My dear Mr. Muir:-

Your
fine and feeling tribute to my honored father has reached me, and I am deeply grateful
for your kindness.
I think there was none
among my father's later friends with whom he felt such intimate

spiritual kinship ~~and~~ with you. I rejoice that you found one another out in the great turmoil of life.

In the current issue of The Dial, I have made an effort toward an outline of my father's life and work and personality.
But I fear the result
is woefully inadequate.
It is futile to attempt compressing a life of that sort into a few

poor columns of type.

This issue of
The Dial was already on the press when your matter reached
me. But I shall get it in the next number.

With sincerest
appreciation of your great kindness, I am

Faithfully yours,

Waldo R. Browne
