy, having a sister who is a Lt. Jg. serving in the Waves, and a brother, who is a Lt., now somewhere in the South Pacific.

Former Pacificites

Kerr walking around campus in her Wave uniform at the beginning of this week? Jerri was a student of C.O.P. while on our campus and a member of Tau Kappa Kappa. With her was Karl Bartle Phm. 2/c, her fiancé, who was here last summer.

From Fresno, California comes the news that Franklin H. Wilbur was promoted to rank of Captain by order of Colonel Joseph C. Moore, commanding officer of Hammer Field, Fresno. Capt. Wilbur left our campus on Nov. 7, 1942 to enlist in the Air Corps.

Another promotion came to light this week. William I. Stone has been promoted to First Lieutenant in the US AAF. After graduating from C.O.P. in 1941, Lt. Stone was assigned to the Air Transport Command in the Pacific. Prior to being selected for Officer Candidate School. He received his commission June 24, 1944, at Miami Beach, Florida, and returned to the Pacific Division of the ATC for duty.

"THE WOMEN"

Under the heading of "The Women" this week comes this little item. Jeanne Marie Marblestone, graduate student in 1942-43, who was on campus last week, is at present a cryptanalyst in the Department of War in Washington, D. C. She reports that Margaret Beatty, a graduate student during the same year, is also employed by the War Department.

to the Big Three's way of thinking, or else!

FRANCE

Another thing decided at Yalta was that France should finally take her place as the fourth of the "Big" series. An invitation was extended to deGaulle to join the council which will control Germany after the war. No doubt this commission will consign to France the control of the much disputed left bank of the Rhine. However, the British will get the industries of the Ruhr.

SAN FRANCISCO

Also, it was a great day for Californians at the Yalta conference, as San Francisco was chosen as the place for the next talks on post-war security, talks involving most of the United Nations.

The talks will follow the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, in that it will attempt to finish what was started here. It will probably be at the foreign minister level, as it was announced that Secretary of State Stettinius will represent the U. S. The meeting is scheduled to start April 25.

Don't blame me for the above—it is straight from Sophomore Hall.

RADIO TOKYO

Sunday morning a short wave broadcast was heard from Tokyo, Japan. The announcer sounded like a Republican campaign manager but not quite as vehement. Among other things, it seems that President Roosevelt does not use Ipana tooth paste and is not running the war in the most efficient manner.

It is astounding to think that Japan would spend time and money broadcasting stuff that is of value only as comic material to us. It is also good to live in a country where you can listen to what you wish and judge its value for your self. America has made no mistake in placing confidence in her masses of common men.

Flag waving, you say? Maybe—but there is no other country like the U.S.A.—as people find out when they leave her.

DEACON SWIFT

Don Swift was born in Illinois but has adopted California as his home. The twenty-one year old "girls choice" was surprised to have been selected by the campus cuties as their pin up boy. Don is a star basketball player but during the interview he said that tennis was his favorite sport.

Swift wants to be a minister and said, "I want to work in Hollywood where I can do the most good." Concerning his ideal girl Don quoted the bible and said "I want a girl that is in the minds of all."

The Deacon, as he is affectionately called, was a radio man and gunner on a Navy dive bomber

"The news and whereabouts of old friends and classmates; the goings on around the campus and Stockton are most welcome." These words were taken from a letter sent home by Al Epp, who is "playing cops and robbers" in the South Pacific. He can be reached as Lieut. A. G. Epp; VB-81; FPO. San Francisco, California. Two years ago he also served as an instructor at the Naval Air Base at Livermore.

Digressing a bit, let me add that with the help of two former Pacificites who are back on campus, Don Edwards and Johnny Camicia, the basketball team has had and is having a very successful season.

PILOT

A pilot in the South Pacific is the position now held by Elmer Harvey. He has another brother in that theatre, and a third brother is in the states with the Navy and married to former Pacificite, Marilyn Van Sandt Harvey.

Co-Eds Turn Models On February 23rd

As a result of the merchandising class' recent trip to San Francisco and their tour of the Koret Clothing Company the girls are staging a fashion show for the Philamthean Club and their guests on Friday, February 23.

Koret and Company is furnishing the clothes and is sending their advertising manager to Stockton to stage the show and coach the girls.

