WALTER H. PAGE, EDITOR

February 6, 1909.

My dear Mr. Muir:

I hear, in a curious way, that you have actually gone to work on your biography. All right! What shall we pay you as an installment for as much of it as we can use in the WORLD'S WORK? Two hundred dollars an article? And what shall we pay you for the book? Fifteen per cent. royalty on the retail price on the first ten thousand copies, and 20% on all sold thereafter?

Believe me,

Always heartily yours,

Walter H. Page

To John Muir, Esq.,

Martinez, California.
