108 House, Monday afternoon

Dear Mamma

My tariff theme is finished and handed in and I feel as if I didn't have anything else in the world to do for the rest of this term, which certainly is far from being the case. By way of celebration I'm going to write this letter on the two pieces of theme paper that are left - but as I have already written twenty pages of theme + six ^{more} on an English which I didn't know anything about, today it isn't likely to be either legible or intelligible.

Well, I haven't done much lately except read write, talk and think about Political economy.

Last Saturday we had just a lovely time at the frat banquet, over at the California hotel, there were 25 of us at the table.

I enclose some of my proofs which may amuse you, I think they are all bad but - the one that is going in the picture is better than the ones I send you, the dress don't look very well either for the lace in the neck is so very thin that it don't show hardly at all but looks ragged.

I will be home this next Saturday and then the next week for three or four days and then all summer

This is the night of the Skull + Keys play but - I'm not - invited now! but I guess it's just as well, for I'm going to take a twelve hour sleep instead

Loveingly

Wanda

P.S. Dr Pitter has just called me up to tell me that she wants me to come to a dinner at her house to meet the Harriman girls at one o'clock Saturday. Who cares about Skull + Keys. If I can get away in time I will come home anyway, if not - I will go up Sunday morning