The girls are a little worried as this has to be a professional job. If you see any of them with books on their heads or trying to glide down the stairs, pick them up, wish them luck and encourage them to try again.

Tonight, the Omicron Chapter of Beta Beta Beta will hold its final meeting of this semester, at which time officers for the coming semester will be chosen. The elections will be held at an informal gathering to be held in the SCA at 4:30 p. m.

Following this, the entire group will migrate down town for the post-election dinner, the place of which not yet having been decided.

REVIEW PAST SEMESTER

This semester, much has been accomplished as the Tri Bete meeting, and the members envision a great series of doing for the Spring. At next semester's first meeting, the members found qualified for advancement from provisional to full status and newcomers will be welcomed at the formal initiation ceremonies. Dr. Alden Noble is the faculty adviser.

Among the supporting cast are: Edith King as Emilia, Ralph Clanton as Cassio, Don Keefer as Roderigo, Francis Compton as Brabantino, Robert E. Perry as Lodovica and Louis Lytton as the Duke. Paul Robeson is the first negro actor ever to play Othello. He played it with great success to London audiences a few years ago. The sum total of this array of talent, under Margaret Webster's canny direction, has made the current production of "Othello" the longest run production of any Shakespearean play in the history of the American theatre and bids fair to become the highlight of the Stockton theatrical season.

DeMarcus Brown states, "I consider 'Othello' the finest thing theratricaucy that has come to the coast in a good many seasons. I consider the opportunity of seeing a Shakespeare production like 'Othello' as valuable as any one unit course in English Literature."

Tickets and reservations are on sale now at Fuhrman's.

Tigers Triumph; Are City Champs

Behind one of the smoothest working offenses seen this season the College of Pacific Tigers walloped the Stockton Field Flyers 50-40 last Saturday night and thereby won the City of Stockton basketball championship.

It was a first half flurry of baskets that won the game for the Tigers. With Stan Reames, Don Edwards, and Stan McWilliams hitting the hoop from every corner of the court, Pacific ran up a 28-11 lead, and from then on in the local quintet coasted home.

Bengals Ready To Whip Fresno

Without the services of high-scoring Stan McWilliams, the Pacific Tigers tangle with the cagers from Fresno State tonight and tomorrow night at the local pavilion. Even without "Mac" the local casaba kids are heavy favorites to trample on Pacific's traditional rivals.

Leading the attack for the Kjeldsen-coached quintet will be Don "Pappy" Edwards. Don is just three points short of last year's scoring record, and he will be out to go way over the top. At the other forward position will be "Wild Man" Bill Lewis, who has varied his sharpshooting technique from forward to guard all season.

At the pivot post will be dependable Stan Reames, one of the best ball-hawks and basket-makers in these parts. As usual the guard posts will be capably filled by red-headed Wayne Hardin, who held high-scoring Chet McNabb to six points last week, and Don "Deac" Swift, who held himself scoreless last Saturday.

The curious custom of ship burial has preserved much historical information about Norway's ancient Vikings.

By TOM SPRAGUE

Drinking milk and Pepsi-Cola—How does it feel when your school has a championship basketball team? Do you feel any differently than you did last week at this time?

I guess not, but the fact of the matter still remains that the College of Pacific basketball team, coached by Chris Kjeldsen, became the champions of the City of Stockton by defeating the Stockton Field Flyers, 50-40, in a Saturday night game at the Pacific Pavilion last week. It was a good game, just as championship games should be. In fact, the Flyers matched the Tigers point for point during the second half, but the Tigers had run up a 10 point lead during the first minutes of the game.

Now that our Tigers are champs of the city, maybe we could arrange a few games with teams in other parts of the county and become the official champions of the San Joaquin County. We have a good ball team, and we might as well make hay while the sun shines. Of course, Pacific will no longer have Stan McWilliams to toss the points through the basket for us, at least until after the war, but Pacific's first five is still capable of giving trouble to many teams. The Tigers meet Fresno State in the final games of the 1945 season tonight and tomorrow night in the Pacific gym, and the fans will be able to see how the team will function without Mac.

