Dear Papa.

Your letter and the deeds came this morning.

I am tremendously thankful that the business with Charlie is over with and settled. May we never have any more with him.

You speak of almond blossoms and spring weather! I had forgotten that this was the time for them but it made me awfully homesick to think of them. Here we are having another sand storm. Such a bad one that it is hard even to see the coal bunkers. However Helen seems to feel pretty well so I guess we can stand it. But I think it would make even a saint cross. I have a toothache besides so I'm not very amiable.

Every thing else is about as usual. When are you coming back? Soon I hope. It's too bad that you can't get the inheritance tax settled this time but I suppose there is no hurry about it.

Have you heard anything more about selling the City lots?

The freight-bill for the Goldberg box has come and we will give the box itself
a cordial welcome.

Lovingly
Grandma
