My dear Mr Muir

Thank you with all my heart for your days of boyhood. - Please give the world them after you turned - The book is wonderful - It is my friend Muir.

There is nothing I can think of as an exchange for your so many kindnesses - Do you hold me ever in bond -

I am however with you all the time and I am sending you today a photo - and I beg of you the privilege of hiding some where in your work shop - let me be near "The seats of the mighty"

When the angels come to call my good friend John Muir (God grant the time is far in the distant future) and people are looking for your unpublished jewels I want them to find a sign of one of the truest friends a man ever had - your friend Marshall - Just hide the photographs and I shall be most happy

Sincerely
R.B. Marshall