Our loss is the army's gain, or something.

been put into effect before the start of the season, Pacific might have won a greater percentage of their games, as Pacific had their share of long shot artists. Stan McWilliams, of course, could sink plenty from outside the 21 foot mark, and while Don Edwards and Stan Reames made most of their points from in closer, Wayne Hardin and Bill Lewis are adept at sinking long shots. Don Swift would rather play a defensive game, but if called upon, he too could make the necessary field goals.

But there is no sense in crying over spilt basketballs, as the season is very close to over, and the rules haven't been changed, and they probably won't be for some time to come.

CITY BASEBALL

Re-organization of the California State League will give baseball fans a chance to see some big league competition in action. Frankie Crosetti of the Yankees and Bill Werle and Bob Joyce of the Seals as well as Mike McCormick from the Reds will be here. But it might also give some of the local boys a chance to play

Cagers Set Up Great Record

As we all know, Pacific has had a very successful casaba season this year, but do we know how good our team has been? Our basketballers have racked up fifteen victories as compared with six defeats and four of those losses occurred in our first six games.

Our cagers started the season off on the wrong foot by losing to the Presidio five, 37-35. Pacific recently got revenge for that defeat by whipping the Presidio team 60-29. After the first game the Tigers had a rocky sort of time. We smothered the Vernalis NAS, Harmon General Hospital, and Moffett Field, while we dropped decisions to the Livermore Naval Base, Saint Marys Pre-Flight, and the Alameda Coast Guard.

After this early season up-and-down business, the Tigers won seven games in a row, routing Livermore in a return engagement and doing the same thing to Moffett Field. This string of triumphs also included double victories over Mare Island and San Jose.

The series of wins was halted by Saint Marys Pre-Flight, whose quintet handed C.O.P. a shellacking for the second time during the season, 47-33. Since that time, however, Pacific has lost but one game, the California battle.

Recently the Tiger five has hung up a record of four consecutive triumphs including wins over Hamilton Field, 54-39, Fairfield Airfield, 53-52, (Pacific trimmed these flyers earlier, 40-36), and the Stockton Field Flyers last Saturday, 50-40.

ball with these big shots. The games will be held only on the week-ends, and maybe some of our students could gain a berth on the team.

Who knows? The shadow knows.

Military Psychoneuroses Is Topic For Lecture Given by Col. Zeifert

By IRIS SCRIBNER

"Military Psychoneuroses" was the topic of a lecture given by Lt. Col. Mark Zeifert for the V-12 men and the students of the various psychology classes on Thursday, February 8th, 1945. Col. Zeifert is the chief of the neuro-psychiatric branch at Hammond General Hospital at Modesto.

INTRODUCTION

In his introduction, Col. Zeifert pointed out that there are a number of stresses and tension-producing situations that exist in military life that do not exist in civilian life. These situations must be met by men entering the service. How they adjust to them is largely the deciding factor in their future career.

"There are five fundamental psychological periods in a life of a soldier," Col. Zeifert stated, "and in each one of these periods there are many hazards that each man must meet and adjust to in order to become at all successful in his military career."

FIRST PERIOD

The first of the psychological periods is that of basic training. During this period the soldier or sailor has to become used to being away from home, sleeping in barracks, and all the other discomforts of a regimented life. He also must learn to subordinate his wants to those of the group. According to Col. Zeifert this is one of the most trying parts of the individual's military career.

The second period is the indoctrination or training school period. In addition to all the problems of the first period there are many more during this one. The individual must meet increased responsibility, sex conflicts and deprivations, the monotony of life, especially if the camp is located in a desolate region; and, above all, he must learn to kill. This, according to Col. Zeifert, presents a very great problem due to the fact that during most of his past life, the individual has been taught that it is wrong to kill. Now, he is thrown into a new environment in which he is told that it is glorious and courageous to kill, that he is doing it for his country. Many men never do completely adjust to this situation, and this is one of the main causes of military psychoneuroses.

PRE-ENGAGEMENT PERIOD

The pre-engagement period is the third psychological period. In it the serviceman has to cope with the fact that he does not have sufficient training, the feeling that he will not be able to do his job well enough, wild rumors, poor sanitation facilities, and the possibility of being killed or maimed for life. This is a period of mental uncertainty for the individual as it is a period of waiting for combat, waiting to be transferred, waiting for what is to happen next.

