Kolker: 'No Harem Guards Here'

By JANELLE GOBBY

"We want to do away with the police state concept here," said the Provost of Raymond College, Berndt Kolker. Sitting at his desk in the Provost Lodge, Kolker seems larger than life. He has large, clear eyes that easily convey his enthusiasm for the Raymond program and his interest in students as individuals.

"We have a changing social setting here," he went on. "Raymond is forming a new social contract based on student responsibility to each other. There are no babysitters here."

Kolker had specific reference to a new system of student government taking shape at the oldest of Pacific's cluster colleges. The students will be entirely responsible for setting behavior standards for themselves and also for enforcing those rules. An anti-social act would be regarded as harmful to the community at large. It is a kind of social honor code to parallel the academic one.

Kolker said the drug problems at Raymond last spring partially triggered this social re-organization, but added that the idea was one he strongly believed in and advocated since becoming Provost at Raymond over a year ago. "We (administrators) aren't here to be baby sitters, policemen, or harem guards," he said. "My concern is that young people in America are always treated as children. I detest this concept."

Kolker indicted American education for keeping students uncommitted and irresponsible long after it is necessary or desirable. With a typical Kolker insight, he placed the blame: "No one has ever realized in the American value system the value of growing old." This idea, that children should be kept children as long as possible, is being abolished at Raymond.

"A student is a child until the 31st of May when he graduates from college and miraculously becomes an adult by this standard." The Provost wants to know, "What miraculous transformation takes place in one day?"

In keeping with these ideas, Raymond has established self-government and is making an attempt to dissolve the double standard. Both men and women sign out at Raymond. "In case of an emergency we must know where to get in touch with a student," said Kolker. "Why should this be any less true for a male than a female?" The student governmental organs are in the process of changing hours now, and already a girl with blanket permission may stay out as late as she likes if she has a friend let her back into the dorm.

The new student rule will operate through three structures in the college. The Representative Council is a student group which will deal with all student affairs. The College Council is made up of students and faculty and functions in much the same capacity as does the Personnel Committee at COP. The Student Court is the final arbiter between the students and community, and has cases referred to its jurisdiction by the students themselves.

On the subject of Raymond isolation from the total University, Kolker cited three areas of beneficial involvement: COP students are living in Raymond dorms this year. Raymond students are becoming involved with the PSA and other all university affairs. The Raymond faculty is developing a good rapport with the other faculties in the university.

Dr. Berndt Kolker, in his second year as the Provost of Raymond College, has some interesting views on the college student. (See story.)

Gospel In A Film

Project Amigo Film — "The Gospel According To Matthew" — Morris Chapel Sept. 29 — 3:30, 7:00 and 10:00 p.m. — 75c Admission.

Pasolini's characterization of Christ as a divine rebel come to do away with the corrupt materialism of the establishment and to institute a new, spiritual order is one that speaks directly to our own troubled age. Christ is seen as an intense reformer who knows that his time is short and that he must do his work quickly. He is portrayed as preaching his message everywhere that there are people to hear him, even as he walks or rests. The young man who plays Christ is a college student who has the gentle vigor and graceful force needed to represent this most difficult of all roles.

The social aspect of the Gospel must have been felt most strongly by Pasolini, an avowed Marxist. But he does not slight or obscure the divinity of Christ. If anything, he underplays the human nature of Christ, whose miracles and resurrection are presented without equivocation.

The film is intensely Christian and totally without any commercial concessions. It was awarded the grand prize for 1964 by the International Catholic Film Office.

Chapel Series Opens With A Religion Question

The question of the semester's first chapel service last Tuesday was "What is religion?" The answer of the service was "religion is everything." Religion can be a lecture, a conversation, or anything.

The service was an experience for all those who were new to the Pacific chapel. They found out that anything goes.

Their suspicions may have begun when they walked in the door and found a Picasso painting on the altar.

A debate on Vietnam, an audio-visual presentation on the history of man, a Western Civilization lecture by Dr. Weldon Crowley, a modern dance and a jazz selection were illustrations that religion can be found in anything, relative to individual belief.

A capacity turnout filled the chapel for the first of twelve services scheduled for the semester.

Next Tuesday, Dr. John Bevan, Academic Vice President, will speak in chapel on "The Ultimate Computer."

