Dear Mr Muir:

On the mantel shelf of the room where I write are the pictures of your children, whom I have come to almost reckon as my own, & to think that their smiles belong to myself personally.

And along with this has grown my desire to see & talk with their father once more. Do let me know when you will be in this vicinity again. If possible do come here & see us; the latch string reaches away out to the street. Or if you cannot do this let me know where I may see you, & if possible ~~Madame~~ will go to the mountains.

We are boarding at the Kelsey House -

Very truly yours
F. B. Perkins