The pre-engagement period is a period of waiting to enter the fourth period or the combat period. This is the most trying period of all in the life of a soldier or sailor, for it is during this time that his whole future is at stake. The serviceman must become reconciled to all the horrible noises of war such as bombs, exploding shells, etc. There is the very real fear of being afraid, of being ashamed of being afraid. There are the periods of physical exhaustion, of being cold, hungry, and wet, and becoming susceptible to all sorts of diseases.

Winners of Freshman-Sophomore Election Posted on Bulletin

Freshman and Sophomore officer elections were repeated yesterday, since it was impossible to obtain majority votes for the various candidates last week with so many candidates running. Only one candidate, Charlotte Mercereau, received a majority vote. She will be vice-president of the sophomore class next semester.

The other offices were run off between the two highest candidates for each office. For the presidency of the freshman class, Lyman Burk competed against J. Hampton Ford. For vice-president, Julio Harris and Dorothy Morely were the highest candidates. For secretary, Stella Spanos and Patty Lou Peters, and for treasurer, Byron Meyers and Warren Hill. For the presidency of the Sophomore class, Barbara Roth and Helen Graham ran against each other.

As has been mentioned, the vice-presidency was determined in the first election. Dorothy Gelatt and Arlene Jensen were opponents for the office of secretary.

FALSE CAMERA SNAPS PHOTOG, SURPRISES CLASS

"For purpose of demonstration, I'll use this paper wrapped around a spool as a film and this burned out globe as a flash. Of course, you'll understand that there is no battery in the flash nor film in the camera, so you needn't worry when I pretend to snap your picture." Thus spoke Lee Donlin when giving an object speech on photography before Professor Betz's 8:55 speech class a couple weeks ago.

You can imagine the surprise of the class when the button was pushed and a flash appeared that nearly blinded everyone present. The speaker's apology was that he didn't know there was a live battery in the flash.

The results of that supposedly empty camera and powerless flash came out last Monday when the unposed snap was passed around in the classroom.

Anyway Donlin admits that now he knows how interested or uninterested his listeners were in his speech by the various poses and attitudes caught by the camera.

Joyce Atwood ran against Marilyn Dow for the office of treasurer. Returns are posted on bulletin boards.

EXIT CLEO...

For the many, interpret liberally, who read Cleo, we have the announcement to the effect that Cleo will not appear in the Weekly any more.

MANY ADVENTURES

We hope that you enjoyed her few and far between adventures, even the one connected with old signs campaign and the others tied up with the editorials.

For the reason of her eradication attribute it to rigor mortis, the calling up of nurses, pneumonia, or even to joining the Wacs. Your guess is as good as anyone's.

TAPS—UNTIL SPRING

As winter ends, so does this series of the Pacific Weekly. It has been a stormy semester, but all in all, a successful one, as the various departments of the paper performed with the utmost of accuracy.

EXTEND THANKS

We on the staff wish to thank the faculty and students of both colleges for the reception of the paper and their friendly and helpful suggestions. Too, we are glad that many of the students used the Letters to the Editor columns for sounding out their opinions concerning various principles and facts. That truly is the purpose of such a column.

Although, next semester's paper will have a new leader at the helm, the remaining members of the staff feel sure that this semester's high standard will be maintained.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

GOOD BYE...

Well, students another semester has rolled around to a close. Next month the WEEKLY will start off on a clean slate—new editor, new staff.

However, before I say good bye as being ye old editor, I would like to say that it has been a mixture of fun and hard work trying to put out a paper to please all of you these past two semesters.

THANK YOU

I would like to say a few thank you's now. First of all to the printers at Muldowney's—the fellows who so patiently decipher our copy, the make-up men who so carefully fondle the type and set up the pages, and also to George the pressman. Oh, yes, we all chime in saying thanks to Bob, for using his precious gas to deliver our Weeklies to us every Friday.

Then I would like to thank my hard working staff. Keep up your good work fellows, and keep the Weekly going.

Thank you all my readers, and here's hoping that the Former Pacificites who may chance to read this will be back with us soon.

Well, that's thirty for now.

