in California that came to anywhere and not be beholden to a Match, and that his name was Muir-

I felt that way after reading your last book-

My Dear Sir.

Your letter of March 25th rec'd. I thank you for your kindness in sending my name to Melcolby. I hope to be able, some day, to take in some of California's features with you.

What an indomitable Nature feeler you are to cut Kings River Canon in Winter!

I was glad to read a characteristic, appreciative sketch of you in "Out West" for March - and to see your face there.

In Nov 1901 number of his magazine Lummis said something like this: - "I have known men who controlled hundreds of thousands of their fellows, or hundreds of millions of their fellow money - so all day long belching for a snuff, or all night shivering in camp - become no one had a match! So subservient are we to a sorry little sphinter with a point of amorphous phosphorus on the tip!"

Write Lummis and tell him that there was one man