A recorded speech by Marshall McLuhan will be played in this service intended to support the theory that man is facing a dilemma as a result of his technological advances.

Academic Council to Relieve Former Committee Chaos

For the first time in the past ten or so, Pacific's faculty members may not have to spend several hours a week in committees. A new Academic Council has been formed to do the legislative faculty work that was previously handled by over a dozen committees.

Richard Reynolds, Chairman of the Art Department and Chairman of the Executive Board of the new council, stressed the need for some kind of faculty government. "In the past faculty members have been asked to serve on a committee, and, whenever any problems came up, new committees were formed. Everyone was getting committee-happy."

THE PURPOSE

The Academic Council, which will replace this chaos of committees, is the result of over ten years of planning. Most of the work was done last year, by, of course, a committee.

Governing the Academic Council is an Executive Board, headed by Reynolds. Every school of the University, with the exceptions of law and dentistry, is represented on this board.

The rest of the Council consists of four divisions: Academic Policies, headed by Dr. Herbert Reinelt; Academic Programs, headed by Dr. Donald Duns; Academic Compensation, headed by Dr. Larry Pippin; and Academic Relations, headed by Dr. Lewis Mason.

FUNCTIONS

Under each of these divisions are two or more of the inevitable committees, each one having specific functions and responsibilities. Academic Policies, for example, will help set the standards for grades. Academic Programs includes committees for graduate students, schedules, and the library.

Academic Compensation will deal with faculty salaries, while Academic Relations handle such aspects as athletics and religious life on campus. According to Reynolds, "The faculty feels that it should have some say in these areas."

As of now Reynolds feels that the Academic Council is more in a position of recommendation than of power. Approval of the Board of Regents is needed, and will be sought as soon as a proper presentation can be made.

"The Academic Council is an effort to cut down the number of steps necessary to accomplish faculty jobs during the year," said Reynolds. "We hope to grow in power as the council learns its jobs and responsibilities. Then we feel that the administration, including the Regents, will approve."

Editorial

Marching Band Earns Praise

As I stated in my first editorial, it will be the policy of this paper to praise or criticize as we feel necessary. In this case, praise deserves to be given to the marching band under the direction of James Douglass.

For the time which Douglass had to drill this group, it seems that he did a commendable job at the football game last Saturday. Reports indicate that the group had only been working together since the Monday before the game.

Douglass should also be given credit for recruiting over the summer to bolster the size of the band.

It is hoped that this group will be able to perform up to its full potential shown at the game and continue to improve through the year.

— Glen Nissen

Pacific's marching band making its debut at the USCB football game.

Bacchus' Bowl

Have you see the new "townie" among the administration... the one with the long hair?

If someone told you he just got back from a Meredith chapel including a history of the building... an anthem... the scheduled word... a Picasso's history and meaning... a modern dance (nymphing up and down the aisle)... a jazz combo... a debate on VietNam... a concluding lecture in Western Civ class... and a slide show, WOULD YOU BELIEVE??? and it was all FREE!

The prize winning comment came from a new member of the family at UOP, "SALOMITF" (or Still A Lot Of Methodist In That Fellow)...

Next week Dr. John Bevan, our new leader in learning will speak on "The Ultimate Computer." Could it be the one for the registrar's office we have been waiting for???

As happens each year at this time, the ladies from about campus are gathering. As usual, the university will say they cannot afford to have women students living on campus... why just the women; do they spend more money than men?

The university's point may be valid. However, this is the case then there is no reason why women students who have reached the age of 21, or those who have their parent's permission, should not have the privileges ON campus of those who live off the campus. In other words, unlimited hours as the men have, open door policies or key privileges, without the procedures they have to go through now, and the rights which they deserve.

For sadly if they don't have the personal integrity, morals, and taste of adults by now, then it's too, too late. Nothing the dorm mothers and prudish rules can do will help.

The UOP Academic Elite

Registrar Ellen Deering announced that two hundred and seventeen University of the Pacific students have been named to the Dean's List of honor students for the spring semester 1967.

Of the 217 honor students, 33 received a perfect "straight A average."

To be eligible for the Dean's List, a student must be enrolled in the University for at least 12 units and must have achieved not less than a 3.50 average for the semester. Only undergraduate students are included on the list. Since Raymond College uses a different measurement of student scholastic progress, they are not included in this more traditional list. Raymond College issues its own Dean's List each term.

