Dear Badi

You are an editor after my own heart and you have given Pritchard something to think of. Your remarks hit from the shoulder and go to the right spot. I have written Colby to know what more we can do here. I have not written the Army Engineers, as I took it, he would give them all they needed. If you get a chance to confer with him, write me how matters stand, and what we should do.

Faithfully yours

Edmund A. Whitman
