

1905-06-13

1905 June 13 JM to Mrs Swett p1

John Muir

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlycommons.pacific.edu/muir-correspondence>

Recommended Citation

Muir, John, "1905 June 13 JM to Mrs Swett p1" (1905). John Muir Correspondence (PDFs). 4870.
<https://scholarlycommons.pacific.edu/muir-correspondence/4870>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the John Muir Correspondence 1856-1914 at Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in John Muir Correspondence (PDFs) by an authorized administrator of Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact mgibney@pacific.edu.

Palm Springs, Cal.
June 13/05

Dear Mrs Sweet -

Those doughnuts!!!!
Brown cycles of delight are now doing their duty, spending their sweetures on the three main pilgrims at balmily fabmily Palm Springs.
Like the doughnuts among other food so are the Palm Spring gardens beside the blaging desert - an oasis of shade and figs and oribes. Do you remember Milton's account of the unlucky fallen angels flying ~~like~~ like doughnuts, or burning Hades' marl? So we fied and siggled in the red-hot sand of an orchard, and the rising sun through the desert haze was not unlike one of those doughnuts.

Helen is decidedly better already, but we will not be able to stay here more than a week or two, for through July and August the temperature is said to be from 112° to 130° in the coolest shade. It is now 105° and is dry enough to dry up every disease and all one's flesh besides. When thoroughly dried out and roasted out we are going to Arizona, about 400 miles east of here, 22 miles north of Wilcox where the temperature is seldom above 115° . With kindest regards, we are faithfully yours,

John Muir
Wanda Muir, Helen Muir