

1902-09-07

Letter from Ellie Mosgrove to John Muir, 1902 sep 7.

Ellie Mosgrove

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlycommons.pacific.edu/muir-correspondence>

Recommended Citation

Mosgrove, Ellie, "Letter from Ellie Mosgrove to John Muir, 1902 sep 7." (1902). John Muir Correspondence (PDFs). 4721.

<https://scholarlycommons.pacific.edu/muir-correspondence/4721>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the John Muir Correspondence 1856-1914 at Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in John Muir Correspondence (PDFs) by an authorized administrator of Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact mgibney@pacific.edu.

[43]
Thank you again and again for the trip and all your kindness to us

Sincerely
I. Chas. Mayrose

Sept. 7, 1902

326 N. Adams St.

[13]

9-7-02

My dear Mr. Shivers:-
It was with great-joy I found you look-awaiting me Saturday morning when I arrived home. We are reading it-together with so much pleasure and profit-and the memory of going through our National Park with-you.

The inscription was so beautiful and true, for the mountains became the most-hospitable home in the World.

03041

[2]
I am so glad you remembered my great interest in the desk and clock. It is a wonderful thing and I would like to see the "chick go round." Are the back legs broken or carved in imitation?
And isn't that a photograph of your sketch? The dear old tea-gown is, I suppose, laid away. I am glad I wore it.

I saw Mr. Kirk and told him I was homesick to see you, he urged me to go to Marting but

[3]
school opened a week earlier than usual so I could not do it. - The one going to see you here, very soon, I hope.

Marian and I read aloud the story of Stiebeck. It was in '91 the last bound volume of Century they have. Do have it in some form so people can read it. - It is a wonderful story, the ecstasy of the dog, as you write it - is one of the most touching things I ever read.