Tigers Face Big Test: West Texas

Doug Scovil's Tigers, trying to shake off the effects of a 24-20 setback at the hands of Cactus Jack Curtice's Santa Barbara Gauchos, will travel to West Texas State this Saturday in an attempt to climb above the .500 mark. Both clubs sport identical 1-1 records.

The Buffalos from Canyon drubbed UOP 49-7 in last year's contest, which can be attributed mainly to the pass-catch combination of Hank Washington to Dave Szymakowski. Washington has since graduated, leaving the quarterbacking chores to inexperienced Roy Winters, Paul Waite, and scrambling sophomore Frank Bettencourt, Jr. Waite, from Martinez, California, piloted the first unit during five spring games and completed 53 of 96 passes for 11 touchdowns. Winters was Washington's back-up man last year, completing four or five aeriels for 80 yards against Pacific. If the quarterbacks can produce sufficiently, Coach Joe Kerbel could equal or even better his 7-3 record of 1966.

Returning in the backfield is the one-two thrust of fullback Albie Owens (526 yards and seven touchdowns last year) and Eugene Morris, a halfback, who gained 543 yards and led the team in scoring with nine touchdowns in 1966. Sophomore Duane Thomas, a 215-pound halfback, gained 101 yards rushing in the Alumni game.

The Tigers, in spite of the loss of halfback Tony Plummer, still boast a potent ground game with Jack Layland picking up where he left off last year, averaging 5.7 yards on 45 carries. Tom Kilmer has overcome his bout with the flu and will start at halfback, backed by Winnie Green.

Jack Morrison made his first varsity catch a big one last week, snagging a 46 yard TD bomb from fullback Bob Hurst. Touch-down passes from fullbacks are about as frequent as Ron Herbel's base hits. Leading receivers are Bob Ricioli with seven and Bruce Coslet with six.

Sophomore Rand Bergstrom will probably get the starting nod over Bob Lee at quarterback, but it is a toss-up as far as who will play the most. The one that has the hot hand will determine Tiger fortunes this weekend.

Errors figured heavily in Pacific's loss to Santa Barbara. These mistakes will have to be eliminated to defeat the Buffs. They are one of the quickest teams in the nation and a few mistakes could make for a repeat performance of last year's rout. Even though West Texas boasts a crop of quick receivers, defensive backs Charles Alexander, Rudy Redmond, Dave McCann, and Bob McArthur can contain them if enough pressure is applied by the defensive line.

Washington Bismark Andrade displays the form that has earned him the reputation as being one of the nations best collegiate goalies.

Intramural Ball Season Opens

October 2 marks the opening of the intramural football season. Currently, the "A" League will be comprised of six teams, while the "B" League boasts eight entrants.

College regulations will be observed with the exceptions that seven players will comprise a team and the touch football rule will apply.

The initiation of the season will feature a D.U. vs. McConchie clash at 4:15. The game is to be played on Knoles Field. All persons interested in the intramurals are urged to contact Don Odale or Dr. Voltmer at the Athletic Department.

Soccer Team Debut vs. CSC Tomorrow

This Saturday will mark the beginning of a great new soccer season for the Pacific Tigers. The soccer team will make its debut against Chico State College on Knowles Field at 2:00 P.M.

Under the direction of new head coach Oscar Litz, the Tigers hope to field their greatest team ever. In the three years since Pacific has entered the West Coast Intercollegiate Soccer Conference, they have never fielded a losing team and it appears that this season will be no exception. Many of the players that led last year's squad to a 6-4 record will be back. Pacific will also have the advantage of having six home contests and only three away games.

Standouts returning from last year's squad include: Roberto de Valencia, known as the Colombian Cannonball; the spectacular goalkeeper Washington Bismark Andrade, who is one of the top rated goalies in the nation; and powerful Mike Zimmer who mans the fullback position. Ciro Santamaria, Edgar Valenzuela, Zbigniew Koryzma, Jim Whittle, and Carlos Reyes are other talented veterans.

Coach Litz and all the players hope that the University students will support them enthusiastically as they strive for national honors. For the new students that have never viewed a soccer match, be sure to attend the exciting 90-minute contest this Saturday. There is no admission charge.
