Dear Mrs Parsons:

I'm very sorry to have to believe that Mr Parsons' illness is so serious as your letter shows. Nevertheless I shall not cease to hope that the general stock of health gained on the mountains will carry him through all his heart and throat troubles to sound triumphant health.

Tom will take the typewriter to its owners, & the delay will not count for much; for after the M.S. is all arranged & ready for copying the speed will be the greater.

With affectionate sympathy I am ever faithfully
Your friend
John Miller