Complaints

Dear Students:

As Editor, I suggest that students, who have complaints to make regarding school government and traditions attend the meeting at the S.C.A. next Tuesday at 4:30. Another procedure, which may be used to solve these problems is to present them at the PSA Ex-Committee meeting held every Wednesday night at 7.

Final Discussion On College Problems In S.C.A. Tuesday

The third and last of a series of discussion meetings on college social problems will be held next Tuesday at 4:30 in the SCA under the sponsorship of the SCA Executive Committee.

This final meeting will be concerned with the formulation of specific recommendations for changes in the following:

1. Hours
2. Rules for being in bed
3. The body that makes and executes rules
4. Keeping our policies up to date.

Dr. Betz will be the moderator

Over and Over Again But Registration Is Practically Over

As the 12:30 bell sounded, I raced down the stairs to register and get my registration book—only to find the registration office door locked.

On my third attempt to go through this procedure I was successful.

After making an appointment to see my counselor I trudged over to Thor's to drown my registration blues in a coke.

I don't know which was worse—sitting there trying to think of my next semester courses or sitting there listening to "Rum and Coca-Cola" play over and over. My thoughts would jump from chemistry to "Rum and Coca-Cola" and back to Chemistry.

After working over by trial program I finally got something that looked like a good course and swell hours—no 8 o'clocks.

COUNSELOR

Feeling pretty proud of having done all this by myself I strolled into my counselor's office the next day.

Ten minutes later a very disillusioned girl emerged from room 210—me! I thought sure I had passed all those English tests, thus letting me drop 51a. Silly girl! After dropping this and adding that I was on my way back to room 201.

She put her O.K. on it and I rushed over to the gym to sign up for my sports and activity classes. After looking over the sign-up sheets I informed my instructor I had not been able to find a sheet for the 10:45 sports class. She looked up and very calmly said, "Oh, that class has been closed." So very calmly I turned, took a few steps to a chair, and sat down to concentrate on controlling my temper.

OVER AGAIN

My counselor wasn't at all surprised to see me again. We just

1945 Red Cross War Fund Campaign Will Begin Next Month

"Now, More Than Ever, Keep Your Red Cross at His Side"—with this slogan that the American Red Cross has adopted for this year, the San Joaquin county campaign will open on March 1. The wheels of the 1945 Red Cross War Fund Campaign began to turn, as far as the San Joaquin Chapter is concerned, when George Ditz, Chairman of the Executive Committee, announced last week the quota of this county as $225,000. The national goal is $200,000,000.

It has been pointed out that the punch into Tokyo and Berlin will be the hardest for our servicemen, and the Red Cross more than ever will need to give speedy, concentrated service. This speed has to start further down the line—with the contributions. Contributions should be made with speed, and marked with generosity.

So students, when the first of March rolls around, dig down happily and vigorously into the old sock, and don't say we didn't remind you before hand.

Mary Flaa, Barbara Roth, and Mary Sclink are going to handle the campaign at Pacific. If you are bitten by a desire to offer services, you might contact them.

Chapel Service Will Observe Annual Day Of World Prayer

The Annual Day of Prayer for Students sponsored by the World's Student Christian Federation will be observed at services this Sunday in Morris Chapel.

Each year on the first Sunday in Lent, this world-wide day of prayer is observed by colleges and universities in the forty countries which belong to this federation of national student Christian movements.

Most of the services this year will be held in the U. S., Great Britain, and Canada, but numerous groups of students driven underground by Axis oppression will join with their free allies in praying that lives broken by war may not pass through dark and terrible days in vain but may be shown a way to trust and hope for the future.

This will be the last Sunday chapel service of the semester and it will be unique because of the international character of the service. Hollis Hayward will be the speaker and he will be assisted by Ruth Ellen O'Neil.

sat down and started all over again.

Now I have 8 o'clock classes every day. Well, it was fun thinking of sleeping 'till 8 a. m. anyway.

I stood in line 'till 12 o'clock—I had a class at 11:40—to hand in my book at the registration office.

Of course something else was bound to happen. My 11:40 prof informed me that my last tardy (today) was being sent in as a cut. Happy day!

But at last my hectic days of registering are over. Now I can sit down and just sing the registration blues—not go through the motions!
