morning they were full of hope and courage and in the evening all was changed to sorrow and gloom. For mother and un born babe passed away together - Poor Victor looks ten years older today and needs the sympathy and kindness of all his family - He has become greatly softened by all the trouble of the past years as well as his present grief - He certainly has had hard experiences, harder than I

Dear Brother John: -
Your letter of June telling the particulars of Margaret's death, was gratefully received as we were so curious to know all we could of the last days of the precious sister who so earnestly and nobly lived out her years.
And now so soon I must tell you of brother Paul's great trouble, which has come so suddenly upon him: His beautiful and sweet tempered wife died yesterday afternoon. In the

Knew when I came to Lincoln - Well dear brother I believe you are now in Los Angeles and I do not know your address, but no doubt this will be forwarded to you -

Mary came this afternoon to attend the funeral to be held on Friday and Anna Posterman will be here tomorrow, Mary is very thin and grows more like margaret and she says I am repulsive than but grows like Sarah, as I suppose we are rather scrawny - as a family we certainly are growing old -

Bennie has improved somewhat in health with standing the hot summer - and I am hoping the cooler weather will be a help to us all.

Mary sends much love as does your sister Joanna
